Son-In-Law Assaults His Mother-In-Law

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—John W. Sutston, a painter, living at 20 Buchanan street, surrendered to Detectives Wallace and Newton yesterday on a charge of wounding his mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgerald. Mrs. Fitgerald, with her nose broken, had walked to the police headquarters and asked the police to examine her injuries.

The officers thought her condition justified the issuing of an information, and when Sutton learned of it he surrendered. Mrs. Fitzgerald said Sutton knocked her down and kicked her in the face.

Adrianople Surrenders to Ferdinand

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—Adrainopl e has been captured by the Bulgarians according to a report telegraphed here to-day from the scene of the war.

The Bulgarians are said to have made a general attack upon the city and after a terrible bombardment of two hours the Turks raised the white flag.

The Citadel was defended by the second Turkish army of 50,000 men, under Abdullah Pasha, Chief of Staff.

Angry at Wife Drank Oxalic Acid

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—Suffering from nervousness and angry because his wife refused him money, Wiliam Barrie, a shoemaker, living at 4 Sackville place, drank about an ounce of oxalic acid yesterday. He was taken in the police ambulance to St. Michael's Hospital. It was stated at the hospital last night that although he was in a very weak condition he would likely recover. When he is able to leave the hospital he will be arrested on a charge of attempted suicide.

When her husband raised the bottle of poison to his lips, Mrs. Barrie thought he was joking. As she was closing the kitchen door on her way to a neighbor's house, she heard him exclaim, "It is all over now. I have taken poison." The remark had no effect, however, and when she returned Barrie was unconscious on the floor.

Elopers Arrested

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 31.—On their way from Mexico, Oswego county, to Minneapolis, to be married, Glen Bossaid, 18, and Phyllis Chadwick, 16, both of wealthy families, were arrested by a local detective just as they were about to take the train for the west. The youthful elopers were fleeing fro parental wrath, but the girl made the mistake of calling upon her aunt in the this city and the latter promptly notified the police. The boy was plentifully supplied with money and had purchased his young inamorata a handsome coat and other presents in addition to supplying himself with clothing. They came here in an automobile and spent the afternoon making the rounds of the theatres.

2000 Mine Workers Revolt

CALGARY, Oct. 31.—That a strike of mine workers in the Crow's Nest district would result unless the differences between the operators and their employees over yardage pay are settled shortly, is the opinion expressed by Clem. Stubbs, president of the District 18, United Mine Workers of America.

The miners have made several ineffectual attempts to have differences submitted to a board of arbitration. The prospective strike directly affects 2,000 miners in the district.

Capt. McMaugh Dead

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 31.—Captain Archibald McMaugh, who sailed the great lakes for many years, died yesterday morning in his seventy-fourth year. He was born in Quebec, but made his home in St. Catharines when young. He had sailed some of the largest fresh water vessels afloat. He was a prominent Mason and a former Chairman of the St. Catharines Waterworks commission. Three brothers, Captain James McMaugh of Toronto; Arthur and William of this city. survive.

SUPPER AND PRESENTATION TO POPULAR DEPARTING CITIZEN

A very pleasing gathering of the Y.M.C.A. Board took place in the lecture room last evening—pleasing in that it partook of a recognition of faithful services, and regrettable in that the occasion should have been necessitated by the departure, from the Association and the city, of the principal character. The victim was Mr. W. A. A. Chown, for six years a member of the Board of Directors, and one of the most energetic workers the local Y.M.C.A. has ever possessed.

W. A. A. CHOWN

The affair started off with a light repast, about eighteen heads of the organization sitting down to the table, no intimation being given as to the real purpose.

Following the taking of provisions for the inner man, President D. V. Sinclair rose, and in a manner typical of himself, sprung the following upon Director Chown, who, apparently, felt that his sentence for some awful deed was upon him:

Mr. Allan Chown,
First Vice-President,
Belleville Y.M.C.A.

Dear Mr. Chown,—As an Association we feel that it is unfortunate that we are called upon to part with one of the pillars—one of the main props—that has throughout, from the inception to the crowning of our united efforts, made our Young Men's Christian Association in Belleville what it is today.

We are here tonight to do honor, and wish health and prosperity to you, Mr. Chown, as one of our highly esteemed friends and citizens.

We are glad to hear from time to time of the continued prosperity that seems everywhere to respond to the magic touch of the wand of the Chown family.

It is just such men as you, that we should thoroughly appreciate retaining. But all the communities need such men. We are sure that Edmonton will be a better city because of you casting your lot there. We consider it a privilege to commend your Christian fidelity to the Christian forces of that city. We are united in wishing you Godspeed. We wish you would wear this emblem of unity, on which is engraved our Association emblem and its reference of John xvii:21—"That they all may be one," which expresses our unity of purpose in all the years God has spared you to be with us.

You and your family have our heartiest wishes for a most successful career in your chosen field of activity.

Yours on behalf of the Board of Directors,

D. V. SINCLAIR, Pres.
E. P. FREDERICK, Sec.

Before he could fairly grasp the situation, Mr. A. E. Bailey, in an appropriate speech, presented to Mr. Chown a handsome gold ring, beautifully engraved, the gift of appreciative associates on the Board.

It was hard to respond, and, doubtless, uncharitable, under the circumstances to expect a reply, but, winking hard and squaring his usually smiling lips, the recipient expressed his thanks more in spirit than words could tell.

Short addresses were made by all present, the general trend being wishes for prosperity in the Western home, where parents and brothers now reside.

It was one of those occasions where the feelings of fellowship run deep, and all present felt the bonds of friendship binding closer than ever. Mr. Chown leaves for his new home in Edmonton in about three weeks.

All Powers on Friendly Terms

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Ministerial organ, the Daily News and Leader, gives prominence to an article on international negotiations, in which it says:

The most satisfactory thing in connection with the Balkan war is that all the powers remain on friendly terms. The quarrels and differences of the past few years seem to have disappeared like magic before this new portent. Great Britain and Germany are freely exchanging views, and, what is even more remarkable, the consultations of France and Germany are close and constant. The fear that the superficial class interests of Austria and Russia will lead to open differences has also been removed."

The writer of the article intimates that the question absorbing the powers is whether the territory which the allies conquered should be restored to Turkey. The powers would never agree to the taking of territory from Turkey, ,t at when the conquest is un faut accompli the question has another aspect.

"It is satisfactory to know," the writer continues, "that no power has yet proposed the restoration to Turkey of territory which the allies have conquered. Should such a proposal be made Great Britain would do her utmost to prevent the Concert of Nations from acquiescing."

Two Steam Barges Go Down in Lake

(Intelligencer Special.)

PORT HOPE, Nov. 1.—Late last night the steam barge Juno with the barge Locke in tow, from Point Anne and Belleville to Toronto, loaded with stone, sprang a leak and had to cut adrift from the Locke, putting into Cobourg, where she sank at the pier. The barge, Locke, left to her own resources, anchored, but during a fierce storm broke away from her anchorage, sprung a leak and sank near Gull lighthouse. The crew, consisting of nine men and one woman, took to the boat and reached port safely this morning, after a terrible experience on the rough lake. This is the first known wreck of late navigation season this year. Captain McGregor of Deseronto commanded the Locke and Captain McIntyre of Toronto, the Juno.

Armenians Send Petition

HAMILTON, Oct. 31.—The Armenians of the city met and decided to send the following cable to Sir Edward Grey:

"We Armenians residing in Canada, to the number of over 1,000, a large number of whom are British subjects, held a meeting of protest in the city of Hamilton against the Turkish government, which has made it a custom for the past fifty years to massacre defenceless Christians in Armenia whenever they are pressed by outside powers. Being agitated by the Balkan war, both the fanatical and conservative Turks are now gathering in Armenia and threatening massacres which will be a repetition of those of 1895 and '96. We received this startling word in letters from the old land.

"Knowing that the Christian nation of Britain has always helped persecuted nations, we pray you to implore the British government to instruct its ambassador to prevent this and to stop the Turks from taking Christians' estates. We also ask you to see that the promise of the government, which was to return to the Christians the land taken by the Turks in the massacres of 1895 and '96 be carried out. We have confidence in the British government and humbly tender this petition."

Many Princes Now In Balkan Fight

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Never in modern history have so many princes of the blood taken the field as in the present war. It is quite in keeping with the mediaevalism which still lingers in the Balkans that this should be the case.

Modern practice is against the presence of kings with their own troops in war; too much depends on the chance bullet. In the Russo-Japanese conflict the Russian grand ducal personages engaged took a very minor part in the war.

England gave a prince of the blood to the South African war and a soldier's grave. The Duke of Connaught was in the Egyptian war and the late Duke of Cambridge did doughty deeds at Inkerman. But the tragedy of the Prince Imperial has proved a deterrent to royal adventures of this kind. Governments shun such risks.

On to the Capital

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Chronicle sends the following:—

"The Servian Foreign Minister and the Greek Premier, who brought about the Balkan alliance, started for Paris today, it is supposed to negotiate with Premier Poincare.

"It is understood that the Bulgarian army, in following up its successes, will advance on Constantinople. The Balkan allies will not accept an armistice, but are willing to negotiate peace direct with Turkey."

Turkey to Sue For Peace

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 1.—Special—The Cabinet is in session. It is believed to be discussing the question of suing the Balkan States for peace. It is known that grave news has been received from the front, but its exact nature has not been divulged.

Austra-Russian Agreement Rumored

ST. PETERSBURGH, Oct. 31.—It is learned from a foreign diplomatic source that an agreement has been reached between Austria-Hungary and Russia, by the terms of which Roumania will be deputed to exercise a restraining influence in the victorious Balkan States in their future demands become too exaggerated. In return for this service Austria-Hungary and Russia promised to permit territorial compensation to Roumania at the expense of Turkey.

Russian military circles consider Turkey is already definitely crushed. Public opinion, which is more than ever favorable to the Slav States, severely criticises Foreign Minister Sazonoff for following Premier Poincare, whose policy, based on French financial interest, might have been very harmful to the Balkan states had they not been victorious.

A Real Hero

Not many can have read without a pang of true and keen sympathy of the death of William Rugh, the Gary newsboy who risked and lost his life to save that of a young girl whom he had never seen. One is at a loss to say whether the pathos, the chivalry and the self-sacrifice of his act are more moving because of its unusual nature, or because of the feeling that it is typical of the quiet heroism which is to be found in thousands of men in the humblest walks of life. Hardly a railroad disaster, a perilous fire, an accident on the water, but furnishes its tale of instant courage and self-forgetfulness. But there is something peculiarly touching in this quiet and undramatic sacrifice in the Gary hospital. The girl had suffered extensive burns through an explosion of gasolene in a motorcycle. When Rugh, a newsboy with a crippled leg, heard of this, and that only by the grafting of a large amount of cuticle could the girl's life be saved, he offered his crippled leg for amputation. He was warned that the operation might result fatally. "What's the odds," he said, "if it will only save her life? The leg is no good to me, and I have no friends to worry in case I die. Go ahead and cut it off." No heroics in it at all; but many a less knightly act has been embalmed in a hundred poems.—From the New York Evening Post.

Horrible Attrocities Committed by Turks

ARTA, Greece, Oct. 31.—Fugitives from the village of Kumuzadis say that on Wednesday last Turkish troops entered that village and were billeted for two days on the inhabitants, receiving many kindnesses. Women bandaged the wounded, sheep were given for food, and horses for the transport service. The Turks told the inhabitants, who were all Christians, not to fear anything, as the Turks would protect them.

On Friday afternoon two Greek outpost companies entered the village and the Turks retired. About nightfall, the Turks returned in force, and the Greeks evacuated the village.

Then began a scene unparalleled in the history of civilized warfare. The majority of the inhabitants fled to the mountainside, but two old men who remained were beaten to death.

His Revolver

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Chief of Police John R. Ryan has in his possession today a revolver, which he claims in the weapon which was used in the Hanner shooting on the night of September 12, when George F. Hanner and his wife Mary M. Hanner, of Buffalo, were mysteriously wounded while riding to Niagara Falls in an automobile. The shooting occurred near this village. Hanner was shot in the head and his wife was shot in one of her knees.

The pistol has been identified, Chief Ryan said, by Harry Hanner, of Niagara Falls, a brother of George F. Hanner, as the one which he gave George F. Hanner some time ago. The weapon was picked up by a workman near the lumber mill of Thompson & Fisher. The place is not far distant from John Thursam's hotel, where the Hanners were taken following the shooting.

Chief Ryan said the pistol carried two discharged shells. It is claimed that only two shots were fired when Mr. and Mrs. Hanner were hurt.

Mrs. Hanner was indicted at Lockport late yesterday afternoon, on a charge of assault in the first degree and attempt to commit murder, for the alleged shooting of her husband.

Col. Diaz Ordaz Taken

VERA CRUZ, Oct. 31.—With the capture of Colonel Diaz Ordaz, the revolutionary spirit in the State of Vera Cruz is completely broken. Ordaz was taken by mounted police who were previously under his command. He will be tried by court martial within a few days.

General Diaz is for the present lodged in the city jail.

Many troops are embarking for Yucatan, where a revolutionary movement of minor importance is under way.

AMUSEMENTS

ALICE LLOYD IN "LITTLE MISS FIX-IT."

Alice Lloyd, famous for her character songs, and the most popular of all the English-singing comediennes who have been attracted to America by the lure of further fame and fortune, will appear at Griffin's opera house tonight as a full-fledged musical comedy star in Werba and Luescher's fine production of "Little Miss Fix-It."

"Little Miss Fix-It" is one of the most attractive and praiseworthy productions of the American stage. The runs of the work in New York and Chicago were record-making and the succeeding trip from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast and return with Miss Lloyd in the charming title role came close to equalling the wonderul figures recorded by that other Werba and Luescher production, "The Spring Maid." "Little Miss Fix-It" has been so demanded by theatregoers that its run has lasted since February, 1911, with a brief interim of only two months to give the star a vacation.

THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which comes to Griffin's Opera House Tuesday night, shows the brilliant and popular dramatist, Eugene Walter, at his best. He has faithfully mirrored the delightful scenes of the book, and the scenic frame and stage setting arranged are gorgeous indeed.

June's great love for Jack Hale; the jealousy of her cousin Dave; the rough yet sincere affection of her father, Judd Tolliver; the humorous simplicity of Uncle Billy, and Ole Hun; the quiet strength of Hale; the feudal scenes the guiding motive of the appased side, and the picture of the mountaineer's household are strikingly impressive by the mobility and breadth of their portrayal.

Neither pains nor artistic ability have been spared to give Mr. Walter's play a truly fine presentation, and it enjoyed long runs in Boston and Philadelphia to capacity business. You see what you imagined in the book, the story of romantic love developed in the heart of a primitive girl in the fastnesses of high encircling purple mountains, the touch of lofty skies, with the lone pine bowing in homage to the royal wind, and the mountain brook's silver gleam—June's mirror.

The strong New York company presents the big dramatic success in a mammoth production. Seats now on sale.

Albert College Holds Masquerade

The annual Albert College masquerade was held last night at Albert College. The boys were dressed as clowns, squires, convicts, Chinamen, negroes, sailors, policemen, soldiers, &c., and assembled in the Commercial Hall at 8 o'clock.

The girls arrayed in all kinds of pretty and dainty costumes representing the seasons and different nationalities, met the boys at the Reception Room, and in pairs walked down the prettily lighted halls to the Chapel. Here they all mixed together and peals of laughter were again and again brought forth as the grotesque and unrecognized forms glided by. Some looked like bright angels that live in fair mansions others were dressed in frills and fluffs, and others were ghostly..

Groups could be seen here and there listening with eager interest to the fortune teller who was prophecying the wonderful events that were to happen in the coming days.

At half past nine, all repaired to the dining room which was very tastefully decorated and enjoyed a sumptuous repast. The Doctor made a few interesting remarks which were followed by a most amusing programme.

After this many games were enjoyed by the happy students who reluctantly departed to their room after siniging heartily the National Anthem.

Best $5.00 He Ever Spent

Bristol, Pa., Man Says So in This Letter.

Months of suffering and anxiety over his condition caused Mr. A. L. Kennedy of Bristol, Pa., to write this letter. He says: "Grippe and a bad cough caused me much suffering and worry for five long months, but that is all over now for I have taken Vinol and am perfectly well. I took five bottles and it was the best five dollars I ever spent."

In health one cannot realize how depressed a person may become after trying one remedy after another for such a condition as Mr. Kennedy was in, without benefit, or what a relief it is to find help and be restored to health and strength

It is the combined action of the medicinal curative element of cods' livers without the greasy oil, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron, that makes Vinol so efficient in overcoming chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis, at the same time building up the weakened rundown system.

We guarantee Vinol to give you perfect satisfaction. Red Cross Drug Store, J. S. McKeown, Belleville, Ont.

A Liquor Case

A. T. Neal, who conducts a temperance house at Stirling village, where local option is in force, was yesterday afternoon summoned to appear before Magistrate Masson here to answer a charge of having upon his premises on October 15th, liquor, the same being for sale and barter. The acused did not appear but Carnew represented him and entered a plea of not guilty. Evidence at the seizure of liquor by Mr. Morrison a Government official, was given and by two other parties who are liquor dectives. Mr. P. J. M. Anderson, County Attorney, represented prosecutor. At the conclusion of the evidence given, the case was enlarged for a week.

Are the Fly and Mosquito Dangerous?

The fly, with spongy feet, collects the invisible germs of diseases, spreads them over our food and poisons us with typhoid and cholera. The mosquito with its bite injects into our veins malaria and yellow fever. The bacteria of consumption, or grip, are everywhere present for us to breathe into our lungs. The blood which flows through our veins and arteries is our protection. It should contain healthy red and white blood corpuscles—capable of warding off these disease germs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a blood medicine and alterative made entirely without alcohol, a pure glyceric extract of bloodroot, golden seal, Oregon grape root, queen's root, mandrake and stone root, which has enjoyed a good reputation for over forty years. The refreshing influence of this extract is like Nature's influence—the blood is bathed in the tonic which gives life to the blood—the vital fires of the body burn brighter and their increased activity consumes the tissue rubbish which has accumulated during the winter.

"About forty years ago while in Newark, New Jersey, I had chills and fever," writes MR. MICHAEL MAGUIRE, of National Military Home, Kans. "I went to Kansas City and in the spring of 1877 the chills and fever returned. Doctors and everything I tried failed to do me good. Finally I saw Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery advertised. I took one bottle of it and the chills vanished. In about a year afterward I felt them coming back so I got another bottle and have never had any symptoms of fever or ague since. That is all of twenty years ago, for I had the chills about twelve years before I started to take 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"

ALLEGED ASSAULT

Shortly before 11 o'clock last night the police answered a call to West Bridge street, it being reported that a man had been assaulted. Such however proved not to be the case and the services of the officer was not required.

SMASHED A COACH WINLOW

When about fifteen minutes this side of Toronto, yesterday, a stone crashed through a coach window of the 1.50 eastern bound train, narrowly escaping Mrs. C. J. Bowell's little grandchild, both of whom were on their way home. It is supposed the missile was a fragment of rock sent in the air by blasting at the works of a construction company near by. Fortunately no one in the coach was hit.

AN ORDERLY HALLOWE'EN

Hallowe'en was observed in this city in a rather quiet manner. Whilst the younger element of the city were out in full force, it was a most orderly crowd and no damage of account was done to property. Many paraded the streets dressed in grotesque costumes, causing amusement not only to the younger but elderly citizens who were about. Many Hallowe'en parties were the order of the evening and many there were in the city. Although the police were out in full force they reported that everywhere about the city order prevailed. This is as it should be.

ST. LUKES CHURCH, KINGSTON

The Woman's Guild and St. Agnes Guild for girls, entertained the members of St. Luke's church at an 'at home' on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Parish Hall. The hall was tastefully decorated. There was a large attendance. A good musical programme was given by the members of the choir. Mr. Salesbury of Barriefield played for Miss Constance Forneri, Mrs. Betts, Mrs. Compton, Miss Spencer and Mr. Saunders. Rev. J. W. Forster gave a humorous Irish reading 'Rory O'More's present to the Priest.' A vote of thanks was given to the ladies and Mr. Salesbury.

The people will be glad to hear of the recovery of Sir Mackenzie Bowell. The grand old man that Canadians are justly proud of.

HE IS HARMLESS

An aged man, who resides alone in West Belleville, is rather eccentric in his ideas and recently he placed a sign upon his premises that trespassers upon the premises would be liable to be shot. The sign worried some people to such an extent that the matter was reported to the police. There is no cause for alarm as the party in question is hamless.

A BIG JOB

The innocent cherubs of the Hallowe'en order who took the big bill board from the top of the stone wall beside the Windsor Hotel, and made a "coup" over the sidewalk, must have had their hands full to accomplish the task. The job was done about 1 o'clock this morning and an indulgent smile came to the lips of the west side pedestrians as they passed under it on their way to work. Oh, those boys!

A LIVELY RUNAWAY

A lively runaway occurred on Moira street east, this morning, but fortunately no person was hurt. Mr. Peter Aikens of Sidney Township left his team standing for a minute whilst he went into a business place and during his absence an umbrella blew out of the waggon on the horses causing them to run away. The animals ran up Moira Street to St. Charles Street where they were captured. Some damage was done to the outfit.

Some women are very easily pleased judging by what they marry.

HON. L. P. PELLTIER GETS CHEAPER CABLES

It has been left to the Borden cabinet to take the first step in a scheme of reduced cable rates between England and Canada. Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster General, returned with Premier Borden from England, carrying in his pocket a nice present for Canadians in the form of a substantial all round decrease in rates for Canadians on cablegrams between Canada and the Mother Country. He has secured the reduction after a hard struggle in which he was aided by Postmaster General Samuel of England, and was able to accomplish in a few weeks what the Postmasters General of the Laurier cabinet could not during their fifteen years of power.

The Hon. Mr. Pelletier secured three important concessions, all redounding to the benefit of the Canadian people—reductions on messages subject to delivery of ordinary wires, on ordinary press teletelegrams and night press telegrams.

There had been in force a reduced rate for cable messages under the name of "deferred" rate. The difference between the deferred rate and the ordinary rate lay in the time of delivery. The ordinary rate entailed immediate delivery of a message in England, while the deferred rate guaranteed the delivery of the message within twenty-four hours after being sent.

For telegrams in plain language the present deferred rate of twelve cents per word will be reduced to nine cents, and also these messages, instead of being subject to a delay of twenty-four hours, will be transmissable without any more delay than what is necessary to give priority to the ordinary rate telegram of twenty-four cents a word.

It is thus evident that for a little more than a dollar, a twelve-word message can pass between Canada and England in a few hours. The private citizen can in an emergency communicate cheaply with relatives in Great Britain, while the commercial man can conduct his business in a much easier manner. The ties between the Motherland and her Dominion are drawn more closely together by a French-Canadian minister, who was denounced by his Liberal opponents as a Nationalist and an enemy to Canadian development.

Another rate of night lettergrams will be inaugurated. For the sum of seventy-two cents a message of twelve words can be flashed over the Atlantic to Great Britain, and for each additional word five cents will be charged. These telegrams will be subject to the prior delivery of ordinary traffic to be delivered on the morning of the day following that on which they are transmitted.

There is at present in existence a rate of one dollar forty-four cents for thirty words and twenty-four cents for each additional group of five words for week-end cable letters handed in up to Saturday for delivery on the following Tuesday.

This arrangement is replaced by a much more favorable one. The new rate will be one dollar and eight cents for twenty-four words and five cents for every additional word, but the time of delivery is Monday instead of Tuesday as before.

While these reductions have been secured for the people of Canada at large the Hon. Mr. Pelletier also obtained the inauguration of new rates for press messages between Great Britain and Canada, and which will result in a large dissemination of Canadian news in England and vice versa.

The whole scheme, though not so vast as Mr. Pelletier anticipates it will be yet, goes into force at once. And it is safe to say that few men could have accomplished so much in such a short time and against such odds. Mr. Pelletier in fighting for reduced cable rates was advancing many steps further the scheme of a vast empire cable system controlled within the empire. He makes no secret of his ambition to make the transmission of messages across the Atlantic as cheap a between any two towns in a Canadian province.

Mr. Pelletier's success was in striking contrast to the failure of the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Postmaster General in the Laurier cabinet, who prated so loudly and so long of his endeavors to secure reduced cable rates.

A new minister gifted with administrative and business ability to a rare degree took the reins of office. Mr. Pelletier effected changes which presage a revolution in the hitherto hampered cable relations between Canada and Great Britain.

PRISON LIFE A LUXURY

There is an amusing kind of sympathy with a discharged convict who, coming out of one of the New York State prisons recently, declared that the treatment of inmates was too good for them. He said that they had such excellent food and excellent sleeping chambers and fine shop to work in and see out of that he wondered why any man once sent to prison would want to go out into the cold world again and battle his way with others.

He spoke in all seriousness. He was no humorist but declared that men who were sent to prison for crimes really ought to suffer some deprivation other than that of the loss of their liberty for temporary periods.

There is a feeling in the tax-paying part of that State, for there are still tax-payers left, that the public buildings are erected on too magnificent a scale, at too high a cost for furnishing and that the equipment is often beyond the proper scale for their purposes. It all tends beyond doubt, to the encouragement of the thriftless.

Sanitary conditions should be secured at all hazards, but the magnificence, for there is no other word, and the luxury of appointment that are found in a large proportion of recently built public institutions for various classes of patients or of inmates, are something that naturally provoke resentment on the part of those who know what their own privations are and what a struggle they have to get accommodations even half so good. They feel that there should not be quite so much of marble and mahogany, of tessellated paving and decorated ceiling, and so on, as members of various commissions of state institutions boast of in the fitting up of the buildings under their charge.

Certainly it is a suggestive thing when men discharged from penal servitude declare that the treatment, the housing, the food, everything connected with the prison, are all too good not merely for prisoners, but for even the ordinary citizen.

Lofty Living Tower

What is known as the "Living Tower," says a writer in the Wide World Magazine, stands on the top of a hill more than two hundred feet high, at Camp Meeker, a summer resort in Sonoma county, California. Capt. Meeker, an old pioneer, conceived the plan of building a tower on the very summit of this hill, and while looking around one day for a suitable site he found four young redwood trees standing about twelve feet apart, representing a perfect square. The trees were each about 150 feet high. Fifty feet of each top was looped off, and the work of building six stories begun. Thus from top to bottom of the "living tower" is one hundred feet.

Each floor is about 12 x 12 feet, and rests on strong timbers, the ends of which are securely attached to the four trees by means of steel cables and bolts. So strongly was every part braced that the whole structure does not move as much as one would naturally suppose, even when rocked by heavy winds.

In the building great care was taken by the workmen to cut only the branches growing on the inside of the square, and the trees were not chopped, mutilated or weakened any more than could possibly be avoided. Leading up from each story are broad stairways, so that one may ascend and descend with ease and perfect safety, while around the edge of each floor are strong railings to prevent accidents. Since this tower was completed, the trees have grown and flourished apparently just as well as before.

Clock Operated by Earth's Porce

What is claimed to be the only piece of machinery in the world to be operated entirely by electrical forces drawn from mother earth is now running in the office of Charles H. Drawbaugh at Camp Hill, near Carlisle, Pa., and it has been in continuous operation since 1870, with the exception of short periods involved in its transfer to several different localities.

In the late sixties, writes a correspondent of The Chicago Inter-Ocean, Mr. Drawbaugh's father, the late Daniel Drawbaugh, conceived the idea of a perfect clock operating under the guidance of latent electrical forces in the earth. Time has shown that Drawbaugh has come closer to perpetual motion than any other inventor.

In the Drawbaugh timepiece which stands about six feet in height, the forty-five pound pendullum is the motor. It is suspended on an edged pivot of hardened steel, and operated by an ordinary permanent magnet an an electro-magnet, the wire of which runs into the ground the earth becoming the battery feeding the lectro-magnet.

Drawbaugh confidently stated that his clock would run for hundreds of ears before any part would have to be renewed. In making the clock ready for work it is necessary to dig a hole in the earth about three feet in diameter and six feet in depth. Metal plates are placed in the holes with enough coke to hold moisture, and the timepiece can be run so that it will not gain or lose two seconds in a year.

Will Be Examined

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 31.—The Mexican who is held here in jail on a charge of trying to defraud the Erie railroad of transportation, has written an alleged confession declaring that he is the man who tried to force himself into Mercy hospital in Chicago when Roosevelt was a patient there the day after the affair at Milwaukee. Such a man, described at a Latin-American, was refused admittance to the hospital and disappeared after threatening to follow the colonel to Oyster Bay if necessary to secure an interview.

The man is known as Louis Antonio Castro, alias Francisco Robles, alias Roblies E. Molina. He was arrested here last Friday, it being alleged that an order he presented for transportation to New York and money was not valid. The confession he makes consists of 13 closely written pages of rambling narrative.

The germ of the man's grievance is his belief that Roosevelt violated the law of nations in the acquisition of the canal strip in Panama.

The police think the man is not in his right mind and he will be examined by alienists. He is about 30 years old and told the police that his father is a mining engineer in Mexico.

Rigid Investigation

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—The Hon. J. J. Foy, attorney-general of Ontario, has instructed Chief Coroner Johnson of Toronto to hold a rigid investigation into the fatal train wreck at Streetsville. An inquest is also being held by Coroner Sutton of Streetsville.

Independent of the two inquests on the dead and the official investigation of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company into the causes of the wreck, it is probable that the Dominion Railway Commission will be asked to take the matter in hand and conduct a searching public inquiry.

Pending the investigation being made by the company, every railway man connected with the accident, which will include the entire train crew of the military train and the dsepatcher at London, will be suspended until the responsibility has been placed on the proper shoulders.

It was definitely ascertained yesterday that the two men killed were Mack Murdock, private, aged 21 'A' Company, 48th Highlanders, who lived at 374 Wellington Place, and John Bannatyne, single, aged 20, 'A' Company, 48th Highlanders, who lived at 110 Alcine Avenue.

All the injured soldiers are reported to be progressing favorably at Grace Hospital, and the Western Hospital. Private Sheard, whose condition is the most serious, shows a slight improvement.

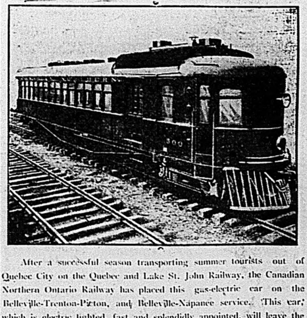
A FINE C. N. O. R. TRAIN



After a successful season transporting summer tourists out of Quebec City on the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway, the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway has placed this gas-electric car on the Belleville-Trenton-Picton, and Belleville-Napanee service. This car, which is electric lighted, fast and splendidly appointed, will leave the C. N. O. R. station here at 7.57 a.m. for Napanee; 11.26 a.m. for Trenton, and 9.00 p.m. for Trenton and Picton, according to the schedule shown in the time-table of the C. N. O. R. Belleville people should certainly appreciate this gas-electric car. It took its place on that line last night, arriving from Trenton at 6.15 p.m. and leaving this city again at 9.00 p.m.

The transfer of James Cantrell, a centre forward, from Notts County to Tottenham Hotspurs has just been made at a fee of £1,500, and Cantrell will receive £250.

An X-ray examination discloses the fact that Dr. Smirlie Lawson's ribs are all intact, although the muscles of one side have been badly strained. He will play with Argos at Ottawa on Saturday.

Hamilton Herald: The Alerts will have to buck up and come back to their real neighborhood if they expect to beat the Argos, Ottawa, or whoever they may meet in the finals for Canadian honors.

The University of Toronto had a light practice yesterday. No scrimmages were indulged in, the work being confined to running, passing and signals. Maynard was not out.

The Parkdale team has declined the offer of Ottawa College for a game at Toronto this Saturday because of the Varsity-R.M.C. game at the Stadium. A week later Parkdale may go to Montreal to play McGill.

McGill expects to beat Queen's at Kingston, and look for University of Toronto to do the same thing, thereby causing a tie in the Intercollegiate Union. In that event the college championship will not be decided until November 16.

Vanderbilt still continues to lead the Carlisle Indians in the number of points scored so far this year. They have scored a total of 329 points, with 5 scored against them. Carlisle have scored 306 points with 35 scored against them.

Two hundred and five students of Harvard will not be allowed to purchase tickets for the big games this year on account of misuse of the tickets last year. It seems that some of the "freshies" used one of their tickets, and gave the other to a 'friend" who sold it.

Ottawa College is dickering for a game with Syracuse University at Ottawa on November 9, American rules to govern. Syracuse walloped Yost's Michigan team a week ago by 17 to 7. Ottawans want to see how the American game is played. They'll see all right, if they close with Syracuse.

Argos were the first team to beat Ottawa on the Rough Rider grounds. The Oarsmen accomplished the feat in 1902 and again in 1911. Saturday they will endeavor to do it again. With a good kicker to take Blinkey's place, the double blue would have a chance to win. They will use Price at centre half and the punting will be entrusted to him.

The special train which will carry the Toronto R. and A.A. team and supporters to Hamilton will leave Union Station at 1.30. The returning train is scheduled to leave Hamilton at 5.45. Three hundred seats for the game will be placed on sale at 207 Yonge street on Friday until 5 p.m. The local team will have their last practice this afternoon at 4.30. Dr. Hendrie and Dr. Biggs will be the officials at Hamilton.

London Advertiser: The officials at the game in Sarnia were the best that have acted in any game in which a London team has participated for a number of years. "Babe" Burkhart governed the game in a very impartial manner. and Morrison was easily the best umpire that has handled a whistle in this part of the country in the last decade. The London management will endeavor to secure both these men for the game with Petrolia here next Saturday.

GENERAL SPORTS.

During the year April 1, 1911, to March 31, 1912, the number of elementary school children taught to swim by the London County Council was 35,935.

On the three golf courses in connection with the Glasgow Corporation the total number of players in 1911 was 108,000, and this year up to May there were 125,000 players. The past four months show an increase over the same period of last year of over 18,000.

Hamilton, Oct. 30.—Jim Duffy, winner of The Herald Marathon, will not go back to Toronto. He has decided to take up his residence in Hamilton. Duffy has been here for the past six weeks. He ran under the colors of the Eaton A.A. of Toronto yesterday, but hereafter will represent the Ramblers Club.

At the meeting of the Amateur Athletic Association of England in Birmingham recently, the following records were accepted: One hundred yards in 9 4-5 seconds, by G. H. Patchings of South Africa; 200 yards in 19 2-5 seconds and 220 yards in 21 4-5 seconds, by W. R. Applegarth, and one mile medley relay race (880, 220, 220 and 440 yards) in 3 minutes 25 1-5 seconds, by the Polytechnic Harriers' team.

The association abolished the guard board in the hammer throw and removed the ban on hammers with ball-bearing handles.

HOCKEY

Montreal, Oct. 31.—The McGill hockey team has decided to visit the United States this year and play games in Boston. New York and Cleveland. Offers of matches have been received by the team from Harvard and will be considered.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—The New Edinburgh Hockey Club will not press its challenge for the Allan Cup this fall. They challenged last spring and the trustees put them over until December, but in the meantime Benedict and Kendall have signed contracts to play professional hockey, and Eddie Gerard, Harry Broadbent and Horace Merrill may do likewise. The interprovincial champions, in fact, will be short of all but two or three of their regular team. Kendall is going to the Pacific coast, and Gerard, Broadbent, Merrill and Benedict will be with Ottawa.

Winnipeg Tribune: The ravages of the professional magnates in Winnipeg during the summer and this fall has not been felt very severely among the amateur clubs, and only one player will likely be lost to the ranks of the locals. Cully Wilson, the youngster who, with many other stars, was reared in Winnipeg and learned the game here, will likely be seen in professional ranks; in fact he is now in the east, and will make an attempt to secure a place on the team managed by Bruce Ridpath at Toronto. He is a husky boy, has the speed, the brains the shooting ability to make good in the ranks of the paid artists, and if he manages to control his temper, which failed him badly here, his name should soon be prominent among the stars of the N.H.A. Charlie Tobin, another Winnipeg boy, who started his career on the open air rink at St. Mary's School not many years ago and climbed to senior ranks in a hurry, is said to be slated for a trial with the Toronto professionals. He is a rangy boy and exceptionally fast, being able to play the boards to good advantage, and besides has a wicked shot which soon brought him to prominence in the hockey world. He will leave for Toronto as soon as the hockey season starts.

THE TURF.

King George's latest victory was very appropriately in the Royal Stakes at Newmarket the day after the Cesarevitch. The race is a mile and a quarter for three year olds, and the King's winner was Pintadean. ridden by Herbert Jones. The horse behind him, Serenader, and White Star, were ridden by the crack jockeys, Maher and Wootton.

Latonia, Oct. 31.—The victory of Hawthorn, with top weight, in the Fort Thomas Stakes yesterday, carrying 127 pounds and running the six furlongs in 1.12, makes it beyond doubt that the Hastings colt is the best of western two year olds now in training. George M. Hendrie's Great Britain, second in the weight allotment, with 122, did not start, but Rifle Brigade, from the same stable, was unplaced in the opening event. won by the good filly, Gowell.

Jockey Loftus rode three winners, including Hawthorn, and Turner was twice successful.

London, Oct. 31.—The last of the great Autumn handicaps, the Cambridgeshire, was run yesterday at the Newmarket Houghton meeting. The winner was the American bred Adam Bele, a son of the French horse, Adam, and Grace Gauberts. He carried 110 pounds penalty for winning the Duke of York stakes at the Newmarket second meeting. His owner, Mr. Louis Winans, has had little success until lately, though maintaining his interest and keeping up his stable without regard to that.

The second horse was M. J. San Miguel's La Boheme II., a four year old filly carrying 107 pounds. She was bred and trained in France, though by the English sire, William the Third. The Irish horse, Drinmore, a four year old by General Symmons, owned by Mr. George Edwards, and trained by P. Hartigan, with 100 pounds up, was third.

Baltimore, Oct. 31.—J. L. McGinnis' Sam Jackson took the feature event at Laurel yesterday. The winner was one of the outsiders in the betting. Hedge, who ran a couple of phenomenal races early in the meeting, was again a disappointment. Shackleton, carrying top weight, set the early pace, but tired badly.

Mary Ann K., winner of the two year old race. was boosted from $500 to $800, and bought by H. C. Hallenbeck. The latter has boosted all of Trainer James Fitzsimmons' horses. This was done because the latter did not give back the run-up money when Rosseau was second to Azylado in a selling stake.

Seneca II. was also run up from $400 to $1,200. Sam Louis and J. W. Hedrick did the bidding but did not get the horse, which is owned by Hugh Springer of Vancouver.

John Nixon, who is training the Robert Davis horses, was an arrival. The string, now at Woodbine, will probably be wintered at Bennings, the old Washington track.

The meeting closes tomorrow with the American Grand National Handicap. The stewards this afternoon decided that High Private could not start, as Owner Wainwright had not accepted his weight. The horse arrived here last night from Latonia, Jockey C. Peak coming to ride him. Mr. Wainwright probably considered that his entry stood good until declared out of the handicap.

The Races in Turkey

Of Turkey in Europe 65,000 square miles are left, one-third as large as Germany or France, or slightly smaller than Missouri. It is fair and fertile but ill-cultivated. There are 1,000,000 people in Constantinople, 5,000,000 outside. Next to Constantinople, Salonica is the best town, placed to become a Baltimore or Liverpool.

Bulgaria is as large as Indiana; Greece as West Virginia; Servia as New Hampshire and Vermont; Montenegro as three-fourths of Connecticut. Together the allies have 84,460 square miles and nearly 10,000,000 people. But Turkey draws on Asiatic provinces with 693,600 square miles and perhaps 17,000,000 people; no one has counted them. Much more trade comes into Constantinople by land from Asia than from Europe. Half Asiatic Turkey is desert, but Asia Minor is fertile.

The real Turks are not numerous. In Asia they rule Kurds, Tartars and Armenians and Arabs, being everywhere a minority except in Western Asia Minor. On the European side Turkish farmers are most numerous about Constantinople, along the Sea of Marmora and west to Adrianople. All Central Macedonia is Bulgaria, except that about Salonica the Greeks, a seafaring race, predominate. South of Servia lies "Stara" (or old) Servia, kin in speech except for scattered sections of Mohammedan Albanians, the Arnauts, who nag the Servians.

The strongest race occupies the west coast—the Albanians. They hold right up to the Montenegrin border and slop over it a bit. In Greece also are many Albanian sections. The Albanians won Greek independence. The Greek national costume is Albanian.

The Albanians are said to have the best heads of all the races of Europe, but undeveloped. There is a race lying fallow. There is no railroad in their country, scarcely a written language. Nothing but the fact that they are divided in religion, half Moslem, half Greek church, has kept them from winning independence. They are fearless fighters the best in the Turkish army.—New York World.

Thirty Volcanoes In Eruption.

Sydney, N.S.W., Nov. 1.—Thirty volcanoes are in eruption on the Island of Ninafoon, in the Tongan group, and many remarkable changes in the physical features of the island have resulted. A large lake in the centre of the island has dropped two feet from its original level, according to reports received here.

The GURNEY-OXFORD is an efficient RANGE

A business is kept up-to-date because it means a difference between profit and loss. The successful business uses such modern time-and-labor-savers as typewriters, adding machines and electricity. Woman's work in the home is also a matter of profit and loss. If she has improved and modern tools, she gains time and leisure and better results. If she has old-fashioned ideas to contend with, she loses energy and effort and peace of mind

The Gurney-Economizer is the greatest single improvement ever devised to simplify cooking. It regulates the fire and heat of the oven with one direct motion. The heat of the fire is distributed by a scientific arrangement of flues that keeps the oven uniformly heated. The grates hold the fire on the least possible surface.

WARNING TO ROWELL

W.C.T.U. Resolution Refers to East Middlesex Campaign.

If Liberal Leader Hopes to Carry Ontario He Will Have to Choose Candidates Acceptable to the Temperance Party Declares Committee —Mrs. Stevens Is Elected President For the Ensuing Year.

Renfrew, Nov. 1.—A resolution brought before the Women's Christian Temperance Union convention by the resolutions committee yesterday had reference to the recent East Middlesex campaign. In part the resolution said:

"We deem it wise to sound a note of warning in connection with the East Middlesex contest, where one of the candidates chosen was obnoxious to the temperance people, first, because of his personal habits, and, secondly, because of his previous relationship to the temperance question.

"Therefore, resolved, that if the Liberal party, as organized in the various constituencies, desires the support of the temperance people, it must not insult their intelligence and loyalty by candidates whose association with the bar, and whose past active hostility to measures of temperance reform, would render their pledges valueless to any sincere supporter of the temperance cause."

In dealing with the prosecution of Rev. R. B. St. Clair in Toronto, it was recommended that the criminal code be so altered as to provide that the proprietor of a theatre when found guilty of putting on an indecent performance be liable to a fine of $500 and imprisonment, loss of license to follow a second conviction.

In declining to act on the suggestion of Mrs. C. Cox, president of the Equal Suffrage Association of Ottawa, that Miss Wylie, English suffragette, address the delegates, a resolution was passed condemning militant tactics by suffragettes.

Mrs. E. A. Stevens of Toronto was elected president for the ensuing year of the Ontario W.C.T.U. at the afternoon session. Mrs. M. R. Thornley of Toronto is the new advisory president, while Mrs. S. C. E. McKee, Barrie, was re-elected honorary president. The first vote for the presidency was divided between Mrs. M. R. Thornly, Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. M. S. Dettlor of North Bay. Mrs. Thornly withdrew on account of ill-health, and on the second ballot Mrs. Stevens secured 80 out of 100 votes cast.

The other officers for the ensuing year are: Vice-president, Mrs. H. E. Travin of Toronto; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. S. Dettlor of North Bay; secretary, Mrs. M. E. Cole of Ottawa; treasurer, Mrs. O. B. Britton of Gananoque; "Y" secretary, Miss Minnie Garrett of Toronto; secretary Loyal Temperance Union, Mrs. McLachlan of South Hamilton.

The convention concludes to-day.

Adequate Gift to Empire.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 1.—At a mass meeting held here Wednesday night under the auspices of the Navy League the following resolutions carried unanimously:

"Be it resolved that this meeting is of the opinion that it is in this city's interest and its wish that Canada should meet the present Imperial emergency by a prompt, adequate and unconditional gift to the Empire of battleships or their equivalent, to be followed as soon as may be possible by a permanent policy which will assure to our Dominion a representation worthy of her dignity in the defence of the Empire."

Among the speakers were Sir Richard McBride and the Bishop of Columbia. The Premier gave it as his opinion that Mr. Borden would bring down such a naval policy that it would pass the Commons without a dissenting vote.

Murderer Gave a Party.

Montreal, Nov. 1.—In order to formally say farewell to three companions in the condemned cells and also to show his utter indifference to the fate that will soon overtake him, Sylvia Yacoloff, to die if no reprieve is granted him, on Nov. 15, for the murder of his sister-in-law, yesterday morning gave a party. Yacoloff sat at the head of the table and the usual prison fare was supplemented by delicacies bought by the host.

Yacoloff delivered his speech, expressing his regret at having soon to leave his friends, and then sang a funny song in Russian, his native language.

Liberals Withdraw In Muskoka.

Bracebridge, Nov. 1.—Muskoka Liberals will not put up a candidate in the bye-election which takes place on Nov. 12. The riding association executive on behalf of the party have made this announcement and give as a reason for such action the "indecent haste of the Government in fixing the date of the bye-election so early." The Liberals declare three months would be required by their candidate to make a canvass of the riding.

Wilson Wildly Cheered.

New York, Nov. 1.—Governor Woodrow Wilson, speaking last night before an audience that filled every corner of Madison Square Garden, received the greatest ovation of his campaign for the Presidency. Entering the hall at 9.11 o'clock, after speaking before an enthusiastic audience in the Bronx, the Democratic candidate stood for an hour and three minutes at the railing of the Speaker's platform, waiting for the demonstration to end.

"No man could fail to be moved by a demonstration such as we have witnessed to-night," he said with every evidence of deep feeling, as he finally made himself heard. "Yet I am the more thrilled because I realize it is a demonstration for a cause, and not for a man."

Crowds To See Opening.

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—Though the opening of the session is three weeks away, the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod is overwhelmed with applications for tickets for the floor and dress galleries, and after the official list is disposed of hundreds will necessarily be disappointed. A particular feature is the large number of applications from people who met the Duke and Duchess of Connaught on their summer tour and are anxious to attend the opening and the drawing-room.

PLANS INTERVENTION.

France Has a Program Declares London Daily Mail Correspondent.

London, Nov. 1.—The London Daily Mail's Vienna correspondent says: "The French Government have come forward with a proposal to the great powers for mediation between Turkey and the Balkan League. The news was confirmed to me to-night in an official quarter, where, however, it was stated nothing can be said for the present regarding the nature of M. Poincare's proposal, which is now being examined by the Vienna Cabinet, but I learned on unimpeachable authority that the proposal, while couched in general terms, outlines the form in which the powers shall intervene to stop the war. There is apparently no question of Bulgaria and Turkey negotiating peace terms directly between themselves. The powers have reason to believe that Turkey will negotiate through them. A feeling of outspoken pessimism prevailed in well-informed quarters here last night.

"The situation is only peaceable," a competent personage said to me this evening, "so long as Austria-Hungary does not feel that attempts are being made to neglect her legitimate interests in the Balkans. If she were forced to come to that conclusion, I must admit I should be prepared for anything."

Entitled to Fruits of Victory.

London, Nov. 1.—The Ministerial organ, The Daily News and Leader, gives prominence to an article on international negotiations, which, after noting the remarkable harmony among the powers, says: "It is satisfactory to know that no power has yet proposed the restoration to Turkey of territory which the allies have conquered. Should such a proposal be made, Great Britain would do her utmost to prevent the concert of nations from acquiescing.

Boy of 17 Kills Man.

Surry, Maine, Nov. 1.—Edwin Goodwin, a 17-year-old boy, admitted yesterday that he was responsible for the death of Captain Henry C. Young, whose body was found at the edge of a mill stream here Wednesday. Goodwin was arrested, charged with murder after the coroner's jury decided that Captain Young's death was due to a blow on the head. When asked to plead to the charge in the district court at Ellsworth the boy said:

"I suppose I am guilty. I did not calculate to kill him."

Captain Young, who kept a store in the village, was killed while on his way home Tuesday night. When the body was found his money was missing. Witnesses at the inquest testified that Goodwin was in the store a few minutes before Young closed up Tuesday night and saw the proprietor counting up his receipts.

Two Swifts Indicted.

Boston, Nov. 1.—The Consolidated Rendering Co. of Boston and four of its officers were indicted by the U. S. grand jury yesterday on a charge of conducting an unlawful monopoly in the beef rendering business in the New England states.

The officers indicted are Edward F. Swift, of Chicago, president; Edward A. Tilden, Chicago, vice-president; Horatio W. Heath, Boston, general manager; and George H. Swift, Boston, director.

The indictment sets forth that the Consolidated Rendering Co. operated through its subsidiaries, and charges that competition was eliminated by a secret arrangement made by the Consolidated Rendering Co.'s officials with independent concerns.

BEAUTY AND FASHION GRACED THE ARMORIES LAST NIGHT

Under the auspices of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, a most successful Hallowe'en assembly was held last evening at the armories. It was a brilliant affair, attended by many of the elite of the city and vicinity. The lecture room, where dancing was indulged in, was most appropriately decorated for the occasion. Yellow, black and white were the decorations used, whilst a number of pumpkins were placed about the orchestra and reflected faces and other figures. The tea-room, where lunch was served, was also tastefully decorated. The ladies who are to make the event a success, and to Mrs. Col. Marsh is due much credit for the success of the pleasing event. The ballroom was brilliantly lighted with a number of electric lights tastefully decorated, and the scene when the dancers were on the floor was enchanting.

CITY GUESTS INVITED.

The gowns of the ladies were beautiful and the multitude of colors and tints gave an impression of a tropical garden. The red mess uniform of the officers and black evening suits of the other gentlemen made a striking contrast to the airy loveliness of the ladies. The music was furnished by the regimental orchestra and left nothing to be desired. Mrs. (Dr.) MacColl as chairman of the floor committee, is to be congratulated on her choice of music. The guests were loud in their praise of the floor and musical selections. Mrs. Marsh and Mrs. Vermilyea received the guests in the officers' mess room. Mrs. S. W. Vermilyea was chairman of the refreshment committee. Mrs. Geo. Wallbridge poured coffee and Mrs. T. E. Ketcheson dispensed lemonade.

Belgium Will Aid White Slave War

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Oct. 31.—At the international congress considering the question of white slavery, which met here this week, Matre Gaston Delevai, a member of the Brussels bar and the secretary-treasurer of the society, announced that the Belgian government will help on the work of suppressing the traffic by granting a substantial subsidy as well as giving its utmost moral support. This is due to the efforts of the Belgian Minister of Justice, M. Carton De Wiart.

Mr. Coote, an English delegate, announced that the people of all races and of the divers religions in Egypt nave joined in the movement, and as a result from one house alone sixty-three girls under age have been sent back to their own people.

A delegate from Russia pointed out that the idea of repatriation would be impossible with Russian Jewesses, as these countries refuse readmission.

Reports from the United States centres and many propositions received long and serious attention. It is intended not only to stop the abduction of young girls from their homes, but to prevent the abductor taking advantage of the excuse that the girl left home of her own will.

Halloween at The Y. M. C. A.

Hallowe'en, 1912, will be an event long to be remembered by the boys who attended the masquerade at the Y.M.C.A. From 7.30 to 8 p.m. boys in disguise to the number of forty, kept wending their way to the building where Mr. Marston, chairman of the Boys' Social Committee, directed them to the boys' department.

The assembly was composed of various nationalities, from the oldest to the youngest, from the gentleman of nobility to the scoundrel, from the peaceful gentleman to the warrior.

At 8.30 a flashlight was taken of the group by Mr. Wauchope, principal of the Belleville Business College, and immediately the judges proceeded with their difficult task, but finally gave their decision to the excited and anxious company.

Ernest Leavens won the first prize. He represented a turkey in a most pronounced way. His dress was attractive, his countenance very vividly displayed a feeling of unrest, his veins were throbbing with bloodthirstiness. He made the hit of the evening.

Arthur Rogers won the second prize. He was dressed as an ancient gentleman, and his gracefulness and culture were very unique and won the admiration of the judges.

Ted Yeomans was a very close competitor of Mr. Rogers and captured third prize. His character was that of an old man and though he was very feeble and aged, nevertheless he was very young in spirit, displaying the truthfulness of the motto—"A man is as old as he feels."

Many other characters deserve commendation. The contest was very close. After the decision was given a snap was taken of the winners. The company dispersed at 9 p.m.

The judges were:

Mr. Sinclair, President of the Association.

Mr. Marston, chairman of the Boys' Social Committee.

Mr. Mowry, chairman of Senior Membership Committee.

Mr. Macfarlane, chairman of Boys' Religious Work.

Found Head in a Tree

TOLEDO, Ohio, Oct. 31.—Two men were killed and a great deal of damage done to buildings within a radius of miles today when the nitro-glycerine factory of the American Powder Company at Bradner, 24 miles from here, in Wood county, was wiped off the earth by an explosion. A head lodged in a distant tree was the only part of one body found.

When artists compete for a prize the result is a draw.

Probably the worst thing about being in love with a girl is the interest you have to pretend to have in her family.

Sparrow Carries Lighted Cigarette

The discovery of fire in the belfry of the original building of Valparizo University recently prevented a probable destruction of the structure, which is one of the landmarks of the present varsity settlement.

After the fire was extinguished an investigation to ascertain the cause was started, and disclosed that a sparrow picked up a lighted cigarette from the street and flew with it to the belfry, where the cigarette ignited the straw of half a dozen nests.—Indianapolis News.

DEATH ROLL.

GEORGE OSTROM

Some time during last night, death came suddenly to Mr. George Ostrom, a well-known and popular yeoman who resided on the front road in the Township of Sidney. Yesterday the deceased was engaged at ploughing and last eveing upon returning appeared to be in his usual health. Mrs. Ostrom was this morning naturally shocked upon attempting to rouse her husband to discover that he was dead. Heart disease is attributed as the cause of death. Mr. Ostrom, who was about 70 years of age, had resided all his life in Sidney Township and by his genial disposition had a host of friends. He was a successful yeoman. Deceased was a member of the Methodist church. In addition to the widow one daughter, Mrs. George Bush, survive. The heartfelt sympathy of a large circle of relatives and friends will be extended those so suddenly bereaved.

Mr. Ostrom was a son of the late Capt. W. Ostrom of Sidney, and was a U. E. descendant. Four brothers and one sister are living. The brothers are Arthur, of this city, Albert of Ohio, Frederick of Kansas City and Henry of Rochester. The sister is Mrs. Charles Grass of this city. Deceased was a staunch supporter of the Conservative party.

Shot His Own Sister

ALBERT, N. B., Oct. 31.—Playing together the 15-year-old son of William Steeves, of Lower Hillboro, near here, accidentally shot his younger sister dead.

The children were in the kitchen when the boy took a gun from the wall, and while handling it, pointed it at his playmates. Unconsciously he pulled the trigger, the shot striking the little girl fairly on the head, blowing out her brains.

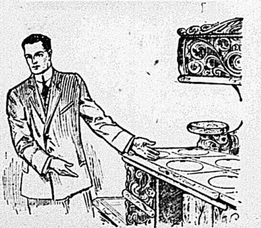
HAPPY THOUGHT



Do You Want Real Stove Satisfaction?

Do you want a stove that will bake, broil, fry and do every cooking operation equally well?

Do you want a stove that will give you the last unit of heat value from every ounce of fuel—right where you want it, at the lid openings or in the oven—a stove that will pay you dollars every month by the fuel saving it effects.

If you do, the HAPPY THOUGHT is the stove you will eventually choose.

Do not be deceived by the so-called "special features" of other stoves. Every detail of HAPPY THOUGHT construction represents that last word in stove making. If anything better could be devised, it would be already incorporated in the HAPPY THOUGHT.

The HAPPY THOUGHT has no special "selling" points. Its record of success for twenty-five years proves its all-round value as the most serviceable stove that you can buy.

Lipton Offers Third Cup

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Sir Thomas Lipton announced at a dinner tendered to him by Chicago yachtsmen, that he will offer a third cup to be sailed for on the Great Lakes.

The naming of the class in which the competition will be held was left to a committee.

Sir Thomas already is the donor of the Lipton trophy and Columbia Yacht Club cup.

Where Would You Be in Case of Fire?

When you pay a company to assume your risk you want to be sure that the company is financially able to take care of it. Do not be satisfied with a statement that shows enough assets to pay any loss you may individually sustain. If a conflagration occurs at the time your own fire comes along and the company is heavily involved you may find, as thousands of others have found before you, that your policy is of little value. Make yourself secure by taking a policy of the Liverpool-Manitoba Assurance Company, which is conflagration proof. Agents, J. W. Davison, Jas. H. Hudgins, Diamond & Diamond.

What They Quarreled About

"Paul, are you aware that there is a theory that I have an allowance for housekeeping?"

"A theory?"

"Yes, that is all it amounts to."

"What do you mean?"

"Just that. When we first talked the matter over it was decided that you would allow a certain sum for household expenses and that I was to have it monthly. You paid me twice without being reminded of it, then you forgot it and I asked you for it. That happened three times in succession. Twice, you were nice once you were so grouchy that I went without money for six weeks after it was due the next time sooner than speak of it. Then I had to and you weren't a bit nice, although you gave me the money. Now it's been overdue again for nearly a month and so I just thought I'd talk the matter out.'

"Whew! As much as that? How was I 'not a bit nice'?"

'You said you couldn't understand why people always boned you for money at most inconvenient times. I said I couldn't help it and you remarked. 'I never said you could, my dear.' "

"Terrible! I don't understand how you can bear such severity!"

"It may not seem important to you. Paul, but do you suppose I like to ask you for money?"

"I don't see why not! It's as much your as mine!"

"Would you care to have to come to me whenever you needed a few dollars?"

"That's different. It's moral and natural for the man to give to the woman, but not for him to depend upon his wife."

"It sounds very plausible, but I can tell you that most women would rather take nine and thirty on the bare back than dun their husbands for cash."

"Do you feel like that?"

"Sometimes I do—when you are grumpy or bothered about it."

"Do you want me to turn handsprings of joy every time I hand you a nickel?"

"I don't want anything absurd but I am just silly enough to like to be spared asking you to give me the money you tell me is as much mine as yours."

"I don't know that you are silly," said Paul thoughtfully. "But it's hard to grasp your point of view. Why, darling, I love to give you money for anything you want, and I always feel that it belongs to you. You take care of it for me and manage much better than I could."

'Really, Paul? ' said Frances, nestling up to him. "Or are you only saying that to make me comfortable?'

'I mean every word of it.; But I never imagined you disliked asking for money."

"Well, I do! You can't have any idea of how I've had to screw my courage up to speak to you about it to-day."

"You shan't have to do it again!" said Paul, with decision. "I'll make a memo. of the allowance payment as I would of interest or anything else of the kind. I'll be darned if I'll have my wife put where she will have to screw up her courage to say anything to me!"

"Wouldn't the marriage state be millenial if all the husbands were like mine?" sighed Frances, happily.—Christine T. Herrick.

Conway Arrested

The couple were arrested at the Cadillac hotel. The slight limp of Conway excited a policeman's suspicions and the arrest followed.

'What?' ejaculated Conway, when informed that he was wanted. 'Is Sophia dead?'

The Ryall woman displayed great grief and became hysterical when told she and her husband were suspected. Lima authorities had been asked to look for Conway. mother, Mrs. Kate Conway, resides here.

Surgeon Dazed As He Attempted Fatal Operation

MATHER, Man., Nov. 1.—Dr. Erskine, of Sarles, North Dakota, was held criminally responsible for the death of Mrs. W. McLeod, of this place by a jury empannelled at Pilot Mound.

Several witnesses testified that Dr. Erskine was in a half-dazed condition just previous to a post-natal operation he performed on Mrs. McLeod, and slept three hours afterwards, having to be carried down stairs, where he slept several hours longer.

The victim was mangled and died within five minutes after the operation. Extradition will be necessary if further action is taken.

France Leads in Balloon Contest

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—France wins the Gordon Bennett International Balloon trophy regardless of the performances of the two balloons, the Dueseldorf and the Ile de France, which have not yet reported. The first of these has been disqualified and even should the Ile de France surpass the record flight of the Picardie the prize will still be carried off by the French.

New York Policeman Found Dead in Street

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The body of Policeman Paul Simmons, of the Central park squad, was found early today lying across a cement sidewalk near the Seventy-fourth street entrance of the park. It was evident from the bits of broken glass scattered about, that he had been struck and killed by a speeding automobile. The automobilists had apparently stopped their car and threw the body of the policeman to the side of the road before resuming their ride through the park. There was no clue to their identity.

From the appearance of the tire marks in the macadam, the police were led to believe that Simmons had stepped out into the road for the purpose of stopping the speeders, and was purposely run down by the chauffeur.

To Hold Mayor For Grand Jury

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y. Nov. 1.—Major Lunn, the Socialist leader of Schenectady, who was recently arrested here charged with inciting a riot was arraigned yesterday afternoon, and held for the grand jury.

At the request of the District Attorney, Judge Collins denied a motion of Lunn's counsel for the discharge of his client. Lunn was not required to furnish bail on a motion by the prosecutor.

Committed For Trial

ST. CATHARINES, Nov. 1.—James Logue, a married man, of Merriton, was yesterday committed for trial by Magistrate Campbell on a charge of indecently assaulting a thirteen-year-old girl of that village yesterday. Logue is a Scotsman, who came recently to this country. The alleged victim was alone in the boarding house with the accused at the time. She succeeded in fighting him off and running to the home of a neighbor partly attired

Died in New York

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—Graeme Mercer Adam, formerly of Toronto, died at his home in New York city on Thursday at the age of 73 years. The body will be brought to Toronto for interment.

Mr. Adam was the son of the late James and Margaret Adam, and was born at Loanburgh, Scotland, on May 25, 1839. He was educated in Edinburgh, and at the age of 19 years was at the head of the retail branch of one of the oldest Scottish publishing houses. He came to Canada in 1858, became the manager of the Canadian book house of Rev. Cunningham Geikie, and two years later became a partner with Rollo in the form of Adam, Stevenson & Co. That firm continued in existence for a number of years, and in 1876 Mr. Adam and the late John Lovell founded a publishing house in New York, which subsequently became known as the United States Book company.

Mr. Adam returned to Toronto in 1878, and embarked in an active literary career. His firm had previously published the British American Magazine, to which he had contributed reviews of books. He had also written many articles for the Canadian Bookseller, besides a number of books.

He was a graduate of the Royal Military school, and served for a number of years in the Q. O. R., and commanded a company at Ridgeway during the first Fenian raid. He was a member of the Church of England.

PLOT PLANNED TO MURDER N. Y. DISTRICT ATTORNEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Rumors of a plot to assassinate District Attorney Whitman through the medium of thugs from Chicago found basis today, when it became known that Mr Whitman received the following unsigned telegram last night:

"Look out for four men coming on Chicago train, 3 p. m., Saturday."

Mr. Whitman has previously received a letter, warning him that a plot against his life was on foot because of his prosecution of ex-Police Lieut. Becker.

The High School Literary Society

The Senior Literary Society of the Belleville High School held its second regular meeting in the assembly room of that school on Friday afternoon. As a basketball match between the High School girls and St. Agnes school girls was called for 3.45, the Literary Society received permission to commence their meeting at 2.30 instead of 3 o'clock, the regular time.

At a meeting of the executive committee, Miss F. Roberts had been unanimously elected corresponding secretary in place of Miss S. McPherson, who has left the High school. It had also been previously decided to charge a membership fee of 15 cents each for the fall and spring terms (30 cents per year), the proceeds to go towards buying the piano now in use in the school.

The president, Miss N. Yeomans, occupied the chair. After the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, the following program, which lasted for over an hour, was listened to with much profit and enjoyment:

Instrumental duet—Misses J. Milne and P. Bogart.

Reading, "A Day at Queenston Heights"—Miss Helen Ross.

Hat speech—Miss Ana Mather.

Reading, "The Baby Teal," by Ernest Thompson Seaton—H. Yeomans.

Vocal solo—James Booth.

Hat speech—Harold Reid.

Chorus, "O, Canada," by the society.

Reading from "The Second Chance" by Neilie McClung—Miss La Armstrong.

Instrumental solo—Miss F. Roberts.

Hat speech—Austin Gay.

God Save the King.

The hat speeches were among the most interesting numbers on the program. At the opening of the meeting the names of those requested to take part in these were read out and each one drew a slip of paper on which was written the subject about which he was to speak. As no preparation was possible this tested the resources and ingenuity of those concerned, and although no one seemed desirous of over-running the time limit, the speeches were, on the whole, humorous, to the point and well delivered. Perhaps that by Miss Mather was the best. Her subject was, "What I would do if I had $1,000,000." The speaker said first of all she would buy a carpet, blinds and another piano stool for the assembly room. Then it would be nice to have an electric railway between Belleville and Tweed, and if any money remained she would pave the streets of Belleville, but above all things she would bribe someone to make her speeches for her.

H. Reid's subject was, "What subject I dislike most and why." The speaker clever evaded this difficulty by announcing that on due consideration he had decided that he liked all his studies and so could not speak on any one.

"Hallowe'en Experiences" fell to the lot of A. Gay, who declared that as Hallowe'en had only occurred the previous evening, it would not be expedient for him to speak on that subject.

Body Found in Road

GUELPH, Nov. 1.—The dead body of William Steele was discovered lying in the middle of the road last night by William Searles, employed by a farmer as a thresher. The body was about three miles above Marden on the Fergus Road, near what is known as Flewelling's Hill.

Deceased had been to Elora and Fergus for the Sleeman Brewery Co., and it is surmised had got down from the wagon, when he was seized with apoplexy. Nothing was known in the city of the affair until the horse walked into Guelph, when a search party was sent out.

A Famous Bone Cave

An extraordinary "bone cave" may be seen in the island of Teneriffe. It is situated near the summit of a lofty sea cliff near Orotava, close to the small plain of Le Paz, where peace was finally made between the conquering Spaniards and the Guanches, the original inhabitants of the island. Here the Guanches made their last stand, and this cave formed a shelter for the small remnant left of the tribesmen after the Spanish had finished with them. In former times the place had evidently been a burial ground of the Guanches, and when first discovered a number of mummies were found in it; now, however, only a huge pile of bones remains.

There are also as good compliments as ever were fished for.

Sudden Death of Popular Young Lady

After an illness of only five days Marjorie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Taylor, Reid Street, passed away last evening. Miss Taylor who was born September 10th, 1894, has always resided in this city. On leaving the Belleville High School, Miss Taylor passed her Junior Leaving and Matriculation examinations with honors. Later she gradated from all departments of the Ontario Business College.

Miss Taylor was endowed with high intelligence which, combined with a superior education and charming personality, endeared her not only to her intimate friends and relations but to all with whom she came in contact. She had just commenced a most successful career as a teacher on the staff of the Ontario Business College where she will be sadly missed and deeply mourned. To the bereaved parents and relatives the deepest sympathy is extended.

Doings at Deseronto

(From Deseronto Post.)

Her many friends will be interested to know that Mrs. Dan. Walker, Dundas street east, has passed her eighty-eighth milestone. They will, however, be very sorry to know that the old lady is very poorly, her eyesight having nearly left her.

Mr. J. J. Kelso of Toronto, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, will deliver an address bearing on the work of his society in Naylor's opera house on Friday, Nov. 8. The address will be illustrated with slides bearing upon the work of the society. It is expected the opera house will be taxed to its utmost capacity to hear Mr. Kelso tell of the work that is being done to save Ontario's children. The proceedings will begin at 8 p. m.

When the Bay of Quinte train was wrecked a few weeks ago one of the ladies on the train at the time lost a satchel containing $30, which she did not recover at the time. The car in which she was riding was brought to Deseronto, where it has been for some little time. The other day it was moved down to the car shops to undergo repairs, when the missing money was found in an obscure place by Mr. John Jackson, who in turn handed it to Mr. M. Hunt, the foreman. Since the wreck the car had been quite easy of access to the public, and it is considered quite remarkable that the money should now be recovered.

Mr. Thompson, brother of Mrs. Thos. Donnelly, and Mrs. Thompson of Calgary, Alta., visited in town, in Kingston and other places in the east during the past couple of weeks. Mr. Thompson hailed originally from Kingston. He heard the call of the west and went to Saskatoon, where he and a partner embarked in the newspaper business. Having made good there, they sold out and went to Calgary, where they are now publishing a big daily. While Mr. Thompson is not egotic, one can easily gather from his quiet demeanor that the west suits him first-rate.

Hurricane off Mexico

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 1.—Special—Reports of a severe hurricane off the west coast of Mexico and Central America were received at the State and Navy Departments today.

Clements Edwards, United States Consul at Acapulco, reported that much damage has been wrought by the hurricane in that city. A large number of Mexicans were injured, but there were no fatalities. The roof of the United States Consulate was torn off and the interior of the building damaged considerably by the torrents of rain which followed the hurricane.

Dead Body Rang Alarm

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Special—A London and North-Western express from Euston to the north was stopped by a remarkable accident the other evening.

While travelling at full speed near Reade station, the driver felt a strain on the communication chain, and pulled up. It was found that a signal man had fallen on top of the train as it was running under a signal- arch, and the weight of his body on the communication chain had sounded the alarm in the cab of the engine.

The man was dead and his body mutilated.

Trial of the Gunmen

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—It was definitely decided to-day that "Whitey" Lewis will be the first of the four gunmen charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, to be placed on trial. The trial will begin on Nov. 7. District Attorney Whitman appeared before Justice Goff to-day and asked that a special panel of 200 talesmen be sumoned for the case.

TURKISH ARMY REPORTED ROUTED

The Allied Troups Advancing on Constantinople—Bombardment of Capital Expected Sunday

(Intelligencer Special.)

BERLIN, Germany, Nov. 2.—Anarchy prevails through European Turkey according to despatches received from the Balkans today. Semblance of order exists only where the allied troops have established it. Whole regiments of Turkish troops are in retreat from all directions, pillaging and slaughtering non-combatants as they go and hotly followed by Bulgarian, Servian and Grecian troops. Bulgaria's claims that Turkey is overwhelmingly defeated were amply confirmed today. The defeat was an utter rout. This morning, from all accounts, the Turkish troops are making their last stand with such troops as can be controlled, between twenty five and thirty miles west of Constantinople. The Bulgarians are practically in the suburbs of the Turkish capital, and the fighting is going on within a telescopic distance of the Sultan's harem. Advices from Sofia indicate that the commanders of the allied troops expect to begin a bombardment of Constantinople on Sunday afternoon.

Seventeen Perish in Steamer Disaster

(Intelligencer Special.)

MONTREAL, Nov. 2.—Seventeen men, women and children drowned, and four men saved, is the terrible result of the wreck of the steamer Cecelia, on Little Lake St. Louis, ten miles west of here, during the storm last night. The Cecelia is a frail craft weighing about one hundred tons, plying across the lake between this city and Valleyfield. She left here last evening merrily enough but after leaving the Lachine canal and entering the lake, she ran into a terrible gale. All efforts to keep her steady were in vain, and she was blown with great force on the rocks of Perett Island, where she was smashed to fragments and all her passengers and crew thrown into the turbulent waters. Alexander Leonard, a farmer on shore, who was attracted by the shrieks of the women and children, put out in a small boat and found 4 men clinging to wreckage. These were saved, but no more could be recovered. Captain Leduc, who was in command, went down with the boat.

The accident was quite unaccountable. Captain Russell of Ogdensburg was in command. The crew were all on shore.

Postal Insurance

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Special—Asked why parcels between Great Britain and Canada cannot be insured, Postmaster-General Samuel says the British postal authorities for years have urged the Canadian administration to adopt insurance of parcels, but the latter has not seen its way to do so.

The chief obstacle appeared to be the absence of insurance in Canadian inland service.

THUGS AFTER WHITMAN

New York Attorney Is Sought by Four "Bad Men."

The Prosecuter In the Rosenthal Case Goes Closely Guarded and In Constant Danger of His Life From "Gunmen"—Gamblers Are Pouring Back Into New York and the Dens Are Again Opening.

New York, Nov. 2.—District Attorney Whitman was warned again yesterday of an alleged plot against his life and he was told that with the conclusion of the Becker trial the "lid" was being lifted gradually in the Tenderloin district and that gamblers were resuming business.

The prosecutor declined to discuss the warning, except to admit that he had received a letter and a telegram to the effect that four Chicago thugs were due here by train to-day to "get" him. He said it was nothing new for him to receive threats, and he would not care about them if it were not for his family, but it is known that unusual precautions are being taken to guard him. A detective was at his side practically all day.

Investigation has failed to verify rumors of pronounced activity in gambling circles, but a number of houses were said to have reopened for business quietly and unobstrusively conducted.

Many gamblers who left the city at the time of the exposures in the Becker-Rosenthal case have returned, it is known. It was even carried to the district attorney in newspaper reports that another police lieutenant was pursuing the grafting tactics which Becker is alleged to have employed, that he was a silent partner in one of the gambling houses.

The prosecutor had no announcement to make concerning his future actions, but he made it known last night that he will not rest his case against the "system" with the conviction of Becker. He is working up evidence regarding police laxity and grafting to lay before the extraordinary grand jury, which is to continue the John Doe proceedings immediately after the cases of the gunmen in the Rosenthal murder are disposed of.

Becker in his cell in the death-house of Sing Sing prison is being closely guarded. The daily visits which Becker was first allowed to receive from his wife have been cut to three a week.

H. E. FAIRFIELD

From "The Trail of The Lonesome Pine" Griffins, Tues. Nov. 5

THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE.

It is to be inferred that the majority of Belleville book readers followed the wanderings and love story of the primitive mountain girl; June, in John Fox, Jr.'s delightful story, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which will be seen at Griffin's Opera House Tuesday night.

Few stories, even though they be part fiction and part truth, have been written with the compelling heart interest that the author of this thrilling story of the Virginia hills, has sustained in every page of his narrative. Therefore, it was with some trepidation that Eugene Walter, brilliant dramatist though he is, approached the task set for him, to bring out of the book a stage June that would appeal as strongly to theatregoers as the book June appealed to readers.

That Mr. Walter has accomplished his task is evidenced already by the approbation of the producers of the play, as well as the public and auther. Mr. Walter has taken a rough, uneducated, enormously superstitions and imaginative mountain girl, and made her a delightful creature. He has brought out all the possibilities of the June of the book, catching the significance of Mr. Fox's clean-cut characterization and the exquisite poetry and drama of his dominating love theme.

The play contains no problem, no question of sex dominance, but is absolute in the purity of its sentiment, the uplift of its moral, the poetry of its romance. A genuine man takes an interest in a simple girl.

LITTLE MISS FIX-IT.

A joyous musical comedy, entitled, "Little Miss Fix-It," was presented at the Griffin opera house last evening before a large audience. The play is a happy hilarity of two acts, during which Alice Lloyd as the title role of the play, takes the leading part. She is certainly a clever young actress, a good singer and enchanting in manner. The songs rendered by members of the company were much appreciated by the audience, judging by the liberal applause which greeted those rendering same. The company is well balanced, all taking their part in a deservedly manner. The stage settings were in conformity with the play and were much admired. The play gave general satisfaction to all patrons.

RESIDENCE BURGLARIZED

Mr. S. Tweedie and family who reside at Ross Corners in Thurlow Township, were this morning upon arising, surprised to ascertain that the house during the night had been burglarized. Upon investigation it was found out that the kitchen door had been left unlocked and the midnight marauder had entered the house by this way. Missing from the premises is a gent's gold watch, some clothing, a hat and a tin box which contained receipts and some insurance policies. Although there was a sum of money concealed near from where some of the article were taken, it was not touched. There is no clue as who committed the burglarly. Mr. Tweedie reported his loss to the local police, also to the County High Constable.

FATAL ACCIDENT

Mr. Wm. Curry, of Sidney Township, eldest son of Mr. S. Curry of this city, some time on Thursday night met his death in an untimely manner. It appears that yesterday morning, near the town of Trenton, on a side road, a horse attached to a vehicle was seen lying down and the vehicle was overturned. Upon investigation the remains of William Curry were found beneath the outfit. What caused the unfortunate affair is not known and probably will never be known. It is surmised however, that the animal ran away and fell at the spot where it was found and in some manner the vehicle was upset. We are informed that there were no particular marks of violence upon the victim of the accident. Deceased was 40 years of age and leaves a wife and two children, namely a young son and daughter. The sad affair has cast a gloom over the community as the victim was deservedly popular.

PLAYGROUNDS FOR THE PEOPLE

The Forestry branch of the Department of the Interior is developing a plan to make the western forest reserves of more real benfit to the general public. Hitherto the reserves have been timber reserves pure and simple; the new plan is to make them playgrounds as well for the people of the west. A new branch has been formed which might be termed "The National Playgrounds Bureau." In brief, the scheme is to establish summer resorts and picnic and outing camps in the various western reserves.

The first experiment was made this summer on the Turtle Mountain Reserve in Southern Manitoba and proved highly successful. A resort was laid out on Lake Max, not far from Boissevain, where for several years campers have been going, though without recognized rights. Now the site has been laid out into lots, and leases are given under certain easy conditions. The lessee must build a substantial summer cottage. The plan was very popular and already many leases have been taken and next summer there promises to be a rush for lots.

Already applications to have resorts established at several other reserves have been received by the department, and the plan will now be made general.

This coming year will see the establishment of a large number of new reserves. The largest is in the vicinity of Lesser Slave Lake in Northern Alberta and will comprise some 4,000 square miles. Several new reserves have been recommended in Northern Saskatchwan, while many survey parties are working in south-eastern Manitoba with a view to the location of a new reserve there.

VICE-PRESIDENT SHERMAN

James S. Sherman was the seventh to die in his office, which is chiefly that of waiting in case the President dies, and the seventh Vice-President to win a renomination. He was one of the last of the Old Guard of Republicans who achieved power by partisan means, by his skill and organizing ability. A substantial business man of agreeable personality, he practiced at the bar, became Mayor of Utica, served in Congress, and was elected chairman of successive State conventions and of the National Congressional Committee. He was not a statesman, he was a survivor in the present campaign of a once powerful party regime.

The death of Mr. Sherman will not erase his name from the National Republican ticket. As in the case of Senator La Follette's candidature for Attorney General in Wisconsin who died last year before the election, he will receive the party's vote "as though he were still alive." It is the Presidential Electors for whom the votes are actually cast, and they, in the event of their election, will be guided in their choice of a substitute candidate by the action of the Republican National Committee. Until March 4 next the office of Vice President must remain vacant. His duties as President of the Senate will devolve upon the President pro tempore, and in case of death or inability of the President, Secretary of State Knox would succeed to the office until March 4, 1913.

A BLOODY WAR

At best the war in the Balkans was bound to bring suffering unknown in other modern conflicts. None of the armies was supplied with adequate modern means for caring for their wounded. The troops of Turkey have notoriously been neglected in this regard, and the military system has been much demoralized by the changes of Government due to a conspiracy in the army. The armies of the Balkan league, also insufficiently equipped, were put in motion so hurriedly that this defect became all the more evident. The rapid movements of the invaders have all been across a rough country, over poor roads, with no railways available, and the transportation department was necessarily used first for the troops fit to fight. In many of the encounters the wounded were left entirely without care, to die on the field. In all of them provision for them has been scant and poor.

In addition to these inevitable causes of cruel suffering there is the savagery of the combatants. So far specific accounts of bloody outrage have come only from Bulgarian and Servian sources. They would be incredible if we did not know only too well from recent history how terrible is the cruelty of racial passion among the wild tribes of Asia and among the Moslems native to the Balkan provinces. It is to be remembered also that the very first movements of the league armies across the Turkish frontier were to be traced by burning villages whose population was scattered or slain.

It is not too much to say that what in the cold technical language of the soldier's profession are called "casualties" have so far been, and will continue to be, double those of any war in modern times. And it ought not to make easy the sleep of the civilized nations of Europe to reflect that the ghastly slaughter and suffering might wholly have been avoided had they had the courage to compel Turkey to treat her European subjects decently.

THE POTATO CROP

According to Farm and Dairy the potato rot is general from one end of Ontario to the other. Potatoes were scarce enough last year, but if the rot is as serious as reports that Farm and Dairy has received from numerous correspondents all over the country would seem to indicate, potatoes will be almost, if not altogether as scarce as this year. The crop in the first place was well up to the average; in some sections a bumper crop. But, with 20 to 70 per cent. affected with rot and still rotting, even when dug many districts will have a very small surplus available for market. In fact, many in a position to know, predict that farmers will themselves have to buy potatoes even as they did last year.

This is the condition of affairs that might be expected when we take into consideration the rainy season that we have experienced. Rainy weather is most favorable to the development of potato blight, which is the cause of all rot. On sandy land rot is not so prevalent as on heavier soil, but even here the crop has not altogether escaped. The biggest difference is between early and late varieties, the early being harvsted in fairly good condition; some agriculturists report that these early varieties have started to rot in the cellar.

It is yet too early to predict with any degree of certainty just what the total loss through rot will be. Reports received by the Department of Agriculture at Toronto place the loss at about 10 per cent. of the whole crop. Experts in the field, however, give estimates all the way from no rot at all to 90 per cent., and an average would be from 30 to 50 per cent. The bad condition of the crop at present is having a depressing effect on prices, but higher prices are predicted later on, if the crop in the rest of Canada is as serious as it is in Ontario.

The word that the get-rich-quick concerns that have been operating in the United States with such profit until the postal authorities descended upon them, and put an end to their mercenary machinations, are planning for extensive operations in Canada, sounds a warning that may well be passed on to the credulous. There are still suckers in the Canadian stream who are not yet able to tell by the character of the bait whether or not there is a hook embedded in it.—Ottawa Citizen.

At Sturgeon Falls Sir Wilfrid Laurier declared that he would "fall with my face toward the enemies of Canadian nationhood, hypocrisy, prejudice and injustice." This was said in the hearing of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Hon. Charles Murphy, and some of the others. Whether or not Sir Wilfrid included among the "enemies of Canadian nationhood," etc., politicians who do not hesitate to sow the seeds of discontent with frequent repetition of such expressions as the "trusts," the "vested interests," the "millionaire club of Toronto," the "unholy alliance," etc., does not appear. Attempts to set the west against the east and the country against the city indicate clearly enough the whereabouts of the "enemies of Canadian nationhood."

Maidens in India Are Very Scarce

In spite of the endeavor of the English to better conditions in India the young Hindu girl has a hard time of it. In marriage she is sold as a slave might be—indeed, she is not even sought after by an intending husband, but is offered in the open market to the highest bidder. There is no love-making, no sweet courtship life to look back upon, once her young days are over, and she is not even consulted as to the sort of a husband she might like. Her father goes out and offers her to any man he thinks would make her a suitable husband and haggles over the price as he would over a piece of merchandise. Oftentimes she is married in the cradle to a tiny boy no older than she and thus grows up a married woman with no chance of single life or maiden happiness.

Maiden are dear in India, and a young bachelor is apt to wait a long time before purchasing a wife simply because the cost is too great. Widows, however, are cheap, and therefore the wily Hindu father of many daughters marries his girls off for old vases or a boquet of flowers and then by throwingg the flowers into the well to die and smashing the vases and burying the pieces in the ground makes them technically widows and as such very cheap on the market.

The Hindu bride does not wear her wedding ring on her finger. Instead it is fastened through her nostrils and this ring is the token that she is in subjection to her husband. In addition she usually wears about her neck a wedding necklace which is of peculiar design.

Once married she is virtually the slave of her husband, and her duties are numerous and arduous. When she goes out with her husband she must walk behind him, not beside him, and under no circumstances must she address him by his name, instead, she addresses him as "my lord," or "my master," and if she fail in this respect she is likely to be severely punished, for the Hindu man is all powerful in his household and tyrannical by nature. She is never permitted to travel with him in the same compartment, and during the time he is at his meals must stand behind him, for no woman is allowed to seat herself in the company of men.

Before beginning his meals the husband first removes his shoes and then seats himself on the floor, from off of which he eats his food, the wife standing behind him ready to wait on him and to do his bidding and woe betide her if anything is wrong. When he has finished his meal he allows her to partake of his leavings, and with these she is supposed to be content.

Should she become a widow after being really married to a man instead of a jug or a bouquet of flowers, she is considered a most unlucky person, and is supposed to carry ill luck wherever she goes and in therefore not a welcome visitor anywhere and is treated by her family and friends as an outcast. If her shadow even so much as falls upon food or drink is is immediately thrown away for dire misfortune will surely overtake anyone who afterward partakes of it.

Before the English took possession of India it was customary for a widow to jump on the funeral pyre of her husband and be burned with his body; now, although such sacrifices are not allowed by the government, the life of the Hindu widow is made as hard as possible within the law, and sometimes so unhappy and miserable is she that even death on her husband's funeral pyre would have been almost preferable to life.—Chicago News.

Wines of The Ancient Romans

It is said that at least fifty kinds of wine were known to the ancient Romans, including several varieties used for medicinal purposes. Falernian was a home wine which was not considered to be in condition for drinking until it was ten years old. After it was twenty years old it is said to have affected the drinker unfavorably, causing headache.

Other wines were foreign. Chian, also called Arinsian, of which there were three varieties—austere, sweet and intermediate—and the Lesbian, considered to be a diuretic, were of this kind. Some wines were named after their color, as white, dark and red. The white wines were thought to be the thinnest and least heating, the dark-colored and sweet the most nourishing, the red the most heating.

Certain wines named Myndian, Halicarnassian, Rhodian and Coan, were made with salt water. They were considered not to be intoxicating, but to produce digestion. Two wines Cnidian and Adrian, were also medicinal. Mustum was a term applied to wine newly made of the fresh juice of the grape. Protropum was the juice which runs from the grapes without pressing. Mulsum was a mixture of wine and honey. Sapa was mustum boiled down to a third. Defrutum was mustum reduced to half, and Carenum was the same reduced to a third. Passum was a sweet wine prepared from grapes that had been dried in the sun.

A wine called Murrhina has a curious history. The Greeks had a wine of this kind which consisted of pure wine perfumed with odorous substances. The Romans had a wine similarly named which is supposed to have been wine mingled with myrrh. It was administered to those who were about to suffer torture in order to inebriate them and to remove the sense of suffering.

A Woman as Sultan

The Begam of Bhopal, the veiled Indian ruler who visited England for the coronation of King George and Queen Mary, has written an account of her life, first as heir apparent to the throne occupied by her grandmother, and afterwards as ruler.

The small state of Bhopal situated in Central India, has for the last three generations been governed by women rulers. The present ruler, Nawab Sultan Jahan Begam, who came to the throne in the same year as King Edward, was born in 1858. The birth of a female heir to the throne did not cause the disappointment usually common in Musselman families. The author, writing of her grandmother, the ruler at the time of her birth, says:

"The Begam showed none of the regret which the birth of a girl might naturally have been expected to cause; and as soon as she saw me . . . clasped me in her arms and said, 'Thank God, I am not one of those about whom it is written, 'and when one of them is told of the birth of a female his face becometh black and he is deeply afflicted' (Koran). The child is dearer to me than seven sons.'"

From her earliest years the present Begam was educated under the care of her grandmother with a view to fitting her well for the exalted position she was one day to occupy. In her seventh year negotiations were set on foot for her marriage, and a boy a few years her senior was brought to the Court of Bhopal and shared in the whole life and studies of his future wife. The marriage took place when Sultan Jahan Begam was fifteen.

In 1901 the princess became ruler owing to the death of her mother, and she at once set about improvements and reforms in all the various state departments. One of the Begam's chief interests was education, particularly the education of girls. She decided, therefore, to open and patronize personally a girls' school. The education of the girls of Bophal had been chiefly limited to a study of the Koran and the rudiments of the Urdu language, with here and there some slight knowledge of writing learnt from fathers and brothers. But their attendance at schools and their advancement in general knowledge was looked upon as a dangerous innovation, and it required vigorous attention on the part of the Begam, combined with the influence of Her Highness, to bring about an advance.

In the year 1888 the Begam lost her elder daughter, who, had she lived, would have one day become the ruler. It is noteworthy and curious that in this Mohammedan state the first-born, irrespective of sex, (for the little girl had two younger brothers), should be the heir apparent. The Begam writes:

"The Sahibizadi's death caused widespread grief. To the people of Bhopal she had been dear, not only on account of her loving disposition, but because they had looked upon her as the future ruler of the State, and one who would secure for them a continuance of these special blessings they had so long enjoyed under a woman's rule."

HOCKEY

Stratford, Oct 31.—The Stratford senior O.H.A. team will this year be minus two of their best players viz., "Punch" Varner and Harold Monteith, the former having moved to Cleveland and the latter to Hamilton. Several other promising players will turn out, together with Kenneth Crane, last year with the T.A. A.C. seniors ,and Jimmy Preston of Eaton fame.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—Billy Nicholson, the old Montreal Wanderer, and Haileybury goaltender, and now manager of the Tecumseh hockey team of Toronto, was in town last night on the look-out for players. He wants Angus Duford, whom both George Kennedy of the Canadiens and Bruce Ridpath of the Torontos are after, and also Punch Broadbent, Billy Smith, a brother of Alf. and Harry Smith; Horace Gaul and Joe Dennison. Joe Dennison has been tendered a contract by the Ottawas, but might be allowed to go to the Tecumsehs should Nicholson make a dicker with the Ottawas. Both Ridpath and Nicholson are after local men, and expect to round out a good team, although they will have mostly new men to fill up with. Nicholson claims to have practically secured Bellamy of the Winnipeg Monarchs and a couple of amateurs less known to the hockey fans of the country. He claims to have twenty players under contract.

The Toronto Club's manager is strongly opposed to six-man hockey, claiming that it only makes the game faster in fits and starts, and that with six-man hockey the Toronto clubs might fail to please the Toronto public, who have always been used to the seven-man game. He will support the Ottawas stronger in their stand for the seven-man game. As a player known to fame wherever the game is played, his opinion is worth something, and Nicholson says that six-man hockey failed to make the game any faster than before.

"It breaks up combination and makes it purely an individual game," he declared. "In the old days the teams used to play the individual style of hockey. Then combination came along ,and the teams with combination could beat a team of all-stars. Now this six-man hockey throws the game back to the days before they developed any combination."

He would not express any opinion on the proposed hockey combination.

The Tecumseh manager is enthusiastic over the outlook for Toronto, declaring that he will have a good team ,and predicting that Toronto will support hockey twice as well as any other city in Canada. He will be back in Ottawa within ten days to hunt up some of the players for whom he is angling.

RUGBY

Hamilton, Oct. 31.—The Alerts and McGill College teams may meet in an exhibition game here on Saturday, Nov. 9th, which day is an open one for each team. Such a game would be a good one and the fans are waiting for a definite word whether the game will be played or not.

Kingston, Oct. 31.—Hugh Gall of the Parkdale Rugby team, has been agreed upon by McGill and Queen's as referee for their game on Saturday. Gall was to have brought H. C. Griffith down as umpire, but McGill objected. Queen's thought Griffith should be satisfactory.

Kingston, Oct. 31.—In the junior intercollegiate Rugby series for this district, Kingston Collegiate won from R.M.C. II. by 17 to 11. The game was uncertain until the last five minutes' play, when K.C.I. made a touch. Cadets were much heavier, but K.C.I. had more snap and kicked better.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—Eddie Gerard, the Ottawa captain and centre half, has come into his own this season. In 1909 Gerard was the finest running half in the Interprovincial, but in 1910 and 1911 he was greatly handicapped through an injury to his right knee. This fall he has been very fortunate as regards accidents, and is now recognized as the best centre half in the Interprovincial Union. Gerard has handled the Ottawa team like a veteran, and his mistakes have been remarkably few, notwithstanding that he is one of the youngest players in the game. His work in the recent matches against Montreal showed Gerard at his best. In Montreal, in fact, he brought cheers from every part of the grand stand by his beautiful punting and kicking. Heres' what two of the leading Canadian coaches say about Gerard's work:

Frank Shaughnessy—"Wouldn't I like to have him for our McGill team. Next to Billington, he is the best in Canada."

Art Ross: "Gerard is a whole team in himself. He uses his head and gains a wonderful lot of ground. None of the other interprovincial backs are in it with him, except Binkley, and I fancy Gerard first."

This is likely to be Garard's last season in football ,and if he turns professional for hockey purposes, the game will lose one of its brightest stars.

THE TURF.

London, Oct. 31.—At the Newmarket Houghton meeting to-day Mr. W. Raphael's Louvois, by Isinglass—St. Louvaine, won the Dewhurst Plate for two year olds, a seven furlongs race, which usually attracts a field of high class two year olds. Lord Rosebery's Sanquhar, by Santry—Valve, was second, and Mr. H. E. Reddington's Rock Flint, by Rock Sand—Trigger, was third. The betting was 7 to 1 against Louvois, 3 to 1 Sanquhar, and 9 to 2 Rock Flint. The winner was third in the Middle Park Plate two weeks ago behind Cragganour and Shogun, while Rock Flint was last on that occasion.

London Tatler: Lord Marcus Beresford has the honor of managing the breeding stud at Sandringham and the race horses of Egerton House, Newmarket, belonging to His Majesty the King. He held the same distinguished position under the late King Edward, and no greater compliment can be paid to him than to say that the two Kings have always entertained a warm personal regard for him. They were great days when Persimmon and the Diamond Jubilee were making history, and the position of manager must be immensely gratifying in such circumstances. The manager, as well as owner and trainer, takes a share in the glory.

Heresy and Amberite are this season's instances of the possibilities for a good Canadian-bred. Neither of these can by any stretch of language be called a great horse, but Heresy earned this year $7,375, though he started but seven times, and was first home only in three of those. Amberito had a more active campaign, but by no means a hard one, since she ran only fourteen races, of which she won four, her earnings amounting to $0,400. Every year the opportunities for home breds will be multiplied, and the amounts distributed in races confined to horses foaled in Canada will be increased, so that the value of Canadian thoroughbreds is bound to mount up steadily, and a farmer could make no better investment than the maintenance of a good brood mare or two. Their progeny, from a sire of any reputation, would return the cost of the mares in a couple of seasons.

W. J. Fleming of Portage la Prairie, Man., who drove the mighty Joe Patchen II. in all his races this year was in Toronto yesterday after a visit to his daughter at school in Peterborough. He left last night for his home, and after Christmas will rejoin the McKenzie horses at Pleasanton, Cal., as second trainer with Havis James. Mr. Flemings says that when Joe was shipped from Lexington last Monday for Phoenix, Ariz., the horse looked better than when he began the season in July at Lansing, Mich. Not once during the season did Joe take a lame step, a great tribute to Trainer James' ability. Up to the close of the Lexington meeting he had earned $26,550, winning fourteen races in fifteen starts, every one of them in straight heats. His winnings constitute a record for a pacing horse for a season.

FOOTBALL

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 31.—The death from pneumonia last night of Theodore W. York of the Yale football team, following his injury in the Yale-West Point game, is likely to bring up prominently again in many American colleges the question of abolishing football as a college sport. The Yale coaches have suspended practice until after York's funeral, and the scheduled game with Colgate next Saturday has been cancelled.

York played a smashing game against West Point, and was picked by the Yale coaches at the time as a likely all-American selection.

Upon his return to New Haven he was sent to the infirmary because of injuries believed at the time to be slight. It was announced that he was suffering from torn ligaments at the end of his collar bone and a bad abscess of the arm. He had not been in the infirmary long when pneumonia developed. York was twenty years old and came from Philadelphia.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Criticism of student betting on athletic games was made by Dean Thomas F. Holgate of the College of Liberal Arts of the Northwestern University. "These men go out on our teams and strive for the glory of their college and some students are so small in spirit and so influenced by the traditions of their school that they try to make money out of the work of these men. It is not right to commercialize athletics.

LARGEST CLOCK IN THE DOMINION

Huge Time-Piece in Vancouver Guaranteed to be Accurate—Twenty-two Foot Faces

The clock that claims the title of the "largest in Canada was installed in the tower of the Vancouver Block on Granville Street, Vancouver, B.C. The four faces of this clock are each twenty-two feet in diameter. The glass contained in the dial weighs four ons, and is seven-eighths of an inch in thickness. The minute hands are eleven feet long and the hour hands about eight feet.

The clock is controlled by a master clock, which is situated on the ninth story of the building. This master clock transmits its time to the large clock in the tower. It is fitted with a pilot dial, which shows at all times the exact position of the hands in the tower piece. The master clock in turn receives its time through a synchronizing attachment, which delivers McGill observatory time once every minute, therby assuring accuracy.

Machinery for operating this huge timepiece is all set in the clock tower. It consists in the main of a motor, which propels the hands. This motor is controlled by a magnet attachment, which only permits it to run for a period of fifteen seconds, this being the time required for the large hand to travel one-sixtieth part of the circumference of the dial. Thus the hands are still for forty-five out of every sixty seconds.

The current for running the clock is generated by a small dynamo, which is driven from the electric light mains.

Every point of friction in the clock —from the motor to the crown gear and hands—is fitted with ball bearings. The clock can be set either from the office of the superintendent or in the tower.

The hour marks are a single bar ten inches wide and about four feet long. They are left blank, no numerals being painted on them. The dial is constructed of strucural steel, and not, as in most of the older clocks of the country, of cast-iron. The minute divisions of the clock are five and one-half inches wide and about one foot long. The hands are made of aluminum.

The clock was erected at a cost of more than $10,000.

TRAMPING AROUND WORLD

"Flying Dutchman" Had Adventures in Many Lands

Arrested as a spy in two lands, attacked by brigands in another, thrown into icy northern waters from a canoe —these are a few of the adventures of Lieut. Nordwall, the "Flying Dutchman," who spent a few days resting in Montreal preparatory to the next lap of his walk around the world.

He walked forty thousand miles through all the countries of Europe, through the western United States, through Alaska, and across the continent to Montreal. Thence his route lay to Boston and across the Atlantic to his home in Holland.

The big Dutchman's experiences would fill a book. He was set upon by bandits in Spain, and beaten nearly to death, and all his clothing taken from him. He was upset from a canoe in the Yukon river and had to swim to shore for his life, through swift rapids. Then his guide left him, and, not knowing the dangers of the river, he ran all the rapids, including the Five Fingers, one of the worst on the Yukon. He was told it was a miracle he got through it.

He was arrested on all sorts of charges from blocking the streets (because of the crowds who followed him) to assaulting street car conductors.

He was arrested in Smyrna, suspected with being a spy. He had been travelling in Dutch costume, wooden shoes, etc., through Europe.

"In England and France," he said, "they had me arrested for obstructing the sidewalk. In Turkey, however, they thought it was a disguise, and arrested me for a spy.

Lieut. Nordwall is about five feet nine inches in height, tanned a rich brown by his five years of life in the open air. He tramped not to win a wager, not to break records, but merely for the education of "walking around the world." He gave lectures to pay his expenses.

ADDING TO EXHIBIT

Interesting Additions to Specimens at Victoria Museum

Human bones shaped into instruments used by the Indians, most probably before the advent of the white man into North America, is the latest interesting and educating exhibit at the Victoria Museum, Ottawa. Arm bones have been whittled at the wrist end to a point, resembling a large spike nail. What these were made and used for is not known.

Another addition is the erection in a glass case of a pair of fine specimens of Arctic musk oxen, in the lobby. Twenty-five cases of archæological specimens arrived recently from an old Indian village near Prescott.

Mr. Harlan I. Smith, who has charge of the antiquities department of the museum, states that Canada is rich in these classes of specimens. For instance, he said, from the township of Blandford, near Toronto, in a very short time 26 archæological sites and five Indian burial places were found.

FLOATING BOTTLE TEST

Pacific Current Direct From Japan to British Columbia Coast

A bottle containing a message, thrown overboard from a Japanese vessel in mid-Pacific, exactly where the steamship lane from Victoria to Tokio crosses the 180th meridian was picked up at Prince Rupert recently. The sender was the Captain of the ship whose object was to discover the direction of the tidal current at the point referred to. The importance of the discovery rests in the fact that it proves the tend of tide from the steamship lane in mid-Pacific is practically straight for Prince Rupert.

More Dead Than Living

In Ingersoll, Ontario, the Home of the Dead is larger than the City of the Living. Of course, that statement is made with a reservation. Many of those who have been buried in the cemeteries of Ingersoll lived in the surrounding country and not a few came from a distance, although they were former residents of the town. But the fact remains that there are more people in the cemeteries of Ingersoll than are at present living within the corporation. Ingersoll's Home of the Dead is inhabited by about 5,200 people. The latest Dominion Census returns show that the population of the town is 4,763. This leaves a margin of about 500.

Shock Was Fatal

Mrs. Edward Martin of Verdun, Que., died from shock, caused by the death of her seven-year-old daughter. The child was burned to death by a boy throwing a lighted match on her dress. She ran screaming to her mother, who collapsed from shock and died the next day.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

TROOPS ARE WORN OUT

Combatants in Great Battle Stop From Sheer Fatigue.

Titanic Struggle Which Has Continued For Four Days and Three Nights In Thrace Is Suspended—Official Reports From Constantinople Declare That Rumors of Defeat Are Unfounded.

Constantinople, Nov. 2.—Whatever the issue of the terrible battle now raging on the western slopes of the Istrandia Mountains in Thrace, it undoubtedly will be reckoned among the world's great struggles. Almost uninterruptedly for four days and three nights the battle has proceeded, the waning moon having afforded sufficient light at night for the armies to continue their murderous onslaught against each other. The Turk and the Bulgar are locked in a grapple which will be broken only by the decisive defeat of one or the other.

Early this morning it was reported that fighting had been suspended by the Turkish and Bulgarian armies, the men of both of which were suffering from fatigue from the battle that had been in progress continuously for four days.

Seven thousand more wounded men are expected to arrive here from the front to-day.

The complete dearth of news from the front Wednesday and Thursday had given rise to a feeling of despondency and sensational rumors of Turkish reverses gained currency. Yesterday official reports proved these rumors to be unfounded. Telegrams from various sources gave favorable accounts of the military situation and the troops commanded by Mahmoud Mukhtar in the vicinity of Visa were especially commended.

The Turkish forces were reported not merely to have been holding their own, but to have effected an important advance which was threatening the Bulgarian rear. If the Turkish column joins hands with the garrison at Adrianople the Bulgarian army will be practically surrounded and its position very desperate.

It is alleged that, realizing the gravity of the situation, the Bulgarian commanders have withdrawn the army at Kustenje and their force before Adrianople and that these troops are being hurried to support the main Bulgarian army's centre.

Some idea of the desperate nature of the fighting is gathered from the fact that over 5,000 wounded soldiers arrived here last night from the front. Fortunately a majority of the bullets drilled clean holes in their victims and these will heal rapidly. A batch of deserters arrived with the wounded.

Much indignation and surprise was expressed here over the fact that a Greek torpedo boat had succeeded in entering the Gulf of Soloniki Thursdya night despite the mines and heavily-armed forts, and blown up the Turkish battleship Feth-I-Bulend. The commandant of the forts will be called to account for permitting this Greek incursion.

The movement of troops to the front continues. A battalion of Kurdish and Albanian volunteers marched through the streets of Pera last evening on the way to the railway station. They were frequently cheered and appeared to be in the best of spirits.

As a result of a meeting Thursday of the heads of the diplomatic missions to consider the situation in Constantinople the Marquis de Ballovicini, the Austrian-Hungarian ambassador and dean of the diplomatic corps, yesterday visited Noradunghian Effendi, the Foreign Ministers, and called his attention to the necessity that adequate measures be taken to maintain order in the capital in the event of further Turkish reverses in the despatch of an army division to stay all fugitive soldiers between Tchatalja and Constantinople. The city, however, at present is quite tranquil and orderly. Business is proceeding as usual, although the keenest interest is being taken in the military drama in Thracian Hills, in striking contrast to the feeling of indifference evinced in Turkey's war with Italy

DIED OF POISONING.

But Woodstock Jury Cannot Decide on Suicide Verdict.

Woodstock, Nov. 2.—"We, the jury find that, in our opinion, Agnes McKissock came to her death by poison taken by herself, but that the evidence is not sufficient for us to say what kind of poison or whether taken with suicidal intent."

This was the verdict reached after two hours' deliberation yesterday afternoon by the jury empanelled to enquire into the death of the young Scotch girl who died at Lakeside last week. There were no new developments when the inquest was resumed yesterday, but a letter was read from W. E. Ireland, Toronto, stating that the girl worked for him two days and left one morning at 6 o'clock. As the girl was only absent from Lakeside two days, this appears to contradict the girl's story that she was in Hamilton to see her cousin, and while in Toronto she was enticed by a strange lady to a strange house, where an attempt was made to keep her a prisoner.

Coroner McLay reported that he had written on Wednesday to Chief Grasett, Toronto, to have the girl's trunk sent to Lakeside so that it might be examined, but this had not been done. He also announced that the fur stole supposed to have been stolen from Mr. Ireland's place, would be held by the crown at Woodstock until the supposed owner came and proved his right to the property.

A number of the jurymen thought it a serious mistake that the contents of the stomach of the girl had not been analyzed, and after two hours of wrangling, five refused to sign the verdict.

ROOSEVELT CHEERED.

Progressive Leader Gets Another Ovation In New York.

New York, Nov. 2.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, for the second time in three days, last night addressed an audience of thousands in Madison Square Gardens, through the medium of Comptroller W. A. Prendergast, chairman of the meeting, a request that no effort be made by the crowd to cheer him beyond the limit of time accorded the night before in the same hall to Governor Wilson.

"When Col. Roosevelt raises his left hand," said Mr. Prendergast, "he asks you to let him proceed with his speech, because he desires a record next Tuesday in the voting, rather than a record to-night in the duration of the cheers."

Oscar S. Straus, candidate for governor, and other state speakers had held the stage until 9.40 before cheers from outside signalled the approach of the Presidential candidate. The applause from within swelled to a roar as Col. Roosevelt forced his way to the front of the platform a minute later. He was smiling broadly, and he waved a welcome to all parts of the hall.

It was 25 minutes before his uplifted hand brought the cheering to an end.

"Watch that you vote the way you shout," retorted Col. Roosevelt.

The Presidential candidate, declaring that he spoke in behalf of the progressive state and local tickets of New York, talked for over an hour, his voice strong and his strength apparently unimpaired by the effort. Success in the state, he declared, was essential to Progressive success throughout the nation.

INQUIRY HALTED.

Investigation Into Guelph Murder Needs More Details.

Guelph, Nov. 2.—That the police have a case full of complications to deal with in solving the mystery surrounding the death of Michael Fazzara is evidenced by the fact that they have several points which they must clear up before they can continue the probe through the police court. That Fazzara, the murdered man, was not picked up on Alice street, as asserted by a number of Italians, is known to the police. That he, after being fatally shot, wandered around the streets for some time is a fact that was discovered yesterday through the testimony of Matthew Adam, 91 Morris street.

The police are also after an Italian who left the city hurriedly on the day following the tragedy and who is at present supposed to be working in a pipe mill at Welland. It is asserted that he knows all about the affair and that if the police can secure his evidence it will be of great value to the crown.

It is also rumored that the crown is in possession of evidence which would provide a motive for the deed. Officials are beginning to think it was a case of jealousy and that there is a woman in the case.

Fazzara, the murdered man, was a general favorite with the ladies of his nationality, and it is said he was a frequent visitor at the home of Joe Veroni.

Demands P.M.G.'s Resignation.

Quebec, Nov. 2.—Armand Lavergne appeared at Indian Lorette yesterday and announced he had received a letter from the Postmaster-General declining to meet him in debate.

Lavergne claimed he had Mr. Pelletier appointed a Minister after he declined a portfolio himself; the Postmaster-General had backed up on the naval and the school questions, and Mr. Lavergne demanded his resignation. The gathering, which numbered fifteen hundred, passed a resolution to this effect.

Heavy Gales on Lake.

Kingston, Nov. 2.—The worst gale of the year has been raging on the lakes since 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and only the larger vessels have been able to put out. The vessels had ample warning, and so were able to get into shelter. Boats lying in port are receiving a great shaking up, causing wharf men all kinds of trouble.

Duke Approves Award.

Ottawa, Nov. 2.—The Duke of Connaught has been pleased to approve in his capacity of chief scout of the Canadian Boy Scouts, of the award of silver cross medals for life-saving to Assistant Troop Leader Peter Fobert of Toronto, and Scout Bruce Ross of Grimsby, Ont. The medals have been sent to the provincial headquarters at Toronto for presentation.

Fobert rescued Wilfred Culham, aged 11, from drowning at the foot of Beech avenue, Toronto, last August.

Ross saved the life of a companion scout, named Wm. Flannery at Grimsby last summer. Flannery had tried to jump into a boat from a pier, but missed the mark and fell into the water. He could not swim.

Mabel Barrison Dead.

Toronto, Nov. 2.—Miss Mabel Barrison, the Toronto actress, who was a great favorite in all parts of the continent, died at the home of her uncle, R. A. Girvan, 61 Boustead avenue, at 7.40 last night. Death occurred after an illness extending over a year. She was 33 years old and the wife of Joseph Howard, actor and playwright, both of whom had appeared as co-stars in Toronto on several occasions. Miss Barrison's greatest success was in "The Blue Moose," the clever and much-talked-of play by the late Clyde Fitch, in which she took the leading role in the original company, which appeared at the Royal Alexandra here about three years ago.

Dixon Townley's Death.

Kingston, Nov. 2.—The death has occurred of Dixon M. Townley, Toronto, former manager of the Kingston Box Factory. Of late he had been in partnership with H. Horn in the Box Manufacturing Co.

WILL PURIFY TORONTO

Prominent Citizens Want Reform of Police System.

A Mass Meeting Is Held to Deal With the Recent Prosecution of Rev. A. B. St. Clair, Who Was Arrested For Publishing the Details of a Burlesque Show — "What Interest Have Police In Vice?" They Ask.

Toronto, Nov. 2.—Three thousand five hundred people gathered in Massey Hall last night in order to hear views of the city's police conditions as laid out by the movers of resolutions of a citizens' committee, and by their well-nigh unanimous endorsation of each resolution in turn showed beyond question that they heartily and vigorously agreed with each and all of the findings of this committee as set out in those resolutions. There were upon the platform from every walk of business and social life, and the addresses made presented the problem of social vice, together with its relation to police administration, from the angle of many and varied professions and callings.

The remedial suggestions as set out in the six resolutions passed embraced many views of the problem. In all appeared the word of censor for present police administration. The first resolution was purely condemnatory, referring specifically to the matter of theatrical censorship of burlesque houses. In the second, the laxity of law enforcement toward social evil was condemned and the police commissioners to see that the law in this regard be strictly enforced. The next called for an investigation of the administration of the police department and a reorganization of it to bring it into harmony with the best public sentiment, from which, the preamble rehearsed, it has at present wandered far. The next declared that all laws regarding morality must be administered without fear, favor, or affection and irrespective of all private or local interests or prejudices. The fifth resolution, which many of the speakers referred to as the key to the whole problem, called for a reconstruction of the police governing body, the board of commissioners, demanding that it be made more representative of and responsible to the citizens. By the sixth and last resolution, a committee of forty representative citizens was named and appointed whose duty it shall be to keep themselves informed of the city's social condition, the administration of the authorities, and by public meetings or otherwise as they may deem expedient, to keep the public fully apprised of such conditions and need of action where any may arise.

Balloon Still Missing.

Bremen, Nov. 2.—The missing balloon Duesseldorf II. with the two American aeronauts, John Watts and Arthur T. Atherholt on board, was probably the balloon seen sailing to the north on Monday by John Berry and A. Von Hoffman, when they landed in the Million Population near Danzig. In the course of an interview here yesterday the two aeronauts said:

"After we had landed near Ueckermuende at noon on Monday, we saw about an hour later a balloon sailing at the height of from 9,000 to 11,000 feet towards the northeast. It soon disappeared in the clouds.

"We believe it was the Duesseldorf II. and that the pilot had aimed to reach Norway. Since the balloon was so high in the air and was traveling at least forty miles an hour, the pilot could not have descended before dark, and we are of the opinion that he would not be able to tell where he was before next morning. By that time he must have sailed 600 miles, and if the balloon kept in the direction it was taking when we observed it, it must have been carried far into Norway or Lapland, or even beyond into the Arctic Ocean."

The Duesseldorf II. has not reported for five full days since she started in the race for the Gordon Bennett cup from Stuttgart on Sunday evening.

London Wants Civic Square.

London, Ont., Nov. 2.—Ald. Coles, representing the city, leaves for Ottawa to-day, where he will consult with Hon. Robert Rogers and Col. Sam Hughes on the project of a civic square, bounded by Waterloo, Dundas, Wellington and King street. The Government is willing to give $150,000 if a block for a new postoffice site is donated by the city. The city, however, thinks the grant should be increased.

Oppose Cartage Increases.

Kingston, Nov. 2.—The Board of Trade passed a resolution protesting against the proposed increase in rates by railway cartage companies on Nov. 15. The rate is to be increased one-half cent per hundred pounds, and as the area in Kingston is small, the board will protest to the Railway Commissioners. The new rate is two cents per hundred pounds.

Smashed Lock Gates.

St. Catharines, Nov. 2.—The small steamer Samuel Marshall, owned by the Central Canada Coal Co., Brockville, carried away four gates at lock 13 yesterday afternoon, and also crashed into a swing bridge just below, unshipping the turning gear, putting the bridge out of commission, shutting off travel on the St. David's Road, and blocking navigation.

A high wind prevailed when the steamer was endeavoring to enter the lock, which was largely responsible for the wreck. It is expected that the channel will be open for navigation again to-day.

The steamer was light, bound for a cargo of coal.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Wheat today sagged to nearly the lowest point this season. Prospects of a speedy end to the Turkish war had a good deal to do with taking the snap out of the market. Closing prices were weak, 1 1-8c to 1 3-8c under last night. Corn finished 7-8c to 1 7-8c down, oats at decline of 1-2c to 5-8c and provisions less expensive by 5c to 22 1-2c.

The Liverpool grain exchange closed ⅛d to ¼d lower on wheat, and ⅛d lower on corn. Holiday in Budapest, Berlin and Antwerp.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—The foreign demand for wheat was poor and what few firm bids did come in were 1½d lower, and fully 9d to 1s out of line with asking prices. Business in coarse grains in spot was quiet, and the only change was a decline of 1c in corn. The local trade in flour was fairly active, but the foreign demand was slow. Demand for millfeed continues good, and a fair trade is doing in rolled oats. This being practically a holiday the butter market was quiet, but the feeling is firm. There was a firmer feeling in the market for colored cheese owing to the improved demand from over the cable. Eggs quiet.

A Change.

Of the twenty-six barons who signed the Magna Charta, says an English journal, three wrote their names and twenty-three made their mark. This is all changed now. Every baron can write, but only a few succeed in making their mark.

Graphite.

Graphite is of two general classes, natural and artificial, and natural may again be divided into two classes, crystalline and amorphous.

Hammers.

Hammers are represented on the monuments of Egypt twenty centuries before our era. They greatly resembled hammers now in use, save that there were no claws on the back for the extraction of nails. The first hammer was undoubtedly a stone held in the hand. Clawhammers were invented some time during the middle ages. Illuminated manuscripts of the eleventh century represent carpenters with clawhammers.

The oldest museum in the world is at Nara, once the capital of Japan. It was established in the year 756 and has remained practically unchanged for eleven centuries.

Melbourne Customs.

In Melbourne no Sunday papers are permitted, no hotels are allowed to open their bars from midnight on Saturday until Monday morning, and any one driving past a place of worship at a faster pace than a walk while service is in progress is liable to be arrested.

Ancient Chinese Writing.

The British museum contains the oldest known examples of Chinese writing in the form of animals' bones inscribed with characters.

Britain's Oldest Office.

The oldest office under the crown is that of lord high steward, which was in existence before the time of Edward the Confessor—indeed, some authorities say that it was instituted by Offa in 757. For a long period this official was second only to the king, and the office was for some time hereditary in certain noble families.

The Nightshade.

The deadly nightshade in Italy and Spain is the emblem of falsehood. It is probable that the poisonous character of the plant had something to do with the symbolism.

Perfume of Flowers.

It is claimed that the perfume of flowers disappears as soon as the starch in the petals is exhausted, and it may, it is said, be restored by placing the flowers in a solution of sugar, when the formation of starch and the emission of fragrance will be at once resumed.

Arctic Snow.

Arctic travelers have noted the curious action of snow at low temperature. It dries garments and absorbs moisture.

Edible Seaweed.

Within recent years seaweeds have been introduced into the English kitchen. The edible species, served with roast meats, have been found to be very palatable. Devonshire and Japanese seaweeds are employed largely in the London industry

WOULD CONTROL STREETS.

Delegates From Municipal Union Appeal to Government.

Ottawa, Nov. 2—Asking for general legislation which will guarantee to municipalities absolute control of their streets, a large delegation from the Union of Canada Municipalities waited upon the Prime Minister and the Hon. Messrs. Doherty and White at noon yesterday.

A number of cases, particularly that of the Toronto & Niagara Power Co., were cited, in which it was claimed municipal rights had been invaded by corporations tearing up streets or erecting works without the consent of the civic authorities, and legislative enactments to render this impossible in the future were strongly urged.

The delegation included Mayor Lavallee, Aldermen Boyd, Lapointe, Emard, O'Connell and Poissant, A. W. Atwater, K.C., and Judge Laurendeau of Montreal; Controller Church, Corporation Counsel Geary and Commissioner Harris of Toronto, and Mayor Hopewell, Ottawa; Mayor Graham, London; Mayor Lees and S. Barker, M.P., Hamilton.

Mayor Hopewell of Ottawa presented the following resolution, adopted at a meeting earlier in the day on the motion of Controller Church, Toronto, and Mayor Bradburn:

"That this delegation request that the Government introduce such legislation as may be necessary to prevent any corporation incorporated under any act of Parliament of Canada from exercising any rights upon the highways, squares or other public places of any municipality without the consent of the municipal council, and that such legislation be made to cover any and every company, including those already incorporated."

Too Much For the Pole.

Toronto, Nov. 2.—John Henrickson, a Pole, spent a week in the Toronto jail at the direction of Magistrate Denison because he did not understand what that legal question meant, "Will you be tried summarily or by the next court of competent jurisdiction?" While the Pole was digesting it the magistrate put a coating on by ordering him to jail for one week to "think it over." This happened last Saturday.

Yesterday it was discovered, when the Pole explained, that he was not guilty of the charge of false pretences preferred against him by B. Axler. The magistrate dismissed the prisoner with the advice that the plaintiff would have to sue to recover his money, as it was only an overdue debt.

Prize Essays From the Public School Pupils

Owing to the fact that the new schools were not ready in September to hold the children's annual Flower Show, the Directors of the Horticultural Society decided to grant the prizes this year on an entirely new basis—that of an essay on "Asters, and How I Grow Them." The essays had to be the work of the pupils, but they were allowed to get their information from any source available, and were written in the class room in the presence of the teacher. The result was a pleasant surprise. Over two hundred compositions were handed in, which were carefully read, and the best three in each division were awarded prizes. The compositions were certainly a very creditable showing in neatness, language, sequence of ideas and freedom from grammatical errors. The success of the experiment will no doubt induce the Directors to adopt something similar on next year's programme. At the meeting of the society on Monday it was unanimously requested that the three best essays be published, and they are as follows:—

HOW I GROW MY ASTERS.

By Vera I. Morton, aged 13.

"Why, it is the easiest thing in the world to grow asters," said my friend. "You won't find it hard at all." I looked doubtfully at the small package of seeds in my hand for I had never grown asters before, and it seemed hard to believe that a radiant blooming flower could spring from such a tiny source. "But how did you plant yours?" I asked after a moment's pause. "Why—a, I don't know," she answered slowly. "You see I—I—well, I just planted them." They grew as well as could be expected for school flowers.

I asked her various other questions but could glean no other information so I decided to take my troubles to more experienced persons. After two days' more trials, equally as unsuccessful as the first, I found the right person. "Why, dearie," said Mrs. S——. "I will be pleased to help you." So, under her kind direction I made my first attempt at flower-growing.

Our first move was to make the hot-bed. We took an ordinary packing box, and in the bottom of it laid a substance guaranteed to enrich the soil and give heat to the plants. Over this we put a layer of earth about three or four inches thick. Then we scattered the seeds lightly over its surface and covered them with soil. The box was on the South side of the house so that its contents could receive the heat of the sun for the longest time possible. The plants thrived wonderfully. We placed an old glass window over them during the day, and at night covered them with a thick mat to keep out the frost.

In the second week of June, when the plants were about four inches high, we transplanted them in a well fertilized and cultivated plot of ground. We chose a damp rain day for the work as at other times the sun was too hot and would have destroyed them. They were placed eight inches apart, in rows every twelve inches apart, thus giving them plenty of room from which to draw their nourishment. Nothing now remained but to keep out the weeds, which persisted in growing up, and to keep the plants well watered every day after sunset.

In September they were in full bloom. Several people commented upon their size, beauty, and exquisite colorings. There were some white, some deep pink, others royal purple, others pale violet, while many of the deeper colors were blended with white. Little now remains to tell of their former loveliness. Only here and there a flower remains whose petals have been slightly tinged with brown by the frost which has destroyed its companions.

HOW TO GROW ASTERS.

By Helen Clarke, aged 12.

The Aster is one of our best garden flowers. The plants are easily grown, the bloom is plentiful, and their forms and colors are various and beautiful. It is almost free from disease and insect enemies. There is no flower that will yield so much bloom for its cost as the aster. It is worthy of a place in everybody's garden.

The plant is a native of China and was brought into Europe nearly two hundred years ago.

Asters will grow in any soil, but will do best in clay loam with thorough cultivation. An aster bed to be in best condition should be well fertilized the year previous. In the spring as soon as the ground is dry enough to cultivate, and long before the plants are ready to set out, the ground should be dug over again.

The seeds may be sown early in the Spring, but it is better to start them in a window-box or hot-bed. When they are about two inches high transplant them into the beds, placing them about twelve or fifteen inches apart. Cultivate often, and as soon as possible after a rain, to preserve the moisture and keep down the weeds.

The plants grow from one to two feet high according to variety and soil. The bloom comes in August and is continuous until the frost comes. The colors are white, pink, cerise, mauve and purple.

THE GROWING OF ASTERS.

By Tom Wills, aged 11.

It was about the middle of April that the aster seeds were given out at Q. V. S. I planted my asters the next day in a large shallow mustard box, full of earth. In about a week, tiny shoots appeared on the surface of the earth, in the box, which was cover, all but a little air hole, with glass. My asters grew on, and were transplanted in about six weeks.

In a large garden at the back of the house, I found a place for my little prospective flowers. Late in July they were about one foot high, and very strong and healthy looking asters. Early in August we went away for two weeks, leaving my asters to themselves. Having been carefully watered and weeded, they grew well when I was away.

On arriving home, I found my asters prospering. My best, though planted far away from each other, were one thick mass of green. About two weeks before the date of the aster show, my asters looked pretty green, but on going out to see them one morning I found several buds. A little later I found the most beautiful asters, which I was sure would take a prize. I gave a great many bunches away and still had lots left. I thought to myself that ill-luck always followed me, for I heard that there would be no aster show. I was up at the Canadian National Exhibition, and in all the Horticultural Building I did not see asters that would in any way come up to mine. I have grown asters for three years before this, and never had much success.

HERE! MAN OF MODERATE HAIR

Read This.

At Mrs. Blank's reception I met a gentleman who fulfilled my ideal of a man in all but one particular. He had a good head, fine physique, perfect manners, was a most interesting personality, and bore himself with the distinguished air of a gentleman. His linen was immaculate and his clothes faultless as to cut and material. But all the pleasant first impression was ruined when I discovered the collar and shoulders of his dresscoat covered with loose hair and flakes of dandruff.

To me this was an indication of personal carelessness, not to say uncleanliness. I wanted to tell him to get a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide. This remarkable remedy would, in a short time, rumove every trace of dandruff from his head, stop his hair from falling and prevent him from becoming bald. I don't like bald-headed men; they look old whether they are or not.

Dandruff is caused by a germ and Newbro's Herpicide kills that germ. The itching, which is so frightful with dandruff, stops almost instantly.

Herpicide is the Original Remedy that destroys dandruff. There is nothing in the world just like it, nothing that is "just as good."

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c. and $1.00 sizes, is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Applications at the best barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

Send 10c in postage or silver to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., for a nice sample of Herpicide and a booklet telling about the hair.

Might Be Well To Adopt Plan

The following received by Col. Ponton of this city, is worthy of consideration:

Berlin, Oct. 30, 1912.

Secretary Board of Trade, Belleville.

Dear Sir,—Presuming that you and the other officers will welcome any opportunity to widen the influence and increase the usefulness of your Board, I beg to suggest that you secure Mr. C. A. Howe of the Holophane Co., Limited, Toronto, to deliver his lecture on "A Higher Standard of Illumination." His services in this connection can be secured gratis and I'm sure that your members and others of your citizens, after hearing him, will offer your congratulations and thanks for the instructive entertainment afforded.

The talk delivered to our people last Tuesday evening, the 22nd inst., by Mr. Howe proved not only most entertaining but also immensely instructive, particularly since he laid special emphasis on commercial and industrial illumination. The explanations are rendered clear and the arguments convincing by the use of various shades and other appliances to illustrate same. Some of the results obtained were startling, Mr. Howe clearly demonstrating that effective illumination almost invariably costs less money than that of the inadequate and unattractive variety.

Finally, let me assure you that Mr. Howe will not compromise you by directly attempting to advertise his company of the wares that his company manufactures.

The speaker takes the view that his firm will receive its fair share of the business that is promoted by these educative talks, and hence in this indirect way considers that he will be amply repaid for his expense and trouble.

Again assuring you that, if you secure Mr. Howe for this lecture, you will never have occasion to regret it, I remain,

Yours very truly,
WILLIAM LOCKHEAD,
Secretary.

Annual Meeting of Horticultural Society

The annual meeting of the Belleville Horticultural Society was held last evening in Mr. W. J. Diamond's office and was fairly well attended.

In the absence of the President in the early part of the meeting, M. J. B. Harker, Vice President, occupied the chair and opened the proceedings by stating the object of the gathering.

The financial statement was presented and showed that after all expenditures for the year had been met, there was a balance on hand of $135. On motion the report was received and adopted.

The election of officers was then proceeded with, resulting as follows:

President.—J. B. Harker.
1st Vice President—F. D. Diamond.
2nd Vice President.—J. Harris.
Directors.—H. J. Clarke, Fred Harte, George Harris, E. T. Cherry, S. J. Wedden, P. Harrison, Wm. Rodbourne, S. A. Gardner and W. C. Reid.
Auditors.—Messrs. W. C. Reid and S. A. Gardner.

The new Board then met and reappointed Mr. W. J. Diamond as Seretary-Treasurer.

The meeting then adjourned to meet at call of the President.

A Turkish Joan of Arc

Mukhtar Pasha's victory of Aug. 25 1887, was decided by the capture of the fortified position of Kizil Tepe, in the conquest of which the chief part was played by a Turkish Joan of Arc who seems also to have been something of a Judith. Her name was Fatima and she was the hereditary chieftain of several Bedouin tribes which formed part of the Turkish cavalry. Fatima was aided in her assault upon a certain Kizil Tepe by a certain Moussa Pasha, formerly a general in the Russian army. The two led the Turkish cavalry to the attack. They soon fell in with a patrol of Cossacks who duly stopped them, asking for the password. Moussa Bey, who had received his military education with the Rusians, and was perfectly acquainted with their field service, not only explained himself fluently in their own language but gave the password, which had been evidently revealed by some Mahammedan deserter. The Cossacks, supposing the force before them to belong to their own irregulars, permitted it to advance. They were immediatoly surrounded and killed, and the way to the Russian position lay open to Fatima and her tribesmen.

Hog Cholera Outbreak

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Nov. 1.—An outbreak of a hog cholera would appear to have broken out in the province, especially in this district.

Although it has been given other names, it seems certain that, in many parts, the "sickness" which has ravaged the herds, is none other than the decimating cholera itself. The authorities at Regina have been acquainted with the condition from several places. An inspector has been sent out, but before his arrival in the affected territory it has been too late to do anything. It seems that the farmers have grudged killing sickened animals with the result that whole herds have died off.

It is reported that some cases have been located in Saskatoon and many other places, but that the farmers refuse to admit that the mortality is due to cholera.

I want to say to the people of Toronto and elsewhere that "Fruit-a-tives" is my only medicine and has been for the last four years. Previous to that, I had been very much troubled with Rheumatism and Kidney Disease, and had taken many remedies as well as employing hot applications of salt bags etc., without getting satisfactory results.

Noticing the advertisement of "Fruit-a-tives", I adopted this treatment altogether and, as everybody knows, since taking "Fruit-a-tives", I have been enjoying the very best health and find it a pleasure to follow my vocation of Dancing and Deportment Instruction".

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOV. 3, 1912.

The Sign and the Leaven. Mark viii:11-26.

Golden Text—Jesus spake unto them, saying, I am the light of the world; he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. John viii:12.

(1) Verse 11—How do you account for the fact that religious differences generally stir much antagonism?

(2) Why is it impossible to learn spiritual truth when in an antagonistic frame of mind?

(3) What caused the Sadducees and Pharisees, who hated each other, to unite in their hatred of Jesus?

(4) What was the nature of the "sign" they wanted?

(5) Verses 12-13—What reason is there to believe that if Jesus had performed ever so wonderful a 'sign' it would have made any difference in their attitude to him?

(6) Why did their request for a sign make Jesus feel so sad? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(7) Was their opposition to Jesus honest or dishonest? Give your reasons.

(8) Why did not the wonderful "signs" which Jesus had already performed satisfy them?

(9) Which cause is the more influential in keeping men from Christ today, a lack of evidence of the truth of Christianity or the love of sin? Give your reasons.

(10) Verse 14—If the disciples ought to have taken bread and did not, was the forgetting a sinful act?

(11) Is it ever wrong to forget, and if so, under what circumstances?

(12) Verses 15-16—As Jesus did not mean to reprove them for not taking bread, whether they were blameworthy or not, why did their consciences accuse them of neglect?

(13) What does literal leaven do and what did Jesus mean by "Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the leaven of Herod?"

(14) Why ought all men who would be good to beware of pharisaical hypocrisy, ostentation, pride, formalism and placing the letter before the spirit and of Herodian superstition, sensuality and cruelty?

*(15) What would be the compelling spirit of every Christ man?

(16) Verses 17-18—What part does a clear conscience, an unselfish spirit and a tender heart play in understanding the ways of God?

(17) What error or sin were these apostles guilty of to merit this rebuke of Jesus?

(18) Verses 19-21—When we do our duty, is there any need to fear for our bread and butter? Why?

(19) How many times in your life have you eaten all the food you have had or could procure, and how many times have you had plenty of food left after every meal? Then why do you worry for the future?

(20) Verses 22-26—Why do you think Jesus used different outward methods in restoring the sight of the blind?

(21) How many different types of conversion and of religious experience are there? Did you ever know any two exactly alike?

(22) What analogy is there between this man's experience and when our spiritual eyes are first opened?

THE FORTY LEVENTH COUSIN

"Oh, I hope he gets the right sort of care, whispered Luella Davison to herself as she peered from behind her parlor curtains at the big house opposite. "Yes, he must for there goes Mary Travers, in her nurse's uniform, up the front steps."

The doctor was coming along the path, looking grave and preoccupied.

Tears of grief and vexation poured down the faded face at the thought that she dare not go over and offer her services. The fact that she had been engaged to marry Rufus Fairweather, the sick man, some twenty years before, and that she also was a distant relative, could not offset the grimmer fact that she and Rufus had quarreled and had not spoken to one another nearly the same length of time.

And now Rufus was going to die! She read it in the doctor's face and felt it in the intuition of her own woman's soul. Here, indeed, was a bitter ending of a foolish misunderstanding, and the long silent conflict between two inexorable wills. Rufus ought to have given up, seeing that he was rich and she was poor. Alas, perhaps Rufus thought she ought to yield to have been the one to yield because he was lame and she was well and strong.

"I wish I had! Oh, how I wish I had!" moaned the stricken woman, sinking to the floor in an agony of grief. "And now I shall never see him again! I will see him, no matter what any one thinks," with sudden resolution, sitting up and wiping her eyes. "I have a right, the same as the rest. I am related to him."

With the resolution came calm and quiet. She watched from her window until she saw the carriage of Mrs. Wallingford (Mr. Fairweather's nearest relative) roll away. Then she crept across the street in the gathering and rang the bell.

"I want to see the nurse,' she told the housemaid, who left her waiting in the hall.

"How is he, Mary?" she asked eagerly when the nurse, whom she had seen grow up from childhood, appeared.

"The end is very near, Miss Luella," answered the nurse, trying hard not to show anything of the amazement and curiosity she felt. The estrangement between this man and woman had furnished a topic of conversation for the villagers for years.

"I have sent every one away," continued the nurse. "I am afraid Mrs. Wallingford is offended, but I had the doctor's orders. It is Mr. Fairweather's wish. He says he has lived alone and he can die alone, except, of course, for me, his nurse. A dying man should have his way."

"Oh, Mary Mary! Let me see him —for one moment—just one moment!" pleaded Luella. "You know how it has been with us—everybody knows—it has been town talk. I must see him before he dies!"

'I will tell him,' replied the nurse yielding in her tone. Leaving the room she entered almost immediately and motioned to Miss Luella to go to the sick chamber.

With a beating heart Luella entered the big front room on the second floor, where lay the dying man, whose face told of suffering and the swiftly approaching end.

"So it seems that I am not to die alone after all," he said in the old whimsical way, as the sunken eyes lifted and brightened with unmistakable pleasure. "You are a brave woman, Luella, to be willing to furnish a juicy morsel to the town gossips, who have enjoyed themselves too much already at our expense. A nice windup to the life story of two stubborn natures."

Leulla had his hand in hers, and could not speak for the sobs that nearly choked her.

He spoke again, but with difficulty. "I would have given in long ago but for this twisted member of mine," touching the bedclothes lightly with a pitiful attempt at a laugh "You were too pretty and too smart a girl to be tied up for life to a cripple. But I may have been wrong—I may have been wrong. I had my doubts all along."

"And if I had not been so poor, Rufus," sobbed Luella, sinking to the floor and holding his cold hand to her cheek. "If I had not been so poor—and proud!(What a life—living within a stone's throw of each other, and—strangers. And now it is too late!"

"It's never to late to mend!" with something of the old chuckle. 'You cannot deny, Luella, that it was you who did give in!"

"I don't want to deny it!" cried Luella wildly, but comforted to think that his words were indeed true. 'Oh! if I had only done it in the beginning—and not—the—end!"

"And end—and—a beginnig," came from his lips that were fast growing cold. 'Do you hear, Luella? A beginning. They don't—make any—mistake—up—there!"

A gasp and a smile, and Rufus had made a new "beginning," leaving Luella to ponder over his last words, so full of hope and promise in this dark hour. She went home to her little cottage with more peace and happiness in her heart than she had known for years. The long estrangement was as if it had never been, and dead though he undoubtedly was, Rufus was again her very own.

Mrs. Wallingford came to the big house in the morning and took charge of the affairs. There was a large number of relatives of Mr. Fairweather—all of them well to do—at the funeral. Many glances of surprise and curiosity found their way to the corner of the room, where one little figure, in shabby black tried to hide herself. Luella was not invited to take her seat with the mourners.

"Why should she sit with us?" demanded Mrs. Wallingford. "She's only a forty-'leventh cousin, anyway.

So Luella listened to the service in her corner repeating to herself again the dying words of the man in the coffin, "An end, and a beginning! An end and a beginning!" until the wan face became radiant under her veil with hope and longing.

After the ceremony and interment in the village cemetery and relatives assembled in the Fairweather parlor for the reading of the last will and testament of the deceased. Much surprise and unfavorable comment caused by the lawyer, Mr. Farwell, asking Luella to come along with the rest.

"To think of that dowdy little beggar having to be asked to sit down to dinner afterward with us!" exclaimed the magnificent Mrs. Wallingford in disgust. "Mr. Farwell is taking altogether too much on himself in my opinion. It is not likely that Cousin Rufus left anything to her."

In compliance with the lawyer's request Luella trembling entered the big room of the Fairweather mansion. No one spoke to her, though she was distantly connected with many of them, and she felt like an intruder in the dear old house where she had been welcomed as an honored guest in the dear old days before fortune frowned and when the mother of Rufus ruled, a gracious presence over the Fairweather household. Meaningless to her were the legal terms and preliminaries, given in the lawyer's clear, incisive voice; meaningless the mentioning of legacy upon legacy of moderate amounts bequeathed to the different relatives, who squirmed uneasily upon their seats as their names were read out with the legacy attached, unsatisfactory apparently to each and all.

Mrs. Wallingford sat in stately majesty, a red spot on either cheek, as she cried impetuously: "And the bulk of the property—this house—and what he sold in stocks and bonds—what of those?"

"I give and bequeath," the lawyer's voice went steadily on, to my friend an cousin, Luella Davison, my dwelling house and securities to the amount of $100,000, to her and her heirs, etc., with my love and respect for the hope that she will be comfortable and happy in the house which should have been hers as my beloved and honored wife."

No one listened to the concluding words of the will, so excited and indignant were they over this unexpected and astounding revelation.

"Ridiculous! Absurd! That little nonentity!" were some of the epithets, audible in different quarters of the room. The lawyer came manfully to the rescue.

"I heartily congratulate you, Miss Davison,' he said, giving her hand a cordial squeeze. "I knew about this more than a year ago and gave the plan my most hearty endorsement. After all you are a relative—an heir."

"Only a forty-'leventh cousin, Mr. Farwell," corrected Luella gravely, with a smile, added to drive away a tear. Rufus—God bless him!—had never for one moment forgotten her through all the weary years. The end, too, was not far distant—the end and then 'the beginning.' Copyrighted.

LETTERS OF A SLIM-MADE WOMAN TO HER FAT SISTER

Eighth Letter: On the Matrimonial Trials of Fat People.

Dear Sis:—Here is a newly discovered truth. Fat does not grease the wheels of happiness—it clogs them.

In spite of their reputation for jollity—fat people are inclined to be peevish.

And now you're "peeved" at Bob and filled with self-pity you write me, your slim-made sister, for sympathy—and he writes that "nobody loves a fat man."

It isn't sympathy you two need—its advice. And my advice to both of you is get slim. Only a few months ago I was just as fat as either of you—and just as irritable.

Now, sis, dear, forget your "grouch." Take Marmola Prescription Tablets and start the thinning process today.

Those tablets are just as harmless as the doctor's original Marmola Prescription that made me thin.

Just quit all those exercises, stop dieting and take a pleasant little tablet after each meal and at bedtime.

There's a hundred dollars' worth of happiness in every 75c. box of Marmola Prescription Tablets. You'll look better, feel better and live better every day you take them.

Soon you'll be again your old sweet, slim, happy selves. Weigh this advice and you will weigh less.

I've written Bob and told him to run a race with you to slimness.

Affectionately, BETTY.

HON. GEO. H. PERLEY

Some Life History of a Man Who Has Prospered in Canada

Hon. George H. Perley Minister without portfolio in the Dominion Cabinet is a lumberman of the Ottawa Valley; he is actively concerned in several firms, and in particular is heavily interested in pulpwood transactions. Also he is a millionaire.

He is a slight man of middle height, with a pale, rather thin face, with a rather closely trimmed beard, remarkably black, and abundant hair, also remarkably black, a scrutinizing dark eye and a certain air of physical delicacy.

Mr. Perley was born in the United States. He belongs to a New Hampshire family, the stock being originally Welsh. Prior to 1857, W. G. Perley, the Cabinet Minister's father, lived in New Lebanon, New Hampshire; in that year he came to Ottawa, prospered exceedingly, became naturalized, and from 1887 till his death in 1890 was M. P. for the capital city.

When the elder Perley made the change of residence he delayed moving his family, and the future Cabinet Minister was born at New Lebanon while his father was a resident of Ottawa. The American connection was kept up for some years, and the younger Perley, after attending the Ottawa Grammar School, was sent to St. Paul's School, Concord, New Hampshire. He went to Harvard and graduated there, taking his A. B. in 1878.

In 1900 he went into politics. He contested Russell and was beaten. In 1902, there was a bye-election in the country of Argenteuil in Quebec, across the Ottawa River from Russell. Mr. Perley had interests in the county and he contested it, only to be beaten again. He settled down to nurse the constituency, and in the general election of 1904 he won. In 1910 he was made Chief Whip of the Conservative party and when the Conservatives came into power in 1911, Mr. Perley was taken into the Cabinet.

WANT SONG-BIRDS

Movement to Bring Out Insect Eaters to Vancouver Island

The Attorney-General of British Columbia, the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, and the Provincial Game Warden, received a deputation from the Natural History Society of British Columbia, which desired to put before them reasons why the Government should grant the Society permission to import from the Old Country songbirds (goldfinches, brown linnets, skylarks, robins, blue tits) into Vancouver Island.

Twelve years ago the society collected money for the same purpose and made a similar importation of which there survive the skylarks, which have established themselves at Gordon Head and elsewhere. The deputation tried to remove the impression that the birds they wanted could do any harm to the fruit industry, and represented that by their activity in destroying grubs and insects these birds would really prove a blessing to the agriculture and fruit growing of the island.

Assisting Stock Raisers

Plans for the building up of a big live stock and dairying industry in Northern Ontario are now being perfected by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Any group of twelve settlers may form an association and each one will be given a choice of a high-grade bull, two boars or five rams. These animals will be purchased by the Ontario Government from well-known cattle, sheep and hog breeders in older Ontario.

SALMON CANNING ON THE COAST

Interesting Processes Through Which the Fish Pass Before Reaching Consumer

The majority of those who see the familiar cans of British Columbia salmon in stores have no conception of the many processes involved in transferring the fish from river to table.

Siwash and Chinese represent the two principal nationalities of the working outfit, Japanese labor in canning being now difficult to obtain. The Japs are out for the fishing and its more remunerative, if risky results, and are fast acquiring a monopoly of boats.

Cleaned by Machinery

As these boats or launches arrive at the cannery, the fish are loaded by elevator and conveyed into an iron chink, where the heads, tails, fins and entrails are removed by machinery. The beheaded, de-tailed and disemboweled fish are then sent along moving belts into washing tanks, where they are thoroughly washed by Indian women, with both salt and fresh water.

They are then conveyed to a revolving knife machine, which cuts up the fish into small portions for easier manipulation in packing the cans. In the meantime, the cans, without lids, come down by shoots from the store room, and are conveyed to salting tables, where by a simple process each receives a certain amount of salt.

Squaws Fill Cans

These cans are then carried by truck to the Indian women who cut up and fill them as the fish sections are received from the revolving knife machine.

The filled cans are now put through a hot water washing machine, where they are rendered thoroughly clean, and from thence pass through a weighing machine, by means of which light cans are automatically put aside to be refilled to the proper weight.

The cans are then passed through a machine where the covers or lids are put on by automatic pressure, afterwards passing through a soldering apparatus, which solders the cans around.

After being cooled off, the cans are placed in hot water tanks for testing them, any leakage showing air forced out by the hot water, and defective cans are then adjusted or refilled.

Cooking Procedure

The canned salmon then undergo their first cooking, being conveyed into a steam retort, which cooks them for 30 minutes at 212 degrees or boiling heat. The cans are afterwards vented for the purpose of allowing the cold air to escape, the aperture being afterwards soldered.

They then undergo a second cooking for one hour at 240 degrees of heat.

Finally, the cans are passed through washing machinery, being thoroughly cleaned with water and caustic soda or lye.

They are now ready for the packing room, where they are lacquered, labelled, and put in cases ready for shipment.

INDIANS PROSPERING

Splendid Church in the Wilds Near Lake Manitoba

After visiting Little Saskatchewan, Lake St. Martin, Lower and Upper Fairford, Crane River, Water Hen, Pine Creek and other places on the Indian reserves about Lake Manitoba, Indian agent R. Logan reported upon his return to Portage la Prairie that he and his party, had traversed about 1,000 miles and paid out about $48,000 in treaty money to the red men. He found the Indians prosperous and happy, raising but little grain and going in mostly for stock raising. They are very industrious. At Pine Creek he was surprised to find a large stone church completed. The work was financed by the Catholic mission and Mr. Logan stated that he was sure that such a building could not be built in the cities for less than $75,000.

Unique Thefts of Silver

Two high graders arrested at Cobalt charged with stealing bullion had a remarkable method for obtaining the precious metal. One of the men worked in the refinery in charge of a furnace where bullion was melted. He would dip a cold steel bar into the molten metal and a certain amount of silver would congeal around the bar. This would then be drawn out, several pounds at a time being obtained this way, and the process would be repeated.

BUYING A HORSE

Practical Pointers for the Amateur—How to Locate Faults

If you are buying a horse never be satisfied that he is thoroughly sound or serviceable until you have seen him in action.

In mild cases of string-halt faulty action is observed only upon the start or backing. The feet should be picked up to show how the animal will stand while being shod. The horse should next be placed in harness, and attention should be given to his behaviour while the harness is being fitted. Observe whether he kicks, strikes, or bites when the girth is tightened. He should be driven in his accustomed manner—single or double if for driving, and in a cart or waggon if for heavy work. The rein should be taken so as to determine whether he has a hard or tender mouth, and to note his manner of responding to the pull. Also observe whether he shies or frightens at strange objects when being hitched to the cart. One should be certain that this is not due to improper fitting harness before rejecting him. A tight-fitting collar may make the difference between a proper acting animal and one that is wholly objectionable.

The wind should be thoroughly tested for whistling, for roaring, and for heaves. The ear of the examiner should be placed to the nostrils, to the throat and to the sides of the chest, and the hands placed upon the flanks to detect any unnatural sounds in breathing.

In One Office 62 Years

It is doubtful if there is another town in Canada whose postmaster has served in that capacity for as long a period of years as has Thomas Armour, of Dunnville. Mr. Armour, who is still the town postmaster, served first for a period of twelve years as assistant postmaster. He was then appointed to the chief position which he has held for fifty years, making in all a period of sixty-two years in the one office.

He was appointed to the position before Confederation, and is the third postmaster the town ever had.

These offers have always been refused by the loyal Britishers in the neighborhood.

To Prevent Wrecks

An invention which, it is claimed, will prevent train wrecks from spread rails, and which will hold a broken rail in place, was patented by a Toronto man, Mr. S. Jagger. It is in the form of an iron tieplate, which holds the metals in a much surer grip than the present spikes. The invention has stood satisfactory tests.

FUEL SUPPLY OF THE WEST

Unlimited Gas Well Wasting its Flow in One Spot and Coal Beds Afire for Century

Over a dozen years ago a party of oil-diggers were sent by the Geological Survey of Canada into what was then an almost unknown part of the North-West Territories, to find if the reported existence of petroleum in the Far North was a fact.

An oil-boring outfit was finally set up at Pelican Rapids, on the Athabasca River, and put to work. When the drill had reached a depth of 820 feet it struck gas. The flow was so great that it drove back iron balls that were dropped down the pipe, and the noise of the escaping gas could sometime be heard two or three miles away. It did not lessen any, and the men were at length compelled to abandon the effort.

The next year they came back, hoping to find the gas run out enough to allow them to resume boring. But when they had cleaned out the hole and drilled only seventeen feet further the gas escape recommenced with such intensity that again they were forced to stop.

Burning for Years

After they went, some one came along and lighted the jet. It is still burning. Report has it that it has been burning continuously, but it is more likely to have been extinguished now and then during the past dozen years and re-lighted by settlers and passers-by. That the gas flow is undiminishd, however, is quite certain, for there is a flame nearly fifty feet high and of very substantial circumference.

The Athabasca River, in whose vicinity this effusive gas supply is found, is one of the great waterways of the new North. The Peace and Mackenzie Rivers make up with it a trio that mean almost everything to the industrial future of the North-West, and among their good points is the fact that they all run through belts of gas, oil, tar, and coal lands. There is, for instance, in the Athabasca district, a tract of a hundred thousand square miles that is saturated with petroleum.

Gas, Oil, Tar, and Coal

Coal, oil, and gas are the three wonder riches of that far corner of the Empire. It has been supposed to yield chiefly furs and pelts, but these other products are quite as native and far more valuable. Theh whole north land above the present line of rail is a region of mineral wealth, which, in its nearer limits, takes the form of the largest gas and oil reserves in the world, and, farther north, of coal beds no one knows how large. About two hundred miles from the Arctic Circle there is a coal area, on the Mackenzie River, that has been on fire for a hundred years. It has been slowly burning from within, and spreading, until now the fire has covered some twenty miles, showing a broken line of low, mysterious earthflame that at night is one of the grandest and weirdest of northern sights.

AN IMMENSE ORCHARD

Fourteen Hundred Acres of British Columbia Fruit Farm

Among the largest individual orchards in British Columbia is that owned by J. D. Anderson, about fourteen miles from Rossland.

Here he owns 1,400 acres, which he purchased when land was cheap, from the Provincial Government. On this tract he cleared 130 acres and 120 of this was planted with 11,000 fruit threes and about 4,000 small fruits, including raspberry, blackberry, currant and gooseberry bushes.

A majority of the trees are of the known popular commercial varieties which give the best results in British Columbia. For instance, he has 3,000 Jonathans, 3,000 Mackintoshes, and 2,500 Northern Spies.

Trees are planted with a surveyor's transit and a 300-foot steel tape, and from whatever angle they are looked at present symetrical appearance. A few acres are donated to potatoes and other vegetables, and more to clover, which yields an immense crop.

Besides fruit, Mr. Anderson has 500 White Leghorn chickens, a number of pedigree Berkshire hogs, a large flock of ducks and five hives of bees, which number of swarms will naturally increase. Bees are a necessary part of the orchardist's plant, as they aid in fertilizing the blossoms by carrying the pollen from one tree to another.

From fifteen to twenty men are constantly employed in and about the orchard which has been carried along on the best scientific lines, and in such a manner as to make a failure almost impossible.

PEACE RIVER TIMBER

Proposed Forest Reserves About Lesser Slave to Equalize Water-flow

In his report to the Minister of the Interior on timber conditions around Lesser Slave Lake, D. Roy Cameron, B.A., B. Sc.F., states that "the ever swelling tide of immigration into the Peace River country and vicinity renders it imperative that steps be taken to set aside non-agricultural lands in order that the timber resources of that country be conserved for the need of future generations." Muskeg he found to be omnipresent, associated in some instances with areas of lodgepole pine, black spruce and fir. The aspen, a tree which grows in considerable quantities in the district, is so susceptible to attacks of "heart rot" that 43 per cent. of the total is useless. Figuring on 3.2 cords of aspen per acre which might be used for pulpwood and 4 cords of balsam popler, Mr. Cameron estimated that the whole area he traversed about the lake would produce 6,750,000, to which might be added about twice that quantity of defective, but not destroyed wood. The aspen and poplar balsam trees average about 8 inches in diameter 4½ feet from the ground.

Along the Swan river, so-called "cottonwood" flats are found where this species grows intermixed with some spruce. Here are found trees growing 100 feet high with 65 feet clear and a diameter at breast-height of from 15 to 60 inches. The average will be about 24 inches. The older and larger trees are mostly defective from heart-rot, but the younger up to 2 inches in diameter are sound and beautiful timber.

"There are large areas of non-agricultural land both north and south of the lake," Mr. Cameron declares in his summing up. "These areas are, in general, more or less elevated regions and form the head-waters of streams draining in every direction. The question of the preservation of the forest cover, so that as even a flow of water as possible may be insured, is an important one in this district because the main drainage streams are navigable rivers. Of late years, the continual denudation of the country containing the head-waters of the Lesser Slave River tributaries by fire has given rise to alternating conditions of very low and very high water, which has proved very harmful to navigation. Indeed, things have come already to such a pass that every bad storm means a miniature freshet, and a week's rain, a swollen torrent, bringing down trees and driftwood of all kinds, which is a menace to navigation. The principal rivers causing this are the Moose, Driftpile, Saulteux and Otauwau."

The Quiet of the East

Writing of the rush and turmoil of city life in the Occident, a Japanese woman, Madame Osaki, says:

"What room was there for the love of the sunlit heaven, the song of birds, the leisurely cultivation of a favorite flower, or the reposeful enjoyment of friends and of nature? As I gazed at the men and women rushing past me, I felt that the simple-lived Japanese, in his one-storied house and bamboo-fenced garden, watching for the first plum blossom in the moonlight, or tending his little pot of morning glories at summer dawns knew more of the secret of happiness and contentment than many a millionaire in his palace home."

PICTURE SHOWS AS EDUCATORS

Properly Used, the Thunderer Believes They Are of the Utmost Value, But Subjects Need Elevating.

The London Times, in its educational supplement, deals in an interesting manner with the uses and abuses of moving pictures, and the value of the cinematograph as an educator and entertainer. The article points out the momentous part pictures have played in the world's instruction from the time our savage ancestors scratched rude figures of the chase upon bone, down through the era of Greek and Roman art, to the present time when life-like moving pictures are depicted on a canvas.

Speaking of the use of pictures for the instruction of children, The Times says:

"A good deal of information goes in at one of the average school child's ears and out at the other. This is more especially true in lessons in history, geography and science, unless these are given by teachers who possess personal magnetism as well as special enthusiasm for the subject in hand. Here the great value of magic lantern lessons come in. For such lessons, even when taken by teachers without a special faculty for controlling attention, are listened to by their scholars in enthralled silence. The beautiful pictures before them awaken their imaginations, and their keen interest is aroused. Every London County Council School has a room appropriated for lantern teaching, and it is usual to give lantern lessons towards the end of the day, when, therefore, concentration of mind is most difficult.

In the Schoolroom.

"The stimulus of the lantern lesson is always effective; how much more, therefore, would instruction be brought home to the average child if it could be given by moving pictures early, not late in the day? For a living-picture lesson, whether historical, geographical, or scientific, if judicially connected with the instruction following it, would most certainly awaken the intellectual energies of a classroom full of children, which would carry them contentedly, if not eagerly, forward through the long morning session.

"But, it may be asked, how is this possible, or at any rate reasonable? Are you going to darken the hall or a classroom by closing the windows and drawing down the blinds or putting up the shutters at the very beginning of the day's work, so depriving the childrn of light and air? Not at all. A new screen has been invented which is not only entirely safe from all fire risks, but upon which living pictures can be thrown by broad daylight, which can be watched by the children sitting at the desks with their notebooks before them, and which can even be arrested for five minutes at a time whilst the teacher is giving explanations of the incidents or phenomena portrayed. Indeed, on a hot day the screen may be set up in a tent in the playground, and the children may thus receive a delightful al fresco living-picture lesson.

As to Morals.

"And here a note of warning must be sounded. It is confidently stated that the cinematograph is drawing men and women from the public houses to performances which, if often sensational, are not morally harmful. It is pointed out that parents have been accompanied to these animated picture exhibitions by their children, and that the new atmosphere of entertainment into which they have entered together is, as a rule, purer and more educative than that of the music hall. We are, however, inclined to accept these statements with considerable reservations. While some theatres are in a position to present a certain amount of really enthralling pictures of current history and to exhibit attractive phases of animal, insect, and plant life, the only statistical information which we have been able to gather from German, French, Danish and American sources indicates that cinematograph exhibitions are conducted in a large measure under conditions, physical and moral, that are of distinct danger to children and young people.

Health Consideration.

"The constant succession of spectators in dark, ill-ventilated rooms is a danger to health from many points of view. The eyes suffer seriously from watching objects constantly on the move and from the flicker so common to the cheaper films. Moreover, a multitude reaching into millions is brought daily from the fresh, open air into a hothouse reeking with noxious fumes and charged with the often infected breath of a crowded audience."

NOTED BOER GENERAL

To Learn Something About Military Aviation—Now a British Officer

General the Hon. Christian Beyers, the first Commandant-General of the newly-formed South African Defence Forces, is to study the latest military methods in England. He will also visit Germany on a similar errand. The finest European army officers will not be able to teach General Beyers much about tactics, but he will have a lot to learn about aeroplanes, the capabilities of which are not yet thoroughly known in South Africa. One of the principle objects of the General's visit is to view some army flying, and he will engage instructors for aviation, as it is intended to establish a aerial corps as an adjunct to the Union Defence Forces.

General Beyers played an important part in the South African war, and he rose from a private to be an assistant commandant-general, his principle exploit being when he captured a British camp at Nooitgedacht. He was chairman of the Peace Congress at Vereeniging, and when responsible government was granted to the Transvaal he was selected Speaker of the Legislative Assembly. General Beyers is a great believer in the value of discipline, for he, in common with General Botha and other noted Boer leaders, believes that if the burghers had been under as strict control as the British troops the war might have ended differently. The General has publicly stated that he regards his appointment as "a great opportunity of bringing the two races together."

RELIGION IN JAPAN

Government Desires to Co-operate With Christians and Non-Christians

Upon the invitation of the Minister of Home Affairs, and with the evident approval of the members of the Japanese Cabinet, a conference of representatives of Shinto, Buddhism, and Christianity was recently held in Tokio. All the thirteen Shinto sects were represented, as well as twenty or more Buddhist sects. The seven Christians, among whom was the Rev. Dr. Motoda, headmaster of St. Paul's College, Tokio, represented the Baptists, the Congregationalists, Episcopalians, the Greek Church, the Methodists, the Presbyterian, and the Reformed Churches, and the Roman Catholics. The Minister of Home Affairs, in welcoming the conference, expressed appreciation of what had been done in the past by the representatives of the different religious "to guide the minds of the people and better the moral conditions." He hoped for a continuance of such effort in the future, and had asked for the conference in order that there might be a better understanding between the Government and religious forces as to the end to be aimed at.

King's Altar-Piece

The King has lent the celebrated altar piece of the old Trinity College Church, Edinburgh, to the Scottish National Gallery for one year. This is the finest work of art at Holyrood House. It contains the portraits of James III. and his wife, Queen Margaret (a Danish Princess), of their son (afterwards James IV.), and other personages, including St. Andrew and St. Cecilia, and one panel is devoted to a remarkable representation of the Holy Trinity. This altar piece was brought to England by James VI., and it hung for nearly a century at Hampton court, whence it was removed by William III. to Kensington Palace. In 2836 William IV. sent the panels back to Hampton Court, and in 1851 Queen Victoria restored them to Holyrood after a separation of two centuries and a half.

CANOE TRIP DOWN ATHABASCA RIVER

Canadian North a Virgin Land of Wondrous Beauty Inhabited Only by Beasts and Birds

"Those who have wearied of the strenuous whirl and racking intensity of metropolitan life can find absolute quiet and relaxation in the upper Athabasca country," said B. K. Miller, of Milwaukee, naturalist, traveller and big game hunter, who has visited every quarter of the globe, on his return to Edmonton, from a stay of several weeks in the silent north.

The vast territory between Hinton and Whitecourt, the last named place a settlement of sturdy homesteaders, he continued, impressed him with a sense of remoteness not found in any other country, "and in this," he added with emphasis, "I do not exclude the wilderness of the Congo or even the steppes of Siberia. It is too wonderful for words."

Briefly describing a canoe trip down the Athabasca from Fitzhugh in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, Mr. Miller termed it a land of scenic grandeur—a natural playground that has no counterpart.

"There is not a sign of human habitation," he said, "not a tree cut, not a blaze mark of the woodsman's axe, not the least indication that it has ever come under the hand of man; a country without a raucous sound. The only voices are those of fur-bearing animals, the songs of birds, the ripple of the river and the murmuring of breezes in the trees—a virgin land of wondrous beauty and infinite charm."

Mr. Miller, who was accompanied on the trip by James K. Cornwall member of the provincial parliament of Alberta for the Peace River district is arranging to visit the Mackenzie River country with a party of writers who expect to follow the fur trails to a point beyond the Arctic circle.

BIRCH BARK CLOTHING

Port Arthur Finlander Sets a New Fashion in Men's Apparel

The latest novelty in men's wear consists of a coat constructed of birch bark. The coat was worn by a Finlander who passed along the thoroughfares of Port Arthur, Ont., seemingly unconscious of the curiosity aroused by his novel upper covering.

The material was strips of the inner bark about an inch wide and of indeterminate lengths. These strips were interwoven after the manner in which a basket is made, but were shaped to the form of the body.

From the neck part of the strips were carried down to the shoulders and continued to the wrist for the arms. The strips were woven diagonally down the front and back and turning up at the bottom of the coat were carried on the same plan up to the collar thus forming what tailors call a self-lining.

The coat was made double breasted held together by hooks and strings. The only part of the garment that was not knitted together was that under the arms, where strings were used to form the union. The reason for this probably was to make the arms more pliable, for while the coat was not exactly board-stiff it was not what one could truthfully designate as wholly pliable.

Fellow countrymen who accompanied the Finlander said that three hundred feet of birch bark strips were used in the construction of the coat and that it took three days' time to complete the garment.

ELECTRICITY FROM PEAT

Bavaria Trying Out Commodity of Which Canada has Deposits

European engineers are engaged in the investigation of methods of utilising peat as fuel in electric stations. Southern Bavaria, for instance, has vast fields which would serve to run electric plants of large size and this would give a great reserve of power. The peat bogs lie mainly in the region of the Danube, and are estimated to cover an area of 500 square miles. Supposing the peat layer to be only three feet in thickness and the cubic foot of peat to afford but three pounds of fuel, this will mean a supply of fifty million tons. The fuel can be burned under boilers or it can be used in special producers to secure a supply of gas for industrial purposes.

Miss Melrose Pickell of Melrose Highlands, Mass., ate shrimp salad and then was very ill. Ordinary remedies for acute indigestion failed to have any effect and finally by the aid of a stethoscope, a physician discovered that there was something alive in the woman's stomach. A head of boiled lettuce was held at Miss Pickell's mouth, and in a moment a very much alive lizard made its escape.

Canada's Coal Consumption

The consumption of coal in Canada has increased from 2,480,111 tons in 1886, to nearly 30,000,000 per year at present. During the same period the coal consumption per capita has increased from 0.758 tons to 3.289 tons.

WILL BOURASSA RUN?

Nationalist Says He May Oppose Coderre Himself.

Montreal, Nov. 1.—Political developments yesterday comprised the announcement that Hon. Louis Coderre would have his organization completed and ready to-day for a vigorous campaign in all parts of the division, that three Ministerial meetings would be called at an early date in Westmount, St. Henri and Point St. Charles, to be addressed by Mr. Borden, the new Secretary of State and other Ministers; that Mayor Rutherford of Westmount had absolutely declined to enter the fight as the Liberal candidate, and that Mr. Henri Bourassa had declared to a friend that if no other candidate could be found, he would enter the contest himself and test once for all the opinion of his compatriots on the Government's naval policy.

Mr. Coderre in speaking of the contest now on, said he had no fear as to the result. At first there was some hesitation, but those who hesitated were now back in the ranks, and they were prepared for a straight fight. He could not say what the Ministerial policy would be, or, at least, he was not able to say so before the Prime Minister had spoken. He wanted to say, however, that he had never contributed or consented to the resolutions adopted at St. Eustache and elsewhere condemning both Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden. As a matter of fact, when the meeting took place at St. Henri, he had made a statement to the effect that, if ever Great Britain wanted a contribution from Canada, he, for one, would not refuse a helping hand from this rich country.

The Bourassa boom developed strength during the day, and there were many who expressed interest in the question of a Nationalist candidate, for it would be spectacular, if nothing else. It is understood that if Mr. Bourassa decides to enter the fight, he will open no committees, making it an oratorical campaign only, and leave the issue to the electorate to decide.

TO LIE IN STATE.

Body of Vice-President Sherman Will Be Viewed by Friends.

Utica, N.Y., Nov. 1.—Arrangements for the funeral of Vice-President James S. Sherman practically were completed yesterday. The services will be held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church and will be attended by President Taft and members of his Cabinet, Senators and representatives, foreign diplomats and Government officials.

It was at first announced that the obsequies would be held in Christ Church, of which Mr. Sherman was a member, but as this edifice seats only about 700 persons and it was realized that it would be too small to hold the throng that would desire to pay a final tribute of respect to the dead, the plans were changed, when the Rev. Ralph W. Brokaw offered the use of the Presbyterian Church, which has a seating capacity of more than 3,000.

The Rev. Louis H. Holden, Mr. Sherman's postor, will conduct the funeral service, assisted by the Rev. M. W. Striker, president of Hamilton College, and Rev. Dr. Brokaw, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. An hour before the church services there will be a private service for the members of the family at the Sherman residence.

The body of the vice-president will lie in state from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. today in the rotunda of the county building to permit the citizens of Utica to take a last look at their distinguished fellow-townsman.

Business practically will be suspended during the funeral services Saturday afternoon.

An Awed Gunner.

A Maine hunter who is a crack shot tells a curious story about himself. While hunting one day he came upon a fine large deer not more than two rods away. He attempted to raise his rifle to his shoulder, but his arm became suddenly paralyzed. All he could do was to stand there and watch the deer disappear in the distance. Then his arm resumed its normal condition, and he started on the trail once more. After awhile he came upon the deer a second time, and again the hunter tried to raise his rifle, and again his arm refused to serve him. Then he gave it up and went home, impressed with a sense of awe and a conviction that he had better leave that particular deer alone.

About Zutoo Tablets

"I have been a sufferer from headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all, of the so-called "cures" on the market. Some months since my attention was called to your Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a "sick" or "nervous" headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effect. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I find them a good remedy for "sour" stomach as well as headache. I always carry them in my grip on the road and would not be without them at any cost."—A. O. NORTON, 286 Congress, St. Boston.

HIGHLANDERS BURIED

Full Military Honors Given to Victims of Wreck.

Impressive Services Attending the Last Rites Over Privates Murdoch and Bannatyne Are Attended by Military Notables From All Over District — Streets Black With Crowds Watching the Funeral.

Toronto, Nov. 1.—With all the pomp and circumstance of the greatest military funeral Toronto has ever seen, the bodies of Privates Bannatyne and Murdock of A Company of the 48th Highlanders, were escorted from the armories to their last resting place in the regimental plot in Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The impressive splendor of the ceremonial at the armories and the graveside were humanized by pathetic incident and even the grace of smiles at oddly incongruous inadvertances were not lacking to lighten the otherwise oppressive gloom of the occasion.

More than 1,700 men from the local corps, with additions of contingents from Hamilton, Brantford and St. Catharines sent to do honor to the dead soldiers, attended at the service at the armories, and followed through the long miles of the march to the cemetery and stood uncovered through the service at the graveside.

Thousands upon thousands thronged the line of march and many made the long journey to the cemetery and formed a packed mass of humanity about the roped off space at the flower-piled open graves.

Long before even the soldiers, who were paraded at 1.30 o'clock, had come upon the scene, a strong squad of police were required to keep back the crowds who flocked to the armories. Shortly before two o'clock the soldiers of the various corps were formed up about an open space in the centre of the main section of the armories. To the right and against the south wall were the Royal Grenadiers, 200 strong, under Col. Gooderham. Then, directly opposite the flower-banked stands upon which reposed the caskets containing the bodies of their comrades, were 500 of the 48th, with A Company, the company to which the dead were attached, standing in front. Among those who stood the brunt of the accident were many with bandaged heads or limbs.

Directly opposite the coffins and facing the chaplain, who stood upon a draped platform at the south wall, were the staff and regimental officers, with Gen. Cotton, Gen. Otter, Col. Sir Henry Pellatt and others.

The caskets were carried in upon the shoulders of six stalwart and kilted soldiers, while the thin sprinkling of spectators who had gained access to the galleries craned their necks to see, as the faces of the dead were uncovered as they lay in the flag-draped caskets.

The regimental chaplain read the funeral service and the procession started.

As the cortege advanced into University avenue, that thoroughfare was black with the waiting crowds, and as the sombre hearses passed along behind the band, which was playing the heavy measures of the funeral march, every head was uncovered. The head of the cortege was entering the Queen's Park before the last man had left the square beside the armories, and at the slow pace it was almost two hours before it reached the gates of the cemetery, where a great concourse was awaiting its coming.

Again the chaplain repeated the solemn burial seriyce. Then the firing squad, who had been resting upon their reversed arms, were ordered to the graveside. Three volleys were fired from the rifles, cracking sharply in the still air, the bugle corps blew the "Last Post," and the pipers played a dirge.

From evidence of the crew of the ill-fated troop special in which the two Highlanders lost their lives and two score were injured on the night of Thanksgiving, which was given at the continued inquest last night, it appeared that the weight of the train, due to the number of heavily crowded cars and the light construction of the cars, was the cause of the refusal of the brakes to bring the train to a stop at the switch into which it should have turned and of the telescoping of the flimsy colonist car, which was well to the front of the train.

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—A sub-committee of the Cabinet has under consideration a revision of the questions to be submitted to the Supreme Court of Canada, respecting the companies case. Recently some of the provinces protested as to the form of the reference, and there is a possibility that an amendment may be made. If so the argument may not be heard at the present session of the court.

The Allspice Tree.

The pimento, or allspice, tree is cultivated in the West Indies and Jamaica. This beautiful tree usually grows to a height of about thirty feet. It has a straight trunk, much branched above and covered with a very smooth brown bark. The leaves vary in size and shape, but are always of a dark, shining green color. During the months of July and August the tree is in full bloom, the blossoms consisting of very fragrant small white flowers. In favorable seasons the pimento crop is enormous, a single tree often yielding a hundred or more pounds of the dried spice. The berries are picked while green, because if left on the tree until ripe they lose their pungent taste and are valueless. The green berries are exposed to the sun for a week or ten days, when they lose their green color and turn a reddish brown. When perfectly dry they are put in bags and casks for exportation. The odor and the taste of the pimento berries are thought to resemble a combination of those of cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves; hence the familiar name "allspice."

A Queer Fact About Vision.

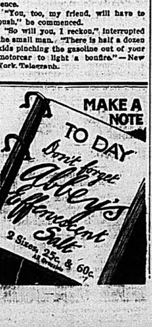
In the eye itself certain things may go on which give us wrong sensations, which, although not truly illusions, are very much like them. Thus when we suddenly strike our heads or faces against something in the dark we see "stars," or bright sparks, which we know are not real lights, though they are quite as bright and sparkling as if they were. When we close one eye and look straight ahead at some word or letter in the middle of this page, for example, we seem to see not only the thing we are looking at, but everything else immediately about it and for a long way on each side. But the truth is there is a large round spot somewhere near the point at which we are looking in which we see nothing. Curiously enough, the existence of this blind spot was not discovered by accident, and nobody ever suspected it until Mariotte reasoned from the construction of the eyeball that it must exist and proceeded to find it.

He Would Push Too.

A gentleman with a well fed appearance who motored over from the nearest town to deliver his lecture, "The Art of Getting On," in the village schoolroom, concluded with a fine burst. "The successful man is the man who strives persistently. His motto is 'Push, and keep pushing,' for by that and that alone he reaches his goal." Before the audience made much headway with their clapping a small man at the back got in a laugh that might have come from a megaphone. The lecturer held up his hand for silence.

"You, too, my friend, will have to push," he commenced.

"So will you, I reckon," interrupted the small man. "There is half a dozen kids pinching the gasoline out of your motorcar to light a bonfire."—New York Telegraph.



WAR VIRTUALLY OVER

Main Turkish Army is Now in Full Flight.

One of the Most Remarkable Campaigns In History Is Now Practically at an End With the Signal Victory of the Bulgarians In Thrace—Constantinople Now Lies at Mercy of Invaders.

London, Nov. 1.—A four days' battle in Thrace has ended in the triumph of the Bulgarian commander-in-chief, Gen. Savoff, whose skilful strategy has probably brought to a close one of the shortest and most remarkable wars on record.

A great Turkish army, estimated at over 200,000 men, has been defeated and is in retreat. Constantinople is believed to be at the mercy of the victorious Bulgarian army, and a council, sitting at the Porte, is discussing the advisability of suing for peace.

Such is the news which comes from Constantinople.

It is only a fortnight since Turkey declared war.

The first week of the campaign closed with the dramatic fall of Kirk Kilesseh, fully revealing for the first time the disorganization, bad morale and inefficient commissariat of the Turkish army. To-day that army is defeated, routed within fifty miles of Constantinople, and possibly its retreat within the capital's line of defence is cut off.

Only the briefest and vaguest accounts of the great battle have yet been received, for the war has been especially remarkable in that not a single war correspondent has been allowed at the front except in the case of the little Montenegrin campaign against Scutari.

Thus no independent personal narratives of the absorbing events have been possible and the world has had to depend on biased official accounts provided by the respective Governments or confused details supplied by wounded soldiers.

Apparently, Nazin Pasha has been completely out-mahoeuvred by Savoff's skillful generalship. The Bulgarian turning movement along the Black Sea coast now appears to have been a feint, which induced the Turkish commander to throw his main army to the eastward to such effect that the Bulgarian force on this side had the greatest difficulting in holding the Turks in check.

In fact, this point seems a little in doubt. The Bulgarians gave way and thus enabled Nazin Pasha to report to Constantinople some success in this direction.

In the meantime, however, Gen. Savoff hurled his great strength against the Turks' weakened left wing, which he crushed in at Lule Burgas. The fighting along the whole front, which evidently has been of the most stubborn and determined character, was carried on day and night without intermission and both sides lost heavily.

The capture of Nazin Pasha's headquarters at Tchorlu, to which town the defeated Turks retreated, has not as yet been reported, but is hourly expected at Sofia. In this case the Turks will be forced within the defensive lines of Tchatalja, the only remaining fortified position protecting Constantinople. It lies 25 miles to the northwest of the capital.

Adrianople still holds out, but has lost its importance now that the Turks have met their Sedan at Lule Burgas.

It is believed that a peace settlement will be arranged either by the Porte suing for peace or by intervention of the powers. And an interesting question involving difficult diplomatic problems will immediately arise as to the division of the spoils of war—a question concerning not only the victorious allies, but also Russia, Austria and Roumania, and possibly other powers.

The campaign of the other Balkan states continues with the success which throughout has attended them. Scutari has not yet been captured, but Ipek has fallen to the Montenegrins. The Servians have taken Prisrend and Greece is occupying islands in the Aegean, in addition to various towns in Macedonia.

The powers, fearing disorders and massacres in Turkey, are hurrying warships to the various ports at that country to protest the foreign residents.

A noticeable feature of the war is the insignificant parts played by the Turkish and Greek fleets.

Turks Kill Russian Aviator.

London, Nov. 1.—The first air victim of the war, the Russian aviator Popoff, was instructor of aviation in the Russian army. He, with several others, left Russia a few days ago to offer his services to the Bulgarian army. While flying with his machine over Adrianople, he was brought down by Turkish shrapnel shell. Special reports say that he was killed.

Old Time Election Laws.

American electors were at one time required to possess very high qualifications. In parts of New England during the seventeenth century voters had to reside in "a stone house of the dimensions of twenty feet by sixteen with on or more brick or stone chimney or chimnies." Each voter had also to be certified by his neighbors "of sober and peaceable conversation." In Connecticut every candidate for the local assembly had to furnish a certificate from the selectmen of the town where he resided that he was "of quiet and peaceable behavior and civil conversation." That the selectmen might exercise due care in signing such certificates they were liable to a fine of $25 in case the candidate turned out otherwise than was represented.

A man's relations seldom bother him if he is poorer than they are.

It is easy for a woman to lose faith in a man who is to be trusted.

His Prized Meerschaum.

A certain young man of tender heart has lost his faith in mankind. Some years ago he did a favor for a friend, who, to show his appreciation, presented him with a pipe of meerschaum persuasion, wonderfully and marvelously wrought and bearing date of a hundred years before. The young man treasured this pipe, which was to him a masterpiece. And whenever the blue smoke curled upward from its bowl his heart swelled with the thought of the generosity and goodness of the human race, for he had been told when the pipe was handed to him that a pawnbroker would advance $3 on it, thus proving it to be worth at least a ten spot. Doing favors, he thought, surely furnished recompense. And then one day he broke the stem. He took it to a tobacconist, with whom he was well acquainted, and asked to have it mended. "It's such a treasure," he explained. "Notice the work on it and the date." The tobacconist smiled. "My boy," he remarked, "they turn these out by the barrel and sell them for 10 cents."—New York Tribune.

The Jade Jokai Loved.

Of one phase of his life Jokai, the Hungarian novelist, wrote in disgust: "Well, confess it I must. I have a sweetheart, for whose sake I have been faithless not only to my wife, but to my muse also—a sweetheart who has appropriated my best ideas and whose slave I was and still am. Often have I wasted half my fortune upon her and rushed blindly into misfortune to please her. For her sake I have patiently endured insult, ridicule and reprobation; for her sake I have staked life and liberty. Now, if she had been a pretty young damsel there might have been some excuse for me, but she was a nasty, old, painted figurehead of a beldame, a flirting, faithless, fickle, foul mouthed, scandal mongering old liar, whom the whole world courts, who makes fools of all her wooers and changes her lovers as often as she changes her dress. Her name is Politics, and may the plague take her!"

Heroic Training.

Concerning a region in Tibet an authority says: "The only satisfactory feature about the people's condition was their fine physique and their agreeable, cheery disposition under the most depressing conditions. Their superior stature and build are accounted for partly by the fact that the day after their children are born their mothers carry them to the nearest stream and plunge them into the water, even in the depth of winter, when the temperature is often down to 15 or 20 degrees below zero. Infants which survive this heroic ordeal are then smeared thickly all over with grease and exposed for several hours every day of their young lives in the open air, so that they may grow up strong and hardy and fit to defy all weathers, which the majority of them are certainly well able to do."

Era of the Olympiads.

The "era of the Olympiads," or the "Olympian era," began July 1, 776 B. C. An Olympiad was a period of four years, the games being celebrated every fourth year. When it was first proposed to use the Olympian era the earliest record that could be found was that of the victory of Choroebus, who won the great foot race long before horse racing and chariot racing were introduced. His victory was taken as the starting point of the Olympiads.

"SONG OF THE SHIRT."

It Was the Most Popular Thing Tom Hood Ever Wrote.

During his last illness Tom Hood in an idle moment made an imaginative sketch of his own tombstone. He drew himself reclining at full length on a thick slab of stone, on the edge of which in large capitals he wrote, "He Sang the 'Song of the Shirt.'" This was the only inscription, and, as he himself has said, Tom Hood needs no other.

How much he felt and prided himself upon the song by which he became known and loved by millions is shown by this and the following fact: "If I were ennobled these are the arms I should adopt," said he one day, showing a rough vignette to a friend. The sketch contained a very beautiful and pathetic idea. It represented a heart pierced by a needle threaded with silver tears, and beneath was the motto he had inscribed on the imaginary tombstone.

"The Song of the Shirt" appeared in the Christmas number of the fifth volume of Punch. It was unsigned, but every paper in the land quoted it, and it speedily became the talk of the day. Hood himself did not think it very remarkable, but Mrs. Hood had said to him as she folded it for press: "Now, mind, Hood, mark my words, this will tell wonderfully. It is one of the best things you ever did."

Mrs. Hood was right. The song was translated into French, German and Italian. It was printed on cheap cotton handkerchiefs and parodied times without number.

Fishing For Fish.

Many people there are who delight in just fishing for fish. Such a one was John Quincy Adams. The story was told by one of his clients, whose case was to be tried on a certain morning, that he could not get his counsel to leave his fishing boat except long enough to write a note to the judge which read: "Dear Judge—For the sake of old Izaak Walton please continue my case until Friday. The smelt are biting, and I can't leave." And the judge, having read the note, announced to the court, "Mr. Adams is detained on important business."—Christian Herald.

Lavergne To Denounce Pelletier.

Quebec, Nov. 1.—Armand Lavergne, the young Nationalist leader, will speak alone to-day at Indian Lorette, where he will denounce his old friend, Postmaster-General Pelletier, for not having followed Mr. Monk's example in resigning from the Cabinet.

He is thus fulfilling a promise that he made on the evening of Sept. 21, that if the Conservatives happened to forget their promise on the naval question and the referendum, he would arraign them publicly.

The Regret of His Life.

Sir William Grove, the eminent scientist and jurist, never forgave himself for not discovering the spectroscope. "I had often observed," he said, "that there were different lines exhibited in the spectra of different metals ignited in the voltaic arc, and if I had had any reasonable amount of wit I ought to have seen the converse—viz, that by ignition different bodies show in their spectral lines the materials of which they are composed."

PRIZE POEM ON HISTORIC EVENT

Upon the occasion of the unveiling at Halifax by H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, of the tower commemorating the establishment of representative government in Nova Scotia a poem was read which won a prize of $100 offered by the Canadian Club of Halifax. The winner of the contest was Rev. A. L. Fraser of Great Village, N. S. Following is his sonnet:

"Freedom doth greet this royal throng to-day,
In these elysian haunts, largess of one,
Whom time has amply proved Britannia's son;
And when by age or love or ease shall stay
In years unborn this pillar to survey,
Its walls will toll not of war's stunning shock,
But how long since kind liberty did rock
Her cradle by this old Atlantic bay:
And if far scattered children turn their feet
To where their fathers' earliest hearth did blaze
And bathe the very stones in tears 'tis meet
That we, of British blood, this pile should raise
Where first a daughter of our ancient throne
Did sit beside a fireside of her own."

PEOPLE'S PULPIT.

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

PURGATORY FIRES NOT NOW BUT SOON

Trials and Chastisements Are the Lord's Plan For Dealing With Mankind.

Indianapolis, Oct. 27.—The world-renowned Pastor Russell is here. We report one of his discourses from the text, "Some men's sins * * * go beforehand to judgment, and some they follow after." (I. Timothy v, 24.) He said:

Gradually, as the eyes of our understanding open to the true beauties of God's Word, we find that the gross errors of the past have, indeed, some foundation in the truth. Yet the two are so different that they might pass each other without recognition.

As Bible students are allowing the Word of God to interpret itself they are being blessed; their faith is being strengthened as they find that the real teachings of the Bible are beautiful and harmonious and God-honoring and acceptable to sanctified common sense. As so much of our confusion has been connected with the subject of future punishment, it is only reasonable that much of our blessing and enlightenment should come from a better understanding of the Scriptures bearing upon this subject. Our first lesson to learn was the difference between the Bible Hell and the hobgoblin torture chambers of our bewildered forefathers, who had not the Bible in their possession and who, if they had possessed it, lacked generally the education necessary to read it.

When we found that the Hebrew word Sheol is the only word translated hell during the Old Testament period of four thousand years, we were not surprised. But when we found that that word signifies the tomb, the death state, and that it is translated grave in our Common Version Bible more times than it is translated hell, we were surprised. And when further close investigation showed that the good, as well as the bad, go to Sheol, and that the Bible declares that all who go to Sheol were redeemed by Christ's death, and that eventually He will destroy Sheol and deliver all the prisoners of death from Sheol—then we began to see what a serious blunder had been made in the translation.

But when about to blame the translators for deceiving us, we found that the trouble lay rather with a change in the use of language. All know that all living languages are gradually changing. And investigation shows that in old English the word hell was used as a synonym for hole or pit, or something covered over, as the grave. Thus an English farmer in olden times might say, "We helled five hundred bushels of potatoes this fall"; or, "We helled (thatched) our cottage."

The fault was not so much with the translators as with the wrong idea already firmly imbedded in the human mind—not the teaching of the Bible—that God intends to punish in purgatory or eternal torture all except the saintly few. From the first Satan seems to have endeavored to deceive humanity respecting the true character of the Creator; and his success is shown by the wraped and twisted interpretations that we all gave to our Heavenly Father's Word.

In probably three or four texts out of seventy the Hebrew word Sheol and its Greek equivalent Hades are used figuratively, as, for instance, St. Paul refers to Hades, the tomb, under the figure of a monster which has been engorging itself with humanity. He represents it figuratively as yielding to the glorified Messiah at His Second Advent and disgorging its prey in the resurrection. Looking forward to the completion of the resurrection at the close of the Millennium, he exclaims, "O Death, where is thy sting? O Hades, where is thy victory?" Similarly the Prophet David likened the tomb to a great monster about to devour him, and likened the pains of sickness to the teeth of the monster, saying, "The sorrows of death compassed me, and the pains of Sheol gat hold upon me. * * * Then called I upon the name of the Lord * * * and He helped me" (Psalm cxvi, 3-6)—the king was raised up from illness.

Again, the Lord through the Prophet, speaking of the great giant systems of this present time, declares that they will go down into Sheol, into death, and figuratively represents their meeting in death with the great oppressive systems of the past. (Isaiah xiv, 9-11.) But there is no suggestion of eternal torment connected with the word Sheol anywhere. And the fact that the Lord redeems our souls from Sheol, and will destroy Sheol eventually by raising mankind from the state of death, proves positively the gross error under which we labored in respect to the meaning of this word and its equivalent in the New Testament Greek—Hades.

True, there is a reference to the Second Death, where we read of those who shall be brought to a knowledge of God during Messiah's Kingdom and who then shall deliberately and intelligently refuse the way of righteousness. We read: "The wicked shall be returned to Sheol, and all the nations that forget God." (Psalm ix, 17.) These are not the ignorant and weak, but the intelligently wicked. They are not those who have never known God, but those who, after knowing Him, forget Him and wilfully choose the way of sin. For such God has no blessing of life everlasting. They "shall be destroyed from amongst the people."—Acts iii, 23.

In the New Testament, the word Gehenna represents the Second Death—the utter destruction of the class consigned to it. As every scholar knows, Gehenna is the Greek form of the Hebrew word Geh-hinnon. It was the name of a valley outside the wall of Jerusalem, long used as a garbage furnace for the destruction of the offal. But it was never recognized by God as a place for torture or sufferings, or for any living creature.

Although the capital punishment of the Divine Law is death, annihilation, God has subordinate punishments, all of which are for reformation, or we might properly say, all of which are designed to be purgatorial, purifying. Amongst the Scriptures referring to these we might include St. Peter's words, "Think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which shall try you"—purify you and test your character, to demonstrate your faithfulness as the people of God and your worthiness of association with Messiah in His glorious Kingdom to be set up at His Second Advent.—I. Peter iv, 12.

St. Paul, writing along the same lines, calls these "light afflictions, which are but for a moment," and designed to "work out for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." (II. Corinthians iv, 17.) They thus work out blessings for the Church by purifying them as New Creatures, eliminating the dross from the gold.

In Malachi's prophecy it is foretold that Jesus would institute purgatorial experiences amongst the consecrated people of God, the antitypical Levites. He does this to purify them of dross and to enable those who have offered their lives to God sacrificially, to be acceptable as His members. We read: "He shall sit as a Refiner and Purifier of silver, to purify the sons of Levi, that they may offer unto the Lord an acceptable sacrifice."

Jesus has thus been sitting as the Refiner and Purifier of His Church for more than eighteen centuries. The fires of persecution, tribulation, which He has permitted to come upon them are all purgative—designed to purify, to purge, to make them white. His people have the assurance that He will not suffer them to be tempted above that they are able, but will with every temptation provide a way of escape.

All are "children of wrath," and still under Divine sentence of condemnation, except the Church of the First-borns—the antitypical Levites, Spirit-begotten. We who have thus been called out from the world have the settlement of our prospects for life everlasting or the Second Death in this Age, before the blessing of the Lord comes to mankind in general. The Church's trial and purgatorial experiences must all take place during this Age, before the New Age opens, which in the Divine arrangement is provided for the world's judgment. "God has appointed a Day (the Day of Christ, a thousand years) in the which He will judge the world in righteousness (give to each a fair, full, righteous opportunity for reconciliation) by that Man whom He hath ordained (The Christ, of which Jesus is the Head and His faithful followers the members.)"—Acts xvii, 31.

The Church of Christ constitute the Elect, the spiritual Seed of Abraham, through which all the families of the earth, the non-elect, are to be blessed, according to God's promise. The foundation for the world's blessing was laid in the same sacrifice of Jesus by which the Church's reconciliation was made possible. Nevertheless, the prospects for the Church and the world are quite different. The Church, through following her Redeemer voluntarily and sacrificially, in suffering for righteousness' sake, is to be crowned with glory, honor and immortality, beyond the veil, with the spirit nature.

By this, the glorious resurrection change, the Church will be prepared for association with her Lord in His great work of blessing Adam and his race—regenerating them. A thousand years have been set apart for the work by the great Life-Giver. The life to be given to the willing and obedient of mankind will be earthly life, human life, human perfection, in Paradise restored, world-wide.

As purgatorial experiences are wise and proper as respects the Church, similarly fiery trials and chastisements are the Lord's plan or dealing with mankind for their good. The purgatorial experiences will prevail especially at the beginning of the New Dispensation and will be abated for all who will turn to Messiah, seek forgiveness and strive to walk in ways of righteousness. And ways of righteousness will then not mean, as now to the Church, self-sacrifice. Now the Divine rule is that "He that saveth his life shall lose it"; but then whoever would save his life may save it by obedience to the Divine laws, by abstinence to the extent of his ability, from sin. Such may gradually rise up out of their imperfection, mental, moral and physical, to the grand image of God originally represented in Father Adam and lost through his disobedience and his sentence of death.

True, the world has had its sufferings all through the past; the whole creation has groaned and travailed together under the infliction of the sentence of death pronounced against Father Adam and holding fast against all of his posterity. To some extent these have been judgments of punishments for sins; but on the whole we cannot call the world's experiences during the past six thousand years purgatorial. Purgatorial experiences would be those administered under the eye and care of a great director, and designed to purify.

Numerous are the symbolical pictures used in the Scriptures to explain and yet to hide the character of the purgatorial experiences of the world, as they will begin in an awful time of trouble as soon as the Church shall all have passed beyond the veil by the First Resurrection change. These terrible troubles coming upon the world are designed of the Lord to purge the world, to bring mankind to a due sense of responsibility, and to show the desirability of righteousness and the undesirability of sin.

"Wait ye upon Me, saith the Lord, until the day that I rise up to the prey; for My determination is to gather the nations, that I may assemble the Kingdoms, to pour upon them Mine indignation, even all My fierce anger; for all the earth shall be devoured with the fire of My jealousy." (Zephaniah iii, 8.) Here we have the purgatorial fire with which the New Dispensation will be ushered in. It will be on earth, and not in some unknown place—neither in the interior of the earth, nor "beyond the bounds of time and space." It will be purgatorial in the sense that it will be under the supervision of the Lord, with a view to bringing a blessing to mankind out of that trouble.

That a blessing will come out of it is indicated by the sentence following, which tells that amid the severity of the trouble God will grant grace and mercy and blessing. "Then will I turn unto the people a pure Message, that they may all call upon the name of the Lord, to serve Him with one consent." (Zephaniah iii, 9.) Thus we have another evidence that this is purgatorial or symbolical fire or trouble, and not literal fire, otherwise no people would be left to whom the pure Message could be given. But God's intention is that all mankind, living and dead, shall come to a knowledge of the Truth, for Christ Jesus by the grace of God "tasted death for every man."

The trouble which will follow the gathering of the Church to the heavenly plane, by the First Resurrection, is symbolically represented as the melting of the earth (society) with the fervent heat (strife, contention, discord) of that time. Already we see the Capitalistic element and the Socialistic element and the Labor element preparing for the contest which is to constitute the great "time of trouble such as never was" before.

Not only so, but the "heavens" also will take fire and pass away with a great noise. These are Scripturally shown to be the symbolical heavens, the ecclesiastical heavens. Thus the intimation of the prophecy is that the social strife will extend to and include, not only social, political and financial conditions, but also include Ecclesiasticism. The fiery trouble of anarchy will consume everything of the present, and make way for the New Dispensation, of which St. Peter tells us. In the same symbolical language he calls the New Dispensation a "new heavens and a new earth." The "new heavens" will be the Church in glory. The "new earth" will be the new social order of things established by that Heavenly Kingdom—a reign of righteousness, justice, leading on to a reign of love.—II. Peter iii, 10-13.

This great purgatorial experience at the inauguration of the New Dispensation is again Scripturally likened to a "fire." As we read: "The proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble; and the Day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of Hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch."—Malachi iv, 1.

All the fires of that time will be fires of righteousness; consuming the things of pride, sin and iniquity. They will burn as long as there is anything sinful to consume. As quickly as pride is abandoned, as quickly as evil-doing is abandoned, so quickly will the fires cease. But the Prophet declares that those purgatorial fires will be thorough-going. They will leave neither root nor branch of pride and wickedness.

The intimation in this is that the fire soon to begin may in individual cases burn on and on—perhaps in the cases of some individuals for a century, for the declaration is that all will be smitten down in the Second Death who shall fail to make some progress towards righteousness during the first hundred years of purgatorial and disciplinary experiences. The sinner a hundred years old shall be cut off (Isaiah lxv, 20).

We also note the great distinction between the sufferings of this present time and those of the future. The Church suffers from the Adversary and his misguided servants; and the Lord merely supervises, that these sufferings shall not be too severe nor beyond our power of endurance. But the purgatorial experiences of the future will be along reverse lines. Only evil-doers will suffer, and all the chastisements will be meted out by the great Redeemer with a view to purging mankind from sin and selfishness and preparing them by Restitution for the Heavenly Father's everlasting blessing—eternal life.

Church Members.

Three and one-half years ago, it was estimated that there were 900,000 church members in the Dominion. This has increased in the three years so that the total to-day is undoubtedly very close to 1,100,000, divided as follows: Anglicans, 188,000; Baptists, 135,000; Congregationists, 12,050; Friends, 1,000; Lutheran, 100,000; Methodists, 338,500; Presbyterian 288,000; other bodies, estimated 10,000. Total, 1,073,150.

The number of places of worship, both self-sustaining and assisted, is about as follows: Anglican, 2,500; Baptist, 1,307; Christian, 14; Congregational, 199; Friends, 32; Lutheran, 500; Methodist, 5,600; Presbyterian, 4,122; other organizations, estimated, 250. Total practically 15,000.

A VISION IN THE NIGHT.

The Man That Was Posed on the Edge of the Precipice.

Through the hilly country of the Basques Harry A. Franck made his way on foot with few adventures, but with many interesting experiences. At the close of one day, he tells us in "Four Months Afoot in Spain," he began to clamber upward into the mountains that rose high in the darkening sky ahead. The night grew black, for the heavens were overcast, but he who marches on into the darkness, if he is not confused by any artificial lights, may still see moderately well.

It was two hours perhaps after nightfall, and the road, its edge a sheer precipice above unfathomable depths, was winding ever higher round the shoulder of a mammoth peak when suddenly I saw a man, a denser blackness against the sea of obscurity, standing stock still on the utmost edge of the highway.

"Buenas tardes!" I greeted him in a low voice, almost afraid that a hearty tone would send him toppling backward to his death.

He neither answered nor moved. I stepped closer.

"You have rather a dangerous position, verdad, senor?"

Still he stared motionless at me through the darkness. I moved quietly forward and, thrusting out a hand, touched him on the sleeve. It was hard, as if frozen. For an instant I recoiled, then with a sudden instinctive movement passed a hand quickly and lightly over his face. Was I dreaming? That, too, was hard and cold. I sprang back and, rummaging hastily through my pockets, found one broken match. The wind was rushing up from the bottomless gulf below. I struck a light, holding it in the hollow of my hand, and in the instant before it was blown out I caught a few words of an inscription on a pedestal:

Erected to the Mem—
Thrown over this precipice—
Bandits— Night of—

But before I had made out date or name I was in darkness again.

And without a sign of fear.

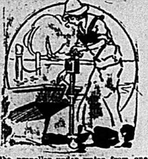
THEN YOUR BEAU WON'T GET TIRED OUT ROWING

You can carry this "oarsman" in your suitcase. It is a portable electric motor that can be attached to any row boat, canoe or skiff. The motor is a combination of a propeller and a rudder. It is mounted at the top of a shaft, attached to the stern of the boat by a clamp.

A wheel on top can be used to twist the propeller under water from one side to the other and thus steer the boat. Power is obtained from two storage batteries. The whole thing weighs 35 pounds and can be packed in a suit case, stowed under the seat of a buggy or automobile and can be attached to any boat in a minute or two.



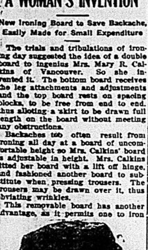
A WOMAN'S INVENTION

New Ironing Board to Save Backache, Easily Made for Small Expenditure

The trials and tribulations of ironing day suggested the idea of a double board to ingenius Mrs. Mary R. Calkins of Vancouver. So she invented it. The bottom board receives the leg attachments and adjustments and the top board rests on spacing blocks, to be free from end to end, thus alloting a skirt to be drawn full length on the board without meeting any obstructions.

Backaches too often result from ironing all day at a board of uncomfortable height so Mrs. Calkins' board is adjustable in height. Mrs. Calkins fitted her board with a lift off hinge, and fashioned another board to substitute when pressing trousers. The trousers may be drawn over it, thus obviating wrinkles.

This removable board has another advantage, as it permits one to iron small pieces, handkerchiefs, napkins, collars and cuffs without setting up the whole board.



MRS. MARY R. CALKINS

The latest improvement on her board is a floor bag, which slides in and out on a wire frame in little grooves at the bottom of the underboard and cares for extra large pieces, like table cloths.

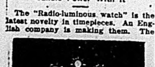
Removing Silvers

A tiny splinter in the flesh has a frightful way of hurting one's feelings, and it is so elusive when one "fishes" for it, that the following simple method of getting rid of one ought to be "learned by heart."



Take an ordinary steel pen, press it down on the flesh, push it with opened points toward the splinter. When you touch the splinter allow the points of the pen to close, and pull the splinter out.

PEEPING INTO SPACE.

An Illustration That Shows the Vastness of Stellar Depths.

Go dig a hole in the ground and set a post five or six feet high. Nail a stick across the top. Tie a fine string to a ring three inches in diameter and suspend it from the end of the stick.

Break up a diamond—if you make the error of wearing one and centering your mind on the useless bauble rather than upon nature and her majestic laws; select a minute fragment so small that if spherical seventy-one side by side would make a row one inch long and suspend the tiny globe by means of a fine fiber of silk in the center of the ring.

Then walk away on a straight line 9.31 miles, turn around and look back. The ring would be invisible, and it would require the keenest eye to see the post, if indeed any could see it.

Get a good telescope and you might just see the ring against the sky on a white background, but the diamond would be invisible.

Come up here, get the sixteen inch telescope, try it, and the diamond sphere could not be seen. Go get a forty or sixty inch telescope, still the diamond would not come into view.

Then get a 3,000,000 candle power electric arc searchlight and by means of a big lens concentrate the light on the diamond. Then a much smaller telescope would reveal it.

Go to the giant star sun, Sirius, the dog star. Take a very large telescope with you, turn around and look back this way.

Then the orbit of the earth, a ring 186,000,000 miles in diameter, would appear to be as three inches in diameter viewed from 9.31 miles, and the sun as the one seventy-first of an inch in diameter.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

HE DIDN'T LIKE WHIGS.

And He Had No Use For Portraits of Henry Clay.

In Daviess county, Ky., at the time when Henry Clay was running for the presidency against General Jackson, there lived a plain, industrious farmer. He was an ardent politician, noted for his hostility to Clay and his party. But his interest in politics did not make him indifferent to his wife's happiness. While in town one day he thought he would surprise the good woman by presenting her with a set of new dishes. He selected an attractive pattern, and as he was in a hurry did not examine the dishes closely, but had them packed and placed in his wagon.

His wife was delighted with the gift, but no slight examination satisfied her feminine curiosity. In turning over a dish she discovered on the under side a portrait of Henry Clay. Every piece was thus marked. To tease her husband she asked him the cause of his "sudden change of politics."

"Change of politics!" shouted the husband, as excited as if he had been charged with a crime. "What do you mean?"

Thereupon she showed him the portrait on the china. As if he were ridding himself of a noxious thing, the farmer gathered up every dish and, carrying them to the door, broke them into fragments on the stone steps. He purchased another set of dishes in a few days, but not until he had made sure that there was no Whig politician's portrait on them.—Youth's Companion.

What Makes a Nation.

I believe there is no permanent greatness to a nation except it be based upon morality. I do not care for military greatness or military renown. I care for the condition of the people among whom I live. Crowns, coronets, miters, military display, the pomp of war, wide colonies and a huge empire are, in my view, all trifles, light as air and not worth considering unless with them you can have a fair share of comfort, contentment and happiness among the great body of the people. Palaces, baronial castles, great halls, stately mansions, do not make a nation. The nation in every country dwells in the cottage, and unless the light of your constitution can shine there, unless the beauty of your legislation and the excellence of your statesmanship are impressed there on the feelings and condition of the people, rely upon it you have yet to learn the duties of government.—John Bright.

A Formidable Feast.

Wentworth Woodhouse has long been famed for its hospitality. On Jan. 7, 1732, Richard Wardman, the steward of Wentworth Woodhouse, writes that "My lord is to have a great diner for all his tenents and some other of his loveing gentlemen, that is parsons and dokters and pothecarys, and none is to be admitted but what has tickitts. I am told they have killed 18 Does, Barons and Spondones. His lordship has got a man to make him three Hunderd duzon of wooden trenchers; he finds him wood, and the man makes them, and when the day is over he is to have them all for his laboure. His lordship has taken a great deal of pains to make a nice calculation how they ar to sit and dine, for it is thought there will be about 8 Hunderd men that day—and a great piece of folly I say."—London Chronicle.

Ether.

Ether was known to the earliest chemists. Nitric ether was discovered by Kunkel in 1681 and muriatic ether, from the chloride of tin, in 1759, by Courtanvaux. Acetic ether was first prepared by Gay-Lussac. The beneficent discovery that ether is capable of rendering one insensible to pain is due to Drs. Jackson and Morton, who, about the year 1846, introduced it into the practice of surgery. Some claim that as between the two men the honors are about easy. Apart from the blessedness of the discovery of anaesthesia, it is impossible to estimate the value of the discovery to surgery as a science. It enables the delicate operation that would otherwise be impossible.—New York American.

SERVED IN A COLD PIE.

Sir Jeffrey Hudson's Introduction to Queen Henrietta.

Perhaps the most remarkable dwarf on record was Sir Jeffrey Hudson, the little fellow whom Scott introduces in "Peveril of the Peak." He was born in Rutlandshire, England, in 1619.

When eight years of age he was presented by the Duke of Buckingham to Queen Henrietta in a cold pie. He afterward became attached to the court of Charles I. At one of the court masks the king's porter, a man of gigantic size, who used to torment the little dwarf, pulled from one pocket a loaf of bread and from the other Jeffrey, much to the surprise and amusement of the company present. Jeffrey was at this time only eighteen inches in height.

He remained at this stature until he was thirty years of age, after which a curious exception to the laws of growth took place, since Jeffrey rapidly grew to be three feet nine inches in height, whereas most men do not grow a quarter of an inch after the age of thirty. This dwarf had an enormous head and very large hands and feet; otherwise his proportions were symmetrical and his face was considered handsome.

The White Ship.

The age of chivalry is supposed to be that age when young men dressed themselves up in armor and pounded one another with lances and swords. It is perhaps well to recall the story of the White Ship, which in the year 1120 carried to England the grandson of the Norman conqueror. This ship was captained by the son of the man who had steered across the conqueror himself. The ship sank. There was only one lifeboat. The young prince was put in that, to be rowed away. His sister screamed. He put back to save her also. So many leaped into the boat from the sinking ship that all were drowned except one butcher, who clung to the mast. The passengers on this ship were 140 picked and noble knights, guarding the person of their future king.—Collier's Weekly.

Traveling Incognito.

Some investigator of curious subjects has discovered that the inventor of traveling incognito was Peter the Great of Russia. The next after the famous Russian sovereign to adopt the practice was Joseph II. of Austria, who in 1777 made a little stay in Paris under the title of Count von Falkenstein. During the revolutionary period Louis XVIII. buried his temporarily useless royal dignity under the privacy of Comte de Lille, while Charles X. passed as the Comte de Marles. The ex-Empress Eugenie in her splendor frequently took little trips as the Comtesse de Pierrefonds.

A Labor of Love

Twenty Years Have Seen Thousands of Those Stricken by Tuberculosis Return to Health.

Story of the Fight that Big-Hearted Men Are Waging Against the Deadliest Foe of the White Man.

It is twenty years now, since a young clerk in a big Canadian business house walked into his chief's office one day, and announced that he was leaving the firm's employ.

"Why, what's the matter?"

"My lungs, sir. I have to go to Colorado, the doctor says." And then he told the whole story, just as any young man might tell it, and as hundreds of young men have told it—with shattered prospects and probable death staring them in the face. Tuberculosis has set its hand upon him, he said. He had received the first unmistakeable sign a few days before; and his doctor had told him that his only chance was to go to a warmer and drier climate.

He gave up his position, gathered up his few assets and went.

The episode was common enough, but its nearness brought it home with greater force to the chief and it set him thinking. This young man was able to take the step which would save his life, but what of the thousands who were not? They died and that was all there was to it. It was a matter of common belief in those days—and still is in some parts—that the consumptive was doomed. The business man's memory traveled back to a blacksmith he had known, who was the sole survivor of a family of fourteen, all victims of tuberculosis. The idea was appalling, and then and there he accepted his life work. He set himself to the task of bettering the condition of the victims of the white plague.

Triumph Over Apathy.

That was the beginning of the movement in Canada and its annals extending over two decades tell a story of triumph over apathy, ignorance and even misrepresentation and a result which, while it places Ontario far in the lead of any other district in America, still leaves the dream of its pioneers unfulfilled.

MR. W. J. GAGE.

The man who accepted a brief for the consumptive that day in his office was W. J. Gage of Toronto, and the outcome of the labor of many devoted hands is the institution known as the National Sanitarium Association.

At the time when Mr. Gage sallied forth to launch his idea the myth still prevailed that cures could only be affected in southern climates or in the altitudes of the Rockies. So he went first to Kamloops, B.C., and looked at a site there. A place was selected and Sir William Van Horne, then president of the Canadian Pacific, generously volunteered to carry patients free from all parts of Canada. In the meantime, however, the success of Dr. Trudeau in the Adirondacks drew the attention of medical men again to the east and the land chosen at Kamloops finally passed into the hands of the British Columbia Government for its own hospital. Medical men realized that Muskoka possessed all the necessary qualifications for successful treatment and doctors declared that it would be suitable for the summer season, but that in the winter it would be too cold. They little dreamed that the winter cure was later to play so important a part in the fight against the disease.

Turned to Muskoka.

Mr. Gage made a proposal to the city of Toronto that if they would furnish a site adjacent to the city he would give $25,000 towards a hospital. Civic bodies are not celebrated for speed, and two years elapsed and no action was taken. Mr. Gage then turned to the highlands of Ontario.

In the interval willing helpers had come forward, Hart A. Massey, manufacturer and philanthropist, agreeing to give $25,000. Dr. James E. Graham, who later gave up his life in the cause; Dr. N. A. Powell, Ambrose Kent, Hon. George A. Cox, Hugh Blain, Edward Gurney, Hon. W. A. Charlton, and others lent their aid and it was not long before the Muskoka Cottage Sanatorium was built near Gravenhurst and operating with a full equipment and staff. It was the second institution of its kind in America, and the first in Canada. Mr. Gage and Dr. Graham, then consultant for the city of Toronto, chose the site and peculiarly enough it was at that place some years later that Dr. Graham fell a victim to the disease against which he had fought so long, and died a martyr to his life work.

The sanatorium was running on a half charitable basis at six dollars a week, but the pioneers found themselves up against a blank wall. Low as the charges were, the founders could not secure donations for an institution which charged a fee.

Free Hospital Started.

So in 1902 the association erected the first building of the Muskoka Free Hospital, and it marked a step such as few nations in the world have taken even at the present time.

The enlistment of the late H. C. Hammond, the "well-beloved," was a typical instance and was eloquent of the man himself. He was passing the time on a Winnipeg train in a quiet game of poker when a doctor who was present told him of the work.

"I like that proposition," said Hammond, "and if you don't mind I'd like to chip in."

He did chip in handsomely and when later on a treasurer was needed he was chosen for the post. From that day until his death he labored unceasingly. His friends tell yet with glistening eyes of the ingenious little devices by which he contributed to funds, without anyone, as he thought, finding out. "A Friend," "No. 46," and a host of other aliases were afterwards found to have concealed the unobtrusive generosity of H. C. Hammond, whom someone has called "the dearest soul who ever drew breath."

H. D. Dwight, who died a few weeks ago, was another to whom the call came more urgently than to most men, and the late John Ewan, the veteran journalist, used his barbed pen to drive home the message to those who could help.

Thus far every effort has been put forward in behalf of those who could still be cured. But a far more pitiable class remained—sufferers who were beyond saving. A department was added for these and a hospital built near Weston, Ont., where they might be cared for and made comfortable in their last days.

Help For Child Victims.

Not long ago the Duke of Connaught laid the corner-stone for a hospital where proper care might be given to the most pathetic of all the classes of patients—the children. Most persons do not realize that such a class exists but there are hundreds of little ones undergoing or awaiting treatment—mere babies whose lives must inevitably be snuffed out unless they are speedily provided for.

It is significant of the attitude of the public towards the relief of consumptives that when the Cabinet Minister who listened to the first application for a charter had heard the addresses of the delegates, his first words were:

"Gentlemen, what you have just said has been a great relief to me. I had always thought tuberculosis was hereditary. My mother died of it, and all my life I have expected that I would some day be a victim."

When a Minister of the crown still believed that the disease was transmitted from parent to child by heredity, it was an uphill fight to persuade the people that consumption was neither inherited nor incurable.

This is the work in which a little band of men are engaged, and they stand only midway in their self-chosen task. The labor of the past twenty years has brought about vast changes for good. The little deputation that went to the Governments of Manitoba, British Columbia, Ontario, Nova Scotia, and the Dominion has seen the seed it sowed spring up into sturdy growth and the pioneers of the movement are in a position to devote themselves more particularly now to Ontario. Government assistance has risen by degrees from the regular hospital allowance of ninety cents to $1.50 a week per patient and now to $3. The death rate from tuberculosis has dropped in spite of the incoming population. But the work is only half done.

Over one and a half million dollars have been spent for the care of these patients. Over 6,000 people have already been treated, and before the close of the present year there will be daily under the care of the Sanitarium Association five hundred patients.

It Can Be Cured.

Consumption is no longer an incurable disease. There was a time when the taint was considered equivalent to a "sentence of death," as John Ewan phrased it, but thousands of cures testify that all that is needed is the equipment and the expert service, and the blot can be wiped out.

The founders of the crusade in Canada are not relaxing their efforts. They are redoubling them and they propose to stay in the field until provision is made for every sufferer irrespective of age or wealth.

Some of the workers have themselves been bereaved; some have seen the blight of the plague very near to them, and they are all intensely in earnest. They propose to go on in the knowledge that they are easing the burdens of men, women and babes whom they see about them.

And after all the world has nothing better for a man than that.

Many a fool man commands respect by merely looking wise.

Many a man's real reason for going downtown every evening is that he is married to the wrong woman.

Half of Canada.

It is not generally known that the Northwest Territories comprise half the Dominion and that it is very rich in minerals and that the Yukon alone produces gold to the value of $5,000,000 a year and that almost 1,000 tons of copper are shipped daily from the White Horse mine and that vast copper areas are to be found at the head of White River.

It is an easy matter for the average man to live down his salary.

The more some women talk the less they seem to think.

MARIE ANTOINETTE.

Two Dramatic and Contrasting Episodes in Her Life.

Thistelton-Dyer, in his "Royalty In All Ages," describes two dramatic and tragically contrasted episodes in the life of Marie Antoinette, the lovely and ill fated queen of France. Once, in the days of her greatest popularity, when she went to the opera of "Iphigenia," when Achilles came to the line "Let us sing and celebrate the queen," he turned toward the radiant young sovereign and sang two additional impromptu lines of charming compliment. This graceful and unexpected homage so delighted the audience that "all was shouting and clapping of hands, and—what never happened at the opera before—the chorus was encored, and there were cries of 'Long live the queen!' at which expression of feeling her majesty was so affected that she shed tears."

On the next occasion, when Marie Antoinette's sun of popular favor had set and she was nearing the tragic close of her life, one of the actresses in "Unforeseen Events" bowed to her as she sang the words, "Ah, how I love my mistress!" In a moment all was in uproar, and the theater was full of hoarse, angry cries of "No mistress! No master! Liberty!" and "No master! No queen!" and it was some minutes before the tumult quieted down and it was possible to proceed with the play.

Keeping Peace at Home.

How do they do it—the couples who win the Dunmow flitches by going a whole year without a quarrel? Tact undoubtedly plays a part. One recalls the simple system of a Sussex couple to keep peace at home. When the wife came in a little ruffled she flung her shawl over her left shoulder, and the husband knew that silence was golden. If he came home with hat cocked forward the wife knew that something was wrong, and she likewise lay low. It's the simplest tact that keeps the peace at home, where you may never be at a loss for the quarrel you look for.—London Chronicle.

"It Suits to a T."

The clause "It suits to a T," meaning it fits exactly, is as old as the familiar instrument, the T square or T rule (so called from its resemblance to the letter T), used by mechanics and draftsmen for making angles true and for obtaining perpendiculars. The expression was in common use in the time of Dr. Johnson, who is quoted by Boswell as saying of Wharburton, "You see they'd have fitted him to a T."

Why She Couldn't.

"No, I didn't have a very good time," she said. "I wanted to talk, and there wasn't a man there."

"But there were plenty of other girls."

"Oh, of course, but that was no satisfaction, for they all wanted to talk."

The Retreat From Moscow.

Napoleon's army for the invasion of Russia numbered over 400,000. Only 20,000 returned. During the retreat thousands of horses lay groaning on the route, while thousands of naked wretches were wandering like specters who seemed to have no sight or sense, and who only kept reeling on till frost, famine or the Cossack lance put an end to their power of motion. In that wretched state no nourishment could have saved them. Innumerable dogs crouched by the bodies of their former masters, looking at their faces and howling their hunger and their loss. Besides their suffering from the cold and for the want of food, they were assailed on all sides, not only by Russian soldiers, but by peasants through whose country they passed. Altogether, Napoleon's retreat from Moscow was a complication of misery, of cruelty, of desolation and of disorder that can never have been exceeded in the history of mankind.

Broken China Roused Him.

When Canon Rawnsley was collecting information in the lake district about Wordsworth, he came upon an old man who had been a servant at Rydal Mount. This whilom retainer told many interesting stories.

Wordsworth, it seemed, was very absentminded. He always forgot the dinner hour.

"I'd goa," the old man remarked, "to study door and hear him a-mumblin' away to 'sself.

"'Dinner's ready, sir,' I'd ca' out, but he'd go a-mumbling on like a deaf man, ya see. And sometimes Mrs. Wudsworth 'ud say: 'Goa and brek a bottle, or let a dish fall, just outside his door in passage.' Eh, dear, that maistly wad bring him out, wad that. It was nobbut that as wad, howivver. For, ye kna, he was a very careful man and he couldn't do with brekking t' china."—Pearsons.

A Telepathic Clock.

Here is a strange yet absolutely true story, in which a clock plays a mysterious part: It was a small American timepiece which stood on a mantelpiece in a sitting room in a Liverpool builder's home. At 11:30 one morning the timepiece fell from the mantelpiece to the floor. When picked up it was found to be quite uninjured and still going, as if nothing unusual had happened. There seemed to be absolutely no reason why it should have fallen, but an hour later when the builder came home to his midday meal he remarked that at 11:30 he fell from the top of a building, but happily without sustaining any injury. His wife then described how the clock had fallen at the same time and the couple ponder in vain over the curious and utterly inexplicable coincidence.—Liverpool Post.

The Explosion of a Flower.

Sometimes the floral spathe of a great palm tree will fly open with a sound like a detonation in a mine. Such an event occurred in a botanical garden in Algiers recently. The spathe, nearly three feet long, was projected to a great distance and for some moments the head of the palm tree was wreathed with golden dust formed of the debris of the flower. The sun's heat had roasted the flower to the color of rust. The director of the garden explained the explosion as being due to a fermentation in the flower caused by the extraordinary dryness of the air. A violent sirocco had just passed. In Algiers ostrich eggs explode in the same way and from a like cause.—Harper's.

Actress Says Man Murdered Woman

CHICAGO, Nov 2.—"Conway killed her. He struck Miss Singer on the head with the door-knob, and then tied her up so she could not give the alarm."

Beatrice Ryall, vaudeville actress, made this statement after five hours grilling at the hands of police officers to-day. Charles Conway, who, she said, did the actual killing, will be interrogated by the police as soon as a detailed statement is made and signed by Miss Ryall.

In her confession Miss Ryall said; "Conway and I quarreled. He was very angry at me and I was angry with him. I hardly knew what I was doing when he suggested that we rob Sophia and I was afraid not to do as he told me.

"He did not intend to kill her. He needed money for an operation on his leg. He was afraid to go to the County Hospital, where he could get it done free, because he was afraid they would not be careful with him.

"I did not see him stuff anything in Sophia's mouth. If I had, I would have stopped him. I don't know whether he thought of robbing her before that night or not, but I do know he only intended to stun her and then tie her so she could not give any alarm while we were going away."

The Ryall woman's statement came after a sensational scene in the office of Captain Halpin, the head of the detective department. Wm. Warthen, who had eloped with Miss Singer, and who said he had intended to marry her, added his tears to the dramatic action in the detective's office.

Many Statesmen Commend Roberts

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A letter extensively signed by M. P. P.'s and others has been sent to Lord Roberts expressing sincere admiration for his profoundly convincing address at Manchester.

"Whatever may be the precise solution of the difficult problem of national Imperial defence, we believe that only disaster awaits us unless we are prepared to face the problem with the frankness, sincerity and conviction which inspired your address," says the letter.

Among over a hundred signatories are: General Pole-Carew, Lord Beresford, Mayor Archer Shee., Sir George Doughty, Sir Gilbert Parker, Hon. Walter Long and Donald MacMaster.

The leading Berlin Conservative newspaper says that Lord Roberts must have realized that he was handling inflammatory matter of a most dangerous description. "His clearness is worthy of commendation, but he must be told as clearly as possible that Germany is not to be provoked without reason."

No Blood Spilled In Cuban Election

HAVANA, Nov. 2.—Absolute order prevailed in all parts of the island to-day during the balloting for President, Vice-President and other insular offices. Up to a late hour to-night the result in the Presidential election was in doubt. The partisans of both Gen. Mario Menocal, Conservative, and Alfredo Zayas, Liberal, are claiming the victory, but with the small returns at hand the chances of election apparently are slightly in favor of Gen. Menocal.

The Conservatives have received private advices that Gen. Menocal carried the Provinces of Oriente, Camaguey and Matanzas and probably Santa Clara. They are disposed to concede that Senor Zayas has won out in Pina del Rio.

Patrols of cavalry and infantry constantly circulated in Havana today for the purpose of preventing the gathering of crowds, but their services were not needed. The police did not make more than their usual number of arrests during the day.

Has Vicar-General Tendered Resignation?

PARIS, Nov. 3.—Special—The Matin says that Cardinal Respighi, Vicar-General to Pope Pius, has resigned, following an enquiry ordered by the Pope into the administration of the chancellor of the vicarage, Mgr. Faberi, and which, it is alleged, established favoritism.

The Cardinal, according to the Matin, deemed himself responsible for his subordinate's actions and tendered his resignation.

Jack Johnson's Saloon Closed

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Chicago has written "finis" to the career of Jack Johnson, negro pugilist. He will not be allowed to violate the laws here any longer. The "Cafe de Champion," his saloon and resort in Thirty first Street, was closed yesterday by the police of the Thirty-fourth Street Station.

The order came from Capt. Nootbaar, who acted on instructions from City Collector Cohen. After a conference with the city law department Collector Cohen told Capt. Nootbaar to close the saloon, as no license had been issued. A squad of police went there at 2 o'clock, drove the patrons and employes to the street, and locked the doors.

The notoriety growing out of the charges against the negro in connection with Lucile Cameron and other white women, caused the refusal of a renewal of his license. The collector ruled that Johnson was an undesirable person and of bad character.

Richard Klegin of Paris, who says he represents the owners of the Aquarium Gardens, in Moscow, Russia, gave Johnson a certified cheque for $5,000 and three round-trip tickets to Russia last night.

"Johnson has signed an agreement," said Klegin. "to fight Sam McVey for a purse of $30,000 and one third of the proceeds of the moving pictures. He will leave Chicago on Nov. 30 for Moscow for a series of ring battles."

United States District Attorney Wilkerson, when he heard of Johnson's plans to go abroad, said: "He'll do no such thing. His first move to leave the country will cause him to be locked up. We expect to indict him and convict him for violating the Mann (white slave) law."

Lillian Russell Works For T. R.

PITTSBURG, Nov 2.—Lillian Russell, now Mrs. Alexander P. Moore, is working for the Bull Moose party at the "Progressive store", opened by the society and club women who are boosting the Roosevelt ticket The proceeds of the sale of trinkets and emblems goes to the campaign fund. Miss Russell is called "the best seller." Women buy from her that they may look at her clothes and men make her stand look like a bargain counter.

At noon to-day Miss Russell made a speech, in which she said:.

'My mother, Cynthia Leonard, was a pioneer in the humanitarian movement.. At her knee I learned that equal franchise meant progress for all. She was a candidate for Mayor of New York city on the broad platform of human equality—equality of the sexes as well as of conditions. She taught me the right view on this and other questions and I was always a progressive.'

To Name Successor To Vice-President

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The name of Governor Hadley, of Missouri, is understood to have figured prominently in brief conferences which Republican leaders had with President Taft late last night over the vacancy on the Republican ticket, caused by the death of Vice-President Sherman.

The President arrived here at 10.45 o'clock from Washington and spent the night at the Manhattan Hotel. He left this morning for Utica to attend Mr. Sherman's funeral.

Chairman Hilles, of the Republican National Committee, accompanied the President, and in addition there was a large number of national committeeman and Republican Senators on the train with whom the President and Chairman Hilles will undoubtedly confer. No definite announcement, however, is to be expected before Sunday at the earliest.

It is understood that Republican leaders have learned that Governor Hadley is in receptive mood for the honors which have been mentioned, and while the names of a number of other prominent men have been under discussion, it was said by some of the leaders that the attitude of a majority of the National Committeemen seemed favorable to the Missouri Governor.

BRITISH CABINET RECEIVE TURKISH AMBASSADOR

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 4.—Special—The British Cabinet held an emergency session early this morning and received the Turkish ambassador, Tewfik Pasha, who asked for mediation to settle the Balkan States war. It is believed that the Powers will ask Turkey to first approach the Balkans for peace. Fighting began within 15 miles of Constantinople this morning, and there are rumors of rioting in the streets of the Turkish capital.

Shot in Hallowe'en Celebration

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 3.—Special—Frank Cook, the 12-year-old son of John Cook, who resides on Yarmouth Heights, just east of the city limits, was seriously hurt Hallowe'en night, when he was shot in the leg with a 32-calibre rifle, the bullet just missing an artery. The lad was one of a group out for mischief when they were met by a rival gang, and trouble followed. The boy is in the hospital, and the physician successfully removed the bullet yesterday. The lad who fired the shot will likely come up before County Magistrate Hunt for a hearing this week.

Kingston Becoming Very Ambitious

KINGSTON, Nov. 4.—Special—Kingston wants to be on the main line of the Grand Trunk, and will make every effort possible to get the company to put the main line into the city. The council will ask the company to consider the proposition. With the main line of the Grand Trunk in the city, it is then proposed to have the G. T. R., C. P. R. and C. N. R. erect a union station.

Prominent Kingston Residents Dead

KINGSTON, Nov. 4.—Special—Death came very suddenly to two prominent residents, when Captain John Black and Andrew Keyes passed away. Captain Black sailed the lakes for more than 25 years. Andrew Keyes was born in Kingston 60 years ago and was the father of Dr. Stanley Keyes.

Unionists Make Good Showing

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Polling took place Friday throughout England and Wales for the election of members to Borough Councils. Besides the local interest attached to such elections, the results are considered, as showing to a certain extent the strength of the political parties.

The unopposed returns of members for London are more numerous than ever, showing that the well-known apathy of the London elector with regard to the management of local affairs is as strong as ever. In the country the Unionists gained over fifty seats, Liberals thirty, and the Laborites none.

Wilson Sure Of Winning Out

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Governor Wilson said today that he was confident he would be elected president next Tuesday.

"I did not go up to Rochester to ask the people there to elect me president of the United States because I think that is going to happen anyhow," he said. "It would be a feather in my cap, however, if not only Monroe county, but that part of the state regarded as a Republican stronghold would do me the honor to vote for me."

What the governor did go to Rochester for last night, he said, was for the purpose of urging the election of candidates for Congress.

The Governor reached New York at nine o'clock this morning. This afternoon he will leave for Long Branch and Red Bank, N. J., where he will speak tonight.

Becker Changes Council

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Louis J. Grant will conduct the legal fight to be made by Charles Becker, deposed police lieutenant, for his life and not John F. McIntyre and John W. Hart, although Mr. McIntyre may assist in preparing Becker's appeal.

Mr. Grant said to-day that he had talked with Becker twice prior to Becker's being sentenced, and would visit Becker at Sing Sing next Wednesday after which the plans for conducting the appeal will be announced.

Mr. Grant was unable to deny or confirm a report that Messrs. McIntyre and Hart had withdrawn entirely from the case. Mr. Hart declined to comment on it, and Mr. McIntyre was out of town.

Arrest Two In Bank Robbery Case

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 2.—H. E. Campbell and Joe P. Gavin, who the police believe were implicated in the $200,000 bank robbery at New Westminster, Can., were arrested here yesterday by United States Deputy Marshall Albauer when they entered the postoffice and asked for mail at the general delivery window. Private detectives are said to have followed the men to this city and to have notified the federal authorities of their presence here.

Two of the men implicated in the robbery have been captured and $10,000 of the stolen money has been recovered. The men under arrest here will be held pending a thorough investigation. The police say that they answer the description of the men wanted.

Another man who is said to be wanted by the authorities in connection with the robbery is said to be in Columbus and is being searched for by the police.

Gavin claimed that he is a traveling salesman of Chicago, and Campbell says he is a salesman, making Columbus his home.

Fierce Battle With Escaped Convicts

RAWLINS, Wyoming, Nov. 2.—A fierce fight took place last night when a posse headed by Sherrif Terrill and Deputy Sheriff O'Gee, cornered three fugitive prisoners after a chase of more than two weeks and killed two of them. A third convict escaped and has not been captured. None of the posse was shot.

Richardson, Backstrum and Burke, three of the most desperate among the convicts who escaped on October 18, killing one citizen and stabbing another, had remained together in their flight through the hills southward toward Colorado, eluding the pursuers time after time. All three were armed, and they stole food and ammunition along the way. Several posses have been constantly on their trail, but they have succeeded in keeping ahead of their pursuers until last night.

The bodies of the dead convicts will be brought to Rawlins. The pursuit of Burke will continue.

Finding of Blonde Eskimo Corroborated

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 2.—Corroborating in every detail the story of the discovery of the blonde Eskimo tribe recently announced by Vihjalmor Steifansson, Dr. Rudolph Martin Anderson, of Forest City, Ia., his partner in Arctic explorations, arrived here yesterday on the whaler Belvedere after four and a half years in the far north. He was accompanied by Prof. Leffingwell of Pasadena, Cal., who has spent three and a half years making observations in the vicinity of the Flaxman Islands and surveying and mapping about 150 miles of the coast line.

Dr. Anderson brings back hundreds of specimens of mammals, birds, birds, fishes and minerals that will be divided between the Dominion geological survey at Ottawa, and the American museum of natural history in New York.

He has 35 specimens of cariboo.

Remarkable Funeral Held at Odessa

ODESSA, Nov. 2.—A remarkable scene was enacted at the funeral of the notorious bandit Kossovsky, recently killed here.

Some 200 Apaches, most of them wanted by the police, including several deputations from other towns, attended. The police stopped a motor car containing one batch of mourners, but the others made a successful plea to the chief of the secret police to allow them to pay their respect at the grave of their departed comrade.

After the interment, however, the police who, in the meantime, had surrounded the cemetery, pounced on the funeral party and arrested 162 of the bandits.

Wall St. Betting On Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The New York American says betting on the election was more brisk in Wall Street yesterday. A commissioner placed $100 against $250 that Roosevelt will get twice as many electoral votes as Taft; also $100 to $400 that Roosevelt gets three times the electoral vote of Taft, and $100 to $600 that he gets four times as many.

Wilson is still 4 to 1 and some got 5 to 1.

Other bets were $1,000 even that Hedges will beat Straus and $1,000 on Sulzer at 2 to 1; Sulzer to win 2 1-2 to 1; $1,000 even that Roosevelt beats Taft; $1,000 even that Sulzer gets 10,000 plurality in Kings.

One bet of $550 was placed against $500 that Roosevelt gets more popular votes than Taft.

TWELVE ARE DROWNED

Steamer Cecilia L. is Wrecked at Mouth of Chateauguay.

During Gale On Friday Night, Boat Engaged on Montreal-Valleyfield Trip Is Driven on a Shoal and Twelve of Crew and Passengers Perish—Four Are Taken Off—Women and Children Drown

Montreal, Nov. 4.—Twelve persons perished and four were rescued from the wreck of the steamer Cecilia L. in the narrow channel between Beauharnois and Isle Perrot at the mouth of the Chateauguay river during the gale on Friday evening.

The dead are: Captain E. Leduc, Valleyfield; Clovis de Bellefeuille, engineer, Valleyfield; Albertus Hebert, sailor, Valleyfield; Joseph Lebouef, fireman, Valleyfield; Mrs. Maxime Michaud, stewardess, Valleyfield; Alexina de Bellefeuille, sister of engineer, Valleyfield; Miss Leduc, daughter of George Leduc, 10 years old, Valleyfield; Mrs. (Miss) Valerie Valois, Montreal; Mrs. Jos. St. Marseille, Cascades; Jimmie St. Marseille, son of preceding, 18 years old, Cascades; Mrs. Zilda de Repentigny, Valleyfield; Miss de Repentigny, 10 years old, Valleyfield.

The survivors are: Lionel Leduc, second officer, son of captain; Alex. Gosselin, wheelsman, Cascades; A. E. Baillarge, passenger, Cedars; Felix Cousineau, passenger, Coteau du Lac.

The Cecelia, which was a freight and passenger carrying vessel, running between Montreal and Valleyfield, left Montreal on Friday afternoon with nine passengers, six of them women and children, and a large cargo.

After passing through the Lachine Canal the steamer encountered heavy weather immediately on entering Lake St. Louis, causing alarm among the passengers. But the craft weathered the wind, which blew in gusts of 50 miles an hour and the heavy sea, until she reached the channel, where, in the darkness, she was driven on a shoal and smashed into wreckage in an incredibly short time.

So rapid was the breaking up of the vessel that all attempts to lower the frail boats in the heavy sea and to get the passengers aboard were unsuccessful. Only four of the sixteen people aboard escaped. Two of the passengers managed to cling to some wreckage, which consisted of part of the upper deck and some empty beer barrels, which floated high out of the water, and two of the crew managed to clamber into one of the boats which had gone adrift after the final destruction of the vessel.

The two passengers floated ashore at Sister's Island, and would undoubtedly have perished of exposure had not people on shore at Chateauguay heard their cries and at great risk to themselves, rowed out and taken them to the mainland. The two sailors succeeded in reaching the little village of Woodlands three hours after the disaster.

All the women and children, together with the captain and several of the crew and other passengers, perished. Most of the bodies have been washed ashore and an inquest will be held to-day.

Fight to Unionize City.

Indianapolis, Nov. 4.—Extracts from The Ironworkers' Union Magazine concerning a demand made upon the American Federation of Labor to raise a tax of one cent a month on all its members to unionize Los Angeles, Cal., three years before James B. McNamara, a brother of the secretary of the Ironworkers' Union, blew up The Los Angeles Times building, were read by the Government at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial Saturday.

One abstract was a copy of a resolution adopted by the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers in September, 1907. It asserted that Los Angles was a "breeding place for strikebreakers of all crafts and trades," and added "if unionism is crushed in Los Angeles it will be but a short time before the same methods are applied to other cities. The struggle is national in scope and should be financed by the American Federation of Labor."

Wheat Consignment Breaks Record.

Fort William, Nov. 4.—When the steamer Willis L. King departed for Buffalo Saturday, she carried the largest cargo of wheat that has ever been taken from any of the lake ports. The King went under the elevator spouts early Saturday morning to load capacity. It is expected that her cargo will be 425,000 bushels. The previous record was 405,000 bushels, including part of the flax taken by the steamer Jones at Duluth.

The biggest cargo previously carried from Fort William was 384,000 bushels.

Indian Chief Dies.

Brantford, Nov. 4.—Chief John Gibson of the Six Nations Indians is dead at his home on the reserve, aged 64 years. He had been blind for thirty years, his affliction following a strenuous lacrosse match in which the chief indulged and in which he overheated himself. Of late years he plied the trade of making lacrosse sticks and was one of the most eloquent chiefs of the Six Nations. He was a leader of the Pagans or worshippers of the Great Spirit. He will be buried to-day with Indian rites

Wriggling Tongues.

Lawyers are not freer than other public speakers from slips of the tongue. Mr. Asquith of the English cabinet in a speech in parliament said:

"Let it be known, gentlemen, that of these just demands we abate not one jit or tottle."

A few days later an English judge, after a policeman had testified that he had found the prisoners in bed with their clothes on, asked in amazement:

"Do you mean to say that they had gone to boot with their beds on?"

Industry is the magnet that draws things our way.

Nothing makes a woman feel so insignificant as the refusal of a man to argue with her.

WOMEN TAKE NOTICE!

A man cannot understand the torture and suffering many women endure uncomplainingly. If the majority of men suffered as much pain and endured with patience the weakening sicknesses that most women do, they would ask for immediate sympathy and look for a quick cure.

Many women have been saved from a life of misery and suffering by turning to the right remedy—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a remedy which is safe to take because containing no narcotics, alcohol or injurious ingredients. It is an alterative extract of roots, made with pure glycerin, and first given to the public by that famous specialist in the diseases of women—Dr. R. V. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Hessheimer.

Mrs. Lizzie M. Hessheimer, of Lincoln, Neb., 529 "C" St., says: "I send a testimonial with much pleasure so that some suffering woman may know the true worth of your remedies. I was a great sufferer from female troubles but after taking one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which a friend advised me to take, I found myself very much improved. After taking three more bottles, and using two boxes of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets, I found myself on the road to recovery. I was in poor health for five years but now I am cured.

"I hope all women suffering from female weakness will give Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a fair trial.

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules.

Garibaldi Goes To Assist Greece

ROME, Nov. 2.—Although the Italian Government has decided to maintain the strickest neutrality in connection with the Balkan complications, the enthusiasm of the people here is growing in favor of the four small States fighting for the independence of their fellow-countrymen still subject to Ottoman rule.

In this there is no feeling of resentment against Turkey caused by the late war in Tripoli, but simply the chivalrous sentiment which has always animated Italians whenever a people have risen in the name of a nationality.

Besides the numbers of volunteers who had already joined the Montenegrins and the Greeks, a large body of youths had been urging Gen. Ricciotti Garibaldi, son of the great hero, to organize an expedition and put himself at its head, as he did in 1897, at the time of the Graeco-Turkish war. Garabaldi did so, and arrived at Patras yesterday.

Another tie with the Balkan States is due to the fact that all the Bulgarian Generals now at the front have been students at the Military Academy of Turin and that 250 other Bulgarian officers on the staff and in the army which is now confronting Turkey served in the Italian Army.

A War Bismarck Forgot

The smallest of Europe's sovereign states, Liechtenstein, which is preparing to celebrate the second century of its independence, has a monarch and a parliament, but no taxes and no army. Its finances are provided by its Prince John II., who in turn nominates three of its fifteen M.P.'s. At the time of the Austro-Prussian war the principality sided with Austria and mobilized an army of 100 of all ranks to share in the fighting. But Liechtenstein's army never smelt fire, and Liechtenstein itself was quite overlooked in the peace negotiations, at the end of the war. Fifteen years later Bismarck discovered that his country was still technically at war with this miniature state, and in strict accordance with the etiquette of such things, pourpariers took place and a formal treaty of peace was signed between the two countries.

Medals to Boy Scouts

The Duke of Connaught has been pleased to approve in his capacity of chief of the Canadian Boy Scouts, of the award of silver cross medals for life saving to Assistant Troop Leader Peter Fobert, of Toronto, and Scout Bruce Ross, of Grimsby. The medals have been sent to provincial headquarters at Toronto for presentation.

Fobert rescued Wilfrid Culham, aged 11, from drowning at the foot of Beech Avenue, Toronto, last August.

Ross saved the life of a companion scout, named Wm. Flannery, at Grimsby last summer. Flannery had tried to jump into a boat from a pier, but missed the mark and fell into the water. He could not swim.

A Mining Revival In Hastings County

HASTINGS, Nov. 2.—Much work is going on among the old and new mines of Hastings and Frontenac counties. Properties that have long lain idle are being reopened and new sections are being developed by outside capitalists who are quietly picking up lands in localities until recently looked upon as of little or no value, and are finding the outlook most encouraging. Few realize the work that is and has been going along in these counties. I have heard of them, in a general way, for years, but until last week had never gone to see for myself.

Among the more prominent are the Star of the East, Silver King, Golden Fleece, Cordova Mines, Bogart, Sulphite, Mundick, Deloro Mines, Wilberforce (graphite), Gilmour (gold), Bessemer, where Mackenzie and Mann are developing iron properties, and the Ore Chimney, a few miles north of Kaladar, on the C. P. R. Nearly all of these are being worked, and some of them very successfully.

The Ore Chimney is in practically a new field, near Northbrooke. It was found by an Indian guide, who pointed it out to some hunters from Buffalo, who, taking up several hundred acres, have been actively at work for over a year. They have traced a wide lead for about three-quarters of a mile, and have a shaft down nearly to the 125-foot level, at which level cross cuts will be run to the north and south to the full width of the vein. Good assays have been found, running from $20 to over $100 in gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc, all of which values, it is thought, can be saved by the modern processes of reclamation. The result is being watched with very great interest. That it will be successful seems to be a foregone conclusion, and properties in the locality have increased in value enormously—the hundreds of a year ago are the thousands of today.

Northern Frontenac is a very wild and picturesque country, with here and there a farm in the little valleys, whose grasses must be rich, to judge from the cattle seen grazing. It was once a great timber section where the Gilmours, the Maclarens, the Booths, the Gillies, and other lumber kings had limits. But scarcely a pine tree can be seen in the miles of travel over roads that the driver tells you are very bad. But in comparison to many another mining country their roads are macadamized highways.

Whilst wild and picturesque, the telephone brings one in such close touch with the outside world that it does not seem so. The only difference between the two systems—city and country—is that out there you don't have to wait to get a connection. The girls are very obliging. "Give me Toronto," and the "gitt" is quickly made. This is specially convenient for the many deer hunters who, just now, are going in by the score—I might say hundreds. The stage that took us out carried three prominent Torontonians—A. A. Barthelmes, M. Manley, and Wm. Spanner—who go out every year. They told us that hunting was good. We saw many partridge along the road—but never when the gun was ready.

Not far north of the Ore chimney is Bon Echo Lake and Inn, of which I had long heard. The lake is nine miles long, with rocky sides running sheer 350 feet high. On these rocks may be seen old Indian paintings, of which I had heard so much.

A very interesting country is Northern Frontenac and Hastings, and will very shortly be much in the limelight.

Cheating The Gallows

There are many curious tales of resuscitation after hanging, for instance that of Mme. de Balsham, who in 1264, having been condemned to death for harboring thieves, was left hanging on the gallows, accoring to the London Chronicle, from 9 o'clock on Monday morning until sunrise on Thursday, but revived on being taken down. Henry III. granted her a pardon.

Another instance of the kind occurred at Oxford in 1650, when Anna Green, a servant girl, hanged for child murder, revived when handed over to the doctors. Eager enquiries were made of her as to her sensations after suspension, but she remembered nothing, saying that her revival was like awakening from a deep sleep.

Resuscitation after hanging is not uncommon. In 1705 a housebreaker named Smith was hanged at Tyburn. A reprieve came after he had been suspended for a quarter of an hour and he was taken down, bled and revived.

One William Duell, duly hanged in London in 1740, was taken to Surgeons Hall to be anatomized, but came to life again and was transported. At Cork a man hanged in Jaunary, 1767, for a street robbery, was immediately after hurried to a surgery, where an incision was made in his windpipe and he recovered and went to the theatre the same evening.

And after Fauntleroy, the banker and forger, was executed in 1824 there was a widespread rumor that he had escaped death by the insertion in his throat of a silver tube which prevented strangulation, and that on being restored to consciousness he went abroad and lived for many years.

A very ingenious attempt to cheat the gallows was made by a man named Richard Johnson, who was hanged at Shrewsbury in 1626. He hung half an hour and his body was about to be handed over to his relatives when the hangman thought he detected some signs of life.

On examination it was found that Johnson had wreathed cords round and under his body connected with a pair of hooks at his neck by which the usual effect was prevented, the apparatus being cleverly concealed under a frilled shirt and a flowing periwig. He was taken down and then promptly rehanged with success.

Perhaps the most startling story about resuscitation after hanging is told of the famous anatomist, William Hunter, under whose hands the body of a man who had just been hanged revived while being dissected. This was not all, however, for the fellow insisted on considering Hunter what lawyers term "in loco parentis," as being the author of his renewed existence. In this final character he repeatedly applied for and finally demanded financial assistance.

But to Hunter's great relief one morning he received "a recent subject from Newgate * * * * the same criminal executed a second time for some fresh offence. The experiment of resuscitation was not again attempted."

AMUSEMENTS

THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE.

In "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which is adapted from the novel of the same name, by John Fox, Jr., Eugene Walter is said to have found June a most suitable character for his successful drama, which will appear at Griffin's opera house tomorrow night. June, barefooted, wondering-eyed creature of memory and dreams known by a million book-lovers, is the heroine of the story and play. The part of the half-savage, untutored child of the Cumberland mountains is one that has delighted thousands.

In the play Mr. Walter has made primitive love the motive for a feudal war that rages between two clashing mountain clans, the families of the Tollivers and the Falins. June's love for Hale, the engineer, is made the cause of the killing of Dave Tolliver by Buck Falin, as well as the attempted murder of Hale by young Dave. The play has a gorgeous scenic setting, a vivid dramatic visualization of the book. From beginning to end it is a story of elemental love, a story that is meant to be heart-clutching in its intensity. It is the love of a mountain girl uneducated in the ways of society and civilization for a man of the world, a love which June does not understand—a love which frightens her a little.

June's love for Hale is inspired from companionship around the Lonesome Pine, spiritualized by the potent fancy that the spirit of her dead sister is talking to her in the trembling of the pine needles and the sighing of the wind through the branches. It develops into the finer instincts of the yearning of soul for soul, and it enlarges until it warms and beams upon all of the Tolliver kin and quiets the feud that has been raging in the Cumberland Mountains for a hundred years.

This big Chicago, Boston and New York success comes to Griffin's opera house tomorrow night.

Death of a Former Belleville Resident

Taken from Kingston Whig Oct. 29.—Mr. Charles Clark, 671 Princess Street, has the sympathy of his friends in the death of his wife Emma Eliza Clark. She leaves a husband and family to mourn her loss.

Mrs. Clark was a Methodist. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Mrs. Clark, was formerly Miss Emma Merriam, a Belleville lady, her mother, Mrs. M. Doolittle, resides in this city. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Doolittle, one sister, Miss Addie Merriam and one brother Mr. Chas. Merriam, of Belleville and two brothers, William and George Merriam of San Francisco.

NEWTON GIRL

Pale, Run-down, Anaemic—Restored to Health by Vinol.

Miss Katharine Burns, of Newton, Mass., says: "About six months ago I was in a run-down condition and my blood was very poor. I had taken several medicines prescribed by physicians, but they seemed to do me no good. Finally Vinol was recommended, and from the first bottle I noticed a great improvement. I have taken six bottles and I feel strong and as well as ever."—Katharine Burns.

Vinol is the greatest body builder and strength creator we know of—the curative elements of the cod's liver, aided, by the blood-making, strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol, restore the lacking ingredients to the blood, and the result is health, strength and vigor.

If you need building up try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Red Cross Drug Store. J. S. McKeown, Belleville.

LAID AT REST

Interment took place in the family plot in Bellevelle cemetery. The bearers were F. Wilson, P. Denyes, B. Gunn, J. Gay, H. Hogle and J. Finkle. The floral tributes were beatiful and many. The attendance at the funeral was large, from the city and surrounding country.

KNOCKED DOWN BY VEHICLE

A lad named Kenneth Bunnett, whose home is on Everett Street, in this city, on Saturday evening was the victim of an accident which fortunately was not of a serious nature. The lad was engaged in delivering some parcels, and proceeding up Front Street upon a bicycle when he was run into by a man driving a horse attached to a light democrat waggon. Bunnett was knocked down and a wheel of the vehicle ran over him, bruising a leg. The wheel, which the boy was riding, was badly broken. The man was driving upon the wrong side of the street and it is alleged in a wreckless manner.

ORANGE SOCIETIES AT CHURCH

To commemorate the near aproach of the anniversary of Guy Fawkes, the Orangemen, Prentice Boys and True Blues of the city yesterday morning attended divine service at Christ Church. There was a large turnout of the members of the various organization, who thoroughly appreciated the discourse given by the Rector of the church, Rev. R. C. Blagrave. After prayer and appropriate hymns had been sung the Rector preached an able sermon, the basis of his remarks being from St. John 13:34. "That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye love one another."

A RECORD OUTPUT

The affair was a most enjoyable one in every respect and an excellent repast was provided. Mr. Moore presided over the pleasing function. After supper speecees were made by Mr. Sturges, roller in charge of the mill on which the record was made, Mr Higgs, Supt., Mr Slaughter, Mr. Donahue, Mr. F. Chesher, Mr. J. K. Smith, Mr. H. Killed by Train While on Holiday

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—James Carmody, 23 years old, a lather living at 323 Albany avenue, was instantly killed yesterday forenoon at Frenchman's Bay when he was run down by a west-bound Grand Trunk train. He and his brother, William B. Carmody, were spending the week-end at the bay hunting, and were about to return to Toronto. James passed behind the rear car of a standing east-bound train directly in the path of a rapidly-moving west-bound train.

The body was badly mangled, and was brought to this city under the direction of the F. W. Matthews Undertaking Company, who will conduct the funeral Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

The body was later removed to the morgue, where an inquest will be held. The victim had only been employed in the works for a week. SPORTING NEWS

RUGBY

GALT, Nov. 3.—The O. R. F. U. game played Saturday afternoon between Woodstock College and Galt, was one of the most strenuous ever witnessed here. Although it resulted in a win for the locals by a score of 22 to 7, it was not until after half-time that they had any show against the fast and stocky visiting aggregation.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The London Meds district, Saturday afternoon in a game played on a field covered six inches deep with snow, slush and water. The only point of the contest was notched three minutes after the first whistle, when Berland kicked over Petrolea's line and Stokes, tackled by Steele, was unable to run it out. This rouge finished the counting. London appeared to be due to come across with further tallying in the last quarter, but Berland unluckily kicked into the scrimmage.

OTTAWA, Nov. 2.—The most sanguine supporter of the Argonauts would not have dared to predict such a splendid victory as the double blue registered today against Ottawa when they won out in a grand struggle on the local gridiron by a score of 12 to 6. The crimp which the Oarsmen put in the championship dreams of Dr. Galvin's squad was very thorough, for it was only by a piece of good luck that Ottawa got their single try.

KINGSTON, Nov. 2.—McGill proved too much for Queen's in the senior inter-collegiate game here on Saturday afternoon, when it won by 14 to 3. At half-time Queens looked good to finish in the lead, the score then being 2 to 1 in its favor and the play having been more than in its favor in the two quarters. In the third and fourth quarters, however, McGill, by taking advantage of two opportunities, managed to score two tries, which were converted. At the close of the game Queen's forced McGill most of the time and had chances to score but fell down at the crucial time.

TORONTO, Nov. 4.—No faster game of football has been played in Toronto this season than that in which the Toronto University fourteen defeated the team from the Royal Military College at Kingston by a score of 35 to 21 Saturday afternoon at Varsity Stadium. The speed and daring of the slender youths in scarlet kept the cadets in the game from whistle to whistle, but the Toronto team won because its line was heavier and the backs more experienced. Cadets tackled like fiends at shoe-top level and with deadly effect, but failed to stop the Toronto trick plays, which time and again sent a man away for 20 or 30 yards through the middle of the scrimmage. Each team scored big successes on the extended passing play, but the superior dodging ability of Cuzner and Campbell over that of the R. M. C. backs resulted in longer runs for Toronto than Cadets.

HAMILTON, Nov. 2.—The Alerts took a strangle hold on the O.R.F.U. championship today when they defeated the Torontos before a large crowd of spectators by the score of 18 to 4. Looseness in handling the ball by the Torontos the last half, coupled with the Alerts' break in the luck, enabled the homesters to score 14 points, while the visitors could only score 1. The score, 4 to 3 at half-time shows the teams were evenly matched in the first two periods, and they probably would have been so in the second half had not Hal DeGruchy, the clever kicker and centre half of the Torontos, succumbed to the hard gruelling handed out to him the first half, and although Everett Smith, the other kicking half, remained in the game, yet he fared little better than his partner in receiving the hard jolts.

MR. MONK'S RESIGNATION

The resignation of Hon. F. D. Monk as Minister of Public Works has come about under circumstances which are creditable to the Government and at the same time creditable to Mr. Monk. These circumstances involved, on the part of the Government a determination to do its duty as a Government, on the part of Mr. Monk a determination to observe a promise made by him as an individual member prior to the formation of the present Government. Mr. Monk's retirement was effected without bitterness on either side but, on the contrary, with the most friendly personal feelings and with no diminution of that mutual good will existing prior to Mr. Monk's decision to resign. Mr. Monk considered himself personally pledged to a reference of any naval policy to the people. When the Government as a whole reached the conclusion, following the visit of the Prime Minister and some of his colleagues to England, that the situation in Great Britain called for immediate aid. Mr. Monk found himself unable to agree to a measure of aid without the question being first referred to the people. At the time he recognized the naval situation to be grave and critical. As an honorable man Mr. Monk was bound to observe his pledge, and his course must have been followed by any other minister similarly situated. The other members of the Government had made no pledge to refer the question of immediate aid to the people. They could not see eye to eye with Mr. Monk, while thoroughly appreciating his position. Under these circumstances Mr. Monk took the only course open to him. To ignore his previous attitude was, of course, out of the question. He goes out of the Government in obedience to a sense of duty, and this has entitled him to the respect alike of political friend and opponent. At the same time the circumstances of his withdrawal have crystallized the belief that the Government intends to propose, for immediate action by Parliament, a strong measure of effective aid to Great Britain in a grave critical moment.

THE SESSION OF PARLIAMENT

The summoning of Parliament for November 21st means that the country will soon know all that there is to know on the subject of the Borden Government's naval policy. The announcement of the date sufficiently answers Liberal predictions that the Government would seek and find some pretext for delaying the opening until the new year. Predictions of that sort have been freely circulated in opposition newspapers for some time, the wish being probably father to the thought. They have been circulated despite the definite declaration of the Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden in Montreal on September 21st, that Parliament would meet in the autumn. The statement of the Prime Minister should have settled, and with a majority of the people undoubtedly did settle, the question as to the readiness of the Government to meet the House. As a matter of fact there is every indication that the opening of the second session of the twelfth Parliament will find the Government's sessional agenda in an advanced stage of preparation so that no time will be lost in getting important legislation before Parliament. This means that there is to be a working session from the start, making possible a comparatively early prorogation consistent with the importance of the measures to be considered. The naval policy will of course be the principal matter for the consideration of the House. Recent developments substantiate the belief that that policy will be one worthy of the people of Canada, involving as one of its main features immediate and effective aid to the mother country, such aid to be given in a manner calculated to amply safeguard the status of Canada as a self-governing dominion within the Empire.

NAVAL EXPENDITURE OF THE LEADING POWERS

A report issued by the British Admiralty gives details of the total naval expenditure of Great Britain for each year since 1900, compared with the other chief maritime powers—France, Germany, Russia, Italy, Austria-Hungary, the United States and Japan.

From this it appears that the gross expenditure increased as under in pounds sterling

	1901-02	1912-13
Great Britain .	34,872,299	45,616,140
United States .	16,012,438	25,540,010
Germany . . .	9,530,000	22,609,500

The figures for France, Russia, Italy, Austria-Hungary and Japan do not admit of exact comparison, but in each case large and continuous increases are shown.

As regards new construction, including armaments, Great Britain will spend this year £17,271,527, compared with £10,420,255 in 1901-02, and Germany £11,491,127, as against £4,653,423 in 1901-02.

For the support of their postal service the people of the United States next year will pay $283,805,700, far more than for any other branch of the Government service.

FIRST HAND KNOWLEDGE

A little first-hand knowledge is a good thing to have very often when carrying on a political campaign. The Grain Growers' Guide of Winnipeg, which is leading in the cry of "Free Trade" in the West, has recently received a rather embarrassing letter from Mr. James Robertson, an English farmer now in the West. Mr. Robertson says:

"I am afraid you cannot convince those men who have farmed in England under free trade and are now farming in Canada under protection that the former condition is better than the latter. If the English farmers had their wish free trade would be doomed to everlasting perdition, as they have been the greatest sufferers thereby, but unfortunately for them, they are in the minority in the population over there, and so do not carry much weight. Even as matters stand, England alone is in favor of protection by a small majority, and it is as sure to come as woman suffrage is. In the meantime the Irish and Scottish vote, particularly the former is holding protection back. Many farmers in England have been practically ruined through free trade, and only the most progressive, energetic and monied ones have been able to hold their own with the help of greatly reduced rents. They are mainly taxed, because taxes inevitably follow free trade."

The simple logic of the above letter appears much more convincingly than sounding periods unfounded in first-hand knowledge.

Higher rates obtain for both call and time money than was exacted a week ago, when Europe was in its first convulsion over the news of the war in the Balkans. This would seem to indicate that high rates will prevail for some time to come. With Money loaning at practically 5% in all European centres of importance except Paris, there is little reason to expect lower rates here until there is a falling off in the European demand. Further importations of gold seem to be out of question for the rest of this year.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Prices in our markets continue to be dominated by the temper of the foreign exchanges. All the foreign markets are nervous and susceptible to the news over night; for this reason timid buying has been followed by anxious liquidation and vice versa. The result has been that prices now show declines throughout the entire list. However, it would seem to be only a matter of time until a further upward movement occurs.

Prices for many of the best railroad stocks are out of line with current earnings. For example, Atchison's gross income of $1,070,000 and net increase of $600,000 in September and for the same month Lehigh Valley's gross increase of $442,000 and net of $310,000 and the Chicago and Northwestern's gross increase of $707,000 and net increase of $158,000. Indeed for the first three months of the fiscal year Lehigh Valley shows a net increase of $812,000. Such splendid earnings are bound to be reflected sooner or later in higher prices. In fact already Europe shows a disposition to buy back the stocks they were selling two weeks ago.

FISH WEALTH OF CANADA

Important Industry of the Lakes—Salmon as an Experiment

The fishing industry of Canada is an important asset in our national financial statement. It is one of those subjects on which little has been written in a form which is interesting to the general public, although much valuable information may be found in Government blue books. The average yearly catch for the Dominion is valued at about $30,000,000, about half of which is exported and the other half consumed at home—about $2.00 worth of fish per year being the average consumption for each Canadian.

The Port Arthur Hatchery

The latest fish hatchery is the one at Port Arthur on Lake Superior. This hatchery has an annual capacity of turning out fish fry, which, at maturity, will represent a catch of the enormous total of $10,500,000 yearly. The hatchery is equipped for the propagation mainly of lake trout, as owing to the rocky and clay formation of Lake Superior, trout find their native haunts on the shores of the Lake. A certain percentage of white fish are also being hatched out, as there are a few handy spawning beds in the smaller bays, which form the native haunt of the white fish. A very interesting experiment is also being tried out in the placing of salmon fry in the lake as it is believed that a very valuable salmon fishing industry can be established at Port Arthur.

Fishing as a sport is also being given serious attention at this hatchery, and brook trout and salmon fry are to be placed in the streams and brooks surrounding the city.

In the Hatchery

A walk through the fish hatchery is a very istructive and interesting sight. The spawn, after being taken from the mother fish in the fall—and this is usually collected by the officers of the Fishery Department from the fishing tugs—is brought to the hatchery and distributed in trays, over which there is a constant stream of cold water running. It takes, on the average, 195 days for the spawn to germinate into living fish. It is very interesting to pick up the little round globes, which look like balls of gelatine, and holding them up in the light, [illegible] eyes and the dim outline of the [illegible] minute fish inside. Only a small percentage of the spawn die. The dead cells are readily detected as they turn white upon the atom of life within becoming extinct. After the baby fish extricates itself from its globular cell it is fed for two weeks on grated beef liver. By this time it is not more than a quarter of an inch long, and is then taken out and placed in the spawning beds where the older fish always gather at certain times to foster the young and growing fry. Three years is the usual time taken for fish to mature.

Advent of Cheap Camera a Boon to Baby Worshippers

"The average baby of to-day," said the grandfather of one, "is as much pictured as royalty. I don't mean that this baby's picture gets into the newspapers as often as the Prince's does, but there are as many taken of it for home admiration.

"I can remember back to the time when far fewer pictures of babies were made, when the only pictures of anybody other than painted portraits, were those taken in the old time daguerreotype galleries. To take a baby to one of these galleries was something of a task; and when you had got him there might not be awake, or he might not be good humored. In various ways this picture taking was an operation that might involve many difficulties; and then, besides, it cost money; and so in those old days if you managed to get four pictures of the baby in its first year you were doing very well.

"But now? Why, now, with the wonderful and inexpensive little modern hand camera with which pictures can be taken whenever the baby is in a happy mood, we take pictures of him in his first year almost daily, and in many situations.

"The baby is photographed at various ages held in the arms of its mother; in the arms of its father; and if, as may happily be, all its grandparents are living the baby is photographed held by each and every one of them. Also, it is photographed held in the arms of each of its aunts and uncles.

"And then the baby is photographed in all its various apparel; in its first short clothes; and with hat on and hat off; and in its carriage. When I come to consider the many times and occasions on which we take the baby's picture I am inclined to think that in that first year we take a hundred pictures of him."

THE MOODIE FIRM, OF HAMILTON, RESULT OF YEARS OF ENTERPRISING ACTIVITY

From a Small Beginning It Has Grown to Be a Business Second to None—Group of Buildings, Where High-Class Knitted Underwear Is Produced, Are of Concrete And Highly Satisfact

THE ROMANCE OF A BIG CANADIAN INDUSTRY

One day in the year 1889, a genial Irish gentleman entered a room on the second flat of a building next to the Herald newspaper office in Hamilton, Ontario.

"Well, boys," he said, "how are ye getting along?"

Two young men stood busy adjusting a machine, and several lads and girls were occupied one way and another—some half dozen of them.

The young men at the machine stepped forward and shook hands with the visitor heartily.

"There she is," they said proudly, pointing to the creation of plates and needles they had been busy with. It was a Swiss knitting machine, the first ever imported into Canada. The visitor examined it with interest. Then he turned to the younger man with an encouraging smile.

"Let me see some of the work you're turning out,' he said. "Let me see what it will do."

The stock on hand, the first Canadian fruits of the machine, were produced for inspection—some twenty dozen pieces of knitted goods. The visitors examined it critically.

"I'll take all you've got," he said at last, following the principle for which he and his army of buyers were to become famous. "Bundle them up and send them down to the parcel room at the Grand Trunk Station. I'll take them home with me."

The parcel was made up and sent as directed. The address on the label was written by Mr. J. R. Moodie himself. The name he wrote belonged to a man who was to become one of the greatest merchant princes of the world, the late Mr. Timothy Eaton, Toronto.

Many Changes Since Then.

It is hard to realize the changes that have taken place in the course of a single generation in this country. The "boys" that the late Mr. Eaton used to call on in Hamilton so genially back in the 80's were two young fellows with no capital. John Moodie and James R. Moodie. They had started a knitting business with one hand-worked machine to make mitts. They made good mitts, too, and business developed fast. They increased the number of their hand-power machines and included children's stockings in their output. Now it happened that quite a large proportion of those hand-made mitts and stockings found their way to the T. Eaton store in Toronto—a different store in those days to the store famous and familiar today. The mitt business grew. All Canada used to wear mitts in the winter ,and these were finer than Canadian mitts had been heretofore. Canada was developing a demand for finer goods, a demand that the Moodie boys were quick to appreciate. That constantly growing demand is the inspiration of the business to this day.

Then by chance—or design perhaps—Mr. Eaton heard that they were getting a Swiss knitting machine up there in Hamilton, to make Swiss underwear right here in Canada. The Moodie boys employed six men by now, but they had knitted mitts and stockings only; now they were going into the greatest knitting field of all—the knitted underwear business. Practically all knitted goods worn in Canada previous to this time were imported. If they weren't imported they were knitted at home in grandmother's arm chair. Switzerland had developed a great trade following the invention of machines that would knit, producing garments of knitted wool or cotton or silk yarns at a cost so low, as compared with the hand-knit article, as to have caused a revolution in the trade.

Its Marvelous Growth

And Canada imported these goods for years, paying transportation charges, import duties, middle profits and expenses, and wearing finer garments at less money than ever before.

Then the Moodie boys conceived an idea—the "Made-in-Canada" idea—and John went to Europe and bought a machine. It was the first to arrive in this country. It formed the foundation—single and small as it was—of what is today one of the largest knitting establishments in Canada, that of J. R. Moodie and Sons, Limited, largest manufacturers of the finer ribbed knitted underwear worn in this fair Dominion.

The history of that growth will never be adequately told, because, like most men who do things, Lieut.-Col. J. R. Moodie is too busy or too modest to give them their true significance when it comes to telling about them. The bare facts and dates they have on record, but the romance and adventure, the daring and trembling anxiety which attends the pioneer in a new business, just as it does the pioneer in a new country or a new sea of discovery—all that is most invariably locked up in the memories of the men who figured in the accomplishment, for they who alone know the inner history of success take a pride in leaving to Success the task of speaking for itself.

The other day a press party took a trip through the famous Moodie Mills in Hamilton, and learned a few of the facts behind the development of them. History in the case of the Moodie enterprise followed fast. Business with a big B began, as has been shown, with an order from the T. Eaton Company that Mr. Eaton carried home to Toronto himself. The connection thus formed has continued down to the present day, when the modern store, the largest in Canada, and one of the most celebrated in the world, sells thousands of dollars' worth every year of the famous Hygeian Brand goods.

New Building On New Site

In January, 1890, the Moodie boys moved from the flat next the Herald building. A new site on Main street had been purchased nad there a fine new building was erected. Then in the new premises another type of knitting machine was introduced, a second innovation. An American "circular-ribbed" machine was brought in, and further, a gas engine was installed. The day of hand-power in the Moodie Mills was doomed. Some little time later the old gas engine was put aside and a steam plant introduced, for in the course of the next few years more and more knitting machines had been imported from the United States. By these wonderful examples of American ingenuity nothing is left for human hands to do but adjust bolt-screws and supervise repairs when a thread breaks and things go wrong. To be sure, there is the trimming to do afterwards, before the garment is finished, and some work for shears, but here again machines have been invented to help the task of human hands and do better work and do it quicker.

In 1898 electric power was introduced into Hamilton, and among the very first to see the advantage of electricity in its application to the regeneration of the City of Hamilton was Mr. J. R. Moodie of the Eagle Knitting Company, Limited, as the firm was then known. Mr. Moodie has been a constant advocate of the magic and mysterious fluid ever since, for he is now the president of the Dominion Power and Transmission Company, one of the pioneer electric concerns of this country, and one of the most successful.

Use of Electric Power.

It is told about the infant daring of this power company that no less a man than the late Lord Kelvin, the English scientist, declared on a visit to this country and Niagara Falls that it would prove commercially impracticable to carry electric power to a greater distance than ten miles. The faith of a new company, which believes nothing until after a fresh trial, was behind the Cataract Power Company, however, and the Dominion Power Company is the full justification to date of the faith of the late John Moodie, Sir John Gibson, and their associates. The knitting mill began with 40 horsepower; today the Moodie plant uses 500 "horses."

The Moodie brothers made several improvements to the American machines after they were installed in Hamilton. For one thing, by a simple device they increased their capacity by 100 per cent., an improvement that has been adopted since all over the world in factories using knitting machines. In ten years there were four extensions, made to the mills of the Moodie plant, and through most of this period the mills were running night and day for 22 hours out of the 24.

In the year 1900 the composition of the firm of Moodie Brothers was changed, Mr. J. R. Moodie's eldest son coming into the firm, and Mr. John Moodie dropping out. In 1902 the company was incorporated. The capital was raised to $300,000, and two younger sons were included in the directorate. Roy R. Moodie and John D. Moodie. These two lads left college literally to go through the mill. When the eldest boy, James, began, he was 17 years old. He went to work in the office and thoroughly mastered the financial end of the business. He became, too, one of the shrewdest buyers of raw material in Canada. When he came of age he was taken into the company. The younger brothers went right out into the mill, Roy to the knitting mill straight from college, "Jack" to the spinning mill and mill "No. 2," where the finer grades of cotton knitted goods are made.

Learning Business Completely.

And here each found his sphere, each has become a practical authority in his department. What wonder that with youth and enthusiasm behind it the Moodie Mills continued to grow?

In 1904 a site for a new and larger mill was secured in the City of Hamilton on King street east. Here a block of land 160 by 690 feet was purchased in that district of the "City Under the Mountain" which has shown such a remarkable industrial development in the course of the last few years. Here, eventually, all the Moodie Mills will concentrate. The spinning mill was the first, and there was a reason.

For a considerable period Mr. James Moodie, the purchasing agent of the company, and manager of that vital point in a large concern, had been experiencing a great deal of worry about the mills' supply of yarn. The output had grown so tremendously that the spinning mills of this country, overburdened as they were with orders arising from the general Canadian prosperity, found themselves unable to keep up with their deliveries. The different knitting mills of the country required more yarns than the spinners could spin.

Trouble Getting Yarn.

Especially in the finer yarn and the better qualities was this difficulty experienced. The trade in the finer lines was still largely done by importing the finished goods. To meet this condition a radical step was taken—a spinning mill was planned, and the Eagle Spinning Mills were incorporated. Roy Moodie, the second of the sons, thereupon took a trip south. He wanted to see cotton spun the way they spin it down there in the cotton belt, and he stayed down there until he learned the business. When he came home, the "Eagle Spinning Mills" were erected.

There were two points about this spinning mill which distinguished it from any others in this country at that time. To begin with, a spinning mill was at that time an unheard of adjunct to a knitting factory in Canada. This particular mill was also a pioneer in its form of construction. It was the first mill of the kind to be built of reinforced concrete. Old-timers laughed at the idea. The old-time mill construction employed wooden beams and floors to provide resiliency. This used to be considered absolutely essential, and had been proved the only possible construction for a mill using such fine machinery—or at least so said the old-timers. Lieut.-Col. J. R. Moodie proved differently. He went ahead with a concrete mill, and indeed all the new buildings that have since been erected by the company have been of concrete. In the case of this first concrete spinning mill a cement expert was paid to supervise the building operations and see that the quality and proportions of the cement used were right. The result was a building that entirely justified Col. Moodie's faith and the extra item of expenditure.

Better for Machines.

So far from the machines requiring the old-time resiliency of floor, the absolute fixity of the concrete provides a building without jar or shake, and it is the Moodie experience that their machinery works with the greater truth and certainty on that account. The concrete mill construction so far as spinning and knitting are concerned, has proved a great success.

In 1907-8 another mill was added to the plants—mill "No. 2," for the knitting of the very finest cotton and silk goods, together with a bleaching plant for rendering knitted underwear white as snow. No color will ever supplant the perfect colorless purity of white in the affections of womenkind—especially for garments which, in the regular course of events, have to make a journey to the wash tub. Bleaching is an important phase of the transformation wrought in a knitting mill.

In 1909 a new warehouse was erected on the King street site, and a fine office building in 1910, both of concrete. Building operations have been almost as constant a feature of the Moodie plant as manufacturing underwear.

In 1909 occurred a new incorporation of the company with a capital of $1,000,000. All the sons of Lieut.-Col. Moodie being now of age, the different Moodie companies were concentrated into one holding company under the name of J. R. Moodie and Sons, Limited, and the Moodie boys went to work in earnest. Jim, the eldest boy, was already secretary since 1903. Roy, the second boy, after a course at Upper Canada College, had taken up another and a quite different schooling. He had entered the mill as a workman, going through it as a practical mill man, coming with the rest at seven o'clock in the morning and earning his daily wages on exactly the same footing as the rest. He now became general manager of the mills. Jack, the third son, after three years of hard practical mill experience, became vice-president and manager of the spinning mill and knitting mill No. 2, where the fine yarns for "Hygeian" goods are woven.

Still Supervises.

Lt.-Col. J. R. Moodie remains president of the company, but he turned over the active management of the plant to his boys. He had become deeply interested in electric power and the greater part of his time was now taken up with his electrical affairs. At his King street office he goes over the daily reports regularly keeping his finger on the pulse of the business, but the worry of the actual management is left to his three enthusiastic young sons. They have already had plans drawn for a new mill of reinforced concrete—a mill to be bigger and newer in its type than any of the others.

They are a good example of the happiness which comes from being busy, those Moodie boys and their father. They have outside interests, of course. They are all enthusiastic motorists for one thing, but their factories are after all their real hobby. Lt.-Col. Moodie plays golf and goes in for colored photography, in which art he is an acknowledged expert.

The two younger sons, Roy and Jack, are captains in the 91st Regiment of Canadian Highlanders, of which their father is the honorary lieutenant-colonel.

An Interesting Trip.

Did you ever go through a knitting mill? Or did you ever go through a spinning mill? To go through a knitting mill it is an advantage to begin at the very beginning—the spinning mill. That is why the Moodie plant on King street east, Hamilton, makes such a happy example for a purpose of this kind—the whole process is right there under one roof. One can see the great 500-pound bales of raw cotton weighed and opened on their arrival from Texas or Louisiana, and fed into the blower. Cotton, you know, comes in compressed layers, which are folded in short folds and bundled into bales. When the bales are opened these layers are unfolded and tossed into the slat conveyor, which carries the cotton up to a revolving cylinder studded with nail points. Each nail tears out a tuft of cotton and rolls on up to the mouth of the air shaft, where a vacuum suction draws the fluff off the nails and wafts it through an air duct into the picking machine room.

The cotton lands here all fluffed out in a big loose white pile at the end of the air shaft. This pile is fed now to the picking machines, which tear the cotton free of all dust and rubbish that has accumulated from the time the cotton balls ripened in the south until they were dumped in close packed bales from the freight cars into the mill.

A Careful Process.

Three times this picking operation is repeated, each time more minutely than before, and the result is cotton as pure and as white as nature made it.

After the "picking" process, the picked cotton is like so much thistle down with the seeds left out. It is ready for the great carding machines now, which take that fluffy stuff, smooth it out on rollers, and separate it into long rows about an inch wide. These strips of loose fluffy cotton, when twisted up and stretched out on the "drawing" machines become as soft ropes. Three times these ropes are twisted up to gether, stretched and "drawn." Six together the first time, then the resulting cards two and two, and then coupled up again and twisted into fine yarn. Each time the process is repeated the result becomes finer and firmer, more nearly approaching the finished thread.

"Strictly good middlings," when cotton is referred to, imply a natural cotton fibre one and a sixteenth inches long. These fibres by the continual spinning and drawing gradually become straightened out, all lying the one way, but twisted tightly together. The "slubbers," the "speeders," and finally the wonderful "mules" all share in this process until the thick, loose, cotton skein has become a strong yarn, or a hard, tightly-twisted thread.

How Thread is Made Strong.

Every new combination of twisted yarn makes a stronger thread, though not necessarily thicker, because it is drawn or stretched finer at every stage. The mule travelers run back and forth twenty-three hours a day, 640 threads to each machine. There are seven pairs or ten machines altogether, with a bare-footed Lancashire man, with long experience in the cotton district, to watch the threads at each pair, and see that they don't break, or, if so, that the ends are caught up again. After their last spin the threads are wound from cops on to cones as they are called in the mill, ready to fit the knitting machines.

An Atmospheric Shower Bath.

England has built up a great spinning industry on the strength of its damp climate. Cotton won't spin in a dry air. It must have a certain moisture to help bind it together in the yarn. For that reason in this country artificial means are employed to dampen the cotton. It is put into a "humidifier," and given a sort of atmospheric shower bath. Air is fanned through fine sprays of water and wafted to the cotton. Thus does the energy of this cotton overcome disabilities of its climate.

Wonders of Modern Knitting.

Did you ever see anybody knit? You have seen a lady of the old school at work with four needles, a ball of wollen yarn and a stocking? Did you ever see 70 machines with from 900 to 2,000 needles each all at work together in the same room?

At Moodie's mill "No. 2," you can see that many, and they are all working on one class of goods—the finest of summer underwear for dainty feminity. Here is one machine making sleeves at a pair a minute. This row of machines is making the bodies of the garments—one every minute and a half. Here is a machine making the 'porous" knit stitch, working with the speed of a hundred pairs of hands, and the intelligence of ten thousand ants. Sixteen bobbins it carries and the garment grows in cylinder form like a stocking at the rate of 2½ inches a second.

Over here in this aisle they knit lisle thread goods—the thread all having passed through a burning flame, so that the fuzz is burned away and the thread stretches clean and hard. So clever and so acutely adjusted is the mechanism of all these knitting machines standing here in their serried ranks in this big bright sunny room, that should, on any one of them, a single thread break, the gear would be thrown out and the machines would come to an instant stop. Break a thread and see—it's almost human!

Science Again Helps.

After the knitting comes the bleaching, and here again the impatience of this continent has caused the old way of nature to be superseded by science. Bleaching in the Moodie factory is done by electricity.

Work of the Girls.

And now come the cutters with their electric knives, which look something like a combination of an electric iron and adustless cleaner. They cut through a pile of knitted undervests in close layers two inches thick as easily as a pencil makes a line on a sheet of white paper. In one stroke the yoke of the neck is cut away, another curve and the left armhole is cut, another flash, and the right armhole is made—not for one garment only, but for a pile of them—a tight pile two inches thick.

In another department girls at other kinds of machines sew on the lace and tapes and trimmings of all sorts to make daintiness such as, a generation ago, a gentlewoman might have spent all the leisure hours of a whole summer in accomplishing, and which here is done in a few seconds.

The Finished Goods.

Downstairs go the finished garments to the big hot steel rolls of the power mangle, where every garment is ironed and pressed—a dozen or more at a time—before it is folded and slipped into a neat cardboard box. And finally comes along the expert examiner—a young woman with an old experience, and a high sense of the place and reputation of the J. R. Moodie quality and perfection of finish. If so much as a single stitch has been dropped or a thread left sticking out, back the garment goes to be fixed.

Over 500 employees are busy every day in the mills where Hygeian brand knitted goods are made—counting the cotton, lisle thread, wool, and silk, cotton and wool mixed, balbriggan and fleece-lined varieties of the production. The whole process, as developed by several generations in England, has grown up in one lifetime in Hamilton, Ontario. And it is still growing.

TURKS SUE FOR PEACE

European Powers Are Asked to Intervene in War.

Official Bulletin at Constantinople Admits That the Army Has Been Defeated In the Great Battle In Thrace and Reports Say Troops Are In Full Flight—Powers Not Agreed In Their Plans.

London, Nov. 4.—The Turkish army is in full retreat on Constantinople, and the Turkish Government has asked the powers to intervene.

An official bulletin was issued by the Government at Constantinople last night, admitting defeat at the hands of the Bulgarians in the great battle on the Thracean plains. Application was made to the embassies in Constantinople last night for mediation by the powers to end the hostilities and arrange a peace agreement.

The official bulletin acknowledging the defeat follows:

"The fortunes of war are variable, and it is not always possible to be successful on all sides. A people which accepts war must submit with resignation to all its consequences. To overlook this obligation is to fail in one's duty. Consequently, while it would be unwise to be unnecessarily proud over victories, it likewise would be incorrect to be alarmed at want of success.

"For instance, in the present war with the four federated states the imperial troops are defending themselves with success in the environs of Scutari and Janina, but the eastern army, in the neighborhood of Visa and Lule Burgas, felt obliged to retire to the lines of defence at Tchatalja.

"In order to facilitate a successful defence, it has naturally been decided to exert all efforts to safeguard the interests of the fatherland."

The ambassadors, prior to this, had asked the Porte to grant permission to each of the great powers to send one warship through the Dardanelles, and this request had been complied with. The only guarantee of safety for the native Christians, and, perhaps the foreigners in Constantinople, is to be found in the presence of the warships of the great powers in the harbor of the Turkish capital. It is the general belief that Bulgaria will refuse to listen to anything in the way of intervention until the Bulgarian army is at the gates of Constantinople, and will insist that Turkey make an appeal direct to the allies without interference from the powers.

The powers have not been able to agree upon the French Premier's formula of "territorial disinterestedness," which is not acceptable to either Austria or Germany. They are taking steps, however, for the protection of Christians and their own interests in Turkey.

Beyond the statement that the Turkish army is retreating to the last line of fortifications outside Constantinople, there was little news received from the seat of war last night. Fighting was reported along the line from Tchorlu to Serai, which was the outcome, doubtless, or the efforts of the defeated Turks to retire within the Tchatalja lines, which the Bulgarians are doing their utmost to prevent.

The besieging forces are tightening their grip around Adrianople, and the bombardment is becoming more vigorous. In other directions the allies are consolidating their occupation of Turkish territory. The Greeks have taken Nicopolis and Prevesa, and have landed a division at Stavros, which is marching to attack Saloniki. An uncensored despatch from the latter town intimates the likelihood of its surrender without resistance.

In connection with the Servian occupation of Prishrend, a warning from Austria appears in the official Vienna Fremdenblatt, which, in the supposition that the Servians have now attained the object of their operations toward the west, says: "There are neither military nor national motives for the Servian army to penetrate the districts beyond Prishrend, which are exclusively inhabited by Albanians, that is, therefore, into the undeniable territory of another Balkan people."

Constantinople In Panic.

Constantinople, Nov. 4.—Constantinople is in a fever of excitement over the alarming reports from the field of battle. Foreigners and natives alike are suffering from the tension caused by the series of military disasters, and, although the city is in a state of siege, crime in some quarters is unchecked: Many families are leaving the city.

The people fear, first, an outbreak of Moslem fanaticism by the turbulent elements, the lower classes, and, second, a rising of hordes of maddened soldiers, who are being driven by the Bulgarians to make their last stand a few miles outside of Constantinople and then, perhaps, to fall back on the capital.

Greek Forces Land.

Saloniki, Nov. 4.—A complete Greek division under Gen. Smolensky landed at Stavros, on the northeast of the Chalis Peninsula and occupied the villages and mining district, as well as the capital. Poligyro, from which the Turkish officials were expelled. The division is now marching on Galatsista and Saloniki, accompanied by 6,000 well-armed Greek peasants, many of whom are deserters from the Turkish army.

Nine Acquitted on Murder Charge.

Lake Charles, La., Nov. 4.—A. L. Emerson, president of the Brotherhood of Timber Workers, and his eight associates, charged with murder, as the result of the Grabow labor riot, July 7, were acquitted Saturday afternoon. The jury took less than an hour to bring in the verdict. The other indictments against all but six of the accused men were nolle prossed and they were released.

5,000 TO STRIKE.

Canadian Pacific Freight Men Are Ordered To Go Out.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—Five thousand men employed by the Canadian Pacific Railway in all parts of the Dominion as freight-handlers, checkers and clerks in the freight department are expected to go out on strike to-day.

The men are all members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employes, and will cease work in response to a telegram sent out yesterday by Grand President A. R. Mosher of Halifax, Nova Scotia.

The order to quit work was precipitated by the refusal of the C.P.R. to grant the men an increase of wages and recognition of the union.

Grand officers of the brotherhood lay the blame for the strike on Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labor, who, it is stated, refused to order a board of conciliation. It is claimed every possible effort has been exerted by the brotherhood officers to avert a strike.

Between eight and nine hundred men are employed in the freight department of the C.P.R. in Toronto, and these men, for reasons which could not be made known, will not leave work until later in the week unless they are discharged by the company. In all other cities and towns of Canada, however, it is expected that every member of the brotherhood from St. John to Vancouver will quit.

Letters have been sent out by the brotherhood to Boards of Trade in all parts of the Dominion, intimating that there is grave danger of a serious interruption to trade if the strike is prolonged, and urging them to cooperate with the workmen in securing a conciliation board, with a view to reaching a speedy adjustment of the differences. The matter will be taken up to-day with the general secretary of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

WOMAN IDENTIFIED.

Alleged Suicide In Hamilton Was Sister of Homicidal Teamster.

Hamilton, Nov. 4.—The body of the young woman who is supposed to have committed suicide by throwing herself in front of a switch engine at the Stuart Street Station of the G.T.R., was identified Saturday evening by her husband as that of Mrs. Varna Kirby, 82 Kinrade avenue.

Mrs. Kirby, who was 23 years old, was a sister of Frank Truckle, the young teamster who shot his wife to death on Market street on May 18 last and committed suicide a few minutes later, after making a desperate effort to escape. She was born and raised in Brantford, where she was married to Fred. Kirby two years ago. The couple had boarded at 82 Kinrade about a month. Mrs. Kirby, who frequently left her husband for days at a time, was last seen by Kirby on Thanksgiving Day, when she said she was going to Brantford. She told another woman, it is said, that she was going up in the west end of the city to spend a few days. She had recently returned from a trip to Winnipeg.

U. S. To Invest Cuba.

Fort Monroe, Va., Nov. 4.—The army general staff has ordered four transports in reserve here to be prepared within four days for instant readiness to carry 2,800 troops to Cuba. The preparation of the army transports at Newport for immediate service is one of several steps taken already by the general staff to have the army in readiness for service in Cuba should disorder arise, demanding intervention. The transports are calculated to convey three regiments, and it is believed the soldiers could be landed in Cuba within nine days after an order for their despatch.

Officials are careful to make it plain they do not expect it will be necessary to despatch the troops, feeling much encouraged at the peaceful manner in which the Cuba election was conducted Friday. But having in mind the past threats of the Liberal leaders to rebel in case the election resulted in favor of the Conservatives, it has been regarded as only prudent to put the army in condition to respond to a call for immediate service within the next few day.

Second Body Identified.

St. Louis, Nov. 4.—The second body found Saturday in the ruins of the Berlin Hotel destroyed by fire early Saturday morning, was identified through jewelry as that of Mrs. Helen Harrington Shepard Conley Abeles, former actress and divorced wife of James Abeles, son of a wealthy St. Louis family.

The body was first identified as that of Mrs. C. K. McFadden, a guest in the hotel, and last night the ruins were searched for Mrs. McFadden's body, as she has not been seen since the fire.

Mrs. McFadden lived in a room adjoining Mrs. Abeles, and that part of the building collapsed soon after the fire started.

Foundry Is Absorbed.

Brantford, Nov. 4.—The Pratt & Letchworth Co. of this city, which employs 500 hands in the manufacture of malleable iron castings, has been acquired by the Canadian Car & Foundry Co. of Montreal. The firm thus becomes a purely Canadian concern, its general policy having been formerly directed from Buffalo. No change is contemplated in the operating management or in name, and extensive enlargements to the plant are now under way.

The deal is one of the most important consummated in Brantford in some time.

Galt Steadily Growing.

Galt, Nov. 2.—Records of building permits for October show this to be Galt's growing time. Permits total $80,000, or nearly twice that for the corresponding month last year. For ten months of the present year building permits aggregate $388,000, $133,000 in excess of the same period in 1911.

At the present rate of growth the town is expected to reach the 12,000 population in the coming year.

BRITAIN SENDS FLEET

Sixth Destroyer Flotilla to Sail For Scene of War.

Excitement Prevails Along the Channel Ports Where Hurried Assembling of the Fleet Is In Progress and Sailing Under Sealed Orders Is Expected at Any Moment—Active Service Men Are Being Recalled.

Portsmouth, Eng., Nov. 4.—Unusual activity in the Portsmouth dockyards is reported in a special edition of The Evening News of Saturday, which says that preparations are being made to get the sixth destroyer flotilla ready for sea.

"The official explanation," says The News, "is that this is being done merely to be in readiness for the quarterly mobilization on Monday, but we understand that the preparations are of a much more warlike nature. The active service ratings have been recalled by notice and special messenger since two o'clock in the afternoon, and the men have been directed to proceed aboard ship by 8.15 this evening."

The News adds that it is rumored that the flotilla will sail under sealed orders. Notices have been posted ordering all submarine men to return to their boats at once. The paper also states that men on leave have been recalled by wire to other naval ports.

Thirty-Five Ships.

Devonport, Nov. 4.—The officers and men attached to the seventh destroyer flotilla were ordered to return to their ships Saturday night at the latest. With the parent ships and submarines, altogether 35 vessels are affected. These were ready to sail yesterday, and others to-day, it is believed, for the near east.

Men Ordered Aboard.

Plymouth, Nov. 4.—All officers and men of the war craft here were ordered Saturday to be aboard their ships at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Later an Admiralty despatch ordered those of the fifth destroyer flotilla aboard their ships by 11 o'clock Saturday evening at the latest.

Men Recalled.

Chatham, Nov. 4.—Great excitement was caused here Saturday by the receipt of urgent Admiralty telegrams, recalling officers and men to their ships. Messengers on bicycles were despatched in all directions. The authorities are reticent, but it is believed that the orders relate to the battleships Russell and Duncan, now in the Medway.

British Cruiser For Levant.

Gibraltar, Nov. 4—The British cruiser Dartmouth passed here yesterday bound for the Levant. The third battle squadron will arrive from England early this morning and will proceed eastward after a stay of only one hour.

Greek Squadron Sighted.

Contantinople, Nov. 4.—It is reported from Kavala, on the Aegean Sea, that a Greek squadron has been sighted off Enos, at the mouth of the Maritza river in the Gulf of Enos. The Greek warships were convoying a number of transports and it is believed that a landing is contemplated.

His Death a Mystery.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—The body of John Grindall, aged 43, 27 Herrick street, was found floating in Ashbridge's Bay, at the foot of Leslie street, about five o'clock Saturday afternoon by Jack Robson, aged 19, 90 Logan avenue. Constable Morris had the remains removed to the morgue and Coroner Dr. Lynd will open an inquest tonight.

Two brothers of Grindall, who identified the corpse as that of their eldest brother, are completely mystified over his death. They say that two weeks ago he did not go to his work at Hees' factory on Davenport road, but stayed home with his mother.

On Tuesday he started out as usual with his lunch, seemingly in good spirits. He had uttered no complaints to their knowledge. Since Tuesday he has been missing until the body was found Saturday evening. Grindall was a widower.

Will Salute Hereafter.

Camden, N.J., Nov. 4.—George Whiting, the ten-year-old Camden schoolboy, who was dismissed from school because he refused to salute the American flag, is penitent at his home. George announced Saturday that after he had talked the matter over with his father he was ready to apologize to his teacher and to the school authorities for his failure to observe the rules, and that hereafter he would salute the stars and stripes.

It is probable that George will salute the flag to-day and once more patriotism will be triumphant in the education of Camden's youthful citizens.

Two Airmen Still Missing.

Berlin, Nov. 4.—A feeling of profound anxiety reigns in aeronautical circles as to the fate of the two aeronauts, John Watts and Arthur Atherholt, who have been missing with the balloon Dusseldorf II. since they started from Stuttgart on Sunday last in the international race for the Gordon Bennett balloon cup.

The managers of the international balloon cup race still express the hope that the two American aeronauts have landed somewhere in Russia. They say the aeronauts may have been made prisoners and are unable to communicate.

C.P.R. Trains In Head-On Collision.

North Bay, Ont., Nov. 4.—An operator's mistake caused two C.P.R. trains to meet in a head-on collision near Pardee, west of North Bay, at noon Saturday, causing great damage to the rolling stock, both engines being badly damaged. The mistaken order allowed a work train to run out of Chapleau in face of an on-coming freight train, the two being hidden from each other by the curving nature of the tracks. No one was killed, but one of the engineers was injured.

Another Letter On The Paving of Front Street

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—While it may be freely conceded that sheet asphalt makes a beautiful pavement and that streets paved this way are perhaps second to none in smoothness, nevertheless, as could be gathered from my previous letter, which appeared in The Intelligencer of last Thursday, it has drawbacks that should preclude the idea of adopting that kind of expensive pavement for any place the size of Belleville, especially where it is imperative that, strict economy should be practiced, as is the case here. I will venture to say that if we could have the sheet asphalt pavement down tomorrow a heavy expense would commence the very next day in order to keep it clean, and in a good state of repair and it would eventually become a huge sink-hole in which to deposit a large portion of our revenue, which of course would incur a considerable increase in our tax rates, which are already almost unbearable. In fact the cost for maintenance of this particular kind of pavement, as near as I can gather, would be a very serious matter for a city conditioned financially as Belleville is today.

Now, asphalt blocks, as the name indicates, must be composed partly of asphalt. This being the case, would we not be warranted in expecting that, like sheet asphalt, they also would be affected by a too generous supply of water, either from the heavens or from the water wagon. Well, whether or not this be the case, I shall now attempt to show from the experience of other places that an asphalt block pavement for Belleville should not at least be very desirable.

In a letter dated Sarnia, Nov. 21, 1910, and signed by the Board of Works chairman of that place, I extract the following:

"The asphalt block is a very good pavement, although during the past two years it seems to be wearing out very rapidly on our streets, and I do not think it is an overly long lived pavement.'

I received from the Town Clerk, Sarnia, this letter dated April 13th, 1912:

"Dear Sir:—

"In reply to yours of the 17th inst. to Mayor McGibbon, the Mayor has instructed me to say that our Creosote Wood Block Pavement has given satisfaction in every respect, except that on the street railway tracks the blocks raise every winter. This we believe to be caused by the street railway company using a "T" rail and we understand that in cities where a groove rail has been used this difficulty is obviated.

"Our Asphalt Block pavement shows signs of wearing out too rapidly, partly caused, in the opinion of a number of citizens, by too much water being used for street watering purposes.

"We have also some Vitrified Brick pavement which appears to be the most durable, but is looked upon as objectionable on account of giving unsafe footing for horses."

The following valuable letter is from the City Engineer of Fort William, and is dated May 1, 1912:

"Dear Sir:—

"Your letter of April 1st has been referred to me for reply. Up to last year the paving in this city was confined to asphalt block. We now have 48,505 sq. yds. asphalt block.

11,612 sq. yds. sheet asphalt.
7,936 sq. yds. bitulithic.

"It is now five years since the first asphalt block pavement was laid. This pavement is showing considerable signs of wear and is beginning to gobble. The sheet asphalt and bitulithic were only laid last summer, so that there has not yet been time to prove their merits. In my opinion the bitulithic will be much the better pavement. The block pavement is easily patched. The sheet asphalt is easily cleaned and looks well.

"We have some "Tarvia X," as manufactured by the Patterson Manufacturing Co., of Toronto, and which makes a first class road (pavements excluded) at a moderate cost."

I may say that since I received the above letter I had a conversation with a Belleville man who lives in Fort William and he more than confirmed the information given above as to the asphalt block going to the bad in Fort William, and as has been noticed it has been down only five years.

Please note that the Fort William City Engineer's opinion is that bitulithic will be a much better pavement than the sheet asphalt. It is also worthy of attention that in Sarnia the asphalt block "shows signs of wearing out too rapidly" and in the opinion of many this is "caused by water.". This, to my mind, supports the statements of the London Engineer, Mr. VanCleve, as to the matter of water disintegrating the sheet asphalt.

With your permission, Mr. Editor, I shall in another letter give your readers further information in reference to street pavements, dealing principally with Vitrified Brick.

Thanking you for the space occupied by these letters, I remain,

A. ROBINSON

Hopes Roosevelt Will Pity Him

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 2.—Believing that Theodore Roosevelt does not bear malice towards him, John Shrank, would-be slayer of the Colonel, expects to escape with a light sentence. He has confided his expectation to Bernard H. Gottschalk, who occupies a cell near his.

"Theodore Roosevelt is only human after all," Shrank said, according to Gottschalk. "He was shot and has recovered. Now that it is all over and he has had time for reflection, his better self surely has concluded that I should be pitied and not condemned. When McKinley was shot he showed forgiveness.

"The entire case rests with Roosevelt. I know if he will come here and speak for me, and adopt a broad view of the matter, I will get a light sentence. His word will settle the whole matter. I should think he would come here when the case is tried."

Play National Hymn Before Curtain Rises

Daughters of the Empire have taken exception to the playing of "God Save the King" at entertainments in the Opera House at Galt, now. Only a few bars of the National Anthem are played at the conclusion of entertainments in the theatre and at some other places of entertainment it is never played. It was declared that audiences should rise and remain standing until the anthem is finished. The secretary was instructed to write the management of the opera House asking that "God Save the the King" be played before the curtain rises and then the audience would loyally rise instead of half of them hurying to put on cloaks as is the case at the conclusion of the entertainment.

Cameron Girl Barred From Home

Lucile Cameron, whose abduction by Jack Johnson has involved the colored pugilistic champion in a mesh of trouble, has been barred by her stepfather from his home in Minneapolis. Mrs. Falconet, the girl's mother, who is here with Lucile pending the case, received a letter from her husband to-day notifying her that she must choose between him and her daughter.

The mother fought hard to keep back her tears as she read the letter over and over again. She feared lest any show of emotion might betray the cause to her daughter and make her forget her promises.

In Minneapolis, Falconet said:

"I will not allow Lucile Cameron to come into my home again. I have had nothing to do with her now, nor will I have in the future. Mrs. Falcnet is welcome any time she comes home. I have heard nothing from her since she left Minneapolis for Chicago only that which I have read in the papers.

"The girl is nothing to me. I have no interest in her. In my opinion, she should be locked up in some institution for a few years. It would do her good."

Asked if he would take her back, if that were done, Mr. Falconet replied:

"I should say not. Why should I? She is not my daughter. I refuse to have anything to do with her again. My wife can come back, but never with Lucile. She must choose between the two of us."

Credit Him With 14 Wives or Affinities

Ten wives and at least four affinities constitute the record to date of Addison Francis Ellsworth, of Philadelphia, so it was asserted by the Philadelphia police when they arraigned him in court. He had been arrested at the instance of an insurance company, on the complaint of a woman who said he had embezzled $2000 from her, but when he came to be arraigned one of his many children by his numerous alleged alliances made a new charge against him, on which he was sent to prison without bail.

According to the story told in court Ellsworth is thirty-nine and was born at Riverside, Cal. When eighteen he married for the first time at Frederick, Md., and had two children. After that it is said, he accumulated a wife and two children at Kortright, N. Y.; a wife and one child at Norwich, N. Y.; a wife at Deposit, N. Y., a wife at Baltimore, a sixth wife and two children at Frederick Md.; two wives and one child at Philadelphia; three affinities and two children also at Philadelphia; a wife and two children at Easton, Pa., and a wife at Bangor, Pa.

One of the Philadelphia affinitites abandoned her husband for Ellsworth who, it is alleged, forged the husband's name to a $1,500 cheque. Such were the allegiations of the police, who added that they would fill the court room with Ellsworth's wives, children and affinities when he is brought to trial.

WATER PRESSURE POOR.

Inefficient Service Costs $300,000 In Montreal Fire.

Montreal, Nov. 4,—Fire last night destroyed the premises of the Consumers' Cordage Co. and the Canadian Bag Co., on St. Patrick street, Point St. Charles, causing damage roughly estimated at $300,000. No figures as to insurance have as yet been given out. For three hours the full fighting strength of the city's fire department battled with a weak water supply to save neighboring structures and had it not been for a favorable wind the loss would have been far greater.

The fire broke out a few minutes after eight o'clock in the factory of the Canadian Consumers' Cordage Co. and by the time the firemen of the Point St. Charles division had arrived it was rushing through the long, low building of the company which runs from Charlevoix to Roperty streets, and had spread to the lumber piles, along the banks of the Lachine Canal.

Owing to the low pressure it was impossible to throw a stream of water any distance and the fire spread with startling rapidity. Only when pumping engines were hauled to the bank of the canal and the water pumped directly from there instead of from the hydrants were the firemen able to make any progress. Before long the entire building of the cordage company was in flames, except a small section which included the offices, and before the fire could be subdued the entire building with that exception was destroyed. The fire also spread to the Canadian Bag Co., a three-storey building which fell an easy prey to the flames. The firemen were early driven from the building owing to lack of water. The firemen then secured better pressure by pumping direct from the canal and were able to prevent the flames from spreading across St. Patrick street to the numerous factories there.

Fortunately the wind was blowing directly towards the canal and fanned the flames in the one direction they could do no harm.

Prefontaine's lumber yard, adjoining the Canadian Bag Co., was saved although several times the flames reached its limits. The cause of the fire has not yet been definitely determined.

Find Woman Drowned in Bath At Harlem

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—A woman's body, nude, with bruises on the hips, was found in a half-sitting position in a bath-tub in a Harlem apartment house last night. It was Indentified as that of Miss Anna M. Vanauken, 33 years old, a stenographer.

In a pocket-book which had evidently belonged to the woman were letters written by relatives living in Schenectady, dated from 1910 up to a month ago.

When the body was found the bathroom was filled with gas fumes. The coroner said he was not satisfied however, that the woman met death by asphyxiation.

An aged man, who was supposed by neighbors to be Miss Vanauken's father, was missing from the apartment.

Kramer Confessed To Killing Heiress

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Broken by thirty-six hours' "silent treatment," Charles N. Kramer confessed yesterday afternoon that he killed Sophia Singer, the Baltimore heiress found murdered on Monday night. Kramer whose stage name is Conway, added a new feature to the statement made on Friday by his wife, Beatrice Ryall Kramer, known on the variety stage as "the burlesque queen." He said that he had knocked Miss Singer down in self-defence when she attacked him with a razor after he had rebuked her for making, he said, a suggestion to Mrs Kramer to go out and meet some men. Kramer exonerated his wife from all blame in connection with the crime.

Kramer, the former clown, high diver and circus acrobat, paced his cell all night, begging for a word from the turnkeys, who refused to vouchsafe him a syllable. He heard his wife's outcries as she made her confession on Friday, but could get no information as to their cause or what she said.

Young Wife Ends Life With Chloroform

TORONTO, Nov. 4.—Mrs. Julia Williams, 30 years, who, with her husband, occupied apartments at 72 Ann street, died yesterday at St. Michael's hospital from the effects of chloroform. The chief coroner decided that an inquest would not be necessary.

The young woman had been brooding over some matters, the nature of which she would not divulge, for some time. On Saturday night, upon the return of her husband from work, she went to her bedroom and chloroformed herself. A few minutes later she was found lying on the floor by her husband, who had her removed to the hospital, where it was found that her case was hopeless.

She had been married only a few months, and her husband was unable to attribute any reason for her determined efforts to end her life.

To Cut Off Six Bars Proposed in Windsor

WINDSOR, Nov. 4.—Led by several prominent temperance advocates, a movement looking to a reduction in the number of Windsor's liquor licenses was launched last week and received such material encouragement that at tomorrow night's meeting of the City Council a petition with more than one thousand bona fide signatures will be presented calling for a reduction of hotel licenses from 23 to 17.

Under the provisions of the law the men behind the movement are required to obtain the signatures of at least ten per cent. of the voters, and the petition shows this required number has been considerably exceeded. Windsor can get along with fewer barrooms than it now has.

Tablet in Memory of Popular Divine

REGINA, Sask., Nov. 4.—In the presence of a crowded congregation in Knox Presbyterian church last night, the Rev. Dr. McQueen of Edmonton, Moderator of the General Assembly, unveiled a bronze tablet to the memory of the late Rev. Dr. Carmichael, pastor of Knox church, from 1893 to 1903, and Superintendent of Home Missions for Manitoba and Saskatchewan from 1903 up to the time of his death in Winnipeg last year.

Following the unveiling ceremony, a ceremony was preached by Dr. McQueen, in the course of which he highly eulogized the work for Western Canada done by the late Dr. Carmichael.

Three Plucky Men Scalded To Death

WINNIPEG, Nop. 4.—Three employes of the Red Deer Lumber Company at Darrows, Sask., 200 miles northwest of here, lost their lives through being scalded to death on Saturday. George Wellwood, foreman; W. Mouquitz, chief engineer, and F. Williams, fireman.

Williams went into the well to investigate some trouble when the steam was turned on. His cries for help brought the other two to the rescue, both jumping in. When rescued all were scalded to the waist, dying a few hours later.

Arbitration League Takes Issue With Lord Roberts

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Lord Roberts' speech at Manchester, which directly declared that Germany would strike Britain the moment she was fully prepared, continues to attract undiminished comment.

Ever since the speech was made a fortnight ago the Daily Mail has published a summary of it every day.

The International Arbitration League, however, carried a resolution denouncing the speech, and declaring that "Lord Roberts speaks only for a small section of fanatical militarists whose violent language measures their failure to place the yoke of conscription on the shoulders of the British people."

A gathering of members of the German colony in Manchester on Saturday condemned the speech, "begging their friends in Germany to understand that Lord Roberts' words do not reflect the opinion of the great majority of Englishmen."

May Extend Navigation Season On Great Lakes

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 4.—Representations have been made to the Marine Underwriters of the Great Lakes which may result in extending the season of navigation until December 10.

It is pointed out by vessel owners that the unprecedently large grain harvest, already several weeks late, has left a great amount of wheat at the head of the lakes for shipment, and that with the expiration of insurance on November 30, as planned, much of this wheat would have to be dumped into Lake Superior elevators, and thus a congestion would be caused which the railways would find it impossible to more than temporarily to relieve.

The matter will likely be definitely settled within a few days.

Shot and Robbed By His Brother

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.—Uchred Martiinic, a Pole, whose home is in Port William, was brought to the General Hospital here Saturday morning from Pendleton Ont. where it is alleged he was shot by his brother and robbed of $800. Martinic was in a serious condition on his arrival here, a bullet having penetrated his jaw beneath one ear and little hope is held out for his recovery.

It is said that Martinic was found early this morning by C. P. R. station employes in a boarding car near the station at Pendleton. Although seriously wounded, he was conscious and through the medium of other Poles a statement was taken from him.

According to the statement, and corroboratory evidence, Martinic was shot by his younger brother while asleep and the money, which he had in his possession was taken by the would-be murderer, who then disappeared, and up to a late hour to-night has not been apprehended.

Heavy Loss by Fire At Point St. Charles

MONTREAL, Nov. 4.—A fire which broke out at eight o'clock last night, totally destroyed one of the buildings of the Canadian Bag Company, and did damage to the Canadian Consummers' Cordage Company, and gutted the "rope walk," a factory occupying three-quarters of a block in Point St. Charles. The water pressure was so weak that no stream could reach the second story. Occupants and householders in the burning area were ordered out of their houses, and the firemen were forced to work so close to the flames that streams were played upon them to keep their uniforms from burning. The brigade on three alarms kept the flames from spreading to the lumber yards and two large paint factories. Na accidents are reported, and damage is estimated at $300,000.

HEAVY VOTING IN THE U.S. FOR PRESIDENT

(Intelligencer Special.)

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 5.—With fair weather generally all over the United States, presidential balloting is going on merrily today, and indications are that it will be the biggest vote ever cast. All parties are more than ever confident as the voting proceeds, but chances seem undoubtedly in favor of Wilson. In some states polls will not close till 9 o'clock, eastern time, but in New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Illinois, which states have a large proportion of delegates to electoral college, polls will close at 5 and results should be out about 8 o'clock. There are 531 votes in Electoral College and the successful canditdate must get 226 or more.

Under Water 6 1-2 Minutes

PARIS, Nod. 4.—Special—When a man named Enocs remained under water for four minutes and forty-six seconds in March, 1896, the swimming world was astonished. A Frenchman named Poulyuen tried to break this record in 1907. He remained under water for four minutes and thirtyone seconds and then came up more dead than alive. On Saturday Poulyuen succeeded in breaking the record by remaining under for six minutes and thirty seconds.

Died of Exposure

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 4.—Special—The body of Miss Flemming of Wardsville, who resided alone near that village, was found in a millpond adjacent to her home today. Miss Flemming had been in ill-health for the past couple of years, and had been in the habit of leaving a light burning over night in her home. This, it is supposed, died out, whereupon she attempted to reach a neighbor's house. Death was due to cold and exposure. An inquest was not deemed necessary.

London Theatre Strike

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 4.—Special—A. J. Small of Toronto, owner of the Grand Opera House here, where a strike is in progress by the stage hands, declares that he will take the matter into court and that proceedings will be commenced immediately against local officers of the union. Mr. Small points to his agreement with the union, which he alleges has been flagrantly violated.

No New Candidate For Second Place

NEW YORK, Nov. 4—After a conference between President Taft and several members of his Cabinet and Republican Senators and representtives it was officially announced here last night that no successor to Vice-President Sherman on the Republican ticket would be selected until after election. Gov. Hadley, of Missouri, is known to be favored by President Taft and many of the leaders.

Conference to-day on the special train which brought the President and several party leaders back to New York from the Sherman funeral in Utica developed opposition to the selection at this time of a man for second place on the ticket. The President was understood to have favored an immediate choice, but was won over to the other view.

U. S. To Take Neutral Position

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Strictly adhering to its policy of non-interference in the politics of Europe, the United States has no intention of sending warships to the theatre of the Balkan War or projecting its voice in the terms of peace. This became known today as the present attitude of the American government, although no official statement was made.

This position coincides with the declaration of the United States Senate in ratifying the Algeciras Convention of 1906, a pronouncement of policy which since has served as a guide for the State Department. The Senate resolution specifically stated that the participation of the United States in the Algeciras Conference was solely to promote American commerce in Morocco, protect American life and property, and aid in removing friction which might result in war and was without purpose to depart from the traditional American foreign policy which forbids participation by the United States in the settlement of political questions which are entirely European in their scope.

COMPLETE RETURNS OF THE UNITED STATES ELECTION RECEIVED AT THE INTELLIGENCER OFICE THIS EVENING.

Determined to Try Her Fortune In the Clouds

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Mrs. Isabella Patterson, of Vancouver, is to try to share with Harry Bingham, aviator, the honor of achieving the American aeroplane altitude record with a passenger. They are going up to-morrow in Bingham's machine to the height of 6,000 feet—if possible.

A start will be made from Oakwood Heights, Long Island, during the Aeronautical Society's election day meet.

The remarkable feature about the project is that Mrs. Patterson has never before had a ride in an aeroplane. Several times she has had an opportunity on the Pacific Coast but her relatives pleaded so strongly that she gave up her devouring ambition. Now she is in the east, and says she will be above all family protests before they can be wired on.

"I'm eager to take the trip," she said. "I don't know what nerves are."

Knows How It Feels to Be Electrocuted

WINDSOR, Nov. 4.—Murray McQueen, eldest son of D. J. McQueen, local agent for the Michigan Central Railway here, has experienced all the sensations of a death by electrocution and he is still alive to tell of it.

For the infinitesimal fraction of a second a current of 2,500 volts of electricity passed through McQueen's body—700 more than is used in the death chamber at Sing Sing. Then the circuit was forcibly broken as the young man fell from the ladder on which he was perched, to the concrete floor, a distance of 15 feet It was the fall which saved him from swift and certain death

The accident occurred ten days ago, but the facts were so closely guarded by the railway company that the story came to light only today, when young McQueen, looking wan and pale and exhibiting traces of the fearful experience he had undergone, left his bed for the first time since he was carried there in a death-like trance on October 23rd.

His right arm was turned quite black from the shoulder to the wrist, while just below the right knee, where the deadly current emerged from his body, there is a round hole in the flesh as large as a twenty-five cent piece.

Prince Aziz To Be Court-Martialed

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 4.—It is reported that Prince Aziz, who commanded the Turkish cavalry at the battle of Kirg-Kilisshe, and 19 other Turkish officers will be brought to Constantinople for trial by courtmartial.

More than 2,000 wounded arrived here tonight from the Thracean plains.

An official despatch from Saloniki this evening says that the Turkish forces which started from Saloniki have formed a junction with the troops at Varsdari on the Yardar river. A column from Yenidiah has succeeded in dislodging the Greeks who occupied a position at Vertekop, near Vodena, in Macedonia. Numerous prisoners and ten guns were captured.

Turkish forces, according to the advices, have descended from Monastir and turned the Greeks under the crown prince.

Denies Bible is The Divine Will

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 4.—Prof. Israel Abrahams, lecturer on Semitics at Cambridge University, lecturing at Temple Beth El, Detroit's fashionable Jewish synagogue, denied that the Bible was the perfect expression of the Divine will, declaring no hard and fast lines could be drawn between the authority of the Bible and the authority of other books, and the individual experience of souls. Continuing, Prof Abrahams said:

"We Jews know that the morality of the New Testament is nine-tenths founded on the Old Testament, and see many beautiful things in the New Testament, but, in the whole, it does not agree with our ideal of God's relationship with men formed on perusal of the whole Bible; so we reject it.

"For the same reason the Christian rejects the Koran."

Prof. Abrahams was introduced by Rabbi Franklin "as an authority on liberalism and the Bible."

Arsenal Explosion

LONDON, Nov. 4.—A despatch from Antivari to the Express says that part of the old Montenegrin arsenal at Old Antivari exploded Saturday morning. The dome of the arsenal was hurled in the air and eleven men were killed by falling masonry. Bursting shell caused all the havoc of a bombardment. The explosions continued intermittently throughout the day, but the main arsenal was saved through the bravery of three Montenegrins, who closed the connecting doors of the underground stores.

Posse Seeks Man Who Attacked Girl

MONTREAL, Nov. 4.—A dastardly assault took place last night at St. Lambert when Miss Stanley was attacked by a ruffian and a sack thrown over her head. She was carried to a nearby field and there savagely assaulted.

Miss Stanley broke free from the sack and the blackguard then drew a knife and threatened her with it. The girl caught hold of the blade and was badly wounded in the hand.

When found Miss Stanley was in an unconscious condition.

Posses of citizens are now scouring the vicinity for the man who assaulted her.

Refuse to Marry Them

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—Up to a late hour this morning Edward Russell Thomas, millionaire New York banker, had failed to locate an Episcopal minister who would marry him to Miss Elizabeth Russell Finley, who came here with Thomas Friday. She is at the Hotel Lourains with her mother. Thomas has found the same opposition here that he found in Newport to his marriage, following his divorce from the Kentucky beauty, Mrs Linda Lee Thomas. Unless Thomas succeeds here tomorrow in finding a minister, the couple will go either to Maine or return to Newport, where a Rhode Island supreme court justice, who is a personal friend of Thomas, will be asked to perform the ceremony.

New Evidence in Ellis Case.

Lindsay, Ont., Nov. 5.—New evidence may be disclosed in the case of Arthur A. Ellis, now under the death sentence in the county jail here, through Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, in whose constituency the convicted man lived, and the shooting of Lewis Porter, for whose murder he is under sentence of death, took place. It is understood that a report has come to the Minister that Ellis had sought to marry Edith Porter, the daughter of his dead wife, before their marriage, and the girl, whom the defence tried to show at the trial, had written to Ellis to tell him of the threats of the Porters against him. This intention is said to have brought from Lew Porter direct and definite threats against the life of Ellis. At the time of the trial Ellis told a reporter of hearing that such had been made, but as he had been unable to locate the man who had given him this information ,this was not put in evidence at the trial. It is understood that this report may form the basis of an application for a new trial by Ellis' counsel.

May Exhume Body.

Toronto, Nov. 5.—That it may be necessary to exhume the body of Private John Bannatyne of the 48th Highlanders, which was laid to rest with so great pomp and ceremony, was the startling statement made at the continuation of the wreck inquest by Chief Coroner Arthur Jukes Johnson at the morgue last night. This arises from the serious illness of J. J. Butler, foreman of the jury empaneled to hear the evidence, who lies at his home in a dangerous condition. It may be necessary to empanel a new jury and view the body again.

Still After McMicken.

Winnipeg, Nov. 5.—The appeal court yesterday granted leave to W. H. Trueman, appearing on behalf of Hugh McKenzie and R. H. McDonald, to lay information against Alex. McMicken, provincial police magistrate, for alleged misdemeanors in connection with the trial of two election impersonators arrested in Macdonald Oct. 12 at the instigation of the Opposition. McMicken heard the cases in private before the hour set for hearing and the court expressed no opinion on the merits of the question

Princess Seeks a Divorce.

Vienna, Nov. 5.—Princess George of Bavaria yesterday filed a petition for the annulment of her marriage, according to the Frem Denblat.

Princess George, whose maiden name was Archduchess Isabella Maria of Austria, and who is a daughter of Archduke Frederick, was married only in February last, and ever since the ceremony quarrels between her and her husband are reported to have been frequent.

Prince George is a grandson of the Prince Regent of Bavaria. He is 32 years of age, and the archduchess is 23 years old.

Ottawa Protest on Nov. 6.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—The Ottawa Separate School Board has been notified that the Ontario Government has fixed to-morrow as the date on which Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, will hear the delegation from Provincial Separate School Boards in regard to bilingual regulations.

It is felt that the notice is too short to properly organize the delegation.

American Third In Balloon Race.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 5.—America won third place in the international balloon race for the Bennett trophy, which started from Stuttgart, Germany, Oct. 27, according to a cablegram received yesterday by George M. Myers, president of the Kansas City Aero Club, from Captain H. E. Honeywell in Stuttgart. Capt. Honeywell piloted the balloon Uncle Sam.

Boys' Work Conference.

Galt, Nov. 5.—The annual boys' work conference, promoted by the joint committee of the provincial Y.M.C.A., Ontario and Quebec, and Ontario Sunday School Association, is to be held in Galt, Nov. 22, 23 and 24. Four hundred delegates will attend. Some of America's strongest speakers for boys and workers with boys will be at the conference.

Thought He Had Slain Brother.

St. Catharines, Nov. 5.—As the result of a delusion on the part of Wm. Young that he had murdered his brother, a squad of police went to his home on Nelson street and kicked in the door. The "victim" was found at work on a night shift at a paper mill. Young has been remanded to the jail to sober up and to undergo a sanity test.

Who Uses the Low-Grade Cocoa Beans?

High-grade cocoa beans are rare. The great bulk of cocoa beans are low-priced and low-grade. But they are used.

For what?

Handlers of cocoa beans will tell you—for cocoa.

Who buys the cocoa?

Housekeepers.

These housekeepers unknowingly miss the real flavor of cocoa produced from the finer-flavored cocoa beans. They miss a rare, wholesome treat. "Rare" is the word. The finer cocoa beans are rare. Cocoa produced from them is rare.

Handlers of cocoa beans will tell you that we buy the very finest cocoa beans to be had—and the most costly.

The flavor of Lowney's Cocoa shows it. This flavor could not be secured from anything but the very cream of the cocoa beans that the tropics yield. Our Montreal factory has a model equipment. It is as neat as your own kitchen.

If you want to enjoy the full, rich flavor of good, wholesome cocoa at its very best, try Lowney's.

Sold by grocers. In tins—10c to 50c sizes.

LOWNEY'S COCOA

WALLBRIDGE.

On Thursday evening about thirty of the young people in the vicinity of Wallbridge were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Nobes. The occasion was a Hallowe'en party given in the interest of the young people by Miss Elda Nobes. Unique invitations had been given and early in the evening in response to them, the spacious parlor which had been beautifully decorated for the event was thronged with young people, whose identity was concealed by the masks and costumes worn. An hour or more was spent in mirth-provoking scenes and humorous speeches, after which by a most amusing vegetable sale partners were selected for the rich repast that followed.

After refreshments were served the friends were entertained by instrumental and vocal music, games and moving pictures. Among those present from a distance were Miss Olevia Wilson, and Miss Nettie Brown of Bayside; Messrs. J. Burke and Ira Seannel, of Belleville, and Mr. W. O. Crothers and Miss Avis Crothers of Northport.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE COSTS NO MORE THAN "SOMETHING JUST AS GOOD"

WHY TAKE CHANCES?

For a woman to adorn her head with false braids, puffs and rats, or a man to wear a topee, is like buying an off-brand hair preparation instead of Newbro's Herpicide. The "false hair" and the "off brand" are both substitutes for the real thing. The original is always conceded to be better than any imitation or substitute. "Something just as good" is a heresy of the rankest kind.

Newbro's Herpicide is the original remedy and does as promised. Years of success, and thousands of satisfied users have made it standard. Herpicide kills the dandruff germ, keeps the scalp clean and stops falling hair. Its proper use before baldness appears makes false hair and wigs unnecessary.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Applications may be obtained at good barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

Send 10c. in postage for sample and book on "The Care of the Hair," to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich. Doyle's Drug Store, special agents.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. ESCAPE OF A HOUND

Yesterday afternoon an express waggon was being driven up Station Street, when from a box in the vehicle a dog of the hound breed made its escape and was soon lost sight of. The canine was being shipped to a party in the north part of the county. Up to the present time there is no trace of the dog.

SOME ARTICLES RECOVERED

Mr. S. Tweedie, whose residence in Thurlow Township was burglarized on Friday night last, in walking through a field north of the house, came across some old clothing which had no doubt been exchanged for clothing stolen from the house. Near by was the tin box taken from the residence which contained receipts and insurance papers. It is surmised that a tramp committed the act as the old clothing indicate they belong to such an individual.

CITY COUNCIL ENTERTAINED

Recently the City Solicitor's office was renovated and fixed up by the Council, and the occupant, Mr. Mikel, K. C., wishing in some tangible manner to express his appreciation of the work done by the city fathers, last night invited the members to an oyster supper after the council meeting. The affair took place at Mr. J. B. Black's restaurant and it proved to be a most enjoyable affair. After the bountiful spread provided had been partaken of an hour was spent in social intercourse and the majority of those present gave brief and witty speeches. The affair broke up at a reasonable hour after all present had voted Mr. Mikel an ideal host.

A NOTABLE EVENT

The anniversary of Guy Fawkes or the gun powder plot as it is often called was fittingly commemorated to-day at Plainfield by Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 179 and the Methodist church of that village. At noon a dinner was served which was partaken of by many. After dinner a platform meeting, presided over by Bro. S. Grant, M. P. P. of Tweed was held. The principal speaker was Colonel John Hughes, Grand Master for Ontario, East. Rev. Bro. A. R. Sanderson of this city was one of the speakers.

MANY ATTENDED OBSEQUIES

The funeral of the late Miss Marjories Taylor took place yesterday afternoon and that the deceased had a host of friends was evidenced by the number who attended the obsequies and the floral tributes which were sent to her late home. The display of flowers was magnificent and most beautiful in design. At the family residence, Reid Street, an impressive service was held conducted by the Rev. A. S. Kerr, Pastor of St. Andrews Church who also officiated at the grave. Interment took place at Belleville cemetery. As the deceased was connected with the O. B. College, that institution was closed for the afternoon and the faculty and students attended in a body, walking at the head of the cortege. The bearers were students of the O. B. C. namely, Messrs. E. T. Farrell, A. Gibson, G. Byrant, H. Brown, G. Walsh and C. Major.

Scene from "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" at Griffin's Opera House TO-NIGHT

THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE.

It is impossible to say how many people have read "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," the delightful story which John Fox, Jr., wrote around the lives of the primitive mountain folk of the Virginia hills. The publishers admit that they sold almost a million copies of the book, and as three times that number, perhaps four times, must have borrowed it from the fortunate possessors or from the public libraries, it is not overstepping the boundary of truth to say that 3,000,000 readers have followed June from her cabin in the hills to the lonely pine in which she believes the spirit of her sister dwells to watch over her while she stays in the Gap.

Eugene Walter has brought out all the strength of Mr. Fox's delightful story; he has made June and her kinsfolk delightful stage characters, visualizing in his virile manner, the primitive scenes and manners of a rugged people.

The business done by the producers was the largest of any dramatic play in recent years and it proved a tremendous success in Boston, New York and Chicago, where it enjoyed long runs. The present company is surrounded with a magnificent equipment of scenery and electrical effects, which render the play more vivid in beauty of scene and action. The fact that the production is to appear at Griffin's opera house tonight should interest every local theatregoer.

"TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE."

Saturday's Brockville Recorder, speaking of the play that appears at Griffin's Opera House tonight, says:

"An exceptionally strong company, headed by Miss Isabelle Lowe, presented "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" at the New Theatre last night. It was a four-act melodrama written by Eugene Walter on the novel of the same name. Miss Lowe gave an excellent portrayal of the character of June. She was wonderfully effective, backing an attractive personality with ability of a high order. The other characters were equally strong in their respective roles. The production was sumptuously staged. The first act in which the play opens at a turn of the trail up through Lonesome Cove, in the Virginia mountains, just below Judd Tolliver's cabin, is beautiful. Over the shoulder of the trail the audience gazes down a wide sweep of valley with rugged mountains on either side and a series of water courses at the bottom. The background and lighting effects are splendid. The stage settings in the second and third acts are also elaborate.

"Unfortunately the audience was small but none the less appreciative, judging from the number and heartiness of the curtain calls."

DEATH ROLL.

JOHN B. MORTON.

After being ill for some time, Mr. John B. Morton passed away at the hospital here this morning. Although deceased was afflicted with a painful malady, he bore patiently his sufferings. Mr. Morton, who was in his 71st year, was born at Thomasburg, Hungerford township, and had always resided in this county, where he was well and widely known. For a period of 33 years the deceased was a public school teacher, but of late years had been engaged in farming. Mr. Morton was at one time a member of the county council when that body was composed of 14 members. For years he had been a member of the Methodist church and always took a deep interest in church work. For years he was superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school at Moira, Huntingdon township, where he had made his home. He was also an official of the church. In secret societies he was identified with Stirling Lodge, I.O.O.F., and the Orangemen. Deceased was a man of sterling qualities and leaves a large circle of friends to mourn his demise. A widow and a family of one son and four daughters survive. The son is John and the daughters are: Mrs. John Kingston, Mrs. W. H. Richardson, Mrs. Jas. Haggerty and Mrs. Charles Ketcheson, all of whom reside in this county.

"I don't understand; you say you told her exactly what I told you. Don't you realize—CAN'T you realize—that that wasn't your secret?"

HON. W. J. ROCHE, POPULAR MINISTER

Through the re-construction of the Cabinet made necessary by the resignation of Hon. F. D. Monk, Hon. Dr. Roche, Secretary of State, has gone to the Department of Interior. His appointment has been received with general approval throughout the country. He is one of the most popular men in the House, and his elevation to the important post of Minister of the Interior is regarded as a fitting recognition of his ability both as an administrator and as a parliamentarian. The Interior is particularly a western department, and the news of his appointment has been especially well received in his home province, Manitoba, and in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

By birth Dr. Roche is an Ontario man, although of Irish parentage. He was born at Clandeboye, near Lucan, Ontario, in 1859. He was educated at Lucan and London high schools and then studied for medicine. He is enrolled as the first graduate in medicine of Western University, London. Last fall his alma mater honored him by bestowing on him an honorary degree. He graduated in 1883, and the same year he removed to Manitoba, locating at Minnedosa, where he has been actively practising ever since. He is thus one of the pioneers of the West, and probably no man in parliament has such a thorough knowledge of western conditions and western affairs as Dr. Roche.

His first essay into politics was in 1892, when he was an unsuccessful candidate for the Manitoba Legislature. Four years later he was the Conservative candidate for Marquette, and redeemed the riding, thus entering the House the same year as Premier Borden. Despite deadsets on his riding, Dr. Roche carried Marquette with increased majorities in 1900, 1904, 1908 and 1911. His popularity in his home riding has made him now unseatable.

One of the most eloquent speakers in parliament, and a close follower of legislation, Dr. Roche was early recognized as one of the Conservative party's ablest men in the House, and in 1901 he was honored by being appointed Conservative whip for the west, continuing in that position until 1910, when he was appointed assistant chief whip.

Through the long years of opposition, Dr. Roche bore the brunt of the fighting for the Conservatives on western subjects. His thorough knowledge of the west, his eloquence as a speaker, and ability as a debater, brought him into prominence, and he soon took his place as a front bencher in the Conservative ranks and as one of Premier Borden's right hand men.

When Premier Borden formed his Cabinet Dr. Roche was appointed Secretary of State. During the past year he has shown splendid administrative ability, and his elevation to the important portfolio of the Interior is regarded as an admirable choice.

PURE FOOD FOR THOUGHT

The pure food campaign has had its triumphant swing. Under Dr. Harvey Wyley and other men of like nature, there has been a very great amount of interest taken, and not a little action also, in the purification of food. The justification and good of the campaign requires no argument. Its importance is universally conceded. Everyone eats, and everyone wants to eat purity, and not impurity. So the cause has swung victoriously along.

But the Christian Science Monitor, of Boston, that unique national daily newspaper that has within the last few years done much to revolutionize journalism in the interests of purity and idealism, has applied the pure food watchword in a way that calls for attention and commendation. At recent Pure Food fairs in several states of the Union, it had a booth for the advertisement of its publication, with the very significant sign inscribed above it: "Pure Food for Thought."

The meaning must have been apparent to all. Purity is a term just as applicable to thought as to food. There is no essential difference between eating adulterated food and reading adulterated truth. A can of rotten meat and a column of rotten scandal are on a par. Both are dangerous. Of the two the latter is perhaps more to be feared. It is more insidious in its operation and more lasting in its evil effect. It is impossible to recover fully from the one after a temporary unpleasantness, but the other leaves an abiding stain. The Christian Science Monitor has made a departure and a discovery equally great. The departure was the elimination of the sensational altogether, and the presentation of facts in a wholesome, unbiased way. And the discovery was that the people liked it so well that the success of the paper has been achieved by leaps and bounds. It has refuted the long-held opinion that the public needed tobasco sauce on its news, and that flaring headlines alone could catch and hold the average reader. Mentally and physically, the public is entitled to pure food, and the press generally is coming to realize this.

Mr. Monk might have used a fine quibble in his declaration against a dollar to Britain. No one proposes to send a dollar. The $30.000.000 will be credited to Britain and debited to Canada.—Toronto Globe.

Who footed that $25,000 bill for "educational" views circulated by a prominent Liberal paper during the election campaign of 1911? Will The Globe please put up or shut up?

NEW POWER IN THE EAST

From the confused and fragmentary news that reaches the world from the scene of a war where no newspaper correspondents are allowed, the one fact that appears to be definitely established is that the main Turkish army has been badly beaten by the Bulgarians. This, however, is so great an event that it must remake the map of Europe. It means that a new power has appeared and an old power has fallen. No interference by the greater European nations can now alter the fact that Bulgaria has become the dominating power in southeastern Europe. And Turkey, on the other hand, though she should be allowed to retain all her present territory, is reduced to the position of a weak minor state. Even if all boundaries are to remain as before the war and the existing alliance between the Balkan states should be dissolved, it is to Bulgaria hereafter, instead of Turkey, that Europe must look as the great factor in the problem of the near East.

Will the powers think the Turkish empire, thus weakened and humiliated worth maintaining? Can it any longer fulfill the purpose for which it was maintained by the powers? And if the powers attempt interference, will these Balkan states submit to dictation? Allied as they now are, Bulgaria, Servia, Montenegro and Greece have between 400,000 and 500,000 men in the field, well equipped and experienced in war as no other European troops are. That is a force large enough to war with any nation in Europe, large and dangerous enough to make even a combination of the powers stop and count the cost before challenging it to combat.

Why may not the outcome of this war be the formation of a new empire, in the same way that the German empire was organized after the war with France?

CIVIC ADVANCEMENT

From time to time reference is made in the larger city papers regarding the simplification of civic government, the most recent being the action of the city council of Montreal in approving of the proposition to cut down the number of aldermen and to simplify city government in the interest of efficiency. That this movement was a popular one was fully shown by the action of a representative body of men, from most of the business bodies and commercial organizations of that city, in heartily approving the suggestion of the council. As municipal government is being wisely regarded today as a matter calling for the application of those principles which make all other business enterprises a success, the judgment of these business men must have a great deal of weight upon the solution of the problem which faces not only Montreal, but other cities. Nothing is gained by numbers, and much is lost by the lack of authority being vested in the responsible few. It is a recognized principle of business that simplicity of organization is one of the most essential elements of real efficiency. And applying that principle to the business of our Canadian cities, it becomes at once apparent that the reduction of the council to the minimum number is a move in the right direction. This reduction, with the vesting of complete power and authority in the hands of the controllers, must indicate the line along which the municipality may advance with greatest safety and promise.

"SOME HA'E MEAT, AND CANNA EAT"

So Bobby Burns tersely describes the rich, but still poor, dyspeptics. But their case is not now so desperate as when Burns wrote. For the man who has the food now can eat without suffering for it, if he just follows the meal with a Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablet.

These remarkable tablets banish the troubles of the chronic dyspeptic—the man who is bilious—the sufferer from heartburn, gas on the stomach or occasional indigestion. You can eat hearty meals of wholesome food—and digest them, too—if you take Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets.

Compounded by expert chemists, after probably the best formula known to medical science, they are quick and certain in their action, giving prompt relief from all forms of stomach trouble, toning up and strengthening the digestive organs and bringing about permanent cures.

A man is no stronger than his stomach. Fit yourself for your best work by taking Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets. 50c. at your druggist's. National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal. 144

A strike of the freight-handlers, checkers and freight clerks employed by the Canadian Pacific Railway company started yesterday morning, involving these classes of employes on the whole C.P.R. system. It is said that about 5,000 men will quit work. The sudden withdrawal of this army of workers from their duties cannot fail to cause much difficulty in the handling of freight, and probably there will be a congestion of freight traffic and much inconvenience and loss to shippers and consignees.

A reporter for one of the papers having called on Sir James Whitney to enquire whether he had selected a successor to Mr. James Leitch, K.C., as chairman of the Ontario Railway Board, says that the Premier was "obviously annoyed" on being questioned on the subject: This we must regard as a Pickwickian expression. The annoyance of the Premier was, we feel sure, not obvious at all, or it was vastly more than that. There is something wrong somewhere about this.—Toronto Daily Star.

There are two reasons why Sir James should have just cause for annoyance, i.e., an untimely hour, and a "fresh" reporter. Most people, especially public men of prominence, are susceptible to courtesy. In this case there is ample evidence that the Star reporter was not suited to his assignment, and Premier Whitney resented the questioning of an obtuse representative of an arrogant opposition paper. Use the proper methods and Sir James will meet you quite openhanded.

Frank Webb Implicated.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 5.—Letters which the Government charged showed that Frank C. Webb of New York, wrote to J. J. McNamara about sending Ortie E. McManigal to New York and Boston to blow up work there, were read at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial yesterday.

A letter from Webb was quoted as showing that M. J. Young of Boston was anxious to have "jobs" done in Boston in the spring of 1909, and in reply McNamara wrote, "I don't know whether my friend will be able to get down your way. Find out if the deal could be pulled off. I'll attend to the rest of it, so no one will know anything about it as to time." The Government asserted these letters were referred to Frank M. Ryan, president of the Ironworkers' Union, and that Herbert S. Hockin was sent to Chicago to prepare McManigal for the eastern trips. McManigal reported that an opera house under construction in Boston, and a viaduct in Hoboken, N.J., were blown up in March, 1909.

A Freight Elevator is the Great Cost Saver in Handling Goods.

The Order lost—Because his "handling charges" made his price too high.

Keeping Prices Below Competitors

THOUSANDS of orders are placed on the "price basis" every day. In machinery lines, quality is important, but the price counts equally as much. Success lies in keeping prices down, while keeping quality up. Economies pay the profit.

In handling heavy materials, the heavy cost of shifting and hauling about the shop either eats into the profits, or boosts selling prices.

In handling all kinds of goods, an Otis Fensom Freight Elevator will save you dollars every day. It cuts out unnecessary labor. It enables you to arrange your tools and stock so as to work most efficiently—without lost motions. You can store stock conveniently. You save money every way.

If you have more floors than one, it puts them all on the same level—makes the top floor as accessible as the ground floor for all kinds of purposes.

"MY GHOST."

("Kit" in November Canada Monthly.)

Once I saw a ghost. He stood at the foot of my grandmother's bed, and he had no face!

Gran was asleep—sound—and snoring in that gentle manner which may best be described as "pop-pop-pop-ing" and whistling. The ghost—I was little, and chattering as to teeth—aimed a dreadful finger at me. He wagged it slowly up and down. I watched that bony finger until I grew cross-eyed, yet ever it waved. Then somehow the figure grew a face, and the face was Jimmy's—the stable boy,—and Jim was grinning. "Shure," says he, "isn't it the little bay mare you'll be taking out the day—the pony-mare that can leap every boghole the divvle ever split in the bog?" And then it was "me," with, "An' is it a face you have! Sure I dreamed you hadn't any face at all!"

And then the Ghost changed. And he was Grandfather and he had two faces . . . . Well, I'll be saying good-bye for nobody at all, at all, could describe the horror of that ghost, nor the screeching of the wild little creature who caught grandmother by her thin little knob of white hair, and, shaking and trembling, cried out to the shocked old lady that she had been talking to Grandfather and he had two faces.

"I always knew he had," said Grandmother as solemnly as if intoning prayer. "I always," she insisted, wide-awake and sitting up in bed—"knew that he had."

GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM NEWS ITEMS

An official circular has been issued by Mr. J. J. Connolly, Grand Trunk Assistant Superintendent, approved by Mr. U. E. Gillen, Superintendent, under date Oct. 25th, announcing the appointment of Mr. A. D. McCarthy as Trainmaster, Fourth District and Montreal Terminals, with headquarters in Montreal. The appointment is effective from date.

A circular has been issued by Mr. J. E. Dalrymple, Vice-President of the Grand Trunk System in charge of Freight and Passenger Traffic, approved by Mr. E. J. Chamberlain, the president, under date Oct. 29th, announcing the appointment of Mr. A. E. Rosevear as Assistant to the Vice-President with office at Montreal, effective November 1st.

Mr. Rosevear was educated at the Montreal Academy and entered railwal service in 1879, since when he has been consecutively to 1880 clerk in the locomotive department of the Grand Trunk Ry.; 1880-85 clerk in the General Superintendent's office; 1885-1890, stenographer in the General Manager's office; 1890-92, Accountant of the West Shore Fast Freight Line at Chicago, Ill., and Detroit, Mich.; 1898, of the same line; Oct. 1, 1898-1906 Freight Claims Agent of the Grand Trunk Ry.; and 1906 to date, Assistant General Freight Agent of the same road.

One of the funny things we sometimes see is a woman who is built like a bale of hay trying to act sentimental.

No dressing can be successful in the best sense which ignores the individuality of the wearer, and slavish imitation of the fashion of the moment, or of one's next door neighbor, results only in caricatures, or meaningless fripperies, while the woman who studies her own personality will attain a distinction, dignity of pose that are sadly lacking in the majority of women.

In the first place, never neglect to think ahead. It is astounding to find how often the woman who dresses on a moderate sum will make her expenditure without any definite plan. Keep in mind always the wants of six months hence, as well as of the present moment that there is another season on its way, and if possible, order for the next summer, so that it will carry one through the winter, and if possible adjust itself to early spring. For instance, in choosing the summer suit, avoid getting it in material that it palpably a June fabric, but decide rather on something standard that will not look chill in in the first winter winds. When buying summer gowns, leave colored linens alone, if your expendtiure is moderate.

Cut out the worry about yesterday's sorrows and get busy with the joys of today.

THE RING.

San Francisco, Nov. 4.—The fighting days of Jack Johnson, the black heavyweight champion of the world, are probably over. Disgusted by the flaunting boast of the negro that "all white women seem to "fall" for him, and that he could win any of them," Johnson is barred to-day by leading fight promoters from appearing in any of the fight centres of the world, with the possible exception of Paris.

The disbarment of Johnson as a fighting attraction was led by Hugh D. Mcntosh, the Australian promoter. He had virtually completed arrangements with the negro for two fights at Sydney, which would have netted Johnson something like $50,000, when word of the alleged abduction of Lucille Cameron and the negro's boast reached the Australian metropolis.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—"Packey" McFarland announced recently that he would retire from the prize ring after his forthcoming contest with Young Jack O'Brien in Philadelphia next month. He said he was tired of the continual rigor of training and that the lure of the dollar had lost some of its draw.

"There are only three fights I would like to get before I quit," McFarland said. "I'd like to take on Ad Wolgast, the champion. I'd like to meet Jack Britton, a Chicago boy, who is a comer, and I would like to get into a ring with Battling Nelson just to give him a whipping.

"I have made about $200,000 in the last five years and that is why I am ready to quit. My best winning was with Matt Wells, the Englishman. I drew down $10,000 for that fight. My battle with Jimmy Britt in San Francisco brought me $5,000. I have a number of smaller fights right along and clean up nearly $50,000 a year.

"I have never bet on my self, but have made a little betting on others. It never has been a paying proposition to bet, however, and I quit it."

RUGBY

The Toronto fans who journeyed to Hamilton Saturday gave three cheers for the Argos on hearing the final result. Hamilton fans were also with the Scullers.

Ottawa are still that 60 minutes from the championship, but as that final 60 will be played in Toronto one fails to see where the Rough Riders are going to get the verdict over the Scullers after the brilliant showing of the latter Saturday.

The Argos not only played the better Rugby than Ottawa, but beat them at their own game—rough house. Kilt and Holden are living witnesses of the fact that there are other players who can mix it up besides themselves.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—Defeated, the Ottawas are not a bit disheartened. Secretary-Treasurer D. J. O'Donohue announced last night that the locals intended to go down to Toronto next Saturday in force, determined to down the Argos and win the Big Four title.

"If they beat us there we will acknowledge that they are the better team, but we will not acknowledge it on Saturday's play."

He also gave out that Ottawas intended to make an effort to take down 500 rooters and a band to Toronto. A rate of single fare has been secured over the C. P. R. and the executive of the club are already taking steps to get together a big crowd to take the trip.

It is felt generally, that the locals lost the game through poor generalship, and also through the injury to Gerard in the early stages of the game The fact that they have played all their best games away from home, while the Argos are reputed a poor home team, leads local Rugby fans to believe that the championship is not yet lost, and they are already beginning to think of victory over the Oarsmen in Toronto.

It is probable that Gordon Johnstone will be placed on the senior half division, his brilliant work with the intermediates showing that he is still one of the best back division men in town. The red, white and black squad will get down to hard work again on Tuesday and make every effort to remedy the faults which cost them the game here with the Argos.

THE TURF.

Latonia, Ky., Nov. 4.—R. F. Carman's Meridan won the Kentucky Stakes, Saturday's, most important event. It is a handicap at a mile and seventy yards, with $1,000 in added money. The all-aged handicap at six furlongs, in which no two year olds were engaged, was won by J. C. Allan's Marta Santa three year old, Morristown. Amos Turney's McGee colt, Horron, won the two year old handicap in faster time than Morristown.

When Feather Duster, which R. F. Carman claimed recently, scored for his new owner yesterday, it promptly invited a run-up, William Walker bidding him up from $800 to $1,105, and failing to get him.

Another run-up came after the finish of the third race, in which a poor band started. Portarlington won the race, with Scarlet Pimpernel, another long shot, in second place. The latter's owner, A. Boyd, bid Portarlington up $200 over his entered price of $400, and secured him.

William Walker will ship his horses from Latonia to Jamestown and then to Canada to winter, while he himself will go to Juarez. He has three yearlings by Earl Rogers, which will be eligible to races for Canadian-bred horses.

Baltimore, Nov. 3.—An attractive program drew a very large crowd to Pimlico on Saturday. The Chesapeake Stakes, a handicap for three year olds at one and a quarter miles, was the feature. H. C. Hallenbeck furnished the winner in Worth, who led from strt to finish. The Schoor entry, Froglegs and Hamilton, were made an odds-on choice. After being very close up in the early stages Froglegs did not respond with his usual stretch run.

Hamilton ran very creditably, and was a keen contender all the way. Teahun made two or three moves with the horse and rode a very badly judged race.

The junior champion steeplechase brought together a high class lot of three year olds. The favorite, O'Bear, won easily after laying in behind the leaders.

Nonpareil, winner of the second race, was boosted from $1,000 to $1,400. C. J. Quinn did the bidding and Andy Blakeley protected the colt.

The weather was chilly and the track muddy. Three choices were unsuccessful. Jockey Glass rode two winners.

Jockey Butwell may ride for William Garth's stable next season. Mr. Garth is handling a public stable and fire of the gentlemen for whom he is training have agreed to form a pool and engage Batwell.

Eddie Tribe, who did the starting at the Vancouver, Victoria and Denver tracks during the summer and fall, has arrived from Denver and is again acting as one of A. B. Dade's assistants.

FOOTBALL

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 4.—The drop kicking and line plunging of Charles E. Brickley of Everett, backed by a dozen well-drilled crimson team mates, regained today in the stadium, Harvard's football supremacy over Princeton, after a lapse of a quarter of a century. The score was Harvard 16, Princeton 6. Brickley kicked two field goals and a goal from placement of 47 yards, and battered the Princeton line for longer gains than were made by any other player on either team. In addition, he intercepted two Princeton forward passes and hammered his way to within striking distance of the Tiger goal line, where Hardwick had the honor of carrying the ball over for the Crimson's only touchdown, made in the last few minutes of the game. Brickley was carried helpless from the field and may not resume play before the game with Yale three weeks hence. The Princeton score was the result of Harvard's inability to fathom two beautifully executed forward passes, which covered a total distance of 58 yards, and resulted in a touchdown by Walter. The Tiger touchdown came in the same period, and up to that time the Princeton team had had a trifle the better of the contest. In the remaining periods the Tigers were never in Harvard's territory and played entirely on the defensive.

TRIUMPH OF SURGERY

Quite Possible to Graft Pieces of Dead Bodies on Living Subjects

Flesh and bone from the dead can be used to patch the sick bodies of the living.

This is the assertion of Dr. Roswell Park, a noted professor of surgery in the University of Buffalo. He says that one sound body, such as that of a person in health killed by an accident, will furnish enough available tissues for making perhaps 50 grafts—each one of which might mean health and happiness to someone.

"Let a healthy young woman meet accidental and instantaneous death," says Dr. Park. "It would be possible to use no inconsiderable portion of her body for grafting, or other justifiable surgical proceedures.

"The arteries and nerves could be used in the fresh state, and the former even after preservation, for suitable transplantation or repair work on the vascular and nervous systems of a considerable number of other people. So also could the thyroid, the cornea, and especially the bones.

"All the teeth, if healthy, could be transplanted. With the thin bones, ribs especially, plastic operations—particularly on noses—could be performed on 50 people.

"The exterior of the body could be made to supply any amount of normal skin for grafts. The kidneys could also be easily utilised."

Dr. Park believes that the time will soon come when the surgeon will ply the art of flesh and bone grafting as generally and as successfully as Burbank and his disciples to-day ply the art of budding and grafting in the orchard.

The steamer brought no details concerning the loss of the Phoka.

"Isn't it queer how your brother openly scorns a man who could actually fall 'in love with you?'"

PACKING CLOTHING

Did Newspapers Take the Place of Moth Balls in Preserving Furs

Housekeepers swear by all sorts of moth preventives, such as camphor, camphor balls, tar balls, gasoline and patent preparations, but newspapers—plenty of them—outweigh all. One woman has for years packed away her sables, using nothing but a flour sack, the furs first wrapped in newspapers and the bag well sealed. Furriers say that moth balls or camphor should not touch fur or it will discolor. Brush and hang in sun all fur before putting it away.

Use system in your packing. Have on hand a supply of newspapers that are not so old as to be dusty. Line boxes and chest with them and tuck in tightly over the top when packed. To use as a covering overlap and paste the edges or pin closely. Old feathers and hat trimmings or Winter hats themselves may be left in their boxes safely if moth balls or camphor is put in, the contents covered with newspaper and the box also wrapped in it.

In packing a chest fold the garments carefully, put the heaviest at the bottom and those at the top for which there may be need in Summer. Some women use layers of newspapers at intervals between the clothes for greater safety. This is a wise precaution for a trunk that must be left in a cellar or storage room.

Label the outside of each box plainly. It saves trouble if it must be opened hastily. If you cannot have a separate box for household and personal belongings, segregate each in a trunk, so if anything is wanted the entire contents need not be upturned.

ONTARIO

The Glasgow Herald has the following description of Ontario:

"The natural wealth of Ontario is boundless. It produces 75 per cent. of all fruits grown in Canada, 60 per cent. of the plums, 70 per cent. of the apples, 80 per cent. of the small fruits and pears, and 99 per cent. of the peaches and grapes. There are 7,000,000 apple trees in the province, bearing in a good season, at a moderate estimate, one barrel of packed apples per tree. South Ontario has 338,255 acres of orchard, vineyard, and small fruits. Three-quarters of the dairy produce of Canada comes from this province; the average value of the products for the past five years being at least $30,000,000, and in two or three "barren years" $35,000,000. Further, Ontario ranks higher than any other province in field crops, and she has a greater variety of mineral deposits in proportion to population than any country in the world, having been responsible the year before last for 41 per cent. of Canada's total mining production.

In the more populous parts of the province there are 175,000 farms, valued at from $1,000 to $50,000 and ever. But there are about 20 million acres of good arable land left for settlement, south of the fiftieth parallel of latitude, and this wealth—given away free—awaits the enterprising emigrant.

EDIBLE MUSHROOMS

Simple Rules to be Followed in Order to Avoid Poisonous Varieties

It is not hard to distinguish edible mushrooms from poisonous varieties. The common mushroom (agaricus campestris) is usually found in open, grassy fields, often on old pastures and lawns, but never in the woods. It has a fleshy cap, dun colored on top and pink beneath, the pink gills turning dark brown or black when mature and after gathering. There are many other good varieties, but the agaricus is the commonest. Mushrooms which are gathered in the open which have pink gills that turn brown or black after being gathered, it is safe to eat.

The two poisonous varieties which are most common are the amanita muscaria and the amanita phalloides. They are usually found in or near woods. They have yellow or white gills, and the stem of the latter rises from a cup-like base. Mushrooms gathered in the woods, which have yellow or white gills (not pink) or have cup attachments at the base of their stem, should be shunned; they are probably poisonous.

FEWER TIPS GIVEN

Sums Sent Back to England by Sailors at Montreal are Dwindling

That trans-Atlantic passengers are not as generous as formerly in the matter of tips and that the amount of money sent back to England by sailors is correspondingly smaller than usual, is the statement made by Mr. Ritchie Bell, manager of the Montreal Sailors' Institute.

In substantiation of this argument Mr. Bell pointed out that this year only $14,000 wcas sent away from the Institute, as against $17,000 last year. The amount of English tip money changed into Canadian currency dwindled from $2,250 last year to little more than $2,000 this season.

Moreover, the amount of money given the Institute officials for safe keeping was only $1,700 this year, compared to $2,000 for the same period last year.

On the other hand, the attendance at weekly concerts increased by more than 1,000, the number of letters written from the Institute also showed an increase. Other figures denoted an advance in the number of seamen attending temperance and religious services.

Teaching Fish to Swim

If there is anything a fish is supposed to do from the time it is born it is to know how to swim. But some fish have to be taught how to swim. Director W. E. Mehan, of the Philadelphia aquarium, after a series of experiments with baby trout, made the statement that many kinds of fish must acquire the art of swimming just as birds learn to fly.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

ZAM-BUK

CURED US! WHY NOT YOU?

Injury to Foot Healed.

Mr. Reuben Atherton, of 307 Ferguson Ave., Hamilton, says:—While employed with the Otis Elevator Co. a heavy plank fell and severely crushed my big toe and right foot. The nail had to be removed from the toe when the doctor came to dress the injured members. The flesh was terribly bruised, turned very black, and the foot and leg became much swollen and painful. I was laid off work for some eight weeks. The doctor attended regularly at first, but the wounds did not heal. At last I heard of Zam-Buk and began using this ointment. It really seemed to act like magic, cleaning all unhealthy matter from the wounds, and drawing out all discoloration, inflammation and soreness. In two weeks the toe and foot were well again. Zam-Buk balm is certainly a wonderful healer, and I would not be without a box in the house.

Poisoned Sore Cured.

Mrs. D. S. Green, of Kingston, Ont., writes:—My daughter Hazel sustained a poisoned wound on her heel. She had chilblains and when the skin broke some poison got into the wound and made a terrible place. It was painful, much swollen, and made her almost unable to move about. For a long time she could not bear to put a shoe on. I tried several things, but there was no trace of improvement. At last a lady friend recommended Zam-Buk. I left off the ordinary salves and applied this herbal balm to her heel. In a few days Zam-Buk had cleansed and healed the sore so well that she was able to put on her shoe, and a few days later the wound was healed and Hazel was back at school. I shall always keep Zam-Buk handy in future.

Obstinate Skin Rash Ended.

Mrs. H. Burdett, of 198 Simcoe St. East, Hamilton, says:—"I was cured by Zam-Buk of an obstinate skin rash which had defied all previous remedies. This eruption broke out on my face in the form of red pimples and blotches. Various remedies one after another were tried, yet nothing permanently removed this eruption until I used Zam-Buk. After each application of this herbal ointment my skin became clearer, and in a week my face was as smooth and white as before the rash broke out, thanks to Zam-Buk. Since then our home is never without it.

For all skin injuries & diseases Zam-Buk is best. All druggists and stores 50c a box or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

THREE THOUSAND OUT

C.P.R. Freight and Ticket Men Demand More Pay.

Officials at Montreal Declare That There Has Been Only a Slight Response to the Order of the New Brotherhood, But President Mosher Puts Number at 3,000—Toronto Men Holds a Meeting To-night.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Three thousand ticket, freight, passenger and other grades of clerks, car checkers, baggagemen, freight handlers, yard office men, etc., employed by the C.P.R. at stations all over the line of the system in Canada, went on strike yesterday at a given signal flashed from Ottawa by A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes, of which those who went out are members, following a refusal of the company to grant an increase in wages from 15 to 30 per cent. and payment for overtime.

One hundred and twenty-five men employed by the C.P.R. at Broad street station are among the strikers. At 9.30 yesterday morning they left their work, and shortly afterwards the officials of the C.P.R. said that many of the positions had been filled by experienced men who came from Montreal for the purpose.

In the afternoon there was no one working in the freight sheds. Of the 125 local strikers, half a dozen are clerks from the office of the division superintendent.

Late last night President Mosher said that practically all the members of the union employed at C.P.R. stations, except Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, were on strike. Though the men at those large railroad centres are still working, they are ready to quit when requested, he declares. He says further that the members of the union employed by the C.P.R. total 5,000, and every one is willing to go out if called upon.

The strike is being directed from Ottawa. Besides Mr. Mosher there are a number of other members of the executive committee of the union in the city. At a meeting of the strikers, held last night, it was declared that in consequence of the strike, freight is becoming congested all over the system. Specific cases were cited, among which were that of Fort William, where there are 1,000 cars of grain, besides other cars of goods, blocking the yards. At Winnipeg it was reported there were 743 cars which cannot be gotten out of the yards.

No Change at Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 5.—Not a man went out on strike here yesterday, according to the C.P.R. officials. All over the road it was estimated by C.P.R. officials that only about 250 were out. Many had already been replaced, and it would not take long to fill the places of the others.

David McNicoll, vice-president of the company, discussing the strike, said that a few misguided employes, members of an impossible organization had gone on strike.

The officials point to the refusal of Hon. Mr. Crothers, Minister of Labor, to grant the union concerned a board of conciliation as all the justification required for the company's refusal to deal with the order. All the unions the company recognize count as well-defined spheres of railway activity, and it is possible to lay down schedules to be generally applied. In this instance everybody is taken in, from confidential employes to common laborers, and it is declared impossible to deal with the men as a whole.

According to the officials at Windsor street station, not one had gone out at Montreal or Quebec. At Ottawa, Sherbrooke and other points walkouts are reported.

Toronto Men Organizing.

Toronto, Nov. 5.—To-day is the last day that the Toronto clerks and freight handlers of the Canadian Pacific Railway will work for the company until the demands of the brotherhood are met, according to the expectation of the officers of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employes. A meeting, which will be attended by the 800 C.P.R. employes of Toronto and district affected, will be held at the brotherhood headquarters in the assembly room at Occident Hall, Bathurst street, to-night, and it is expected the men will decide to go on strike.

The reason the Toronto employes affected did not go out when the strike order was issued from the brotherhood headquarters at Ottawa to take effect yesterday was that they are not yet wholly organized here. More than fifty per cent. of the Toronto employes are members of the brotherhood, but those in charge of the strike decided not to call the men out in Toronto until an organization meeting, at which an effort will be made to get the non-members to join, could be held. This is the meeting to be held to-night.

None Out at Woodstock.

Woodstock, Nov. 5.—Although a message has been received calling local freight handlers, checkers, clerks, etc., out on strike, the men are still at work. If they decide to go out in answer to the call, fifteen men will be affected, and the freight business will be completely tied up.

At Ingersoll three of the freight handlers, two clerks and two sympathizers walked out.

At St. John.

St. John, N.B., Nov. 5.—As a result of the strike called by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes men have quit work on the C.P.R. as follows: St. John, 3 clerks, 3 freight handlers; Fredericton, 3 clerks; Woodstock, 8 clerks and 2 freight handlers.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED.

Man Found In Toronto Harbor May Have Been Murdered

Toronto, Nov. 5.—Evidence of foul play submitted last night at the inquest into the death of John Grindall, 27 Herrick street, the man whose body was found in the bay last Saturday, led Coroner Adam Lynd to adjourn the inquest for a week.

Dr. Wigham, who performed the post mortem examination, gave asphyxiation from drowning as the cause of death, but at the same time he stated that he had found a bump as large as a silver dollar on the back of the man's head toward the right, and a skin scrape across the forehead. On being questioned, he said that the scalp wound on the back of the head could easily have been caused by a blow from a club. In his opinion, the man was alive when he entered the water.

Constable Gordon Morris, who took the body from the bay after the boys who found it had informed the police, said that he noticed one peculiar thing when he reached the body. The man's coat was pulled over his head and shoulders with the lining and seams showing. In answer to a question, he said the man would be almost powerless if his coat were pulled over his head in the manner in which he found it.

Sidney Grindall, a brother of the dead man, said that it was a mystery to him how his brother came to be found in the east end of the city, as he lived in the west end and worked on Davenport road. On Tuesday morning the dead man left for work with a lunch in his pocket, and was never seen alive afterwards by any of the family

HARD CAMPAIGN ENDS

Taft, Roosevelt and Wilson Go to the Polls To-day.

Fight For the Election of a President and For Federal and State Officials Is Now In the Hands of the Electors and All Leaders Claim Victory —Women's Vote Will Be an Important Factor.

New York, Nov. 5.—The most vigorous Presidential fight of recent years came to an end last night with the leading candidates for the nation's chief office continuing their personal appeal to voters almost to the last moment. President Taft, speaking from his train in Ohio, on his trip to Cincinnati; Col. Roosevelt, addressing voters at Long Island points close to Oyster Bay, and Governor Wilson addressing meetings at Paterson and Passaic, N.J., gave to the conclusion of the long campaign a touch of personal activity that emphasized the interest in to-day's balloting.

More than the Presidency is at stake in the elections to-day. The Republican forces have concentrated their efforts in doubtful states to prevent an overturning of local organizations, or a capture of the Legislatures in states heretofore safely Republican. The Democrats have made an organized assault upon a number of states to control the Legislatures, so that the majority in the United States Senate may be swung to the Democratic column. Against Republican predictions that the Senate will remain Republican, the Democratic national leaders yesterday claimed enough states to give them the Senate, and to greatly swell their majority in the House of Representatives, which they captured in 1910.

Few American campaigns have run through a longer period of heated controversy. The fight for the Presidency, to terminate at the ballot boxes to-day, was under way early in Februray, and has scarcely lagged since that time. Out of the eight men who were active candidates for Presidential nominations early in the summer, three candidates representing three parties whose relative strength is still a matter of conjecture, remain to solicit the voters support to-day.

The influence of women in the campaign will probably be greater than in any previous election. Each national headquarters has had an organized bureau to appeal to women workers, presided over by women well-known in public and social life. In the six western states where women will vote, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, California, Idaho and Washington, their ballots will be an important factor in the results. In five other states, Arizona, Michigan, Kansas, Oregon and Wisconsin, the right of women to vote will be an issue at the polls.

Fair weather is predicted for the majority of states. The uncertainty caused by the third party ticket, the more than ordinarily urgent appeal of party managers to all voters to "go to the polls," and the local interest caused by fights for state offices and control of state machinery, indicate a record vote in almost all sections of the country, and a popular Presidential vote of huge proportions.

Fight Till Pole Closes.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Final telegraphic instructions to state and county chairmen in all of the western states were sent out last night from the various national political headquarters in Chicago.

All the party managers reviewed their confident predictions of success, but all emphasized the necessity of keeping up the fight until the polls have been closed finally to-night.

Joseph E. Davis sent out a warning to Democrats, urging them not to be led astray by over-confidence.

Medill McCormick asserted that a Progressive landslide had started and that Col. Roosevelt would be elected by an overwhelming plurality.

The Socialists expected to double the Socialist poll of four years ago, and several of the party leaders insisted the Socialist vote would be tripled.

Taft Finishes Campaign.

Cincinnati, Nov. 5.—President Taft spent the last day before election in a leisurely trip across his home state, addressing crowds in more than a dozen cities, and last night reached his home city, where to-day he will cast his ballot. The Democrats last night ended their long campaign in the state with a final rally in Toledo, the Republicans and Progressives having finished their efforts Saturday night.

Leaders of each of the three parties are making claims of victory. Governor Harmon, returning here from Columbus to vote, expressed his conviction that Governor Wilson would carry the state, and said he believed President Taft would run second.

Both the Democrats and Republicans claim they will elect a majority of the 22 members of Congress to be chosen. Progressive candidates for Congress entered the field in only a few more than half of the Congressional districts.

POWERS STAND ALOOF

France, Britain and Russia Will Not Intervene.

Premier Poincare Thinks an Armistice Would Give Turks an Unfair Advantage and Presses His Policy of Disinterestedness — Germany, Austria and Italy Reject Scheme—Turkey Says She Is Not Beaten.

Paris, Nov. 5.—The French attitude to the Turkish appeal for mediation is shared by England and Russia. Turkey's proposals were as follows:

First—That the powers offer and, if need be, enforce an armistice on the belligerents.

Second—That the powers profit by the armistice to invite the belligerents to make known their peace terms, and if necessary harmonize the conflicting terms of the belligerents.

In refusing to act, Premier Poincare declared that France was unable to accept the suggestion about an armistice without furnishing to the Balkan allies guarantees relative to the conditions of peace. An armistice, he said, would check the advance of the allies at the height of their victories, and give the Turks time to reorganize and strengthen their armies.

Premier Poincare's proposals to the powers are:

First—Recognition by the powers of political and administrative changes in the territory occupied by the troops of the allies.

Second—Retention of the Sultan's sovereignty at Constantinople and the region round the capital.

Third—The summoning of a European conference in which the Balkan nations shall participate.

Rejected by Three Powers.

Berlin, Nov. 5.—The Turkish ambassador presented to the Foreign Office yesterday afternoon a communication from his Government asking the powers' good offices to bring about an armistice. Germany immediately put itself into communication with the other five powers with a view to carrying out the request.

The reply of Germany, Austria and Italy to Premier Poincare's proposal has just been despatched. It rejects the proposed declaration of "disinterestedness."

Envoys Go to Russia.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 5.—The newspapers announce the arrival at Odessa of two representatives of the Turkish Foreign Office on a secret mission. They will interview the Rusisan Foreign Minister, M. Sazonoff, and subsequently go to Berlin and Vienna.

Advices from Odessa say that the Russian Black Sea fleet is cruising off the mouth of the Bosphorus, ostensibly with the object of protecting Russian subjects in Constantinople.

Will Keep Up Fight.

London, Nov. 5.—The prospect that a considerable portion of the defeated Turkish army will be able to re-form behind the lines of Tchatalja, the last of the fortifications before Constantinople, is not altogether excluded, but whether the Turks will be able to maintain there any serious resistance to the Bulgarians is a question which permits of doubt.

In the struggle with the allies the Turks lost more than half their artillery. In fact the Servians alone claim to have captured no less than 300 guns. This will certain militate against any prolonged stand at Tchatalja.

In a circular note to the Turkish ambassadors abroad the Turkish Government maintains that, although embarrassing, the position of affairs is not desperate, and declares that when the allies had completed their mobilization Turkey had barely begun hers. The note insists that Turkey is still able to maintain prolonged warfare.

Up to the present hour there is no sign that anything has come of the Porte's appeal to the powers for mediation. No replies have been received at Constantinople, and there is little doubt that when they are received they embody a declination to consider the idea of proposing an armistice. Apparently Bulgaria is in no mood to negotiate peace at the present time.

Although fighting is still proceeding on the Tchorlu-Serai line and correspondents are sending reports of Bulgarian and Turkish successes in that neighborhood, according to which side they draw inspiration from, the official announcement from Constantinople that the Turks are withdrawing to the Tchatalja line of forts is not to be doubted, and it is evidence that this fighting is merely an extensive rear-guard action to cover the movement of the Turks towards Constantinople.

The fall of Adrianople is expected daily. The occupation of Buk, on the railway between Soicniki and Kuleli Burgas, is the last link of the chain wholly cutting off the Turkish armies which have been fighting the great battles in the east from the scattered forces in the heart of the country and to the west.

Comparative order is still maintained in Constantinople and Saloniki, but apparently the nervousness felt in Europe over possible outbreaks and disorders is equally shared by the authorities in Turkey. In Constantinople already the Government is seizing great supplies for the army, and the likelihood of famine prices for food will add to the Government's difficulties. The anxiety has been partly relieved by the arrival of European war ships. Others are on the way and are expected to pass through the Dardenelles to-day.

It is considered not unlikely that the fear of serious outbreaks in Constantinople may urge the powers to use diplomatic pressure to bring about peace at the earliest moment.

Pillaged a Monastery.

Athens, Nov. 5.—A wireless message from a foreign warship at Saloniki says that the Turkish army, which was defeated at Yenidje, about 14 miles from Saloniki, has reached that city in complete disorder. Before their flight from Statista, to the southwest of Kosani, the Turks pillaged a monastery. They cut a monk to pieces, impaled a three-year-old child, and massacred many of the inhabitants of the town.

The Greeks pursued and killed many of them.

Pelletier Answers Lavergne.

Quebec, Nov. 5.—Referring to Armand Lavergne's challenge to meet him in debate, Hon. L. P. Pelletier, said yesterday: "I regret exceedingly the stand taken by Mr. Lavergne, especially as I entertain the most kindly feeling towards him, and can only account for his attitude is that he is carried away by the influence of Quebec Liberals. Lavergne made statements at Loretto which I see reported in the press concerning the Quebec personnel of the Federal Cabinet, and if he was familiar with the negotiations he speaks of I must say he violated the good faith reposed in him. But the statements he made came from his imagination.

"Lavergne's motto says we owe England nothing. My motto is we are part of the British Empire. Lavergne is to-day without a following.

"Lavergne and Bourassa have thrown in their lot with the Liberals in the moment of pique because they could not dictate to the Conservative party, and the Liberals seem glad to have them in their ranks, notwithstanding the manner in which the Liberals have besmirched Mr. Lavergne with all the filth of their denunciations for several years past."

FRONT STREET PAVEMENT BY-LAW TO BE ADVERTISED

At a regular meeting of the civic legislature held last evening the business was purely routine in its character, there being but little special business. A bylaw was passed authizing the publication in the newspapers the Council's intention of paving Front street, the pavement to be sheet asphalt.

The members present were: Mayor Vermilyea, Aldermen Robinson, Lucas, Canning, Bogle, Alford, McCurdy, Slater, Parks, Clarke, Woodley, Anderson, Marshall, Panter, Lott, Wallace.

After the minutes of last meeting had been read and confirmed the Council went into committee of the whole on reports, communications, etc., Ald. McCurdy in the chair.

A number of accounts recommended by the various civic committees were ordered to be paid.

An agreement between the city and the Marsh & Henthorn Co. in reference to a mortgage guaranteeing the bonds of the company was on motion referred to the Executive Committee.

A communication was read from Mrs. Bogle in reference to the walk on Commercial street, which was in a dangerous condition.—Referred to the Public Works committee.

On April 25th last the G. T. R. Co. confiscated a car of coal to their own use which was consigned to the city, and the Pittsburg Coal Co. wrote, requesting pay for it and interest on money.

The Solicitor was instructed to write the G.T.R. Co. in reference to the same and request payment for it.

Mr. R. Tannahill, Manager of the Bank of Montreal, wrote the Council stating that 6 per cent. would be charged for money borrowed by the city from the bank.

Ald. Alford was of the opinion that the percentage was too high, and suggested that the Mayor interview Mr. Tannahill in regard to this matter.

On motion of Ald. Clarke, the matter was referred to the Executive Committee.

A communication was read re proposed bill in the Legislature for compensation to injured workmen. This is a change to the present bill.

The matter was referred to a committee composed of the Mayor, Aldermen Parks, Clarke and Panter.

Mayor Hocken of Toronto wrote the Council that, on Friday, November 8, a convention would be held in Toronto regarding to considering the providing of schools for feeble minded children. The city was asked to send delegates to the convention.

Ald. Clarke stated that the city of Toronto, through the Board of Education was endeavoring to solve the problem.

On motion the matter was left in the hands of the Mayor, to go or appoint some one who would go.

Mr. Jack Roblin offered to place an iron flag staff on the city building for $50.

Ald. Parks stated that the present flag-staff was not safe when the flag was on it, as a piece had been taken out of it, presumably by lightning.

The matter was referred to the Market & City Property Committee with power to act.

A report was presented from the W.C.A. in reference to expenditures for the year for indigents.—Received and filed.

Col. Ponton wrote the Council in reference to the impassable condition of the boundary road between the city and Sidney township, leading to the pump house.—Referred to the Public Works Committee.

A motion prevailed that if Mr. Donovan does not sign the usual agreement in reference to sewer connection in east Belleville within 10 days, the engineer to disconnect his service.

FREE BAY BRIDGE.

Mayor Vermilyea referred to the delegation from the city and Prince Edward County which went to urge the Dominion Government to make the bay bridge a free bridge. Mr. Porter, M.P. desired to have the Council to make an application for the same, and asked the Mayor's signature to it.

The Mayor was authorized to sign the application on behalf of the city.

The committee rose and reported. The report was received and adopted.

ENQUIRIES.

Ald. Woodley asked if the hydrants had been flushed recently; if not, why not?

City Engineer—The majority of them have been flushed and the remainder will be.

Ald. Panter asked why Newbery had not been opened by the C.N.O.R. as was promised by the company.

City Engineer—The company's engineer was in the city recently and referred to this matter, stating that it would be opened in the near future. He (the speaker) would write the company's engineer in reference to the matter.

INTRODUCTION OF BYLAWS.

Ald. Panter introduced four bylaws, as follows:

A bylaw to repeal bylaws Nos. 1772 to 1806 inclusive, to provide for the issue of debenthres of certain walks mentioned in said bylaws and to repeal bylaw No. 1807, consolidating the above bylaws.

A bylaw to provide for proceedings to be taken for the construction of work undertaken as a local improvement.

A bylaw to provide for the payment by the corporation of part of the cost of certain works constructed as local improvements otherwise chargeable to lands abutting, directly upon the works.

A bylaw to authorize the publication of notice of the intention of the municipal council of the city of Bellevill to construct a pavement on Front street in the said city under section 9, chapter 58, 1, George V.

The latter bylaw caused some discussion.

Ald. Robinson considered that it should be left with the ratepayers on Front street to state what kind of a pavement they desired to have laid down. This matter, in his opinion, could be laid over for two weeks more.

Ald. Alford thought the ratepayers should have something to say about the pavement before the Council passed upon it.

The Clerk stated that the ratepayers would have an opportunity to petition against the bylaw if they desired. It would be advertised and at the next meeting the petition from the petition from the ratepayers, if there was one, could be dealt with.

The bylaws were then passed through their various stages and numthe ratepayers, if there was one, could be dealt with.

MOTIONS.

Ald. Marshall moved, seconded by Ald. Anderson, that a bylaw be prepared, fixing the hours for window washing and sidewalk sweeping in the business part of the city.

In answer to an enquiry, Ald. Marshall said the hour in the bylaw could be left a blank and the Council could fill it in later.

The motion was adopted.

Ald. Wallace moved, seconded by Ald. Lott, that a special committee, composed of the Mayor, Aldermen Lott, Clarke, Panter, Alford and the mover, be appointed to consider the matter of lighting Front street by gas.—Carried.

Council adjourned.

Glydona Club Holds "At Home"

An enjoyable "at home" given by the Glydona Club, took place last evening at the Academy, and was conceded to be the most successful in the history of the organization. The hall was tastefully decorated with bunting, ferns and flowers, and seventy-five couples experienced their full measure of enjoyment, made possible by an excellent dance programme and the able assistance by Sprague's orchestra of seven pieces. The ladies in attendance, in many instances, were exquisitely gowned. At midnight refreshments were served, after which dancing was continued until 3 o'clock this morning. The stewards of the Glydona Club are to be congratulated on the part they have taken in making last evening's affair a pronounced success. Guests were present from Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Peterboro, Campbellford, Picton, Napanee and other points.

The patronesses were: Mesdames H. A. Morgan, J. A. Borbridge, E. Edwards, E. W. Cooley, F. S. Anderson, W. N. Belair, H. A. Thompson, F. W. M'hard, R. A. Backus, C. F. Wallace, S. McGuire.

The stewards were: G. B. Green, R. Crawford, C. E. Hawley, W. Embury, H. M. Frost, W. Brotherhood, E. G. Blaylock, W. J. Doyle, E. O. Keeler, R. M. Best, D. M. McCargar and C. St. Charles.

Car Shops Stoned

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 4.—Despite the presence of practically all the state's militia, early to-day a crowd stoned the car shops and charged supposed strike-breakers. The city is placarded with notices, in which the strikers bitterly denounce the press for asserting that the only obstacle to settlement is the strikers' refusal to accept the "open shop" plans of the Jacksonville Traction company. The placards insist that the railway company refuses an immediate increase in wages and re-employment of strikers.

Open riots are feared to-morrow at the polls. The arbitration committee is still in session, but is was stated on authority that no compromise had yet been agreed upon. No cars were running to-day.

Miss Smith Recovering

GARY, Ind., Nov. 4.—Miss Ethel Smith, the Gary girl for whom "Billy" Rugh, the newsboy, gave his life, was certain of recovery to-day following a second skin-grafting operation in which she was supplied with fifty additional square inches of cuticule. In the operation the girl's father, brother and her finance, Roy Roberts, offered themselves. The doctors said they would not suffer.

The doctors did not let anyone know that a second operation would be necessary until yesterday. The large amount of skin taken from the amputated leg of Billy Rugh was sufficient to save Ethel Smith's life and make the second operation possible.

Kaiser Sends Letter

ATHENS, Nov. 4.—It is reported that the German Emperor has sent a letter to his sister, Princess Sophie, the wife of Crown Prince Constantine, which has been communicated to the Crown Prince, congratulating the Greek army on the courage it has displayed.

Despatches from Kosani say that when the Greeks arrived at the village of Ineli, a white flag was hoisted. The Greeks suspecting treachery, sent forward scouts on whom Turkish peasants opened fire. The Greeks then surrounded and burned the village. One hundred prisoners were taken and they will be tried by court-martial.

Gets Relic of Napoleon

PARIS, Nov. 4.—The Comedie Francaise has just acquired an interesting treasure—the copy of Moliere, in eight volumes, which Napoleon had with him in St. Helena. It was part of a library of about 400 volumes which the Emperor's will bequeathed to his son. The Duc de Reichstadt being dead, however, the books were distributed among other relatives.

The Moliere fell to Joseph's share and it is now presented to the national theatre by Joseph's great-grandson, Count Primoli, to whom it was given by his uncle, Cardinal Bonaparte. It is a fitting souvenir who said: "Opera is the vanity of the French; comedy is their glory."

HAPPY THOUGHT

The "Heat-Where-You-Want-It" Idea

Sometimes a range is judged by its fancy trimmings—by the size of its firebox—by the number of holes, or the size of its oven—or by its general appearance.

All these things are important. But the most important for you to consider is:—What will the range you buy do for you?

What return in actual service will you get from the range itself and from every ounce of fuel you put into it?

Behind "Happy Thought" Ranges, you must remember, there is the experience of over twenty-five years—a quarter of a century of sustained effort to produce the best.

The aim of the makers has been from the first to produce a stove that will give the largest possible return in perfect service.

So you find to-day that the "Happy Thought" is not only the best for baking, but also for roasting, frying, grilling, broiling, stewing and all other forms of cooking.

A sane design proportions this range so that you have the heat at the holes or in the oven just where and when you want it, and in the volume you require.

A simple demonstration will prove this to you as it is already known to a Quarter Million Canadian women who use the "Happy Thought" every day.

ON GETTING NOWHERE SO FAST

'We are all frogs in the well, jumping up two inches and falling back three,' said the social philisopher. 'If we keep on getting no place so fast we'll finally have a good bump which well be most decidely good for us.

'The simple life sounds alluring these days. It is pleasant to dream of an apple orchard or a litle cottage surrounded by flowers and bee hives and all that kind of rural thing, which looks charming on a picture card and in your mind's eyes until you stop to think that there isn't any running water in the cottage and that the nearest railroad station is found miles to windward. That's the trouble with us—we must have everything under the sun. We have got comfort down to a neat point. We run for elevators, tear to trains, gobble luncheons as if we were swallowing pills, race here, gallop there, and fall into bed with a sigh and a groan.

"And what for?

"I know working girls who toil early and late, do their laundry in the evenings, and stint on food so the can wear $40 coats that will be passed in three months. Whenever I see a shop girl wearing an untrimmed sailor hat and a plain little gown without any lalas on it I want to go to her and shake her hand. She'll own the shop some day.

"It seems to me that most of us are running round in circles and will keep on running until we dash into the fence of old age—and by that time it will be too late for us to teach ourselves anything.

"Every husband I know is struggling and working, and worrying about money matters. Nearly every woman I know is living right up to the last cent of her income. The whole social fabric is like a crazy potful of maniacs. Some are crazy for social position, others are crazy for social position, others are crazy for extreme styles and many clothes. But nobody seems to be crazy about about the things worth while—home, books, babies and dogs. People have got to go rushing so they haven't time to bow. The best they can do is to step on your most sensitive toe and let you know they are passing.

'I believe it would be very wonderful and beautiful to live where it is quiet enough to meditate. I have not meditated since I can remember. Time goes so fast that I'm really twice as old as I think I am. Fancy buying a book—one of those books that hold you and you read the same pages over and over again—and then being able to read and read and loiter and chortle over it and get all tender and thrilled and het up until you want to read every book the author ever thought of writing. Fancy getting up in the morning and not having to look at the clock to see if you are going to miss your train or if the child will have ample time for school. Imagine not being on the jump every minute.

" 'Hurry!' I heard a woman say to her chauffeur the other day. I must make five teas on the way home."

"Five teas! Jumping Jupiter, also Erratic Eureka! Two teas would be my final disposition. Three would bury me. Let us imagine the lovely woman flying from one pack of rustling, gabbing females to another, taking a sip here and a nibble there and telling each one of the five hostesses what a charming party she has had. Between teas she sits back in her motor car and tries to rest, but I will wager that she has a dinner and two suppers and a theatre and a ball in her head to keep her thoughts from getting mouldy.

"Human affairs in a big city have come to such a state of turmoil and activity that we have no time for our friends—our good old friends. We can scarcely be decent to our own families. I believe it is the speed of living that has got on all our nerves. It has hardened us, too.'

The social philosopher sighed.

"And that is a dreadful thing," she continued. "When we can't be sweet any more, we're not much use. It's easy enough to be sweet to those we love, but we ought to be sweet to others. I believe I used to be that way. Before everything got to going so fast, and the whole world began to jig and dance and keep on the go, I am sure I had greater tenderness for my fellow beings. But you see they too have suffered from the jumping and the jiggling. Old friends turn against each other, employers and employes differ. Everything you earn goes to pay the bills and you can't get a decent servant for love or money. In other words, the world is going round so fast that everything is knocked out o' order.

"If I had my way I know what I would do. I'd take my loved ones—and they are pitifully few—and I'd build a little cottage by the sea. I would have the waves on one side and sunflowers on the others—sunflowers are so cheerful. And every room would be a sun parlor except the cellar. I'd do my housework myself and I'd have it all very simple. I'm tired to death of the sauces and garnishes and cloying modern food. For me I'd select crackers and milk—cold milk with cream in it—and thick rich oatmeal and all those good old foods! I'd like to stand in the doorway of my cottage with my hands on my hips and watch the sun go down—I'll bet I haven't seen the sun go down in twenty years! Think of it!

"At night, I'd listen to the waves sing that queer slopping' slapping 'lush-lush' that they talk to the stars. And while listening I would have time to think of many things, and to wipe all bitterness out of my heart and unhappy memories from my mind. You can't keep up with the pace of our city life and be gentle and lovable—it's too hard a struggle and too big a fight. 'We don't have time to look inside our own hearts and to dig out the mildew like the dentist takes the tartar from our teeth—it's just about the same thing.

"Here is is so important what we eat and wear and so little importance is placed on the conditions of our minds and bodies. It is expected that every one shall be tired—that is modern life. It is expected, I think, that every one shall look worried. Trail along a busy street and look at the crowds—what do the faces tell you? They tell you the story of rush and struggle.

"Occasionally we hear about some writer or artist who has builded himself a little bunk in the wilderness, and we think what a comfort it must be to be away from the noise and the hurry. While we are thinking thus some friend rushes in to whine about a few days of enforced rest in a small town.

" 'No light, no shows, nothing fit to eat,' they say. 'Heavens above! One might as well be dead!'

"There you are—or there they are. But you see there is a difference in people. I for one was born for the simpler, quieter life. I want to read and study books instead of fashion magazines. I want to take journeys round the world and repeat instead of taking journeys to a bargain battle. I want most of all a slight opportunity to get acquainted with myself and to jaw myself for many things that need jawing about. It must be beautiful to have time in which to explain to yourself the reason for your own acts.

"Josh Billings said: 'A pup makes friends with every pup he meets, but an old dog has few acquaintances.' Very true. The older we get the fewer friends we have, that is, if we have sense. The worthless ones are lost, and with no regret. The fine ones hang on to the last. Time shows up shallow natures and weak, wavering characters, just as time makes us put a greater value on good, true qualities.

"But that isn't talking about my cottage by the sea.

"There I shall tolerate no bickering or backbiting or whining. It shall be a sweet peaceful place. I intend to have time to watch flowers grow and to become acquainted with little children, and even to look at the stars at night. I remember when I was a girl how the stars on a dark night always thrilled and terrified me. I always feared that one might get loose and tumble down. The chirup of the crickets used to start my soul to singing and a rippling pool of water was a fairy ocean.

'I'd like to get back there—just a litle way back. Some grown ups retain the pretty little fancies of youth, but most of us are thinking so hard about the bill for the last motor tires that there aren't any fancies. Everything is very cold and very practical and very useless and very disappointing. My cottage and garden won't be that way. I intend to sit in that garden and soul and soul and soul. I can almost hear myself soul.

'To these ends I am looking now. And this explains why I appear in my last year's frock which is plenty good enough, if it is a bit out of style I have wasted too much and too long. I have given generously to the ungrateful. Now, I have a garden in my eye and a cottage too, strange to say—they make my eyesight clearer. Somehow I can see something ahead besides bills and debts.

The waste in America is appalling. Time is wasted, money is wasted, food and clothes are wasted. Why should a dress be discarded before it is worn out? Because some other woman will trot around her usual beat and say your are wearing the same old duds. And also because you want to show her that you have the very latest. Oh, ongwee! Oh, fatigue of the mind! The truth is we are a pack of fools, most of us working ourselves to death for things we don't want and trying to find pleasures in pleasures that only only tire us more.

'I wish the world wouldn't go so fast; I am getting dizzy. But I'd be content if the rain would stop—I always get wuzzy in the brain when the weather is wet."

The Social Philosophizes flattened her nose on the window pane and yawned bitterly.—Selected.

DRIVING HIM TO THE GRAVE

"Fruit-a-tives Saved my Life"

NIAGARA FALLS, ONT., JULY 26th, 1911.

"For thirteen years, I was a terrible sufferer from the tortures of Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation and Vomiting. I could not retain much food, and this, together with the pain, and headaches, was driving me to the grave.

Then I used "Fruit-a-tives" and almost at once I got relief.

"Fruit-a-tives" stopped the vomiting, relieved the Constipation, toned up the stomach, and gave me the first relief in years. I feel that I owe my life to "Fruit-a-tives" and for the sake of other victims of Indigestion and Headaches, I will allow this statement to be published."

How to make a stew— a really good stew.

Here is just the weather for a grand, hot, steaming stew; below is just the recipe for one of the finest stews that ever a good cook made—a real, good Irish Stew.

The secret of a successful Irish stew is in the last few lines of the recipe below. Make the stew as the recipe tells you—don't forget the Edwards' Soup—and—well, you'll be sorry to see the bottom of the plate through.

EDWARDS' DESICCATED SOUPS

5c. per packet.

Edwards' Soup imparts nourishment, strength, flavour, and colour—it's just as good for scores of other things as it is for Irish stews. Get a few packets and see.

Edwards' Desiccated Soups are made in three varieties—Brown, Tomato, White. The Brown variety is a thick, nourishing soup prepared from beef and fresh vegetables. The other two are purely vegetable soups.

This is how to make it—

IRISH STEW. Put in a saucepan twelve peeled potatoes, sliced in thickness of a penny, four large onions sliced—a layer of each—with salt and pepper to taste. By successive layers half fill your pan. Then take four chops of neck of mutton—the scrag end—lay these on the potatoes and onions and fill up with additional layers of potatoes, onions etc. as before. In one-and-a-half pints of water boil one-and-a-half ounces of EDWARDS' WHITE VEGETABLE SOUP for thirty minutes; add it to the contents of the stewpan, and simmer altogether gently for two hours.

Rosa Bonheur Painting Found

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—It is claimed that one of Rosa Bonheur's earliest paintings has been located in San Francisco after having been listed for many years in histories of her works as missing. The painting depicts a peasant driving sheep and cattle down a sunken road and bears the initials "R. B. 39" in one corner. It has been positively identified by Miss Anna Klumpke of this city, long a personal friend of the painter, and is now the property of J. L. Cahill, a painter and decorator, who bought it twenty-three years ago for $50.

It was brought here from Europe in the '80's by a wealthy eccentric named Sanders or Saunders, who had accumulated a fortune in the drug business and gone abroad to spend it on old masters. The canvas is undamaged except for a small three-cornered hole, which is being repaired.

Tried to Save Mother in Runaway And Was Killed

LINDSAY, Nov. 5.—His mother in danger with his horse out of control, Cecil Reed, Emily Township, jumped to catch it, missed his footing, fell on a sharp boulder, and sustained injuries from which he died. Reed, who was a cheesemaker and widely known in Emily, had been driving his mother but jumped out to open a gate.

Freed, the horse started through on a sharp trot. His mother's scream caused Reed to attempt a running catch of the bridle. Instead his head struck the boulder.

Suspect Poisoning

DENVER Col., Nov. 5.—With the death of John Leveson-Gower, an English capitalist at Colorado Springs, last night, the mystery surrounding the supposed poisoning of several persons at the Mary Murphy Mine, near Buena Vista, two weeks ago, has deepened. Five deaths already have occurred among persons who ate in the boarding house October 21.

Geo. E. Collins, general manager of the mine, declared that the investigation made by physicians of food eaten at the boarding house, disclosed no traces of plomaine poisoning.

Henry Leveson-Gower, who is connected with a large London financial house, was in Canada some time ago as a guest of Earl Grey, and visited Toronto in consultation with Sir Henry Pellatt, head of the firm of Pellatt & Pellatt. When interviewed by a reporter last night Sir Henry did not identify John Leveson-Gower with his former visitor, but said it was quite possible he might be a brother. Leveson-Gower is the family name of the the Duke of Sutherland.

Think This Is Russia's Chance

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—In the belief of W. Morgan Shuster, former treasurer-general of Persia, the Balkan war and its attendant diplomatic complications, is likely to prove a great boon to Russia's quiet campaign for the control of Persia. "It is the czar's opportunity to hasten the proclamation of his sovereignity over Persia," declares Mr. Shuster. "This Russian sovereignty has for months existed in fact, if not in appearance. Russia has been quietly filling up the country with her own troops until now there is a force adequate to cope with any situation that may arise.

"England has been playing for Russia's moral support all along in the European situation, and the result has been that Russia has been forcing England's hand in Persia more and more, until now nothing remains to take place but a formal acknowledgment of Russia's sovereignty by the civilized powers."

Strikers Are Likely To Win Demands

OTAWA, Nov. 5.—A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes, declared this morning that he was more than satisfied with the progress of the strike.

His information was that 3,000 were out, and he predicted that 6,000 will be out by the end of the week.

'The company is simply bluffing,' said Mr. Mosher, 'in saying that they have plenty of men to fill the vacant positions. They also say we cannot hold out on account of lack of funds. We have funds for six months, and can get backing for longer if necessary.

German Warships For The East

KIEL, Germany, Nov. 5.—The German armored cruiser 'Goeben' sailed this morning by way of Skagen and the protected cruiser 'Breslau' will follow this afternoon by way of Kiel canal. The 'Goeben' is to go to Constantinople. The cruiser 'Vineta' has left Corfu for Constantinople, the 'Hertha' for Salonika, and the 'Geier' for Haifa.

Rear-Admiral Trumler has been placed in command of the German warships in Turkish waters.

Shot Dead At War Argument

CALGARY, Nov. 5.—Following a dispute over the respective fighting ability of the Greeks and the Turks, Joseph Mayo, an Italian, was shot and killed last night at Ogden, a suburb of this city, by E. J. Sullivan. Both men were employed as iron workers at the C. P. R. shops. Sullivan fired at Mayo three times, the last shot taking effect in the forehead. Sullivan fled after the shooting and has not been captured.

This Canine Has A Wonderful Ride

OZARK, Ill., Nov. 5.—When the owner of a plain collie, name unknown, boarded a train at Simpson Ill., the faithful animal tried to follow, but was kicked off the platform by the "newsbutcher." Just as the train started the animal darted under it and everybody paused to hear his kiyis as the wheels ground him to pieces.

But there was no ki-ki. At the next stop, Ozark, the news agent and C. H. Blarney of Paducah, Ky., the conductor, took a look at the trucks.

The dog was lying across a brake-beam, alive, unscathed and apparently not at all worried. He was chased from his position and the train pulled out, leaving the canine hobo ditched.

Served Another's Prison Sentence

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Through the Bertillon identification system a curious case of one man going to prison in the place of another has just come to light.

Examining the records relating to one Bretcher, who has just completed 13 months' imprisonment, M. Bertillon was led to the discovery that the prisoner was not Bretcher at all, but a man named Fedide, who had been sentenced to only ten days' imprisonment.

Investigation showed that the two men had shared the same cell at the Suate Prison. There Bretcher, a clever swindler, told Fedide he was a rich man.

"If," he said, "you will remain in jail instead of me, I will send you [illegible] a month, so that when the 13 months are over you will be quite a small capitalist, and no longer a vagabond." Fedide agreed, and when on the appointed day he heard the head warder enter the cell and say: "Fedide, if you free; leave the prison," Fedide remained motionless and Bretcher walked out.

Fedide, in the name of Bretcher, was transferred to the Dartmoor of France, where he served out the other man's sentence.

It may be added that Fedide never saw a farthing of the money.

Aeronauts Land In Russian Town

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 5.—George M. Myers, president of the Kansas City Aero Club, received a cablegram Sunday from John Watts, pilot of the balloon Dusseldorf, one of the entrants in the International balloon race, which started from Stuttgart, Germany, saying that he had landed at Pskov, Russia, a short distance from St. Petersburg, and that both Watts and his aide, Arthur Atherholt, were well.

The cablegram received by Mr. Meyers read: "Both well and free. WATTS."

Although a cipher code had been agreed upon, the message was not in code.

Mr. Meyers believes that Watts and his aide have been held prisoners by Russian authorities.

"With the maps which Watts had," said Mr. Meyers, "he must have known that he had crossed the Baltic Sea. I believe that he landed not later than Tuesday evening. He must have known that he was in a wild country, and would scarcely stay up another night. He probably came to earth many miles from the place from which he sent this message. I know of no reason why he would not have used the cipher agreed upon unless the authorities refused to allow it. The use of the word 'free' in the cablegram looks like a hint that the aeronauts had been prisoners.

Mr. Meyers said that it was impossible without more data to venture an opinion as to whether Watts had won the race.

Constantinople Water Supply Cut off

SOFIA, Nov. 5.—Announcement was made this afternoon that the Bulgarians have occupied the town of Dercos, thereby cutting off the water supply of Constantinople.

It is also reported that the Bulgarians have surrounded a strong Turkish force between Tchorlu and Tchataldja.

The Bulgarians are now preparing to advance on Tchataldja. Reinforcements are continually going to the front from Sofia.

STRONGEST MAN IN THE WORLD IS NOW DYING IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Nov. 5.—Louis Cyr, "the strongest man in the world," is dying at the residence of his son-in-law, Dr. Aumont, of this city.

Louis Cyr was born at St. Cyprien, Que., is now 49 years old. He started his career in 1882, and in 1891 the millionaire sportsman, Richard Fox, took him under management, and produced him in all the European capitals. In London Cyr established an unequalled record by lifting with his shoulders a platform bearing a weight of 3,655 pounds. In 1895 Cyr beat his own record in Boston by lifting a platform carrying eighteen men, weighing in all 4,300 pounds. Cyr retired in 1904 after having given exhibitions all over America.

Miss Wylie Stirs Up Montreal

MONTREAL, Nov. 5.—Miss Barbara Wylie, the English suffragette, who, by her pointed utterances, has earned for herself the sobriquet of "Miss Barbed Wirey," delivered an address here yesterday before the Local Council of Women and received a mixed reception.

Miss Wylie advocated the use of constitutional, ladylike methods in securing the vote at first, and if they failed, Canadian women should then show "the unselfish and high spirited devotion to the cause of liberty manifested by the women of England."

C. H. Holt, K.C., deprecated the use of militant methods by women, though he sympathized with the suffrage cause. Miss Wylie said that Mr. Holt was like some of the Cabinet Ministers in England who said that women would have got votes if it had not been for their agressive methods. The suffragette read an editorial from the Ottawa Journal and said that the man who wrote it must be "an antiquated old fossil."

Immediately a man in the audience rose and protested, and said the editor of The Journal, Mr. P. D. Ross, was known as the best journalist in Canada, bar none.

"Oh, well, if he is a young fossil, I think that is very much worse," related Miss Mylie.

In conclusion, Miss Wylie asked for subscriptions to "The Suffragette."

Mrs. Dr. Ritchie of England, who presided, shut off a discussion which threatened to become rather personal by summarily adjourning the meeting.

Old Man Found Dying on Trail

COCHRANE, Nov. 5.—Dedice Bouregois an old Frenchman of Cochrane, was found by his daughter, Mrs. Bilodeau, in a dying condition on a trail about a mile out of the town. The cause of death was due to a wound he had received on the back of the head, which medical evidence said could have been caused by a fall against a stump or by a blow.

To endeavor to ascertain how he received the blow an inquest was held yesterday. The daughter told of her father's leaving the house with cheques amounting to $137, which it is know were cashed the same day, and of her being unable to find any money in his pockets when she discovered him, except a $2 bill which he had hidden away in his vest. He died without saying anything which could explain the cause of his death. The inquest was adjourned in order that further witnesses might be called.

He was about 40 years of age, and is survived by two brothers and three sisters, one of the latter being a teacher in the High school here.

Tight Lacing Kills An Actor

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 5.—Special—Tight corset lacing caused the death today of Joseph H. Pennella, an actor, in the City Hospital, three hours after collapsing on the stage of a vaudeville theatre.

WILSON IS PRESIDENT

Democrat Beats Opponents by a Large Majority.

Returns Are Not Complete But Estimated Results Indicate That the Governor of New Jersey Will Have the Biggest Majority In Electoral College In History of U. S.—Roosevelt a Poor Second.

New York, Nov. 6.—The greatest political upheaval in the history of the world has just taken place in the United States. From the northern border to the Gulf of Mexico, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific come returns of a Democratic landslide, and though a few corrections may have to be made in the final accounting, no material difference will be shown in the final result. It was a Waterloo for the Republican party, and its ignominious defeat may forever blast its hope of dominating America. Woodrow Wilson, the schoolmaster of New Jersey, has been elected President of the United States by a united Democracy, and Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana has been elecated to the vice-presidency. Theodore Roosevelt, twice President of the United States, will run a poor second to Wilson, and William Howard Taft is a bad third.

PRESIDENT-ELECT WILSON.

The united Democracy must give Theodore Roosevelt credit for aiding in their overwhelming victory, for he rent asunder the rock-ribbed Republican party by withdrawing from its ranks and establishing the Progressive party, which now bids fair to establish itself upon foundations once occupied by the Republican party, and become its successor.

The following list of states shows the latest estimate of the returns, which are still incomplete. After each state appears the number of electoral votes in the college:

Wilson.

Albama, 12; Arizona, 3; Arkansas, 9; Colorado, 6; Connecticut, 7; Delaware, 3; Florida, 6; Georgia, 14; Indiana, 16; Iowa, 13; Kentucky, 13; Louisiana, 10; Maine, 6; Maryland, 8; Massachusetts, 18; Michigan, 15; Minnesota, 12; Mississippi, 10; Missouri, 18; Montana, 4; Nebraska, 8; Navada, 3; New Hampshire, 4; New Jersey, 14; New York, 45; North Carolina, 12; North Dakota, 5; Ohio, 24; Oklahoma, 10; Pennsylvania, 38; Rhode Island, 5; South Carolina, 9; Tennessee, 12; Texas, 20; Utah, 4; Virginia, 12; Wisconsin, 19.—Total, 432.

Roosevelt.

California, 13; Illinois, 29; Kansas, 10; New Mexico, 4; Oregon, 5; South Dakota, 5; Vermont, 4; Washington, 7.—Total, 76.

Taft.

Idaho, 4; West Virginia, 8; Wyoming, 3.—Total, 15.

Wilson carried his own state of New Jersey. President Taft lost his own State of Ohio to Wilson, and Col. Roosevelt lost his own State of New York, which Governor Wilson carried by an indicated plurality of 130,000. President Taft carried New York four years ago by 202,602.

The first time since the organization of the Republican party a Democratic candidate will get the electoral vote of Maine, which was carried by the Republicans in the state election in September by 4,000. Wilson carried it yesterday by more than 12,000.

Under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson the Democratic party has won its greatest victory since 1852.

But this victory is no tawdry partisan triumph. It is no vote of confidence in the Democratic party as a party. It is a mandate from the people, and woe be unto the leaders of this democracy if they falter in obedience to that mandate.

Not since 1872 has the country been swept by such an electoral plurality, nor does this apply alone to the head of the ticket, but to the control of Congress, which President-elect Wilson so much desired. That his wishes in this respect have been gratified is indicated by the returns, which up to midnight showed that he will go to the White House with both a Senate and House of Representatives that will be in sympathy with progressive ideals. In the Senate, which has been so evenly balanced between the Old Guard and the Progressives and Democrats that it has been impossible for months to elect a President pro tempore, the returns seem to show that enough legislative timber has been returned in crucial states to throw the balance of power to the Democrats, through the consequent elections of Progressives where the Old Guard held sway.

There is a strong probability that there will be an actual working Democratic majority in the Senate, although, as that factor of the situation depends upon the actions of the Legislatures just elected, and not yet altogether pledged, the accurate story cannot be told until the Legislatures themselves get into action.

Wilson's Message.

Princeton, N.J., Nov. 6.—Responding to a telegram from the Democratic national chairman, asserting that Governor Wilson unquestionably was elected, the Democratic candidate sent a despatch to Mr. McCombs as follows:

"I deeply appreciate your telegram and wish to extend to you and the members of the campaign committee my warm congratulations on the part you have played in the organization and conduct of a campaign fought out upon essential issues.

"A great cause has triumphed. Every Democrat, every true Progressive, of whatever alliance, must now lend his full force and enthusiasm to the fulfilment of the people's hope, the establishment of the people's right, so that justice and progress may go hand in hand."

This was Governor Wilson's first utterance of a public character following his reception of reports that he had been elected.

If a newly wedded man had no secrets from his wife it is rather hard on the other women he might have married, but didn't.

From the appearance of things, it will be some time before the new bridges can be used and the side road along which teams travel, is not safe. One party met with an accident.

Saturday evening, D. McBeath, returning home from the village, met an automobile outside the village. The team shied to one side and fell, afterwards going home, about a mile distance. The auto did not stop. Some time after the accident, Mr. McBeath was found on the roadside. He had fallen on his head, which was severely bruised. His arms also was hurt. Mr. McBeath is an old man and his recovery is doubtful. Dr. Harper is in attendance and reports his patient a little better.

TORONTO MEN TO QUIT

C. P. R. Clerks and Freight Handlers Vote to Strike.

At Meeting to Discuss the Matter the Branch of the Brotherhood of Railway Employes Which Has Held Back In Walking Out Finally Decides to Quit Work — Minister of Labor Is Charged as Unfair.

Toronto, Nov. 6.—Before to-night most of the C.P.R. freight clerks employed at West Toronto, Parkdale, North Toronto and Simcoe street, all members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Employes, will be out on strike. This action was decided upon at the mass meeting held last night in Occident Hall.

J. D. Sullivan, general organizer, addressed the meeting dealing with the question of clerical and freight handling systems. "Other classes of railroad men have been receiving increases through unionism. We, on the other hand, who up to the present time have not been organized have been getting nothing," he said.

"A few months ago a schedule showing the demands of the employes was presented to the C.P.R. for their consideration. This they saw fit to ignore. The brotherhood then appealed to the Minister of Labor for a settlement of their grievances. At first he told them to leave the matter in his hands and that he would affect a settlement with the C.P.R. Until a few days ago the brotherhood was led to believe that the Minister of Labor was entirely in sympathy with them, but then for some unknown reason he took a directly opposite stand, and refused to grant a board of conciliation. The Minister of Labor has not done his duty to the public, much less to the Brotherhood of Railroad Employes," said Mr. Sullivan.

"The Minister of Labor has said that it is not possible to arrange such a schedule as the employes submitted to the C.P.R., but," said Mr. Sullivan, "this was done in another department of the Government, namely, the Intercolonial Railway, the employes of which submitted just such a schedule and had their grievances adjusted satisfactorily. If this could be done in one department of the Government, why could it not be done by the Department of Labor, which is supposed to deal with such cases?" he asked.

Says Strikers Will Win.

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes, declared yesterday that he was more than satisfied with the progress of the strike.

His information was that 2,000 were out, and he predicted than 6,000 will be out by the end of the week.

"The company is simply bluffing," said Mr. Mosher, "in saying that they have plenty of men to fill the vacant positions. They also say we cannot hold out on account of lack of funds. We have funds for six months, and can get backing for longer if necessary."

Fill Places at Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 6.—The Canadian Pacific officials profess to look upon the strike now as practically a thing of the past. It is stated that nearly all of the men who went out Monday morning had been replaced, some of them permanently, and only a few were now out at Ottawa and Smith's Falls.

Negro to Pay Penalty

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—A Brooklyn jury convicted George Bishop, a negro chauffeur, of murder in the first degree last night, within less than three weeks of the time he killed Mrs. Margaret Bell, an octogenarian, by striking her skull with a hammer. On Friday Justice Crane will sentence Bishop to be electrocuted.

The prisoner was brought to justice in what is said to be record time in King's County. His wife was formerly a maid employed by Mrs. Bell. On October 18 Bishop went to the Bell home and demanded $5 from the aged woman. His request refused, he attacked her and also seriously injured a negro maid who interfered. He escaped but was arrested a few hours later. A jury was drawn in less than an hour. Last night the jury deliberated less than two hours.

His Wife Insane Commits Suicide

PARRY SOUND, Nov. 5.—Mortimore Meeks, a former lunatic, committed suicide Sunday afternoon in the woods near Strain's Lake, about a mile from here. Meeks was released from an asylum as cured a little over a year ago, but had been unable to work since his release, being supported by his wife, who was employed as a charwoman. The woman, from her hardships and the burden of having to support and take care of her husband, recently went out of her mind.

Brooding over this new trouble, Meeks went into the woods on Sunday afternoon, followed by his son, and slashed his throat with a razor. The son was a witness of the deed, but unable to prevent it. The boy ran for assistance to the chemical factory, a short distance away, but before the men reached Meeks he had breathed his last. Dr. Limbert, coroner, after hearing the statement of the son, decided that an inquest was not necessary.

REGIMENTAL NOTES

Full returns were made on Monday evening of the dance held by The Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire, on Hallowe'en night and the ladies report a very successful dance from every standpoint. Financially nothing better could be expected. They will be shortly in a position to announce a series of prizes which they offer for regimental purposes, and concerning which all members of the regiment will be interested.

A basket ball match conducted by the 34th Battery will be held in the armouries on Thursday evening of this week.

The regular monthly meeting of the officers is being held to-night, (Wednesday) at which will be taken up the programme of sports for the winter, and at which meeting it is expected that a committee of sergeants will attend.

At this meeting also it is expected that a date will be set for the holding of a smoker, at which the offcers will entertain the men of the regiment.

Young men who have had sufficient drill with the cadet corps will be received into the regiment from time to time with the consent of their parents and on application to the captain under whom they wish to drill.

Those taking part in the programme included the choir, Mr. Rockwell, Miss Evelyn Rockwell, Miss Thompson, Miss Brown, Miss Lulu Dyer, Mr. Andrews, Mr. Daniels, Mr. Hodgins and Mr. Burke.

The Rev. Amos Campbell in his own happy manner voiced the thanks of the audience to all who helped in making the occasion so great a success.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

A FINE PRODUCTION.

It is a pity that a larger house could not have greeted "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" at Griffin's opera house last evening, for a more pleasing and better acted play of the kind has not come to the city this year.

Miss Isabelle Lowe, the leading lady, gave an excellent portrayal of the character of June. She was wonderfully effective, backing an attractive personality with ability of a high order. The other characters were equally strong in their respective roles. The production was sumptuously staged. The first act in which the play opens at a turn of the trail up through Lonesome Cove, in the Virginia mountains, just below Judd Tolliver's cabin, is beautiful. Over the shoulder of the trail the audience gaze down a wide sweep of valley with rugged mountains on either side and a series of water courses at the bottom. The background and lighting effects are splendid. The stage settings in the second and third acts are also elaborate.

GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM NEWS ITEMS

A circular has just been issued by Mr. H. E. Whittenberger, superintendent of the Middle Division of the Grand Trunk Railway, approved by Mr. H. G. Kelley, Vice-President in charge of Transportation, announcing the appointment of Mr. G. A. Stokes as Acting Terminal Superintendent at Toronto, Vice Mr. W. H. Farrell, who has been assigned to other duties.

Mr. G. L. McDonnell, a prospector of western reputation has just returned to Edmonton from British Columbia where he was sent by an English syndicate to report upon the mining possibilities of the new country opened up by the progress of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. He walked from Mile 140 to Mile 53 over grade of the main line and reported that silver and lead are plentiful, also that copper showed strong out-croppings and that gold had been heard of. He further stated that between 4,000 and 5,000 men were working in the Fraser Valley on the new line.

"The Fraser Valley," Mr. McDonnell observed, "is the most beautiful and interesting of the two routes through the Canadian Rockies. It is wider and more expansive than the panorama in the Kicking Horse Pass. On the southern side of the river the mountains are some distance off, their snow-clad peaks silhuetting the skyline and shutting out the Cariboo country beyond. On the other side of the stream, here and there threatened by the tumbling river of many rapids which suddenly diverts its bending way for 20 or 30 miles to the northward, are expanses of timber all billowing, surging up from the 50 by 50 mile plains until they reach the railway grade, jump it, and climb the mountains in their course until they recede into the barrenness beyond the timber lines."

War on Opium Smuggling

HANKOW, Nov. 5. — Dr. George Berlotie, a French newspaper correspondent, arriving from the Chino-Indian frontier, confirms many of the previous reports concerning the fierce warfare that has for some time existed along the entire south-western frontier between the volunteer troops employed by the republic and the Indian smugglers of opium. Regular pitched battles have been fought between the government forces and the large numbers of hired coolies who have assisted the smugglers for more than a year.

"It is almost like a war between nations," said the French writer. "I came up through the Segara and Gormis, in India, about seven weeks ago, and found the country in a state of hostility, with armed bands going hither and thither. When I enquired into the causes of the widespread disturbance I was informed that while the government at Pekin had ordered the suppression of the opium traffic along the Pang-ge-ho and the In'kli lakes, the custom authorities were actually aiding the smugglers and were fighting the volunteer troops sent by the sub-governor of Denang.

"Gen. Mengli, with 800 volunteers, began an earnest attack upon the rendezvous of the smugglers all along the frontier. Thousands of pounds of opium was captured and more than forty of the smugglers were killed, besides several hundred taken prisoners."

Show They Are Good Housewives as Well as Politicians

Minnesota suffragists decided upon a measure whereby they hoped to counteract the impression that women who long for the ballot are not good housewives.

Darn the Government, darn the socks.
That's the way to the ballot box.

CANADA'S FOOD MUST BE PURE

Steps have been taken by the Inland Revenue Department to have standards for a variety of articles of food, including fruit and fruit products and canned fruits, vegetables, honey and lard, properly defined. These precautions have been embodied in a series of regulations approved by the Governor General in Council. The advantage to the general public of Canada is clearly shown by the scope and demands of some of the regulations. Concerning canned fruit the regulation states: "Canned fruit is the sound product made by strelizing clean, sound, properly matured and prepared fresh fruit, by heating it without sugar, and keeping in suitable, clean, hermetically sealed containers; and conforms in name to the fruit used in its preparation."

The definitions of jam and marmalade state that they are the sound product made from clean, sound, properly matured and prepared fresh fruit, a fruit pulp and sugar with or without spices or vinegar; by boiling to a semi-solid consistence; and conform in name to the fruit used in their preparation.

It is further stated:—

10. When jam, marmalade, fruit butter, or jelly contains other fruit or fruit juice than that which gives its special name to the article, the fact of the presence of such other fruit shall be stated upon the label, in lettering as large and distinct as that used in naming the fruit principally present. This requirement does not, however, apply to the use of fruit juice, up to the amount of ten (10) per cent. of the weight of the jam, etc., used instead of water in the manufacture of the jam, etc.

11. When the sugar in preserve, jam, marmalade, fruit butter or jelly is wholly or partially replaced by glucose, or by any other substitute for sugar, the fact of such substitution shall be stated upon the label in plain lettering.

As regards canned peas the regulation defines:—

1. Canned peas, unless specially designated as below, shall be prepared from the harvest of the year in which they are canned, and shall be the unripe peas of the crop of that year.

2. Ripe peas may be canned, provided that the label shows quite clearly that they are such. This may be done either by labelling them as canned ripe peas, or by the use of the word "soaked."

3. Mixture or ripe and unripe (or green) peas, shall be plainly labelled in such a way as to show that they are such.

A former regulation in regard to lard is amended by adding a provision that "neither lard, leaf lard nor compound lard shall contain any added coloring matter."

Honey, as defined, is entirely the product of the work of bees operating upon the nectar of flowers and other saccharine exudations of plants and contains not more than 25 per cent. of water, not more than 8 per cent. of sucrose (cane sugar), not more than a quarter of 1 per cent. of ash and not less than 60 per cent of invert sugar.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

The expected has happened. Yesterday's election for President and vice-President of the United States, resulted in one of the greatest political victories that country has ever knewn, Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic candidate, winning by an electoral majority of 395 out of a possible 531.

While at present writing the conditions are somewhat vague, and the popular vote cannot be made known for some days, the fact that it is a thorough Democratic sweep cannot be questioned.

How this will affect the country is problematical. Should Congress have followed in the wake and given a still larger Democratic majority than at present, the change in governmental methods may be radical and far-reaching. Yet the Senate the safeguard of the country, familiarly termed "the bulldog of the United States treasury," will, with its more weighty consignment of brains, possessing as it does men of long experience, backed by an inclination to Republican principle, tend to steady or hedge the passage of measures not suited to its taste.

In the newly elected President the Democrats made, we think, an admirable selection; a man of principle and education; but whether his collegiate training will afford an intelligent grasp of present-day conditions throughout the country—and the usual pressure brought to bear on men in his position, is yet to be seen. Much depends upon the selection of a Cabinet and his advisors as a whole. Our neighbors, particularly those of the defeated parties, must rest patiently with the hope that, though they cannot govern, the change is for the best.

One thing is assured, Roosevelt as a politician has met his Waterloo, and Taft, so humiliatingly defeated, is a candidate for a more retired life.

The best wishes of a friendly people—the Canadians—are with the new government.

SHOULD TAKE UP SLUM WORK

In a tearful article deprecating the growth of cities, The Globe assumes that Toronto will have to submit to slums with all their attendant evils. —Toronto News.

The Globe should brace up in an effort to better the conditions of its slums. It does not hesitate to condemn methods of its political opponents, suggesting more exalted lines of work—even going to extremes in its imaginings. Let it now take hold of the local slum question with the same spirit, and wonders may be accomplished. The Chief Editor of The Globe, with his religious and soul-saving propensities, should do his duty.

ANOTHER FARMER HEARD FROM

It is no news that the Grain Growers' Grain company is using its business organization to advance the views of the party, the western section of which at least continues to talk about the advantages of reciprocity.

Recently a circular was sent out by the Grain Growers' Guide to numerous farmers urging that they should rally to its support because of what it was doing for the cause that the people of Canada defeated a year ago. This was the answer which an agriculturist of the Vermilion district sent to the circular:

"I am too much a Canadian, and that means Briton to me, to favor any such action as you propose. Have not Canadians spoken and in a voice like thunder upon this subject, and this ought to be enough. I am in touch with the east and west and this is one indivisible country from Atlantic to Pacific and we intend it shall so remain and the West must consider the needs of the East and the East must consider the interests of the West and all pull together.

"What better things can we ask for here in Canada? We have developed a splendid trade with Great Britain, which is the best market in the world and our trade is sure to increase along this line by leaps and bounds, and with the opening of the great Panama Canal we in the West ought to flourish still more and more. Then why run the risk of throwing ourselves into the arms of our southern neighbor and commercial foe?"

This letter is evidence of a spirit that is growing stronger in the prairie provinces all the time. The talk that is being indulged in about "the big interests," "the patrons of special privilege" and "the subsidized press" is not having the effect that those who resort to it have looked for. Edmonton Journal.

If this is as much of a "Democratic year" as the Democrats claim, the U. S. Senate as well as the House of Representatives will have a Democratic majority.

Statistics supply a very satisfactory bill of health in Ontario for October. More than anything else, it denotes the successful fight being waged against tuberculosis. Loss of life through diphtheria and other communicable diseases is also commendably less.

Lord Peel, whose death was announced the other day, was the only surviving ex speaker of the House of Commons. A man who once holds that great post in the old country is looked after very handsomely by the public for the rest of his life, being given a peerage and a retiring allowance as large as the salary that he drew while in office.

Cramer, a circus clown, after thirty-six hours of "silent treatment" in a police cell in Chicago, during which he heard the screams of his wife, who was being "induced" to tell what she knew, has confessed to murdering a woman for $35 she had in her possession. Most people will be inclined to condemn such police methods even where murder is concerned. Still it must be remembered that the murderer shows little consideration for his victim.

The importance of the change that C.P.R. proposes to make in the handling of its land can hardly be overestimated. It is to be disposed of henceforth to settlers only. The company is fortunately beyond the stage where it has to worry about the revenue from this source and from its own viewpoint as well as from that of the country at large this move should more than justify itself. We have too much land altogether tied up by the speculator.—Edmonton Journal.

Principal Lloyd, of Saskatoon, declares that England has ten million more people than the land can support the way things are at present and that that is the reason there exists political and industrial unrest. Whether the westerner is correct or not, it is certain that there is a big immigration from the British Isles going on all the time. The satisfactory feature of the situation is that the great majority are going to other parts of the Empire. They are not changing their allegiance.

A hundred members of the British House of Commons have expressed their approval of Lord Roberts' recent speech, urging Great Britain to get ready for war with Germany. Mr. Runciman and Sir Edward Grey, members of the Cainet, condemned the speech in question, and Mr. Winston Churchill, also a memer of the Cabinet, praised it. There are 670 members of the House of Commons. The ground of hope in the situation is that more than five hundred did not join in the declaration. The big majority may be taking time to think.

Britain's Crown Gems

The British crown jewels are guarded in the Tower of London. At great cost the section of the tower wherein the famous gems are kept has been made impregnable against all robbers.

At a given signal all the gates and doors of the tower would be instantly closed, and that by the simple pressing of a button. Button's are placed in the governor's room, at Scotland Yard, and at other points known only to a few responsible officers. Even the massive gates of the middle tower which weigh several tons, may be closed by electrical process in order that no one within the tower may pass out. At the time there would ring an alarm bell to warn warders, police and soldiers to prepare themselves for any emergency.

In other days several attempts were made to steal the crown jewels. A Colonel Blood actually succeeded in getting possession for a time of the crown and sceptre of the United Kingdom. This he did by overpowering and binding the keeper. The latter, however, contrived to raise an alarm and help arriving from an unexpected quarter, Blood was pursued and overtaken, but not before he had got clear of the precincts of the building with his precious booty.

It was this attempt that led to the adoption of an elaborate series of precautions to guard the treasure. There is a special military guard of picked men, who give and receive a countersign that is changed every four hours. In addition, aside from the electric alarm system, there is a rigid system of visiting patrols, etc.

The most valuable of the jewels are secured by a massive iron grating, the keys of which are held by the Lord Chamberlain, out of whose custody they are supposed never to pass. Curiously enough, this apparent superfluity of caution once nearly resulted in the destruction of the entire collection by the great fire that threatened the tower in 1841. The flames had attacked the jewel house itself before the keeper with the aid of a crowbar, in succeeded forcing an admission to the house, so he might hand out the jewels to the firemen and police in waiting.

King Dies Poor

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 5.—Old, poverty stricken and by the world forgotten, there died the other day in one of the public hospitals of this city Michael de Lusigman, "King of Cyprus, Jerusalem and Syria, Prince of Armenia."

The title, an empty one in these days, dates back to the Crusades, for it was Richard I. of England, who, after participating in the Third Crusade, gave the Island of Cyprus to one Guy de Lusignan, a valiant French knight, to rule it as "King of Cyprus."

For years the Turkish government levied tribute upon the Prince's father, and when at length he succeeded to the title—this was before the seizure of the island by Great Britain in 1878—the Turkish authorities demanded that he should either embrace the the Mohammedan faith or abdicate. He chose the latter, for his country was unprepared for resistance and he preferred to surrender his throne rather than abandon the Christian religion.

Collecting his large fortune he settled in Russia, his valor in war securing him promotion as aide-de-campe to the Czar.

The deposed ruler gained the ear of Napoleon III. in his plan to regain his lost kingdom, but the Franco-German War shattered his hope. For ten years he was the victim of melancholia and when he died he left a fortune of 20,000,000 rubles to his only son, the Prince.

The latter, then 20 years of age, squandered his fortune. His steward and his servants "robbed him faithfully," so that at the end of a year quite half of his money was gone.

SYMPTONS OF CONSUMPTION

YIELD TO VINOL.

The medical profession does not believe that consumption is inherited, but a person may inherit a weakness or tendency to that disease.

A prominent citizen of Evansville, Ind. writes: "I was ill for five months with a pulmonary trouble, and had the best of doctors; I had hemorrhages and was in a very bad way. Through the advice of a friend I tried Vinol, and I feel that it saved my life. It is all you recommend it to be. I believe it is the greatest medicine on earth. I have advised others to try Vinol, and they have had the same results." (Name furnished on request.)

Turkey's Sudden Desire For Peace

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 5. — The Porte's circular note to the Ottoman representative in Europe, says, in part:

"The object and intenton of the Imperial government being always pacific, it was in order to defend itself against the four Balkan states that Turkey had recourse to arms. Although military preparations were incomplete, the Imperial government firmly resolved to employ every effort to safeguard its rights. But in view of the fact that these efforts necessitate a great sacrifice of men, the Imperial government, in order to spare the further shedding of blood and to furnish proof of its love of peace, invites mediation by the powers with a view to ending the war.

Doctor Would Not Attend

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 5—The death of Mrs. A. Davis, Eleanor street, on Saturday night, was reported to Coroner Ferguson as one in which the circumstances required an investigation. The woman, who was twenty-three years old, had been under the care of a city physician, who could not be reached when summoned Saturday evening.

One doctor was asked to come out and refused. Other city doctors were telephoned to but were out, and a neighbor went for the first physician who again refused to go because he had been warned that Mr. Davis would not pay his bills. The woman gave birth to a child, which is still living. A nurse was there, but she was not a trained nurse, and she, too, went to the doctor's, whereupon he responded.

In the meantime, however, Dr. Graham, of the city, had been called, and had arrived, so the doctor who had refused did not enter the house. When Dr. Graham reached the house the woman had died.

Vera Cruz Revolution

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Nov. 5.—The revolutionary spirit in the northern part of the State of Vera Cruz is on the increase. Many small bands are causing much mischief in the rich oil district.

The United States cruiser Des Moines and the German protected cruiser Victoria Luise are still in port. Major Stuardo Cuesta and 185 of his adherents, who escaped from Vera Cruz on the entry of the the Federals, have been seen near Oaxaca, where the natives are joining the revolutionary movement in great numbers.

Col. Diaz Ordaz, Chief Lieutenant of Gen. Felix Diaz, will be tried by court-martial in a day or two. It is generally believed that he will be condemned to death.

NOVELTY IN RAT-TRAPS

This One Invented by a Boy Who Has Been Offered Fortune for It

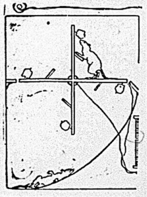
Ben Card is "only a farm boy," in England and goes to school yet. He has just invented such a good rat trap that he has been offered $100,000 for it by a big syndicate.

A rat-trap that would work incessantly and effectively day and night has been long sought.

That's the kind of a trap Ben Card has invented.

"Just as soon as I heard that they would pay lots of money for an electric rat-trap unlike and better than any ever made I started to work," Ben explained to an interviewer.

"It works like this," Ben pointed out: "The rat comes up this 'walk,' goes on this trip, smells the bait, puts its forefoot on this shelf to get nearer the bait, and in so doing completes a circuit through its body, and is electrocuted. The current releases the catch beneath the trip, one of four revolving 'levels,' and the weight of the dead rat turns the trip wheel. The rat falls into a receptacle beneath, or into a tunnel which may carry it far away, and another trip is ready for the next rat.



BEN CARD'S ELECTRIC RAT-TRAP

"It puts them out of sight one at a time as fast as they can walk into the trap and no rat ever gets a smell of the one ahead. It can be used wherever there is an electric light socket to get the current."

THE RING.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 5.—Declaring that the laws regarding club membership were being disregarded, the police tonight prevented the staging of the Business Men's Athletic Club bouts, the main event of which was to have been an eight-round go between Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, and Ollie Kirk. Art Magirl of Oklahoma and Tommy Danforth were scheduled to put on the semi-final.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.—Lightweight Champion Ad. Wolgast and Joe Mandot of New Orleans divided honors in a ten-round no-decision bout here to-night. Both took a lot of punishment, but at the end neither had the advantage, according to a decision of the newspaper men. Although Mandot was credited with having the better of four of the ten rounds, Wolgast with one, while the others were even, the champion's in-fighting and early aggressiveness won for him the unofficial draw decision.

GENERAL SPORTS.

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—George Kennedy's announcement that he has secured the signature of Jack Fournier to play with Canadiens this season appears to have been premature. Fournier announces himself today. He is carrying around a contract from Kennedy, but has not signed it, and does not intend to. In fact, Jack has all but settled to accept an offer from the Toronto club, and will probably play there next winter. Fred Taylor was tendered a $1,800 contract by one of the Toronto agents in Ottawa on Saturday to play in the Queen City, but turned it down. It looks as if Fred would be in the good old colors of Ottawa this winter after all.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Twenty-six professional bicycle riders from several foreign countries and various sections of the United States last night completed the first ten-hour day of a six-day bicycle race at the Boston arena, the leaders passing 239 miles, a new mark for the time.

All but one of the thirteen teams made 239 miles and 8 laps of the course, the Walthour-Collins team being two laps behind. The twelve other teams competing are Clarke-Hill, Diefenbacher-Carmen, Pye-Cerchiari, Moran-Fogler, Bedell-Bedell, Cameron-Magill, Root-Hehire, Lawrence-Drahbech, Wells-Mitten, Gardellini-Loftus, Krebs-Jckus and Thomas-Ryan.

Perchicot of France led in the final sprint of the day. Today the race will start at 4 p. m. and finish at 2 a. m. Wednesday.

GUELPH, Nov. 5.—A meeting of the special committee of citizens appointed to take up the matter of keeping the Canadian League franchise in this city for the next year was held in the city hall, at which President W. A. Mahoney of the Guelph Maple Leafs was present. Though no terms could be arrived at with him, after consultation the committee decided to make an offer to Mr. Mahoney, conditional on their getting the money from the citizens, of $1,500. President Mahoney only keeping the franchise here for next year. The President is to give the committee a ten day option, so that they can collect the money if he will take this sum.

It is not thought that President Mahoney will accept this offer, which means that any other town which bids $500 higher would get the club for next year. He is trying to locate it in Toronto. To do so it will be necessary, because of the territorial clause of the national agreement, to secure the consent not only of the Toronto club but of all clubs in the International League.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Dr. Garvin, coach of the Ottawa team, commenting on the result of Saturday's game, which Argos won by 12 to 6, had this to say:—

"All the best teams can't expect to win every game they enter into. We had hard luck by losing three or four of our most valuable men through injuries. However, I expect that Ottawa will even the score by administering a defeat to the Argos at Toronto next Saturday.

Hamilton, Nov. 5.—The Alerts were very indignant over the proposal to expel them from the O.R.F.U. because of alleged dirty work in the game with Toronto on Saturday. They say there no serious ground for a complaint.

At a meeting this afternoon they decided to ask for the resignation of E. J. Livingstone, the Secretary of the Union, claiming that he could not fill that position satisfactorily in view of the fact that he was also manager of the Torontos. They will also insist upon playing the return game with the Torontos next Saturday, now that the charges have been made, although they had previously been willing to consent to a postponement. The game will conflict with the crucial struggle between Argos and Ottawa for the Interprovincial senior championship.

ELECTRICITY AS FOOD

French Doctor Explains His Vital Spark Theory

Professor Bergonie, of Bordeaux, has come to the conclusion that no man need go hungry if he can get electric shocks administered in reasonable doses. The professor explained his theory to the Congress of the Society for the Advancement of Science at Nimes.

"If a man is hungry give him electricity," he said. "If he asks for bread or a beefsteak put him in an electric chair and turn on the current."

Professor Bergonie asserts that what chemistry has not accomplished electricity is able to achieve through the high frequency treatment. So we may shortly be ordering "five electric currents at intervals of seven seconds" instead of soup, fish and the rest of the courses.

The author of this latest idea recalled the experiments of Professor Berthelot, who claimed that within a generation beef steaks and other foods would be replaced by small pills or tablets containing the chemical constituents necessary for sustaining human life.

Professor Bergonie asserts that low tension and high frequency electric currents, passing through the body, have the same effect in producing interior warmth as meat and bread, with this advantage over food, that they do not tax the digestive organs.

These currents can be employed, he claims, without the slightest deleterious effect. Professor Bergonie says his treatment will prove invaluable in cases of invalids, who will be able to assimilate energy in electric form. In many cases he has observed that his electric treatment led to a notable increase in weight.

OPERATORS NOT NEEDED

Automatic Telegraphy Device Does Away With Use of Morse Code

Telegraph operators will soon only be servicable as fiction heroes, and their places in the railway and telegraph systems will be usurped by young and untrained girls, if a newly introduced device which is at present under trial in Canada proves successful.

The new system known as the Morkrum Automatic Telegraph, and the sending and receiving apparatus resembles nothing more closely than a typewriter. The sending operator presses the keys at one end of the line and the message is automatically transcribed at the other end.

The C.P.R. Telegraph Co. is experimenting with the new system between its Montreal and Toronto offices.

THE VALUE OF TREES

One Square Yard of Leaf Surface Purifies Great Amount of Air

It has been calculated that a single tree is able through its leaves to purify the air from the carbonic acid arising from the respiration of a considerable number of men, perhaps a dozen, or even more. The volume of carbonic acid exhaled by a human being in the course of twenty-four hours is put at about 100 gallons, but scientists estimate that a single square yard of leaf surface, counting both the upper and the under sides of the leaves, can, under favorable circumstances, decompose at least a gallon of carbonic acid in a day. One hundred square yards of leaf surface then would suffice to keep the air pure for one man, but the leaves of a tree of moderate size present a surface of many hundred square yards. All other forms of vegetble life act similarly in abstracting the noxious carbonic acid from the atmosphere.

FINDING THE PRODIGALS

Woman Author Engaged in Re-uniting Scattered Families in New World

Are you a "prodigal son?" If so Mrs. Richard Waaler is looking for you. Mrs. Waaler is a well known author and journalist, from Christiana, Norway. She has made it her mission to find prodigal sons all over the world, and get them into touch with the home folks.

Being a mother of twelve children herself, she conceived the idea that there must be many mothers who were mourning for sons who had emigrated and failed to write home. She first went on a lecturing tour through Norway, and explained her mission, getting hundreds of letters and addresses to look up. Then she crossed the Atlantic and at once good results were produced by her work in the United States. Then she crossed into Canada, but finding few Norwegians in the Eastern part of the Dominion, intends to pursue her work in the West. Later she will write a book on her travels.

AIRMEN'S TELEPHONE

Special Device Needed on Account of the Noises up Aloft

A telephone apparatus has been invented which makes it possible for an aeroplane pilot to talk to his passenger. Owing to the roar of machinery and the rushing air, conversation between pilot and passenger is exceptionally difficult without a telephone apparatus of some sort. Two receivers, made especially for the purpose, are mounted in the ear laps of each cap or helmet in such position that they are held snugly and comfortably against the ears when these flaps are fastened under the chin. Constructed to fit properly with the rest of the apparatus is a special lightweight transmitter which is held in place over the mouth by a band of soft leather, the ends of which are attached to the ear flaps. The batteries and speech magnifying apparatus are contained in a box attached to the framework of the aeroplane. Communication is established by plugging the box with the flexible cords with which each helmet is provided. The apparatus it is expected, will also be used as part of the equipment for wireless commuication with stations on the ground or with other aeroplanes. On one end of the box are two binding posts for connection with the receiving side of an aeroplane wireless set.

CONSERVING FISH SUPPLY

Canada Interested in Investigation of Fishing by Steam Trawlers

The Governments of Canada, Newfoundland, and the United States will conduct an investigation into the effects of steam trawling on the adjacent ocean fisheries. This destructive method of fishing has ruined many important fisheries off the British and European coasts, but there seems to be little hope of preventive measures owing to the recognized freedom of the high seas beyond each nation's three-mile limit. The speed of a steam trawler is about ten knots an hour. It hauls a gigantic purse net along the bottom by two wire cables, one from either side. A square of boards is so fastened on each cable as to strike the water at an angle and spread the net. The strain on the wires tells when the purse of the net is full, and it is then hoisted aboard. The scouring of the ocean's bed spilled out on the deck is an indescribable mess. All kinds and all sizes of fish, spawn, weeds, and the varied forms of aquatic life are heaped and matted together.

Such a method must be highly destructive. Defenders say the spawn and fry escape, but that is only at the outset of each haul. When there is a mass of fish in the purse everything in the way is scooped in, held, and killed by the accumulating pressure of the increasing haul. There are generally large quantities of dead and crushed fish in an immature state shoveled overboard with the worthless fish of every haul. The lines of baited hooks which the hand trawlers set on the bottom are frequently destroyed by the steam trawlers. There is naturally a strong objection by the men who see the good fishing grounds being depleted and ruined and their lines occasionally destroyed.

TRADE UNIONISM AND TEN COMMANDMENTS

Cardinal Bourne Appeals to Catholic Workmen to Recognize Rights of Employers

Addressing the Trade Unionists' section of the National Catholic Congress at Norwich, England, Cardinal Bourne said a good Catholic trade unionist had to recognize the rights of Almighty God, and therfore the binding force of the Ten Commandments, which must be at the foundation of everything. No labor organization, no struggle, however legitimate it might be for the rights of the workers, could ever abolish the Ten Commandments. They had also to recognize the rights of other men—the rights of employers of labor. On many occasions those rights had been opposed, but because a right had been opposed it did not cease to exist. It had to be recognized that they had certain rights which God had given them. They had also to recognize the fact that a man if he wished not to join a trade union was at liberty not to join. Men had a right to give labor or withhold it, and they had a right to claim for that labor a proper remuneration. At the same time, when they withheld their labor, especially the men who had families depending upon them, they were bound to see whether the reason for withholding their labor was sufficient to justify their inflicting on their wives and families the privations which might come to them by the withholding of that labor. They again, on such occasions, had to ask themselves whether the reasons which seemed to call for the exercise of their liberty of action were sufficient to justify them in inflicting upon the whole community perhaps, tremendous sufferings and a dislocation of society. The same remarks applied to the owners of capital and employers when they took into their hands the tremendous weapon of a lockout.

HOSTILITIES CONTINUE

Bulgarians Said to Have Begun Attack on Tchatalja.

Servian Army Has Been Called to the Aid of the Bulgars and Inference Is That Siege of Constantinople Is Looked on as Difficult — Another Appeal For Mediation Sent to the Powers, But No Action Is Taken.

London, Nov. 6.—If, as reported, the Bulgarian attack on Tchatalja forts has already begun, no details have yet been received. Doubtless the Turks may be fighting small engagements with a view to delaying the Bulgarian advance, but it is hardly likely that the Bulgarian army has sufficiently recovered after recent exertions to undertake a sustained battle. The Bulgarians are now a long distance from their base of supplies, and the four days' battle must have necessitated a renewal of the supplies of food and ammunition.

The fact that the Servian army has been called to the aid of the Bulgarians is held by some to indicate that the Bulgarians realize that it will be no easy task to reduce Constantinople. The report that the Constantinople water supply has been cut off is not confirmed. Derkas, where the cutting is alleged to have occurred, is within the Tchatalja lines.

The Porte is redoubling its efforts to save the capital, and has made a second appeal to France for mediation. But there is no sign that the powers will move in the matter unless the allied states make a similar application, which is exceedingly unlikely.

In the meantime the Turks continue mobilizing at Tchatalja. Constantinople is quiet, but the embassies have applied to the Porte for permission for the passage of a second cruiser of each power through the Dardanelles.

Scutari and Adrianople still hold out, and there is no important news from the field of operations in other directions.

In reply to the Turkish request for mediation, the Russian Government informed the Turkish ambassador that Russia was willing to mediate in cooperation with the other powers, provided they were given "pliens pouvoirs" (full powers).

Turkey Again Appeals.

Paris, Nov. 6.—The Turkish ambassador, Rifaat Pasha, presented to M. Poincare, the Premier and Foreign Minister, last evening the request of the Turkish Government for mediation, and the Foreign Office immediately took steps to acquaint the other powers with the new Ottoman proposal. The Turkish note says:

"The Ottoman Government requests the great powers to undertake collective mediation, with a view to the immediate cessation of hostilities and the determination of conditions of peace."

Before undertaking to act, M. Poincare emphasized the fact that it must be clearly understood that all idea of exercising pressure was excluded and that the powers could not undertake the task unless all the belligerents were agreeable.

On Rifaat Pasha signifying his agreement with this view, M. Poincare notified all the powers that France was ready to join with them in the action requested by Turkey.

Austria to Make Concessions.

Budapest, Nov. 6.—The Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, Count von Berchthold, in a statement yesterday to the Foreign Affairs committee of the Austrian delegation on the situation in the Balkans, after referring to the exchange of views by the powers and expressing the hope that this could result in extinguishing the conflagration as soon as possible, said:

"Whereas the Balkan states originally demanded administrative reforms for the improvement of the condition of their race brethren in Turkey, the successes they have gained in the war have considerably enlarged their aspirations, which no longer are consistent with the principle of the integrity of Turkey. While the policy of Austria is not influenced by any tendency toward expansion, our guiding care must be to combine, according to the need, the maintenance of peace with the supreme duty imposed upon us of defending the interests of the monarchy from any impairment. * * * That we can make our voice heard we do not doubt, and that we may be able to do so without coming into conflict with the rightful claim of others, we are prepared to make large allowance for the new situation created by the victories of the Balkan states, and thus lay the foundation of a lasting and friendly understanding with them.

"On the other hand, we have the right to demand that the legitimate interests of the monarchy suffer no harm from the new settlement of things."

Two Conservatives Running.

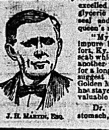
Bracebridge, Nov. 6.—At the nomination held here yesterday for the Legislature to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of A. A. Mahaffy to the position of district judge for Muskoka, Wm. Lowe, inspector of Government roads of the Township of Ryde, and S. H. Armstrong of Bracebridge. Both Conservatives were nominated to contest the election. The latter is running in opposition to the regular party candidate.

Marconi Contract Made.

London, Nov. 6.—The Marconi Company announced last night that they have signed a contract with the Canadian Government for operation and maintenance of nine additional stations on the great lakes in Canada. When the stations are completed, the company will receive an additional subsidy from the Government of $31,500 per annum. The agreement is for nineteen years.

How The Body Kills Germs.

Germs that get into the body are killed in two ways—by the white corpuscles of the blood, and by a germ-killing substance that is in the blood. Just what this substance is, we do not know. The blood of a healthy person always has some germ-killing substance in it to ward off the attack of disease. The fountain head of life is the stomach. A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished. To put the body in healthy condition, to feed the system on rich, red blood and throw out the poisons from the body, nothing in the past forty years has excelled Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a pure glyceric extract (without alcohol), of bloodroot, golden seal and Oregon grape root, stone root, mandrake and queen's root with black cherrybark.



J. H. Martin, Esq.

"My husband was a sufferer from stomach trouble and impure blood," writes Mrs. James H. Martin, of Frankfort, Ky. "He had a sore on his face that would form a scab which would dry and drop off in about a month, then another would immediately form. It continued this way for a long time. He tried every remedy that any one would suggest but found no relief. He then tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which completely cured him. He has stayed cured now for two years, and I recommend this valuable medicine for impurities of the blood."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules.

QUEBEC LEGISLATURE OPENS.

Lieutenant-Governor Notes the Assistance Given to Education.

Quebec, Nov. 6.—Lieutenant-Governor Langelier, in the course of his address in opening the Legislature yesterday, referred to the work of the Government in advancing the spread of education and the establishment of two normal schools, one at St. Hyacinthe and the other at Joliette in this connection. Over forty schools, he said, had shared in the appropriations voted in favor of those municipalities establishing commercial academies.

The encouragement given to municipalities which increased the salaries of teachers, was also bearing fruit.

His honor said that the Government was going to take steps to render the lessons of the child's welfare exhibition held in Montreal as effective as possible. A revision of the municipal code along lines laid down by a commission which inquired into this subject, was also promised.

His honor said that as considerable damage was done every year by fire in small towns and villages a bill would be submitted to facilitate a system of fire protection in such municipalities. A law to protect forests against fires started by imprudent people would also be introduced.

Bills would also be introduced to provide for the administration of Ungava, the further development of the good roads movement, and the establishment of a bureau of statistics.

Divorce Cases Numerous.

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—From present indications, there will not be a particularly heavy list of private bills at the forthcoming session of Parliament.

An exception, however, is the divorce cases, which number 30, so far, and thus exceed all records.

The country is now covered with blanket railway charters, but while a large number of the concerns will seek time extensions, new lines are in prospect.

What may be lacking in private legislation, however, will be more than made up by the extensive list of Government bills. The Bank Act is now being fully revised and along with it a bill for the regulation of savings banks.

An expert board to advise the Marine and Fisheries Department regarding the fishing industry generally is being considered by the Minister. The idea is to have all branches of the fishing industry — deep seas, coastal and lakes and rivers—represented on an advisory board which would meet regularly and deal first hand with questions affecting the fisheries.

W. K. George on Tariff.

London, Nov. 6.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Under the presidency of Lord Desborough, chairman of the London Chamber of Commerce, W. K. George of Toronto, former president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, gave an address yesterday on "Empire Unity in Commerce." The meeting was convened by the imperial mission, rather a law tariff organization in which certain younger Unionist Parliamentarians are the moving spirits, which seeks among other things to show that the Motherland ought to buy food within the Empire.

Mr. George, at the outset, declared that Britain must settle her fiscal policy herself. The adoption of any policy detrimental to home interests in order to get ideas from other parts of the Empire would be fatal to Imperial aspiration.

Having made this preface, Mr. George frankly confessed his own faith in a protective policy.

Brantford and Paris Sign.

Toronto, Nov. 6.—Brantford and Paris have signed contracts with the Hydro-Electric Commission for supplies of power. The municipalities of Simcoe, Waterford and Burford are now negotiating with the commission, and engineers representing the latter are ascertaining what power requirements exist there. Brantford's decision to take Hydro has made it possible for these smaller municipalities to secure a supply. The line supplying them will be built from Brantford.

Clergyman Shot Mischievous Boy.

Wadena, Sask., Nov. 6.—Rev. Mr. Lang, Presbyterian minister here, is out on bail in the sum of $2,000, the result of an alleged shooting of a boy, William Hogge, who was out with a crowd of young men playing pranks in the early morning hours on Hallowe'en night. The case was adjourned till to-day.

Englishman Slashes Bulgarian.

Kingston, Nov. 6.—Joseph Foster, an Englishman, is under arest, charged with stabbing a Bulgarian. The two were employed on some new buildings, and boarded together in a house provided by the contractor. Foster was frying bacon when he had an altercation with the Bulgarian, and drawing a knife slashed the latter's arm.

DISCOURAGES CONTEST.

Laurier Advises Hochelaga Liberals To Go Slowly.

Montreal, Nov. 6.—There will be no contest in Hochelaga unless the Nationalists make a fight. Sir Wilfrid Laurier wrote to the local executive yesterday, strongly urging them not to make a fight in this division on the naval policy of the Government until that policy has been announced, and his advice will, of course, be acted upon. The letter Sir Wilfrid sent is, in part, as follows:

"Before his departure for London, and since his return to Canada, the Prime Minister has declared that, after consultation with the Admiralty, he would make known his naval policy to the people of Canada.

"We do not know as yet in what this policy consists, and notwithstanding the resignation of one of his colleagues, we do not know more than imperfectly the real cause of this disagreement. The session will open in a few days, and the Government will have to acquaint us with the negotiations that have been had with the Imperial authorities, the program agreed upon and the divergence of opinion between the Minister who has resigned and his colleagues.

"I recognize the desire of the Liberals of Hochelaga to oppose the candidature of the new Minister and to show once more their allegiance to the Liberal cause. Our naval policy is known. It has not changed since March 29, 1909, but would it be opportune to take up the fight before knowing what is the new policy of the Government? I have said many times since the last conference at London that I would await the explanations of the Government before discussing their naval policy.

"It is before Parliament that the naval policy may be announced, and in my opinion it is there that it must be judged on its merits and combatted if there is need."

Rev. J. J. MacNeil Silent.

London, Nov. 6.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Regarding Rev. J. J. MacNeil's call to Toronto, the minister warns his Liverpool congregation not to be influenced by anything in the newspapers. The presbytery would not meet until the 11th inst., and he was unable to say anything until afterwards.

Millfeed is fairly active and firm. Demand for butter is good at firm prices. Cheese is quiet. Eggs active.

Y.M.C.A.'s New Activity.

Toronto, Nov. 6.—A strong movement is on foot here under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. to fight the evils of the employment agencies, which, it is claimed, play upon young men coming into the city in search of work. The number of cases in which youths from rural Ontario have been deprived of their small supply of cash by unscrupulous agents has resulted in the appointment of E. F. Trimble, formerly in the city's agency, to take charge of the work for the Central Y.M.C.A., while H. A. Pearson and E. W. Cameron will conduct the West End and Broadview Association work respectively. A publicity campaign is in process of organization and those coming to Toronto are being advised to communicate with the Y.M.C.A. immediately upon reaching the city.

Cartage Rates Must Stand.

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—Railroad cartage companies in Eastern Canada will not be allowed to raise their rates from five to ten cents per ton on November 11 as they intended.

The Railway Commission yesterday afternoon ordered that the new schedule of tariffs be set aside until judgment has been passed upon them. The case will come up again for hearing on December 17.

The case came before the board towards the end of the day and when it was called the strongest array of legal counsel, representing railroad and cartage companies, Boards of Trade in Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa, filed up to the commissioners' bench to argue for and against the proposed increase.

Col. Stark of Montreal, representing the Dominion Transport Co., told the board that during the last few years the company has been seriously affected by the increase in the cost of living. Wages to teamsters have advanced as much as 25 per cent.

On Slender Bases.

Sir Herbert Tree, the amount of whose correspondence is doubtless overwhelming, has been the recipient, it is said, of some extraordinary letters. From them three samples are selected for quotation, each from a member of the fair sex. The first runs: "Dear Sir Herbert—I don't know you, but I have four girls from Switzerland home for the holidays. It would be a great treat if they could see your play. But that would be rather expensive. Will you please send us five stalls? I hope you won't think this is very bare faced." The second lady wrote, "Although I am a stranger to you, it would be so helpful if you would send me £2 12s. 6d." The third lady asked for a couple of stalls and on being invited to say why she made the claim sent what she evidently thought to be an all sufficient reason. "My father," she wrote, "knew Charles Dickens!"

Artful Ada.

Ada (pensively)—I hope you'll invite me to the wedding when you get married.

Jack (boldly)—You'll be the first person I shall invite, and if you don't accept there won't be any wedding.

Three months later she married him.—London Mail.

The Real Thing.

Body Found in River

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 5.—The body of a man was found floating in the lower Niagara river this morning about nine o'clock. The body had passed down the river below the spillway of the power company's tunnel, and four men put out for the Maid of the Mist landing with a launch and recovered it. It is the body of a man past 40 years old, the right arm missing from the socket, the left leg from the knee, and there is a great hole in the head. It was well preserved, and this leads to the belief that it may possibly be the body of Christian Kledhen, the Niagara Falls, N. Y., fireman who committed suicide on Sunday morning, although there are others who think it is the body of Captain F. I. Parker, who committed suicide several weeks ago. The only clothing on the body was a gray sock, which covered the left foot.

COMMEMORATED GUY FAWKES ANNIVERSARY

To commemorate the anniversary of Guy Fawkes' day, or the gun-powder plot, the members of Benjamin L. O. L. No. 274 of this city, last evening gave a concert in the city hall, which proved to be in every respect a decided success. Many were present and the programme provided was all that could be desired. A number of prominent members of the Orange Order were in attendance, including Col. John Hughes of Newcastle, Grand Master of Ontario East and Bro. F. M. Clarke, Grand Secretary for Ontario East.

Bro. George Ruttan, Worshipful Master of Benjamin Lodge, opened the proceedings by extending a hearty welcome to all present, and referred to the notable anniversary they were commemorating.

Bro. A. R. Walker was then called upon to take the chair, and in doing so made a brief but appropriate address. He referred to the occasion they were commemorating, and the frustrating of a plot which was designed to do harm. In speaking of the society and the prominent members of it he referred to Sir M. Bowell, who unfortunately was lying upon a bed of sickness, stating that it was a pleasure to know that he was improving. He also referred to the loss the Order had recently sustained by the death of Bro. Wm. Johnson of this city, who was a thorough Orangeman.

Col. John Hughes of Newcastle, Grand Master of Ontario East spoke at some length on the event which was being commemorated and stated that while the Orange Association has no quarrel with our fellow Roman Catholic citizen in the exercise of his religions and liberties, it was persistently opposed to the political appression of Romanism, and referred particularly to the bi-lingual school question. This is an English-speaking province, and we don't intend that the English language shall be replaced by the French. He referred to the conditions in Quebec where the schools have been so manipulated that many English speaking citizens have been driven out by the rising generation being unable to obtain an English education. Do you want this condition of affairs in Ontario? If so, allow the French to be the language of our schools. The Provincial Government, after a thorough investigation, found that the complaints made of the irregular and unlawful conducting of many of the public schools in the western portion of the province have issued instructions to remedy this evil and we have the evidence of rebellion in relation to these instructions, and it is the duty of every one desiring that English shall be the language of this province to give the government an active support and encouragement in the enforcement of the law in this regard.

We are not only commemorating the frustration of the nefarious plot of Guy Fawkes, but also the battle of Inkerman,the landing of William of Orange at Torbay, on whose banner was emblazoned, "The Protestant Religion and the Liberties of England I will Maintain."

The Belleville Male Quartette was then called upon and rendered a selection in such a manner as to merit an encore. This quartette, which is composed of G. Dulmage, E. Mouck, W. H. Wrightmyer and R. Minns, sing in a very creditable manner. Their selections are of a high order and very pleasing. During the evening Messrs. Mouck, Minns and Wrightmyer were called upon to render solos and did so acceptably.

Bro. W. E. Tummon, Reeve of Huntingdon township was called upon and gave a brief but excellent address. He said it was a pleasure to be present and to see so many present. Today we celebrate an important event, namely the frustrating of the gun-powder plot in England many years ago. He was pleased to note that the clergy was uniting with the Orange Society, which was good. If there was one thing more than another that was needed, it was a closer union of the clergy with the Order. The Order needed them and they needed the Order. In this day union and co-operation was necessary. The speaker then referred particularly to what the Order stood for, namely, an open Bible, equal right to every man, and special privileges to none. The Order had ever been a defender of these rights. It was not an oppressive organization as some would have you believe. Gentleness and uprightness predominated in a true Orangeman. Kind hearts and helping hands are what the world needs today. There is a call to true manhood and that call should be obeyed. In conclusion he enjoined upon all Orangemen to be true to their principles and obligations.

Bro. F. M. Clarke being called upon, said in his opening remarks, that this day was the anniversary of a most notable event. It was the commemorating of the frustrating of the nefarious Guy Fawkes plot, also the anniversary of the landing of King William at Torbay. We were today following the banner set up by that noble leader, King William of Orange. As members of the Order we are determined to defend the privileges of liberty for which King William fought. The speaker then referred in a somewhat explicit manner to the school question, which was a live one at present, and all should unite and hold up both hands for proper teaching in our schools and no encroachment. All schools, he said that receive Government aid must teach English in preference to the French language. The British North America Act gave the French no special priviliges. What we want is no special privileges but liberty to all. In speaking of the British Empire Bro. Clarke said that all were proud to belong to the greatest Empire the world has ever seen. It was a glorious heritage that we enjoyed. Where the Union Jack flies there liberty exists. This heritage has been handed down to us, and we must protect and cherish it. Canada is a glorious country, growing by leaps and bounds. We have the granary of the world, and while not possessing the greatest mineral wealth we had an abundpance of nickel and other minerals. What a heritage of wealth we possess! No foreign potentate shall interfere to take away any of our rights. The speaker also referred to the marriage question, and claimed no church had a right to interfere and say whether a marriage is legal or not. If it is a legal marriage what right should a church have to say it was not legal if parties joined together should be of different faiths? In referring to the question of loyalty the speaker mentioned the North-west Rebellion and the South African war, and the number of members of the Orange Society in Canada who on those occasions tendered their services to their country. In concluding Bro. Clarke enjoined upon all to stand loyally by those who are defenders of the true faith and tongue, and let the English language be the language of our land. (Cheers.)

Sprague's orchestra was present and enhanced the pleasure of the evening by several well-rendered selections.

A pleasing number on the program was a trombone solo by Mr. Jack Cookson. Miss Edna Wallace presided at the piano for this number and other solos, performing her duties in a creditable manner.

War Reporters Returning Home

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 5.—The capital of Bulgaria is being kept in ignorance of the happenings around Adrianople and at Tchorlu, where the Turkish and Bulgarian armies are fighting. Nothing has been published here for the past three days.

An important Ministerial conference was held this morning, the results of which have not been made public.

The hospitals of Sofia, Philippopolis and other centres are crowded with wounded men.

Thirty foreign war correspondents have announced their intention of leaving the Bulgarian headquarters and returning to their respective countries.

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Nov. 5.—H. S. Niblock, western manager of the Canadian Financiers, of Vancouver, has been arrested on instructions from the police of Medicine Hat, charged with fraud in conection with the organization of Canadian Financiers, which was recently incorporated under Dominion charter, with a capital of $2,000,000. Niblock is one of the head men of the concern, and cut a wide swath in financial circles in this province.

Salonika in a State of Panic

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Salonika is in a state of panic, according to a despatch from that city to the 'Post.' About 20,000 inhabitants of the surrounding villages have poured into the town, besides hundreds of fugitives from Uskup, and 7,000 Anatolian soldiers sent from Constantinople. There is a great scarcity of provisions and the hungry soldiers have plundered the bakers' shops.

French-Canadian Demonstration.

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—French-Canadians of the city, members of the Garde Champlain and Ste. Jean Baptiste Society, are preparing for a three days demonstration here next summer to mark the sixtieth anniversary of the formation of the society. They will ask the Duke of Connaught to inspect the uniformed Gardes after a parade in which they expect 15,000 will participate.

France Refuses Turkey's Appeal

PARIS, November, 5.—The French government has refused the Turkish government's appeal for it to take the initiative in bringing about an intervention of the Great Powers to stop hostilities and impose an armistice on the Balkan States.

The reply of the French Foreign Office points out that for France to take the course suggested would be contrary to international law and would make her appear as siding against the Balkan States.

France can only, it was added, consider in accord with all the Great Powers a request for mediation properly so called if such a request be addressed to her.

Lawrence Riots Still Rampant

SALEM, Mass., Nov. 5.—That militiamen and policemen made no effort to prevent the attacks upon street cars in Lawrence on the morning of January 29, and that the cars were besieged by an organized gang of about twenty men, was the testimony yesterday of Leo Ready, one of the Textile strikers, at the trial of Ettor, Giovannitti and Caruso, for the murder of Anna Lopizzo.

Ready declared that he was near the scene of the riot that morning and that the strikers were peaceful. "I saw this gang of twenty men go up and the streets," said Ready. "They were armed with clubs with which they smashed the windows of the cars. Some of them threw chunks of ice. The policemen on the streets made no attempt to stop them. Neither did the soldiers."

Set Fire to Hotel

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 5.—Barbara Gladys Arnold, an 8-year-old nurse girl in the family of Rev. William J. Williamson, confessed today that she set fire to the Berlin hotel last Friday night to "create excitement." She said that early to-day she tried to burn the Windermere, another family hotel.

In the Berlin fire two women and a retired banker wer burned to death. A fourth person, struck by an automobile going to the fire died.

READ OUR SPLENDID NEW SERIAL STORY "KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER," BEGINNING IN TOMORROW'S INTELLIGENCER.

Is Woman Too Fresh?

Woman is no longer the salt of the earth; man is, according to the latest discoveries of science as chronicled in the Paris Matin. Not since Lot's wife has woman had enough chloride of sodium in her makeup, and that is the explanation of her general inferiority to man. Woman, says science, is too fresh. The newest conclusion of the laboratory is that the physical and mental development of a human being depends on the percentage of salt in the blood. The blood of the man has more salt than the blood of the woman, and for that reason woman can never expect to equal the sterner sex in physical force, reason or intelligence. There is in the Matin's scientific discussion but one redeeming assertion in favor of womanhood—that is, that since her facial angle is nearer to that of the higher animals than man's is, for that reason her senses are duller and pain hurts her less than it hurts her salty and more intelligent brother.

Men They Wouldn't Hang.

To escape the gallows because one's neck is not suitable for hanging must certainly be counted a curious reason. Yet this has occurred more than once. Some years ago there took place a particularly atrocious murder of a woman. Despite the horrible crime, for which he deserved no mercy and which, indeed, no one expected would be meted out to him, the criminal was reprieved. It transpired that the man's spinal column at his neck consisted of nothing more than a mere mass of gristle. If he had been placed upon the gallows his head would have been torn from his body.

In another case the murderer was deformed, and the surgeon who examined him was of the opinion that any attempt to hang the convict would only end in failure. A reprieve was granted by the home office on these grounds.—Pearson's.

JAKE OR NO JAKE—SHE WAS BOUND TO KEEP IT

My helper, who comes when there is an unusually hard day for cleaning, scrubbing or laundry work, is a genius.

Imagine a quaint, strong, bright woman, who is running clothes through a wringer, while, for reasons of my own, I am at work near by with the clear starch on fine garments.

'Yes, mum, I find time to rest now, Jake—you know my Jake—is shiftless-like, and so that keeps me purty busy. I don't reckon Jake's to blame for his no-account sort of ways. You see the Lord made him out of the odd and ends of both families, the Crampses and the Binnees. They'd had fourteen children when Jake was born, and he was sort of weakly, and they never made him work, and you can't change a man's habits any more'n you could turn the river back into the brook where it first started from.

'You see, when I married I didn't know as much as I do now. My mother told me I'd better look before I leaped, but I thought I knew what I was about, and took the leap—then I looked. Well, if a girl gets a man that won't work, there's just two things for her to do—set down in dirt or do double. Here, do you want this 'ere dresing sacque?

'Ever get discouraged? Well, yes, I should if I thought 'twas any use. The children have got to be raised, and got to be fed and clothed, and they've got to have an education. Supposin' I got discouraged? That wouldn't mend matters. All there is on earth to do is, jes' go on.

'Can't I make Jim work?' Here there was a long pause, and I caught a glimpse of the strong, bare arms giving the clothes in the blueing a hard punch. A big sigh followed the punching of the clothes before my big Socrates replied.

'I used to try it; but I found that wore worser on me than all the other things put together. Talk about "nerves" and "nervous" women, I found that, with me, 'nerves' meant temper. It was just dreadful what a state Id work myself into when I couldn't make things go as I wanted 'em to. I got so I hated myself; and almost hated Jake. I knew that would never do. That was about the time I got religion. I soon found out that when I'd had a particular hard day at a particular trying place, the the fact that I had most of the earning to do and Jake's not—not wanting to work pricked and jabbed and rasped and sung more'n usual. I thought the thing out, and I knew I'd got to do something or else give up pretending to be a Christian. The first thing I did was to give up workin' at places where my upsetting sins got most stirred up.'

'Gave up work, Mrs. Cramp?' I asked.

'Yes, at them trying places where a woman expects you to do a five-dollar job for two dollars; treats you as though you were a dog, and then makes you wait for your pay. I found I always lost my temper easy after I'd worked all day at one of them places, and it looked as though I couldn't ask the Lord to not lead me into temptation, when I took a bit in my own mouth and deliberately went into temptation. Do you think I could?'

Here the clothes went gently through the wringer, but the flow of inspiration seemed to cease. The Pierian spring stopped bubbling so I asked another question to start the flow again.

'Do you mean how'd I stop my upsetting sins, 'specially my temper, getting the upper hand of me? I quit working so hard and I quit going to places where I felt rasped and always went home feeling ugly. I don't go to no such places now. You see, I don't have to. A woman can do lots more work when she can do it in peace; and then the's no internal fret and upheaval; she ain't near so tired out when she's through, neither.

'You see, if you're a Christian it helps. I don't mean just a church member, but—well—you know. When I first got religion I thought that if I wanted to get rid of upsetting sins, 'specially my crossness, all that I'd got to do was to cry, 'Lord, Lord!' long enough, and I'd be a saint of the first water so I used to go out into our barn, up in the loft, Sunday afternoon, and just cry to God for help; and one day, all of a sudden, when I was a-readin' my Bible and praying over that place where Christ says, "Come unto me, and I will give you res"—you know?

'I said, "Yes, I know."

'Well! I was readin' that verse and holding out my hands for Him to give me that rest right into 'em when I struck the next verse, 'Take my yoke upon you,' 'Learn of me,' and I found I'd got something to do besides cry, 'Lord! Lord!' The "yoke" might be "easy" but still it had a meaning,' and here Mrs. Cramp came over to my basin to take my work into her own hands.

I paused and said, 'That is interesting. How did it end.'

'You used to live on a farm?' she replied in a questioning tone. I nodded. 'I knew if I took a 'yoke' on me I must not only go to work, but I'd got to obey somebody; and it was all right there in that verse. "Learn of Me," "Come unto me," "All ye that labor," "I will give you rest"—"if you learn of Me." It was jest wonderful how the light shone on those verses that day.'

I looked at the shining face of the woman beside me, and smiled.

'You see it was my heart that was tired. It wasn't "rest" from work I wanted, but "rest" while I worked. It was the worry, the fret, and the things that made me uncomfortable, that were the hardest part of my life See?' and the woman looked eagerly into my face.

'I understand,' I replied.

'Wall, I thought you would. It is is the queerest thing, I declare; but the rest, that come that day into my soul when I understood about the "yoke" has never left me. There is a sort of real joy in doing things when I know I'm learning of the Master. I can't explain how 'tis, but that day I made up my mind that I must have rest, and said, "Lord, I'll do anything if you will only show me how," such a sweet, homey comfortable, quiet peace come straight into my heart.

'I made up my mind, right then and there, Jake or no Jake, work or no work, I was going to keep this beautiful great sweetness that had no fret inside. If ever a woman needed it, with what I'd got before me, six children to feed and clothe and educate, and Jake besides—if ever a woman 'needed' an internal and eternal rest, I was that woman. And it was as plain as daylight that there was no need of a miracle. All I had to do to keep this rest was to use my common sense and keep on the "yoke," and keep learning. You see, thats one reason why I won't go to places that used to fret and tire me out, soul and body. And when I find my temper, or my upsetting sins, is getting the better of me, and I began to get riled, I jest stop and rest. Let me finish that starchin' now. You see, I ain't lookin' for rest in some easy chair, but it's this inside rest I'm after.—Zion's Herald.

An Energetic Author.

Though the chances of Sir Gilbert Parker, the member for Gravesend, Eng., are generally favored for an Under-Secretaryship in the next Unionist Government, it is as a novelist and not as a politician that he holds a promient position in the public eye. When amongst the political pack he is a somewhat colorless individual, but in the realms of fiction he is king.

Sir Gilbert Parker has hustled a trifle during the past twenty years. He is a Canadian by birth, and received his education at Trinity College, Toronto. In his early Canadian days he hit on a method of replenishing his pocket by lecturing, with the aid of a magic-lantern. Then came a period of journalistic work in Australia, when he acted as associate-editor of The Sydney Morning Herald. After traveling round the globe he arrived in England and persuaded the free and independent electors of Gravesend, at the 1900 election, to send him to Parliament as their member, and he has stuck ever since.

Our New Citizens.

During the six months, April 1 to Oct. 1, of the current fiscal year, 273,649 immigrants arrived in Canada. Of this number 183,990 arrived at ocean ports and 89,659 from the United States. These figures show an increase of 13 per cent. as compared with the number of arrivals for the corresponding months of last fiscal year, which were 158,614 at ocean ports and 83,317 from the U.S., a total for the six months of 241,931 persons.

During September this year, there were 31,140 arrivals, 20,690 of them having been at ocean ports, and 10,450 from the States as against 29,077 for September last year, 17,593 of whom were at ocean ports, and 11,484 from the States.

The Musk Ox.

The musk ox is an arctic animal, occurring both in Greenland and in northern Canada. In pleistocene times it occurred in England and Central Europe. It is about the size of one of our smaller breeds of ox, but in habits and in the fact that most of its muzzle is hairy more like a sheep than a bovine. Its hair is very long, thick and matted. The horns in the young are small, upright and far apart, but in the adult they become very broad at the base and meet in the midline and take a curve downward and outward, while the ends curve again upward to a point. It owes its name to its strong musklike odor.

THE WHEAT PROPHETESS.

Miss E. Cora Hind Is Canada's Greatest Crop Expert.

It may be news to some people that the greatest authority on agricultural conditions and tendencies in Western Canada is a woman. Perhaps it should be said that some of the professors and other experts in the service of the various Governments may be excepted when this distinction is accorded, says Toronto Saturday Night. Miss E. Cora Hind, commercial and agricultural editor of The Free Press, Winnipeg, has achieved a national reputation as an authority on agricultural topics, with particular reference to the production of grain and live stock. Her most noteworthy accomplishments, as far as the general public is concerned, have been in connection with the inspection of growing crops in the prairie provinces. In her capacity as commercial editor she spent a large portion of each summer during the past eight years in traveling through the various grain districts in order to reach an accurate conclusion regarding the crop outlook. The present season has been the first in which Miss Hind has not undertaken these trips, and only the great extension of settlement and cultivation has made necessary the discontinuance of this important work.

It is no small task to calculate the probable output of wheat over an acreage of five to ten million distributed through a territory of 200,000,000 acres, but a summary of what Miss Hind has been able to do in this respect will give the best idea of her efficiency. From 1904 to 1911 she made an annual estimate about harvest time. Of course, it was not until one year later that there was an opportunity to compare her figures with the official returns of the Dominion Government. During that time the total yield of wheat increased from 54,390,678 to 181,751,017 bushels, so that there was plenty of room to make a mistake. In 1904 Miss Hind's figures were within 700,000 bushels of the actual output as tabulated a year later. In 1905 she was about 500,000 bushels out, in 1907, 300,000 bushels, and in 1909, 600,000 bushels. In the other years her estimates were from three to four million bushels astray, but these were seasons in which the work of calculation was particularly difficult on account of the rapid increase in acreage and an unusual variety of weather conditions.

Miss Hind was born in Toronto, and is descended from United Empire Loyalist stock. She was brought up on her grandfather's farm in the County of Grey and went to Winnipeg just after the famous boom of 1882. She was the first girl to be employed as a typist in Western Canada, and in that capacity she made the first typewritten brief that was used in the courts in Manitoba. Her first work for The Manitoba Free Press was done in 1883, and her connection with that paper gradually became more intimate as her experience increased.

The expert knowledge gained by Miss Hind in her newspaper work has made her a welcome and popular visitor at fairs, stock shows and other exhibitions where the best displays are to be seen. She is as well known at the International Live Stock Show at Chicago as she is at the Brandon Winter Fair. She has taken a prominent part in the activities of the Canadian Women's Press Club, and is generally interested in any movement that has for its object a closer recognition of the important part that women can play in business life.

National Playgrounds.

A new policy has been developed by the Forestry Department of the Dominion Government which promises to be very popular in the west. There has been established a new branch which will be known as the bureau of national playgrounds. Hitherto the forest preserves of the Dominion Government have been purely for the purpose of saving the timber and wild animals. Now the idea of maintaining many of these reserves as pleasure and health resorts is developed and suitable portions will be set apart as playgrounds for the people. The first experiment of this kind was made this summer in the Turtle mountain reserve in Manitoba, where the plan has proved popular. It will be carried out on a more extensive scale next year. Requests have already been made to have playgrounds established at Duck mountain and Riding mountain reserves in the Prairie Province and also for the establishment of a playground and health resort at Spruce Woods reserve, southwest of Prince Albert.

Passed With Honors.

Sir William Mulock is one of the many Canadian city men who take an interest in farming. Another gentleman who does farming on the side is Dr. Miller, principal of Ridley College, St. Catharines.

Both have been connected with educational work, but when they met on a train from St. Catharines recently much of their talk was about farming. Sir William asked the doctor about soil, fertilizers, sheep, cows, rotation of crops, what use to make of land under apple trees and many other things concerning the farm.

"This answering your questions," said the doctor, "reminds me of my university days."

Sir William smiled, and said: "Perhaps so. At any rate you've certainly passed a very creditable examination."

NEW YORK PAPERS EXPRESS A VARIETY OF SENTIMENTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The New York newspapers today commented on Woodrow Wilson's election in part, as follows:

Tribune—He (Wilson) owes victory to Roosevelt's desire to wreck the Republican party.

Herald—We trust that your (Wilson's) program will include maintenance of the status quo of prosperity.

Times—The American people have again splendidly vindicated their reputation for soundness of judgment.

Morning Sun—The best wish the Sun can express for the President-elect is that he may sieze the windpipe of Bryanism and throttle it into eternal silence.

World—The American people have made Wilson President because they believe his ideals are their ideals, his courage their courage, and he will find a way to right the wrongs against which they have protested.

Evening Sun—There will be few Americans who will not bury their partizanship to wish God-speed to Woodrow Wilson.

Evening World—The great good common sense of the American people has written the decree.

Evening Journal—There are good reasons to believe that we stand on the threshold of a new era whose happiness and prosperity shall surpass all precedent.

Shot Himself For a Horse

BISBEE, Ariz., Nov. 5.—His remarkable attachment for a horse, the use of which had been denied him, led Glen Shipley, a young miner, to kill the horse and then attempt to commit suicide after gaining forcible possession of the animal early to-day.

Shipley went to the livery stable at which the horse was kept, and held up the man in charge at the point of a revolver. He then rode the animal into the hills and put a bullet through its head. Lying down beside the dead animal, Shipley shot himself just below the heart. He had used the horse for six years and complained that others who hired the animal mistreated it. Frequently he hired the horse and kept it tied up all day so that careless drivers might not get it.

Shipley was brought to a local hospital, where it was said that he had a chance to recover.

Says He Has Cured Cancer

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Dr. E. Odin has made a communication to the Society for the Study of Comparative Pathology in reference to his reported cure of cancer already described in New York Times dispatches.

Dr. Odin says he is in a position to state that he has obtained conclusive results from the use of his serum.

He asserts that he has treated twenty cases successfully.

Campaign Names For Texas Triplets

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kyler of Denison, Texas, sent a telegram to President Taft, received to-day at the White House, announcing the birth of three sons named William Howard Taft Kyler, Theodore Roosevelt Kyler, and Woodrow Wilson Kyler.

Assistant Secretary Brahany, in the President's name, sent a telegram to the parents expressing the wish that the triplets would live long and prosper.

Heroism of The Montenegro Women

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Miss M. Edith Durham, correspondent of the Daily Chronicle with the Montenegrin army cables from Podgoritza a vivid account of the happenings around Scutari in the last fortnight.

"The town," she says, "still holds out, but its capture is certain. The King is loth to shell the town, and has ordered the artillery to fire only at the barracks.

"Nothing in the campaign is more striking than the extraordinary heroism of the Montenegrin women, who tramp backward and forward, even from distant towns, bearing food and other supplies to their men at the front. Many of them were severely wounded carrying water to the actual firing line. They are gladly sharing danger and death with their husbands, brothers and sons."

STEAMER ROYAL GEORGE IS ON THE ROCKS

(Intelligencer Special.)

QUEBEC, Que., Nov. 7.—That the Canadian Northern steamer, Royal George, will likely pound to pieces on the rocks in the St. Lawrence where she stranded yesterday, is the opinion of many marine men here. This morning she is looming high in the air in an extremely dangerous position, and a terrific storm is beating about her. Capt. Harrison set three-quarters of the passengers ashore last night, some going on to Montreal, and others remaining here. The crew and two hundred passengers are still aboard, and it is too rough to take them off safely. In the meantime a big fleet of Government tugs and other vessels are standing by to render aid in the crisis. Passengers were booked to various cities in Ontario and the west.

Threatens to Stop Music in The Churches

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 6.—Special—Following the objections of certain London clergymen to Sabbath band concerts, the first of which for the winter season was given here Sunday evening in the Majestic Theatre, local members of the musicians' union assert that if the sacred entertainments are prevented they will withdraw from Sunday school and church orchestras.

The Sunday concert attracted about 2,000 people to the theatre, where sacred music was rendered, and Rev. Canon Tucker, Rector of St. Paul's Anglican Cathedral, led in prayer. Many ministers of different denominations have taken strong exception, however, and call upon the police to prevent the carrying out of the plans of the committee in charge, which is headed by Mrs. Dr. H. A. Kingsmill and many prominent women.

Fresh Chinese Loan Negotations

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Fresh loan negotiations between the Chinese Government and the group of bankers representing the United States, Great Britain, Germany, France, Russia and Japan were opened at Pekin yesterday.

The news was communicated in the House of Commons to-day.

Arrangements have been completed, acording to the Pekin correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, for the issue on December 1 of a $100,000,000 international silver loan at eight per cent. The loan will be secured on the national taxes.

Sentence is Commuted

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—Special—Dominico Blfamo, an Italian, 20 years old, lying in Montreal jail under sentence of death for shooting Louis Guay, a restaurant keeper on Lagauchetiere Street, Montreal, will now spend the rest of his life in the penitentiary, according to the decision of the Cabinet this afternoon. He was to have been hanged on November 15. The trial judge, Mr. Justice Trenholme, recommended that a life sentence would suit the ends of justice.

Alarm For Czarevitch

LONDON Nov. 6.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times says the long-awaited statement regarding the Czarevitch's illness causes deep consternation among the Russians. Even to the uninitiated mind it is evident that the Prince's condition is likely to cause much anxiety in the future.

The doctors are still very pessimistic, and the carefully worded report unhappily leaves little doubt that the patient suffers an organic defect in the blood and doubtless also tuberculosis in the leg.

Our idea of a wealthy man is one who is eager to contribute to a campaign fund.

Roosevelt To Continue His Bull Moose Campaign

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Carrying out the determination expressed in his statement last night, Col. Roosevelt again took up the cudgels to-day and laid plans for a continuance of his fight.

The Colonel seemed much encouraged by the fact that the Progressives had run second, but the sting of defeat was noticeable in the manner of the Bull Moose candidate although he was constantly receiving congratulations on his showing from all parts of the country.

At ten o'clock his secretary, John W. McGrath went up to Sagamore Hill and Roosevelt began at once to dictate letters and telegrams. He announced that he would remain at home for the next two days and on Friday would go to New York for editorial work.

The Colonel is preparing to continue this attack on Elihu Root and the three lawyers who criticized his stand on the court of appeals question. He explained that he had not been able to take the matter up properly in his speech at Oyster Bay Monday night, but that within the next few days he would "Get after Root and those other fellows" and make them quit the fight."

Judge Decides That Snoring is Not a Crime

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Snoring is no crime. This was a decision rendered by Municipal Judge Uhiri in the West Chicago Avenue court. Walter Mozak, 25 years old, was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. He had crawled into a hallway and slumbered in an unmistakable manner. The nasal disturbances aroused the tenants of the building, who endeavored to awaken the man. The attempt was unsuccessful and the police were called. The latter were unable to rouse Moazk and he was taken to the station in an ambulance. In court he declared that he had been attacked by two men.

"Your only offence was snoring," remarked the judge "and I can't fine you for that."

Harvester Agent Under Arrest

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Wallace J. Poland, Pacific Coast agent of the International Harvester Company, was arrested here recently charged with embezzlement by Aubrey E. Ambrose, traveling auditor of the company.

The specific sum named is $1,500, but it is understood that the amount involved is much larger.

Police Judge Weller held the prisoner in $60,000 bonds or $25,000 cash bail.

A Novel Undertaking

TORONTO, Nov. 6.—P.C. Thomas McElroy conducted a novel experiment yesterday in an endeavor to solve the cause of the death of Mr. and Mrs. Mainwaring, and the result of his test proved conclusively to Coroner E. B. Hardy's jury, when recounted last evening, that death was due to suffocation from gas by accidental means.

McElroy picked up an untagged dog that had given some annoyance to pedestrians on Bathurst street. He repaired to the Ellsworth avenue house, lit the gas heater and locked the dog in the kitchen. Entering from time to time he found that in one hour the dog became unconscious, and in four hours and forty minutes the dog was dead.

The jury added a rider to the verdict, suggesting "that there be a municipal inspection of the quality of gas provided to the public."

Irish Woman Suffrage Turned Down by Commons

LYONDON, Nov. 6.—The suffrage movement suffered a setback in the House of Commons yesterday when an ammendment providing for women suffrage, which it was desired to include in the Home Rule bill for Ireland, was defeated by 314 against 141 votes.

The suffragettes declare that they will retaliate by organizing outbreaks in Ireland.

As a protest against the rejection of the amendment, suffragettes went on a rampage in Bond and Oxford streets. They smashed many windows. Two of them were arrested.

Cannot Collect Taxes Without Royal Assent

LONDON, November, 6.—The High Court of Justice handed down a decision Monday against the Government's claim to the right to collect income tax before the Royal assent had been given to the budget.

Hitherto, by virtue of a resolution of the committee of the House of Commons, the Government has collected the tax by means of a deduction from dividends before these reached the hands of the stockholders.

The last budget was delayed until late in the year instead of being passed early, and the tax was collected before the budget had received the Royal assent.

Mr. Thomas Gibson Boyles, who was formerly in the Inland Revenue office, brought a test case by demanding the return of the tax which had been deducted from his Irish land stock.

The Government fought the case to the High Court.

The Court ordered the government to refund the tax to Mr. Bowels.

Eighteen Souls Go Down With Steamer

LA ROCHELLE, France Nov. 6.—Eighteen people were drowned yesterday by the sinking of the Spanish steamer Arana from Sfax, Tunis, after a collision with the Norwegian steamer Eva off the Island of Aix on the French coast.

Doctor In Trouble

MORDEN, Man., Nov. 6.—Dr. Erskine, of Searles, North Dakota, who was arrested charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. William McLeod of Pilot Mound was committed for trial on the above charge. The accused has made application for bail but so far this has not been granted. The accused waived all turn and stands trial of his own free will.

Whooping Cough Epidemic in London

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 6.—An epidemic of whooping cough has broken out in the public schools of the city, and about two hundred of the pupils are confined to their homes suffering from the disease.

Twice that number of children are being kept home by their parents for fear of them contracting it, and as a result the school attendance is very low.

It is reported that the medical officer of health may order some schools closed in the city, and about two hundred cases have been reported to the medical officer.

One physician is attending seven members of one family who are suffering from the disease.

OPENING OF QUEEN VICTORIA AND QUEEN ALEXANDRIA SCHOOLS

The two new public schools, Victoria and Alexandra, sittuated on Ann and Pine streets, will be formally opened tomorrow by the Hon. Dr. Pyne, of Toronto, the Provincial Minister of Education. An extensive programme has been prepared, and with fine weather there will no doubt be a large attendance of citizens at the interesting proceedings.

In the morning Queen Alexandra School will be opened. The Hon. Minister will be escorted to the school by a guard of honor, composed of the cadets of the various schools. After the raising of the flag, addresses will be given by the Minister, Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, Chairman of the school; Mr. C. M. Reid, chairman of the Board; and Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P. The addresses will be interspersed with songs by the children, and selections by the I.O.O.F. Band.

At one o'clock Hon. Dr. Pyne will be tendered luncheon at Hotel Quinte by members of the Board of Education.

In the afternoon Queen Victoria School will be formally opened, and the speakers will be the Minister of Education; Mr. J. F. Wills, K.C., chairman of the school; Mr. E. G. Porter, K.C., M.P., Mr. W. B. Northrup, K.C., M.P., and Mr. C. M. Reid, Chairman of the Board. Flag-raising will also take place at this school.

Policeman a Modern Dr. Jekyl And Mr. Hyde

MONTREAL, Nov. 6.—Alfred Beauchamp, a special constable, who guarded life and property by day and went forth to rob and plunder by night was sentenced yesterday to eight years imprisonment in the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary by Judge Bazin in the Court of Sessions.

Beauchamp was found guilty on two charges of theft, receiving four years on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently. In addition Beauchamp has been committed at the November term of the Court of King's Bench on a charge of seriously assaulting a young girl in Westmount two weeks ago.

Roberts Is Not Urging on a War

LONDON. Nov. 6.—Lord Roberts breaks the silence he has maintained since his famous Manchester speech by a vigorous letter to the Manchester Guardian today. He explains he is not much accustomed to adverse criticism in efforts to arouse the nation to a sense of its unpreparedness for war, or to resent in any way the attacks of opponents, but, nevertheless, he feels bound to anwser what he describes as a complete misconstruction by the Guardian of a salient passage in his speech.

"It is true I pointed out the striking process by which Germany developed from a voice conglomerate petty federated states to a united empire which arouses the admiration of the world today, but to suggest I was urging on England that it should be her policy first to arm herself better than Germany, and then make war on Germany with or without just cause or even quarrel, simply because England thinks herself at the moment able to win a war, is a statement so strange and so repugnant to my mind that I am utterly at a loss to understand how it could be attributed to me or elicited from my speech.

"My whole speech was directed, as are all my efforts, to impressing upon my fellow countrymen the terrible danger involved in the present situation, in which we find ourselves as a nation, untrained, unorganized and unarmed, amid a Europe in which every people—not only great powers like Russia, Germany and France, but smaller states like Bulgaria, Servia, Greece, Norway, Sweden and Denmark—stand as armed nations, providing a balance of forces which, while it strengthens each one of them physically, industrially makes for peace with honor or for the triumph of right."

Austrian Fleet Ordered to East

VIENNA, Nov. 6.—The first division of the Austro-Hungarian fleet, consisting of three battleships, one cruiser and two torpedo boat destroyers, left the naval station at Pola for the east last night. The exact destination of the warships is not known, but the commander of the division has been ordered to report to the Austro-Hungarian ambassador at Constantinople, from whom he will ascertain where the vessels can best be employed.

Banknote 500 Years Of Age

A Chinese banknote printed 500 years ago, has been placed on exhibition in the sub-treasury in Philadelphia. The note was printed from a wood block and the paper used in making the note came from the bark of a mulberry tree. Although the note was in circulation a century before the discovery of tion America, it is still in good condition.

The note was printed in the reign of Tan Tsu, who was Emperor of China from 1366 to 1396. The only change since the day it was printed is that the colors used by the printer have slightly faded.

New Legislator Shot by Nephew

ALSTEAD, N. H., Nov. 6.—Special—Frank Kidder, an insane man, shot and fatally wounded his aged aunt, Miss Mary Richardson, slightly injured his uncle, Martin L. Richardson, and committed suicide here today as neighbors were about to overpower him. Mr. Richardson was elected to the Legislature yesterday by the Democrat party. Kidder was released from an asylum some time ago, and had been living with his father, Erastus P. Kidder.

The shooting occurred while Miss Richardson and her brother were calling at the Kidder home. Frank Kidder apparently was pleased to see them, but during their conversation he suddenly drew a revolver and began firing.

Miss Richardson, who is 76 years old, was wounded in the abdomen, and is not expected to recover.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon Defeated

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Dunne, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, is generally conceded to have won Illinois yesterday by a plurality of at least 60,000. The entire Democratic state ticket was swept into office.

Two of the big surprises in the result were the defeat of former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon by O'Hair, Democrat, in the eighteenth district, and the strength of the Socialist vote. In Cook county, Cunnea, Socialist, ran ahead of the Republican candidate for State's attorney.

Two Socialists were elected to the Legislature.

It was announced early that Wm. B. McKinley, President Taft's campaign manager, had been defeated in his race to succeed himself in Congress.

A Serious Joke on The Rabbit

The U. S. Gov't has been experimenting to discover the poisonous quality of Caffeine (found in tea and coffee).

57 healthy rabbits were given an average dose of 5 1 1-0 grains.

—They all died.

See Gov't Bulletin No. 148,
Bureau of Chemistry.

A cup of coffee contains over 2 1-2 grains of Caffeine; enough in two cups to kill a rabbit.

A cup of tea contains over 1 1-2 grains—enough Caffeine in four cups to more than kill the rabbit.

Of course this joke was on the rabbits.

A goodly number of humorous Americans play the same joke on themselves and keep it up until some fixed form of disease sets in, as a result of the daily dose of Caffeine, in quantity enough to kill a rabbit, but only enough to

Cripple a Man

Not at one blow, but by little blows repeated daily.

Of course some systems are strong enough to stand all kinds of abuse, but when a man or woman observes a growing nervousness, or heart trouble, stomach, bowel or eye disturbances, it is time to quit the daily dose of coffee and see if Nature will begin to heal.

It is easy to shift from coffee to Postum. The food beverage has the deep, seal-brown color which turns to a golden brown when cream is added. The flavour has the crisp tang so winning to the palate and the cup is made instanter by one struck spoonful of the powder.

Instant Postum

stirred in a cup of hot water, ond there you are.

The change from coffee to Postum works wonders.

Grocers sell Instant Postum

Curious "Cure" Tried for Smallpox Prevention

MONTREAL, Nov. 6.—Special—A new and unheard-of cure for smallpox was discovered by Dr. Laberge, Medical Officer of Health, today. The child of a local professional man was stricken with smallpox, and fearing that the disease would infect the baby two years old, he immersed the infant in a bath heavily charged with cow manure. After thoroughly bathing and rubbing it in this preparation the father, without drying the child, wrapped it in a woollen blanket in which it remained until the following morning.

"It is a most surprising thing," commented Dr. Laberge, "to think that an educated man would be guilty of such nonsense. I do not believe that such treatment has any virtue in it, whatever. Indeed, I am quite sure that this manure in any form has never been employed in the science of medicine, and therefore is worthless." At present the mother and three children are in the smallpox hospital. The father did not take the bath.

Only a lawyer or a detective can mind his own business when he pries into other people's.

WEDDING BELLS.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place at two o'clock on Oct. 30, at the home of Mrs. Mary Deshane, O'Hara Avenue, Toronto, when her eldest daughter, Verna Blanche, was united to Matthew D. Denton of Sidney Township. The bride, who was a very popular young lady of West Toronto, was the recipient of many handsome and useful presents. After a dainty luncheon was served the happy couple were driven to the Union Station, where they left on the five o'clock train for Belleville.

A reception was held in their honor at the groom's home, concession 3, Sidney, on Thursday evening, Oct. 31. About thirty guests were present. A sumptuous supper was served and after an evening agreeably spent their many friends departed for their homes, wishing the happy couple many years of happiness and prosperity.

A pretty wedding ceremony took place at 3.30 yesterday afternoon in Bridge Street Methodist Church, when Mr. Joseph Longdon was joined in bonds of matrimony to Miss Evelyn Lilly, daughter of James Scriven. The bride, who was becomingly gowned in white silk, was given away by her father. Miss Ethel Scriven and Mr. Frank Scriven, sister and brother of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and best man respectively. After the ceremony was performed, at which Rev. H. S. Osborne officated, a wedding supper took place, at which about 40 relatives and friends were in attendance. The wedding presents were many and beautiful. After the customary routine of receiving the best wishes of their many friends for a happy and successful future, the "newly-weds" embarked on the mid-night train for Toronto, where the honeymoon will be spent.

Zam-Buk Cured His Sores

Cures Also Chapped Hands and Chilblains.

Mr. Chas. Hardy, of 338 Home Street, Winnipeg, says: "My eldest son has proved the value of Zam-Buk and we would not be without a supply in the house. He had both ears so badly frozen that we became alarmed for fear they should have to be amputated. His ears were swollen to several times their usual size, and were very much discolored. Large blisters formed, and then these burst and painful sores on both ears resulted. The sores mattered, scales formed and the boy suffered terribly.

"The preparations which we at first used were found next to useless, in fact the wounds grew steadily worse, so we then tried Zam-Buk and found a great improvement in one or two applications.

"We continued with this herbal balm until the scales and foul matter were cleared away thoroughly, and healing began. In a week from first using this excellent balm the lad's ears were almost well again. In three weeks you would never have known his ears had been frozen, so well had Zam-Buk brought about healing."

Here is but one illustration out of scores how superior Zam-Buk is to other salves. It also cures chapped hands, chilblains, piles, inflamed sores, eczema, ringworm, scalp sores, ulcers, abscesses, blood-poison, cuts, burns, scalds, and all skin injuries and diseases. On account of its purity and its herbal composition, it is the ideal balm for babies and young children.

All druggists and stores at 50c. box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Try also Zam-Buk Soap, 25c. per tablet.

Mixed Marriages Prevented

KINGSTON, Nov. 6.—Special—Two local Methodist Ministers, Revs. T. W. Neal and John Webster, today refused the request [illegible] Sam, a young Chinese laundryman, who is far above ordinary Celestials in intelligence, to marry him to a sixteen-year-old girl whose parents reside in the northern part of this city. The Chinese had secured a marriage license, having been accompanied to the issuer by the father of the girl. Rev. Mr. Webster interviewed the girl's mother, and she objected to her daughter marrying, one reason being that she was under age. The girl had been working in Sam's laundry, and is quite attached to her yellow lover.

Japan Loves China Now

TOKYO, Nov. 6.—The Japanese welcome President Yuan Shih-Kai's apparently more favorable attitude toward Japan, which is trying to preserve the status quo. They fear that that the dismemberment of China would gravely menace the existence of Japan, which possesses more interests in common with the new republic than any other country. Whatever benefits Japan generally benefits China to an equal degree, and this country could hardly enjoy prosperity without the republic as a neighbor. It is believed that a common policy for both nations will best "preserve" the peace in the Far East.

Will Not Injure Business of Country

James J. Hill and other prominent financial men were quoted yesterday as expressing the opinion that the success of Governor Wilson and the Democratic party would have no injurious effect on the business of the United States.

It was apparent from the action of the market that Mr. Wilson's election had been largely taken for granted, and that no fear of unfavorable consequences existed.

Gasoline Launch Burned

KINGSTON, Nov. 6.—Special—Captain James Smith of Kingston and Grant Pyke of Wolfe Island had to jump overboard and swim to land when their gasoline launch, Little Queen, caught fire at an early hour this morning on Rideau River, near Kingston Mills. The vessel is a total wreck. It was valued at $5,000, and is only partly insured. The fire made rapid progress, and the men came within an ace of being burned to death. Pyke was asleep when the captain, who was at the wheel, noticed the blaze. Gasoline leaking from the machine is believed to have caused the accident.

Not Much of a Diamond

JOHANNESBURG, Nov. 6.—Special—The great diamond, the largest in the world, which has just been discovered in the Premier mine, may not prove to be so valuable as at first thought. It is now officially stated that the diamond, which weighs 1,649 karats, is of inferior quality.

THE PUBLIC TO BLAME

Specialisation Not the Whole Reason for British Olympians' Poor Showing

The British Olympic Council in a preliminary report attributed the failure of the English representatives at Stockholm, in a great measure to the apathy of the British public.

The report stated that "our failure to obtain better results at Sockholm was due, first, to the failure of the general public of the United Kingdom to take the Olympic Games seriously—a failure which necessarily reacted on the enthusiasm of individual competitors—and, secondly, to the lack of adequate opportunities for training under the direction of trainers acquainted with the best scientific methods.

"To supply this lack a very large expenditure would have been necessary, and there were no funds from which this expenditure could be met. If the United Kingdom is to be adequately represented at Berlin money must be found for such an expenditure, and, if the British public is not willing to provide this money, the British Olympic Council must decline to be responsible for sending out a team.

"It was not mere 'specialisation' which enabled Sweden and the United States to do better than the British Empire. Sweden won all three places in the modern pentathlon, and obtained more points than any other nation in the whole games, by sedulously cultivating every form of physical ability possessed by her inhabitants, and her strength and capacity as a nation have been enormously increased in the process.

"She has already engaged a trainer for 1916. A greater attention to detail on the part of this country for the next four years is hardly likely to diminish those national advantages which we already enjoy, and will certainly enable us to give a better account of the athletic ability of the British Empire in Berlin than we were able to do in Sweden."

THE RAPID RISE OF CODERRE

The rapid rise of the Hon. Louis Coderre, K.C., from the position of a rank-and-file member of Parliament to that of a Cabinet Minister within thirteen months from being first elected to a constituency is a striking example of what can be achieved in Canadian public life when merit and opportunity find each other. Amongst the new French-Canadian Conservative members elected on September 21, 1911, Louis Coderre occupied a foremost position. There was no more striking success than that of Mr. Coderre in Hochelaga, in the Montreal district. Though defeated by the Liberal candidate in 1908 by 185 votes, Mr. Coderre by a straight appeal to the best traditions of the Conservative party and to Canadian patriotism defeated his opponent by 1,373 votes in 1911.

During the last session of Parliament, when so many new reputations were made in the House of Commons, Mr. Coderre devoted himself to learning parliamentary routine and becoming acquainted with the temper of the House. When occasion arose he spoke in such a manner as to command the admiration and attention of the House. His incursions into debate were few but forceful.

By his conduct in municipal politics in Montreal and in federal politics, Mr. Coderre has gained the confidence of both parties. While the Montreal Conservative press praised Mr. Coderre on his appointment, the Liberal press was no less pleased. The Montreal Witness (Liberal) says: "Mr. Coderre's advancement in the federal parliament has been most rapid indeed, and is a source of unalloyed pleasure to his many friends of both political parties in Montreal. . . . His work in the House of Commons since his election has been excellent and now with the retirement of the Hon. F. D. Monk from the portfolio of Public Works, the Hon. Louis Coderre takes a seat in the government front benches at Ottawa."

The Montreal Herald, (Liberal) says: "As to the appointment itself it is not one that will excite any personal hostility. Mr. Coderre is deservedly popular, personally, and so far as his party is concerned has earned by repeated sacrifices in its interests a strong claim upon its support."

These tributes seem to express the general sentiment of Montreal and the province of Quebec concerning the Hon. Mr. Coderre. His appointment is gratifying to both the English and French sections of his constituency, because his aim has always been l'entente cordiale between the two races in the province of Quebec. His appointment as a minister of the crown by Premier Borden put the seal of success upon the work of "Friend Louis" as he is known by both French and English.

Mr. Coderre's political career has been brief but strenuous. Although finding politics a source of constant interest ever since he graduated from the law school, it was not until June, 1908, that he became a candidate for parliamentary honors. In that month he contested Hochelaga in the general provincial election, his opponent being the Hon. Jeremie Decarie. Undismayed by his defeat, that same autumn he was the Conservative candidate in the federal election in the same constituency, in opposition to Mr. L. A. Rivet. The victor was the Liberal standard bearer, Mr. Rivet. When the contest came in September, 1911, Mr. Rivet and Mr. Coderre were opponents again. This time, however, Mr. Coderre led his former conqueror by over 1,300 votes.

Mr. Coderre is a Quebec man, having been born at St. Ours on Nov. 1, 1865. He was educated at the St. Ours Private School and at St. Hyacinthe College. In 1892, when 26 years of age, he graduated from Laval University with the degree of LL.B., although five years previously he had been made an advocate. He studied law in the office of Mr. Justice Pagnuelo, and in later years became head of the legal firm of Coderre, Fortin and Coderre.

In 1896 he was chosen as city attorney for St. Henri; in 1907 he accepted the same position for Emard. For five years, beginning in 1905, he was syndic of the Montreal Bar.

TURKEY'S CRITICAL SITUATION

With Ferdinand at the door of Constantinople, with his friends of the Balkan concert pressing hard behind him, having won victories all the way, with the realization of the age-long dream of freedom and independence and the Christian ideal of life, and with the accomplishment of the purpose which has formed the dream of successive rulers since Peter the Great—no wonder the Powers hesitate to take any overt step which might be the prelude to a more desperate situation than that with which Europe is now confronted.

Even the temporary occupation of Constantinople will be a severe shock to European diplomacy. The partition of the Turkish Empire in Europe, which might well be the demand of the victorious allies, will, should it proceed, be the supreme test of disinterested diplomacy, if such can be commanded at a moment when the European chancelleries seem governed by the most cynically avowed Machiavellian principles. Nothing is ever settled until equity finally settles it. The Turk, cornered, holds up his hands; but, under whatever settlement that may be accomplished, he will, when he finds his strength, doubtless endeavor to recover the possessions which the fortune of war now wrenches from him, for time never hurries the eastern mind; but the lovers of what is fair and worthy in individual and national life must fervently wish that the settlement of the near East question will be such as to allow of the peaceful development of interesting and hopeful populations in the most desirable portions of Europe, so long dominated by a power which expressed the negation of every decent rule and example in life.

NO PLACE LIKE HOME

A direct influence is being felt by Canada in the departure of many Bulgarians for home and the war. In Cobalt alone 500 left the construction camps recently, making in all about 3,000 who have returned from that quarter alone. At many other points in the west similar conditions prevail, the appeal of the home country being irresistable to those who had come to Canada to settle. The loyalty and national spirit, which are being so wonderfully shown by the armies of the allies were of sufficient power to draw the scattered patriots from across seas to fight their countries' battle against the Turk.

The lack of labor in Canada has for some time been a serious menace. In the harvest fields of the west, and even of the east, there were too few men to gather in the harvest. The cry for labor sounded all over agricultural Canada. And in all kinds of construction work there was the same lack. Thousands of men are constantly needed in railroad construction, without any good prospect of the need being supplied. And to lose several thousand efficient workers is a loss that must be felt. Moreover, if the Bulgarians are as successful as present conditions predict, those who have gone home will hardly return to Canada. There will be work to do in building up the new state, and in filling the places of the thousands who have fallen in the war.

Woman Suffrage Wins

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Woman suffrage is likely to become part of the organic law of four more states as one result of the presidential election, if present indications hold good when all the returns are in. Michigan, Kansas, Oregon and Arizona have voted favorably to such an amendment, though in Oregon the vote is in doubt. Wisconsin defeated it decisively.

Bulgarian Manoeuvres

VIENNA, Nov. 6.—The Reichspost's correspondent with the Bulgarian army describes the Bulgarian plans for the advance on Constantinople. The Bulgarians are advancing along three lines. Their right is on the coast of the sea of Marmora. Their center is through the town of Tchatalja and their left through Istrandia. The left wing is the most important. It comprises about 54,000 men. Advancing through Serai it has reached the heights of Istrandia and will endeavor to turn the Tchatalja line of forts. It will advance in conjunction with a smaller force moving in a southerly direction on Tcherkeskeui and Yenikevi while the center division executes the principal frontal attack against Tchatalja, seven miles to the westward.

The correspondent also says that the actual Bulgarian military headquarters have been moved to Kirk for the advance on Constantinople has fallen, the royal headquarters, which remain at Starra Zagora, will also be moved forward.

$2,000 Picture Sold For $25,000

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Special—The great profits made by art dealers from American purchasers were exposed in the testimony given to-day in the suit brought against Sir George Donaldson by Alfred G. Temple, the art expert, for commission in connection with the sale of old masters to ex-United States Senator William A. Clark for $740,000.

Judgment was given to Mr. Temple for $27,000, and the Lord Chief Justice, who tried the suit, awarded him another $3,750 as recompense for the detention of the money by Sir George Donaldson since 1909, when the last deal took place with Mr. Clark.

In the course of cross-examination Sir George Donaldson testified that he had made a big profit from Mr. Clark. He said he "had bought a picture by Turner for $30,000 and had sold it for $75,000, and he had acquired a seascape by Jan van Goyen for $2,000 and had sold it for $25,000.

Tooth Powder Tube Used by Smuggler

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 6.—While unique, the following idea is unpatented, and it may be used with the full permission of Leo Wung:

Take any of the much-advertised tooth powders which are placed on the market in small round tins, remove the cap or upper part of the tin, empty the contents, slip in all the morphine or opium it will contain. Then fill the upper part of the tin with the original contents, slip in a piece of circular cardboard to separate the powder from the drug, place the hood of tin on the tin proper and there you are.

When you open the top of the tin and shake, tooth powder comes out. But those who are "wise" remove the little hood and get the "dope."

Wung tried the trick with success until Policeman Skelly became suspicious, weighed the can and made the discovery. Wung is charged with violation of the State poison law, and is to be sentenced by Judge Shortill.

MRS. BURNETT'S MYSTERY.

The Unsolved Enigma of the Letter on Her Writing Desk.

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett told a true story which she called "The Mystery of My Life." And truly it is a mystifying occurrence.

It was some time ago, while she was living in England. One night she and a friend were spending a quiet evening by the fire, chatting and reading. Mrs. Burnett's friend, be it understood, sat throughout the event in an armchair by the fire and did not leave her place until all was over, so that, as in the case of conjurers, there could have been "no deception" on her part.

Mrs. Burnett went in the course of the evening to her desk and wrote a letter. She signed, folded, directed, sealed and stamped it and stood it up against a silver cigarette box on the center table. Then she arose to go and sit by the fire again.

Presently, wishing the letter posted, she started to take steps toward having it mailed. She looked for it on the center table, and the letter was not there. She looked all over the table in vain. She rubbed her eyes and looked again. She knew she had stood that letter up against the silver cigarette box, but it was not there. No one had entered the room; no one had left it. Her friend had sat motionless by the fire.

Mrs. Burnett said to herself: "I know—sometimes one's eyes are held. A thing may be staring one straight in the face and not be seen. It may seem to be masquerading as something else!" And she began systematically examining each object on the table separately, picking it up, naming it and setting it down again, to make sure that it was itself and not the letter.

"Is this the letter? No; this is a Dresden china bonbon dish. Is this it? No; this is a brass candlestick, this is a magnifying glass, this is an ivory paper cutter, this is a carved wooden box, this is a rose jar, this is an ash receiver, and this, finally, is a silver cigarette box, and there is nothing else on the table, and there is neither hide nor hair of a letter to be seen!"

Completely at a loss, Mrs. Burnett strolled about the room to examine other possible surfaces where the letter might have been placed had it not emphatically and unmistakably been put upon the center table against the cigarette box. She searched on the mantelpiece, on her desk, on the piano, on the bookcase—no letter. In discouragement she turned again to the center table for another hunt. There stood the letter demurely leaning against the silver cigarette box, exactly as she had placed it.

And that such things are possible and that they happen to such perfectly sane, clear eyed, level headed and reliable people is perfectly credible. Have we not all had similar experiences? And if they were not possible whence come the world old beliefs in elementals, in mischievous sprites, in elves and brownies who play pranks upon us poor, dull mortals? Explain it how we may, that is what happened to Mrs. Burnett.—New York Press.

Our Cooling Earth.

It may be said without hesitation that the polar regions are not growing warmer. The redhot cannon ball thrown into the street begins immediately to cool off, and that is exactly what is happening to the earth. It is steadily cooling off and will eventually become a dead and frozen world. That means, of course, that the polar region is constantly encroaching upon the equatorial region and that after some millions of years the cold of the arctic circle will prevail over the entire globe. What the moon is now the earth will eventually become.—New York American.

The Devilfish.

In some places the stingaree is called the "devilfish," not by reason of its appearance, but because of its armed tail, a most dreadful weapon, with which it has been known to kill men. This tail is long and thin, like a whip, and the stingaree employs a wonderful accuracy of aim when using it. In case of attack the stingaree lashes it at the enemy. It rarely misses. Inasmuch as the end of this tail is provided with a sharp "thorn" or spur, almost like the spur of a gamecock, but much longer and keener, the wound inflicted is most serious.

MAGIC OF WOODCRAFT.

Feats of Trailing the Result of Observation and Deduction.

The truth is that without a knowledge of woodcraft one would soon perish in the wilderness, and woodcraft is simply Sherlock Holmes' work applied to wild life, a matter of observation and deduction. If a man finds a lot of hair adhering to a trunk of a tree he knows it did not grow there, and he is safe in assuming that no man took the trouble to stick it there. Thus he arrives at the conclusion that some animal has been scratching itself on the tree.

But in order to tell what animal has been there he must be familiar with the hair belonging to all the inhabitants of that section. Not until then can he say that a deer, a moose, a puma or a wolf, as the case may be, rubbed its side against the tree trunk. Of course if there is snow upon the ground the tracks of the animal will aid him in identifying the creature.

Again, if the day is absolutely calm and the sun is shining and he notes that the dead leaves have been displaced and their damp sides turned uppermost or that the damp sides of the pebbles are exposed he reasons that they have recently been disturbed and concludes that some animal disturbed the leaves or pebbles.

In fact, all the apparently wonderful feats of trailing are based primarily upon a trained habit of observation.—Dan Beard in Leslie's.

LITERARY NOTES.

The story of a 1,000 mile trip after moose is told by a German hunter in the opening number of the November issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Ont. Frank Houghton contributes an amusing tale of western life, entitled "Two is Not Always Company," while the seventh article of the series, "The Culture of Black and Silver Foxes," under the heading, "Food and Feeding," appears in this issue. A trip after caribou in Newfoundland, the Seventh Summer Camp of the Alpine Club of Canada, Tenderfoot Deer Hunters in the Laurentian Mountains, A Trip to the Coast, Game Protection in British Columbia, A Wolf Hunt in Saskatchewan, and other stories and articles constitute a typically Canadian bill of fare for sportsmen and lovers of outdoor life.

FOOTBALL

Here it is midseason and only within the last ten days have the coaches and players opened their eyes to the real possibilities of the game under the rules of 1912, and there is more to come. Those who, after the first two weeks, predicted that there would be no greater scoring than under last year's rules, are beginning to waver somewhat in that opinion.

Those who said that the forward pass would not come off because the defense had it sized up, are beginning to have a worried look when the opposing team begins to throw the ball around, taking three chances, before kicking.

But there are other revelations coming. Fortunately for those who are called upon to face them there are very few teams who started with a good foundation brought over from last year or players and formations and who realized the possibilities and wide scope of play under these rules.

For if there had been really any teams starting out equipped in this way they would have cut a wide swath, indeed. The defense is getting some opportunity to adjust itself while the offense is learning how to strike. That is why some of the work on both sides seems still crude and immature.

One rather singular and yet notable thing about it is that the game seems to have evened up the work of the backfield and the line somewhat, so that everybody on a team seems to have to work up to the very top of his limit all the time, and yet the injury column seems, up to date, decidedly lessened, that is, the really incapacitating injuries. On the whole, while, of course, it is early to judge the very hardest kind of play, notably that in two or three games of middle October showed a very small proportion of men taken out for injuries.

The addition of an extra down has in some small measure decreased the number of punts, because most teams prefer to try their running games or forward pass to the limit before resorting to the kick. Naturally, they have two reasons for this, the first being that by so doing they take a gambling chance on getting the first down and having an opportunity to go out for the second first down.

Another reason is that by thus using up all their downs they retain possession of the ball and keep the opponents from trying out their attack. It is this method that is going to make it necessary for a team to have a pretty good measure of endurance, although it lessens somewhat the work of the ends and line in getting down the field under kicks. As they are obliged to do this less often their wind is saved.

The end zone has not yet been made very much of. Teams, when they approach the opponents' goal, seem for the most part to prefer to rely upon their running attack rather than take a chance by an interrupted pass of losing the ball. It has also been found that the goal posts quite materially interfere with forward passes in this region.

In one or two instances the play would have come off had the ball not struck the posts. The game is proving interesting and exciting to the spectators to a far greater extent than last season, and, as already indicated in the early part of this article, there is more to come in the shape of thus far unexpected diversity of attack.

WALTER CAMP.

RUGBY

Alerts are still taking a strong stand re their scheduled game with Torontos on Saturday. The Hamilton outfit say that Torontos will have to play on Nov. 9 or default. The Alerts have all but closed with the Tigers to play an exhibition game for the city championship of Hamilton on Nov. 16, and will not postpone Saturday's game in Toronto.

After the Ottawa game, Binkley declared that he would make an effort to get in shape for the semi-final, believing that the Argos had the championship nailed down. "I'll play, providing I'm good enough to catch a place. After bringing Clarke out, I may not make the team," remarked the Argo star.

'Twas a sad shock. And it arrived just when it was so unexpected. It must be handed to the Argos that they are a good team and that they won on their merits. A defeat may be a good thing for the Torontos, for they have failed to put up a very good brand of Rugby at home. They have reserved their good games for other cities. Perhaps this may have been the reason for their downfall—over-confidence. In the Montreal and Tiger games away from home the Ottawas were on the job all the time, while in all three home games they failed to take advantage of all sorts of chances. Perhaps the defeat will have its effect, and the Argos will receive a big surprise next Saturday.—Ottawa Journal.

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—There will be some big shifts on the Ottawa lineup when they face the Argos at Toronto. The executive were far from satisfied with the work of the team and have decided to step in and make some changes. It is hardly likely that Gerard will be back in the game, but should he turn out he will be on the back division with Williams, Robertson and McCann. Martin Kilt will very likely go back to middle wing; while Holden will either be on the substitute list or will start out in the scrimmage. Eddie Phillips and Con Kuhn in the scrimmage will be replaced by Willis and McElliott, two members of the champion Ottawa II. Q.R.F.U. team.

Locally there is a feeling of confidence that the Rough Riders will defeat the Argos at Toronto and win the championship. It is argued that the Rough Riders have reserved all their poor showing for Ottawa and that they are a better road team than a home team. On the same basis it is contended that the Argos have not made very much of a showing at home, and that they are in the same class as the Rough Riders, a better team away than they are at home. It is also figured that the Argos will suffer from over-confidence, as did the locals last Saturday.

GENERAL SPORTS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The major league baseball season of 1913 will begin on April 10. Selection of this date was announced here today as the result of an agreement between President Lynch of the National League and President Johnson of the American League, who under the national agreement are authorized to determine this starting point for the framing of major league schedules.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 6.—Airdale, 2.15 1-4, world's champion trotting yearling, was today sold by his breeder and owner, J. L. Tarlton, proprietor of the Allendale farm, near this city, to J. Howard Ford, owner of the Stony Ford farm, for the record-breaking price of $12,500.

Airdale is a full brother to Lord Allen, winner of the two-year-old Kentucky futurity, which colt cost Mr. Ford $6,500 in the fall of 1911, a price said to be the best paid for a yearling for over a decade.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 6.—Calvin Demarest, the former 18.2 billiard champion, made the highest run of his career Saturday afternoon, getting 378 in a game against Charles Heldon, the Dowagiac (Mich.) player, who at present is in second place in the 18.2 class A tournament at Mussey's. Demarest once made 399 when practising alone, but the 378 is his best against an opponent.

Demarest made nearly 300 points at one end of the table and was in serious trouble only twice. He had other runs of 57 and 117. He left on Tuesday night to compete in the world's 18.2 tournament, which will start in New York on November 11th.

George Sutton, who will compete at New York, will leave next Saturday. Yesterday afternoon he made 500 points in four innings, averaging 125.

The annual club handicap tourney of the Toronto Chess Club will begin on Friday, Nov. 15. Entries are to be made on or before Nov. 12. Entrance fee, 50 cents, payable in advance. Three prizes will be given, and the winner of the first prize will have his name engraved on the Saunders shield.

Every member of the club is eligible to enter, and only one game a week need be played by each contestant. Give entries to G. K. Powell, R. G. Hunter or P. J. Greayer, the committee in charge.

The club will hold a social evening of progressive chess at odds on Friday, Nov. 8, 1912, in the club rooms, at eight o'clock. Players will be classified and liberal handicaps given. Moves will be made at intervals of ten seconds, as in the rapid transit tournament held on Tuesday evening. Three prizes will be given.

GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM NEWS ITEMS

An official circular has been issued by Mr. J. Markey, Master Mechanic of the Grand Trunk, Middle and Southern Divisions, approved by Mr. W. D. Robb, Superintendent of Motive Power under date of Nov. 1st., announcing the appointment of Mr. G. M. Wilson as General Foreman at the Company's Toronto shops, vice Mr. W. C. Sealy, who has been promoted.

A record run was recently made from Sherbrooke to Quebec by a Grand Trunk special train with an operatic company on board. The distance between the two cities was covered in exactly three hours, and the actual running time was 2 hours and 40 minutes, a record that will probably not be equalled for some time.

Travellers passing through the Grand Trunk's new central station at Ottawa have lately been interested to note the presence in the building of a flock of sparrows who have made their nests high up among the lofty pillars. These birds are without any fear and hop in and out among the passengers freely, sometimes even making a raid on the dining room where substantial pickings are to be found. Sparrows perform a useful work in cleaning up the flys and other insects and it is understood that no efforts will be made to dislodge them from the station at Ottawa.

Church Lads' Brigade

The Duke of Connaught has become patron of the Canadian Lodge of the "C.L.B.—Old Comrades"—an association for drawing old Church Lad's Brigade members, of which there are 250,000, together in different parts of the Empire, so that they shall find a welcome wherever they may be.

HOW CANADA GOT THE GAME OF POLO

Played in Persia Centuries Ago, It Travelled to England via India Then Crossed Atlantic

Polo is a game of great antiquity. It was played in Persia a thousand years ago. Golf, hockey, football and croquet are variations of the same game. It is quite generally believed that the Indian home of polo is in the country of the Munnipoories, up in the northeast corner of India, on the border of Burmah. There the children commence practising the game on foot and on horseback at a very early age, and the name they give to it is Kan-jai-bazee. Major-General Sherer, the veteran Indian player, took his team up into that country in 1885, after a series of victories in Calcutta, and according to his own accounts his men were simply nowhere—his team never winning a single game. Their strong point was in striking the ball and using the stick, for they were not superior to the English in riding.

The game was introduced into England in 1870, and at first was known as hockey on horse-back. It quickly became fashionable and as the Marylebone C. C. is the principal authority for cricket, Hurlingham became the head centre of polo. While the Hurlingham and Ranelagh clubs are the leading organizations, the game finds favor at Oxford, Cambridge, Rugby and other centres of light and learning. Six years after its appearance in England, polo was introduced into America, James Gordon Bennett being the sponsor. Half a dozen years further on, or sometime in the early eighties, two teams of the Buffalo club, which had been recently organized but had sprung into sudden fame, gave an exhibition match in Toronto.

During the latter part of last century and the early part of this the game made great progress in the Northwest, both the ponies and the prairie land of that section of the country especially lending themselves to its cultivation. In the Northwest there are some thirty clubs and four or five hundred players.

Unfortunately the game is a very expensive one, requiring each player to have from four to six ponies of his own or at his disposal. The best ponies come from the Northwest, but there are so many different sorts of ponies used in the game that it is difficult to lay down any fixed rule as to the best, but the accepted type is a "miniature thoroughbred weight-carrying hunter."

The selection of sticks is an important item, the length varies according to the fancy of a player, but the usual length is from four feet two inches to four feet ten, the end or head being somewhat in the shape of the mallet used in croquet only wider and hardly so full. As a matter of fact the polo stick may be described as a cross between a golf club and a croquet, the handle being of one and the head of the other.

The regulation size of a polo ball is 3 inches in diameter. All sorts of inventions have been tried, but nothing beats the willow or elder. The drawback of the willow balls is their liability to break or chip. They are always painted white.

Four players generally constitute a team, although in India sometimes the number is increased to five.

CHANGES AT OTTAWA

Fire Alarm Installed in Parliament Buildings

Hereafter the House of Commons at Ottawa will have its own fire alarm. In all the years that are gone there has been no fire alarm. There have been little extinguishers stationed here and there, and at intervals the member traversing the corridors has come upon lengths of sinuous rubber hose coiled in snake-like piles.

The new alarm will ring in the lobby not far from the main entrance, and is connected with a dozen different points throughout the building, being also connected with the city fire department.

The old Commons chamber has also undergone a change. It is still the Green Chamber, but not so light a green. The ancient panels with the somewhat startling borders in black and gold were removed, and the walls tinted instead. Moreover, there has been some artistic padding done in the region of the ceiling to improve the acoustics.

MISLAID ART TREASURES

Queen Mary Hunting Out and Classifying Those of Windsor Castle

Although King Edward and Queen Alexandra did much toward re-establishing many valuable treasures of art which lay "buried" in various unused rooms at Windsor Castle, there is still much to be done, and Queen Mary is undertaking the task of overhauling and classifying the vast accumulation. She has discovered, among other things, a superb collection of miniatures of the leading beauties of the early and middle part of last century a number of which defied identification until her aunt, the Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, came to her aid with her inimitable knowledge of the women of that time. The hidden treasures at Windsor, when recovered, will form a magnificent addition to the nation's collection of art.

The South Sea Islands Controlled By a Woman

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The establishment of a French naval station at Paueeto, Tahiti, and the pending exploitation of this particularly rich group of South Sea Islands by French capitalists are due entirely to the enterprise of a woman—Princess Pomera, a descendant of the ancient ruling family of the islands.

Convinced of the commercial possibilities of her country, the princess four years ago visited Paris and laid her plans before the government. As a result engineers made a favorable report, the harbors have been dredged, cocoanut plantations started on a large scale and other resources so organized that latest reports from officials on the ground estimate that the commercial value of Tahiti has already doubled.

New Triple Alliance May Be Arranged

ROME, Nov. 6.—In an interview with Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the imperial Chancellor, and Herr Von Kiderlen-Wachter, in Berlin yesterday, the Marchese Di San Giulano is reported to have specified the conditions in which Italy is prepared to renew the Triple Alliance and the concessions she is prepared to make in exchange.

Nothing definite, however, will be done during the Foreign Minister's sojourn in Berlin.

Austria-Hungary desires to see what attitude Italy will adopt in the settlement of the Balkan war. A Balkan Confederation may soon be an accomplished fact, and this may make it necessary, or, at least, make it wise, to consider a new grouping of the powers in the interests of European equilibrium.

No alliance would be more popular in Italy than a Triple Alliance of Russia, Italy and the Balkan Confederation.

French Guns Are Superior to Krupp

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Captain Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett, special correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, who was Mr. Martin Donohoe's companion with the Turkish army, praises the fortitude and bravery of the Ottoman soldiers who, without ammunition or food supplies, died by thousands on the battlefields of Thrace. He was impressed by the better organization and more effective artillery of the Bulgarians. He says:—

"Throughout the campaign the French Creusot gun proved its immense superiority over the Krupp in a manner which amazed the Turkish artillery officers, but how far this was due to the weapon and to its superior handling, it is premature to say.

"Even the heroic efforts of Mahmoud of Moukhtar Pasha's hitherto unbeaten infantry could not drive back the enemy who fought with unparalleled determination and ferocity, absolutely throwing away their lives like the Japanese.

Coal Mine Caught Actors

CHICAGO, Nov 6.—Histrionic talent does not contribute to the successful operation of a coal mine, according to a suit filled Monday against Dr. Jay F. Pitts of Chicago, by Mrs Richard Harding Davis, who was Bessie McCoy, an actress, before her marriage.

Mrs. Davis asserts that Dr. Pitts sold her $3,000 worth of stock in the Bessemer Block Coal Company, an Indiana corporation, asserting that the company was in a flourishing condition. She says Victor Moore and De Wolf Hopper are investors with her in the company, but this did not prevent the company from suspending operations.

Mrs. Davis bases her suit on a written agreement from Dr. Pitts, in which she says he promises to stand personally good for any losses in the Bessemer Block Coal Company."

De Wolf Hopper, it is said, furnished $1,000 to meet the last payroll of the company before it suspended operations.

Snakes Attack Woman

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 6.—Word has been received here of a remarkable escape of Miss Ida Campsall, a well-known Kingston girl, from becoming the victim of two blue adders on her father's fruit farm at Penticton, B. C.

The girl was standing beneath a tree when the two snakes of an extremely poisonous type lowered themselves from a branch and were in the act of striking her when her father, Isaac Campsall, drew his revolver and shot the reptiles dead. Each measured five feet in length.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

BULGARIANS RUSH ON

They Are Giving the Turks No Time to Recover.

To-day or To-morrow Will See Main Attack Made on the Ottoman Lines at Tchatalja — Turkish Court Is Ready to Move Over Into Asia, Having Given Up Hope of Checking the Allies.

London, Nov. 7.—Bulgaria is giving the broken Turkish army no time to recuperate. In accordance with the tactics adopted throughout the war, the Bulgarians are following up the defeated Turks with extraordinary energy. Flying columns are pushing along the sea coast towards the Tchatalja lines, and it is believed that the main attack will be delivered to-day or to-morrow.

Constantinople appears to have lost hope of stemming the victorious advance even at Tchatalja, and the Turkish court is ready to cross into Asia. Apparently, however, the Bulgarian Government has no aspirations on Constantinople itself, and would be ready to conclude peace provided Turkey will agree to surrender Adrianople and some other positions in the western theatre of war and give a guarantee to bring no more reinforcements from Asia.

The Porte shows no disposition as yet to treat for peace direct with the allies and until the big Tchatalja battle has been fought, the diplomatic situation is not likely to be changed. What will happen then it is impossible to foresee, the only thing certain being that the European concert, which is not too harmonious, will be faced by the most difficult and thorny task of settling the rival claims of the many aspirants for Turkish territory.

Albania forms the crux of the position. It is stated that an attempt by Servia to encroach on Albania will be regarded by Austria as a casus belli. On the other hand Servia declares that a port on the Adriatic is a matter of life and death for her, and she fails to see why her presence there should be detrimental to the interests of any other power. Further, Servia argues that she would only be regaining possession of what belonged to her before the downfall of the Servian Empire, when Adriatic seaports were flourishing Servian towns. Nothing yet is known of Roumania's position in the new deal. The British Minister at Bucharest had a three hours' conference with the Russian Minister yesterday on the subject.

The fall of Monastir is not confirmed, but is considered not improbable. The Greeks are crossing the Vardar river, and the fall of Saloniki is reported imminent.

To Prosecute War.

Constantinople, Nov. 7.—It is reported that the Cabinet has decided to prosecute the war after making a change in a number of important commands in the eastern army. Gen. Mahmout Mukhtar, who has arrived from army headquarters yesterday, told Kiamil Pasha, the grand vizier, that the Porte's demand for mediation had produced the worst possible effect in the army.

Heavy Turkish Losses.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 7.—The Turkish losses in killed and wounded during the five days' fighting in the vicinity of Lule Burgas and Bunarhissar are estimated at 25,000 men. The Bulgarian troops captured 37 batteries of quick-firing guns and took 2,000 prisoners. They also seized four locomotives and 243 railroad cars.

Regular communication has been restored between Lule Burgas and Kirk-Kilisseh by the railroad.

The Bulgarian army in Macedonia is advancing rapidly down the valley of the Struma. The troops have occupied the Rupel Pass and are continuing their march upon the town of Serres.

Saloniki May Surrender.

Athens, Nov. 7.—A Greek naval squadron yesterday occupied the Turkish island and Tenedos near the entrance to the Dardanelles. The Greek army operating in the vicinity of Saloniki has almost accomplished its object as the investment of the fortress is nearly complete.

Negotiations for the surrender of Saloniki were opened on Friday last between the foreign consuls and the military authorities, but the Turkish commander demanded that his troops be allowed to march out with their arms and with all the honors of war, so that negotiations fell through. The civil governor is said to have committed suicide.

The Greek newspapers in discussing the proposed armistice say it can only be accepted on condition that the Turkish throne be transferred to Asia Minor and that reforms for the benefit of the Christian population there must also be introduced.

King Nicholas Is Pacific.

Vienna, Nov. 7.—King Nicholas of Montenegro discussed the intentions of the Balkan allies yesterday in the course of an interview with a correspondent of The Vienna Tagblatt. His Majesty said:

"While the Balkan nations will settle their affairs for themselves, their victories have not made them so daring as to forget to accommodate their wishes to the general situation in Europe."

Servians Are Brave.

Uskup, Turkey, Nov. 7.—The Turkish army defeated by the Servians at Kumanova and Kuprili, took up positions in the mountainous districts between Kuprili and Perlepe, where the roads are practically impassable.

As the Servian artillery was unable to follow them, the infantry was ordered to advance, and in spite of a murderous artillery fire from the Turks took position after position. The last ones were carried at the point of the bayonet.

The Servian troops have occupied Demerkapu Pass to the southeast of Istip, where they found the big railway bridge intact. The Montenegrin and Servian armies have joined hands at Ipek.

Dumfounded by Defeats.

Constantinople, Nov. 7.—The public is astonished and dumfounded at the repeated Turkish reverses. It is now recognized on all sides that the end has come.

The Mussulman population of the towns along the Dardanelles, although depressed, maintains calm. Some anti-Greek incidents of small importance are reported to have occurred in the outlying villages.

NOT URGING A WAR.

Roberts Says He Is Just Pointing Out a Danger.

London, Nov. 7.—Lord Roberts breaks the silence he has maintained since his famous Manchester speech by a vigorous letter to The Manchester Guardian yesterday. He explains he is not much accustomed to adverse criticism in efforts to arouse the nation to a sense of its unpreparedness for war, or to resent in any way the attacks of opponents, but, nevertheless, he feels bound to answer what he describes as a complete misconstruction by The Guardian of a salient passage in his speech.

"It is true I pointed out the striking process by which Germany developed from a voice conglomerate petty federated states to a united empire which arouses the admiration of the world to-day, but to suggest I was urging upon England that it should be her policy first to arm herself better than Germany, and then make war on Germany with or without just cause or even quarrel, simply because England thinks herself at that moment able to win a war, is a suggestion so strange and so repugnant to my mind that I am utterly at a loss to understand how it could be attributed to me or elicited from my speech.

"My whole speech was directed, as are all my efforts, to impressing upon my fellow countrymen the terrible danger involved in the present situation, in which we find ourselves as a nation, untrained, unorganized and unarmed, amid a Europe in which every people—not only great powers like Russia, Germany and France, but smaller states like Bulgaria, Servia, Greece, Norway, Sweden and Denmark—stand as armed nations, providing a balance of forces which, while it strengthens each one of them physically, industrially makes for peace with honor or for the triumph of right."

A fine exhibit of Niagara fruit is being sent to the London office of the Canadian Exhibition Commission to aid immigration.

One amendment only to the home rule bill in the British Commons was discussed yesterday, 53 others being guillotined amidst cries and uproar.

At yesterday's Cabinet meeting the appointment of a chief warden for Kingston Penitentiary was discussed, but nothing definite has yet been decided.

Captain James Smith and Grant Pyke had to jump overboard to save their lives when their gasoline steamer, Little Queen, caught fire near Kingston Mills, on the Rideau river, yesterday.

Their Precious Postage Stamps.

A few years ago a small procession of French troopers triumphantly escorted a sergeant carrying two postage stamps. The story of the latter is interesting. The sergeant, belonging to the French contingent of the troops of occupation, arrived in Crete with a young Creole wife, whom he had married while he was serving in a French colony. She brought him no dower in money, but a handsome marriage portion all the same, consisting of two postage stamps. These are rare specimens of Mauritian issues, and have been estimated by experts as worth £1,000.

The sergeant was told that their value would increase, and instead of selling them he had them framed and placed his treasure in a Cretan bank. As the time was approaching for the departure of the troops of occupation he went to the bank with his wife to withdraw his deposit, and his comrades formed a procession to escort the couple carrying home their fortune in two postage stamps.

In politics, by jing.

STRIKE FAILS.

Toronto C.P.R. Men Change Their Minds About Going Out.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—In spite of the fact that practically a unanimous vote in favor of a strike was passed by the local members of the Brotherhood of Railway Employes on Tuesday night, the men held another meeting yesterday morning at 9.30, and as a result the clerks, with the exception of two, who were strong enough to stand by their decision of the night previous, went back to their work.

Before ten o'clock District Superintendent Coulter brought a small army of men over from the Union Station offices and had them ready to go to work the minute the men walked out. It seems that this fact alone prompted the men to reverse their decision.

Places Filled, Say Officials.

Montreal, Nov. 7.—Windsor street station reports last night that the C.P.R. is not further considering the Brotherhood strike; that at the isolated places where a few hands had gone out all had returned where their places had not been permanently filled.

According to C.P.R. reports, merely a few hundred vacancies exist on the entire system. The 3,000 claimed to have been called out never even reached one-third of that number, it is claimed, and of these many were of that class whose absence from work would not interfere with traffic.

Province Had Good Year.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—The revenue for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, in two departments of the Ontario Government, was announced yesterday. Succession duties, which were estimated in Hon. A. G. Matheson's last budget as $700,000, realized but little over half that amount, the official figures being $373,881. A year ago the succession duties totaled over a million dollars.

The Department of Lands, Forests and Mines, for which an estimate of $2,600,000 was given, have exceeded that amount, the returns from lands and timber being $2,843,695, and from the mines $645,676.

It was also announced yesterday that the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission has paid over to the Government $184,707, being the interest on the money advanced for the construction of the transmission line.

Cadets In New Zealand.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—The following messages were exchanged yesterday between His Royal Highness the Governor-General and the governor of New Zealand:

"Governor-General, Ottawa: It will be gratifying to Your Royal Highness to know that I have to-day received Canadian cadets at Government House. They are being enthusiastically welcomed throughout New Zealand and are impressing all with their soldierly appearance.—Islington."

"Governor of New Zealand, Wellington: Very grateful for kind message received. Glad to know that Canadian cadets made good impression.—Connaught."

Woodstock Ex-Mayor Dead.

Woodstock, Ont., Nov. 7.—The death took place at Woodstock Hospital yesterday morning of ex-Mayor R. G. Sawtell. He was in the City Council for some years and occupied the mayor's chair several terms, was secretary of the agricultural society and chairman of the parks committee. Death was due to pneumonia, following an attack of typhoid. He was about 55 years of age, and leaves a widow and two sons, one of whom, Guy, is employed at the city hall in Toronto.

Will Operate Transcontinental.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—The Transcontinental Railway commissioner has decided in the public interest to operate the completed line of the National Transcontinental Railway in New Brunswick temporarily, or until such time as the G.T.P. has applied for, and been granted a lease of this section of the line, under the terms of the National Transcontinental Railway Act.

ELECTION AFTERMATH

Popular Vote and Senatorial Prospects Cause Talk.

Wilson Is Secure In the Presidency and Whole Interest Now Centres In the Results In State Legislatures—Taft Will Only Muster 12 Votes In College—Suffrage Carries In Four States Out of Five.

New York, Nov. 7.—Only the uncertainty of a few close states, whose electoral vote in no way can affect the election of Wilson and Marshall, speculation over the popular vote of the three Presidential candidates and the complexion of Legislatures that will name United States Senators, held interest last night in the final returns of the general election.

The total of the Republican electoral column apparently was fixed at the 12 votes of Idaho, Utah and Vermont, but the footing of the Wilson and Roosevelt columns flickered alternately during the afternoon and night as late returns from Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wyoming gave indications of change from the results accepted Tuesday's night.

On the basis of the latest returns early in the evening, with the vote of Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wyoming placed in the "doubtful" column, President-elect Wilson had 387 certain votes in the electoral college; Col. Roosevelt 89, and President Taft 12. All of the doubtful states, except South Dakota, gave more or less certain indications during the night of landing in the list of Wilson electors; while South Dakota's returns showed a general trend toward a Roosevelt plurality.

A by-phrase of the general election that became known yesterday was the success of woman's suffrage in four of the five states where constitutional amendments were submitted to the people. The victory of the women was complete in Kansas, Arizona, and Michigan, while late returns from Oregon indicated they had succeeded there also. From Wisconsin came returns showing the decisive defeat of the equal suffrage proposal.

Estimates of the popular vote polled by Governor Wilson ranged through many millions during the day. It was found impossible to compute with any accuracy the popular vote of any of the Presidential candidates; and it will be a number of days until the counting of the three-cornered contest in the different states is concluded and an accurate tabulation of the popular vote made possible.

Assertions were made yesterday from several quarters where no effort had been made to gather preliminary popular vote figures, that Governor Wilson had not secured a majority of the votes cast throughout the country. Estimates ranged from a small majority of all votes, to figures nearly 1,000,000 below a majority. The popular votes, however, would in no way affect his election, or his complete control of the electoral college, should it show his total to be less than that of the combined vote for Roosevelt and Taft.

The New York Press, commenting on the election says: "Theodore Roosevelt emerges from a brilliantly fought battle with honors rarely the portion of a losing leader. While the voters have rejected him as President, they have commissioned him as the leader of the party in opposition. The Republican party, which deserved destruction, has been abolished. In place of the departed Republican party the anti-Democratic voters have erected a new and animate organization. The Progressive party is no longer a name, but an American Governmental institution that will long endure."

Assures Business Men.

Princeton, N.J., Nov. 7.—President-elect Woodrow Wilson sent replies yesterday to the congratulatory telegrams of President Taft and Col. Roosevelt and issued a statement in which he declared that "there is absolutely nothing for the honest and enlightened business men of the country to fear" from the Democratic administration.

To President Taft at Washington he sent the following telegram: "I warmly appreciate your kind message and wish to express my sincere personal regards."

Mr. Wilson sent to Roosevelt at Oyster Bay the following telegram: "My sincerest thanks for your kind message. Pray accept my cordial good wishes."

Governor Wilson made the following statement in the afternoon: "The result fills me with the hope that the thoughtful Progressive forces of the nation may now at last unite to give the country freedom of enterprise and a Government released from all corporate and private influences, devoted to justice and progress. There is absolutely nothing for the honest and enlightened business men of the country to fear.

"No man whose business is conducted without violation of the rights of free competition and without such private understanding and secret alliances as violate the principle of our law and the policy of all wholesome commerce and enterprise need fear either interference or embarrassment from the administration."

Fears Fostering Militarism.

London, Ont., Nov. 7.—Rev. J. G. Inkster, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and a member of the Board of Education, is opposed to the Strathcona grant, on the ground of its possible promotion of a spirit of militarism. He has registered his protest to the board, which has appointed a committee to investigate before suggesting that teachers take qualifying courses.

Suspicion.

Suspicion is a heavy armor, and with its own weight impedes more than it protects.

Venezuela Tobacco.

Venezuela is such a fine country for tobacco that the weed grows wild and makes pretty fair smoking.

GANG ROUNDED UP.

Police Think They Have Authors of Recent Robberies.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—With the arrests of George and Lillian White, both colored, at 125 Duchess street, about 4.15 yesterday afternoon, the city detectives believe they have rounded up the principal members of a gang of thieves, robbers, safe blowers and "dope" fiends who have become notorious throughout the country for their depredations. The other men in custody are Mike Lafferty, alias James Smith, George Gayden, William Turner, William McMahon and Mike Tearney.

When Detectives Taylor, Murray and Young called at the Duchess street house they found White in bed with Harry Whitesides, aged about 22, a young lad from the east end of the city. Both were smoking opium.

A complete opium outfit, with the lamp, pipe, trays, etc., and about $10 of the drug were seized by the police, who placed the two men and the woman under arrest on charges of vagrancy. When he appears in the police court the crown will likely prosecute White for running an opium joint, and the others as frequenters.

All the men arrested showed the marks of the hypodermic syringe on their arms.

Under examination the prisoners betrayed themselves sufficiently to give the detectives their cue, and the raid of the Duchess street house resulted.

Sergeant of Detectives Mackie believes that they are the gang who have been operating throughout the small towns and villages blowing safes, robbing postoffices and small country places in general.

Three Men Hurt, One Badly.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—While at work on some scaffolding above the tracks at Dowling avenue, Parkdale, yesterday afternoon, three of the workmen fell through to the tracks below and one of them is so seriously injured that he may die.

The men are Peter Miller, aged 24, living at 23 Pape avenue; W. Eakins, whose home is in Barre, and B. Zant, of Teraulay street.

Miller is the most seriously hurt, his head being badly injured, and it is thought he is internally injured.

Eakins broke his right leg and Zant was slightly cut and bruised. The police ambulance was called and took the men to Grace Hospital. The doctors cannot say yet whether Miller will recover.

How the accident happened is not known, but in some way the scaffold collapsed and threw the men to the tracks several feet below.

Women Barred.

The Asiatic town of Maiwatchi, on the borders of Russia, is peopled by men only. Women are forbidden entrance there.

The Theater of Dionysus.

What was probably one of the earliest theaters built was the theater of Dionysus, which was begun five centuries before Christ. The seating capacity of this remarkable building is said to have been 30,000. The theater of Dionysus was erected when Greek art and literature were in their prime. Here were presented to appreciative spectators the wonderful works of Aeschylus, Sophocles and Euripides.

Vegetables.

When wishing to keep vegetables—such as greens, lettuce, parsley, etc.—until the following day place, with the roots or where they have been cut, in a vessel containing water, exactly as you would a bunch of cut flowers, and they will be as fresh as if newly cut.

COMMUNICATIONS.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—The Board of Education are hoping that the public will take advantage of the formal opening of the two new schools on Ann and Pine streets on Friday of this week by being present and inspecting the buildings, and seeing the school in operation. The Queen Alexandra School on Ann Street will be open for inspection from 9 to 10.30 a.m., and the Queen Victoria School on Pine Street from 1 to 2.30 p.m., during which hours the school will be in session and visitors can see the school in operation. After these hours the formal programmes will be carried out at each school. The Honorable Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education for the Province of Ontario will be present to inspect the schools.

The Board have been investing the people's money ,and they would be gratified if the citizens would personally visit the school and see what a splendid asset they have in these two new educational institutions.

Germans Giving Up The Pipe

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—Perhaps nowhere on the Continent of Europe is there a people who are changing so rapidly as are the Germans. Berlin bids fair to rival Paris itself as an amusement centre.

But in nothing has German life changed so much of late years as in the matter of smoking. Some fifty years ago an English traveler in Germany remarked that smoking appeared to be one of the principal occupations of the population, and any stranger entering the country cannot help being struck by the important part that the cigar plays in the daily life of the community.

In the country the pipe still lives on ,and the pot bowelled, long shanked pipe with curled mouthpiece and tassels is part of every Bavarian peasant's costume. During the last few years, however, the pipe and the cigar have found a formidable rival in the cigarette.

The official statistics show that the consumption has increased by almost 100 per cent. in the last four years, although even then the consumption was seven times greater than ten years previously.

A year ago the total number of cigarettes smoked in the course of the twelve months amounted to little short of 10,000,000,000, and the total outlay on them is given a about $60,000,000 a year.

CHAPTER I

A West Coast Welcome

"Mighty beach to-day!" grumbled Captain Image, and handed binoculars across to the purser.

Mr. Balgarnie tossed his cigarette over the lee rail and tucked a sheaf of papers into his mouth so as to have two spare hands. Day had ten minutes before glared up over an oily swell-writhing sea of bottle-green; dew lay in flat greasy gouts on the deck planks and the skylight frames, foretelling in clear prophecy another spell of scalding West African sunshine; and a mile out from the crashing, bellowing surf that smoked along the beach, the S. S. M'poso buttocked sullenly over the swells, with engines rung off, and sweating firemen on the top of the fiddley, slewing ventilators to catch a flavor of the breeze.

"They've seen us, sir, at the factory," said Mr. Balgarnie. "All the boys are out working cargo, and there's old Swizzle-Stick Smith sucking his eternal pipe and hustling them with a chiquot. I can catch the glint of his eyeglass. Wonder how long that man's been out on the Coast? Must be a matter of twenty years now by all accounts since he had his last run home. He's found the right kind of ju-ju to dodge fever-palaver, anyhow. They say he's a lazy old beach-comber as a general thing, but he's up bright and early this morning."

'Wouldn't you rouse out in a hurry if you only saw a Christian steamboat once in three months at the oftenest? I told the second mate to make fast the whistle string to the bridge rail when he judged he was five miles off the old sinner's beach, and I guess Swizzle-Stick Smith jumped slap through his mosquito bar at the first toot. See those pyjamas he's wearing? He bought them at the forecastle shop aboard here just six months ago."

"Blue, with pink stripe, so they are. This is a rare good glass of yours, sir. Yes, I remember Chips telling. Three pairs he got at nine bob a pair. Wouldn't pay a sixpence more. And tried to get a bottle of Eno thrown in as a makeweight. Phew! but this day's going to be a ringtailed scorcher. Look at the mist clearing away from those hills at the back already."

Captain Image stufed a pipe and lit it. "It's a murdering bad beach to-day,"' he repeated. "Always is when there's a few tons of cargo waiting for me to get commission on."

The purser touched no cargo commission, and so had but small sympathy for cargo gathering. "I see old Swizzle-Stick's making his boys run down the oil casks into the surf. They'll never swim them through. Rather a pity, isn't it, sir, to stay on here and let them try? They're bound to get half of them stove at the very least."

"That's his palaver. I missed calling here last round. There was a swell like a cliff that day; but then there always is a bad beach along this run of the Coast; and so he should have double lot of cargo ready for me. There'll be oil and there'll be rubber, and I shouldn't wonder but what he's a few bags of kernel as well. I bet that factory on the beach there is just bulging with cargo. It ought to tally up to quite fifty tons and I'm not going to have some other captain snapping up old Swizle-Stick Smith's trade if I know it. Balgarnie, my lad, I'd the straight tip given me from O'Neil and Craven's in Liverpool when I was home. If we don't make it handy to call at their factories along the Coast, the Hamburg boats will. They've shipped a new director or something at O'Neill and Craven's—K. O'Neill he signs himself—and that man intends to make things hum."

"My Whiskers!" said the Purser. "I clean forgot. We've a new clerk for O'Neill and Craven's here at Malla-Nulla. It's that red-haired young chap, Carter, in the second class."

"Last three red-haired passengers I knew all pegged out with three months of being put ashore. Color of the hair seems to counteract the effect of drugs. Purser, I'll bet you just two cocktails Carter's planted before we're here again next trip."

"It's on," said Mr. Balgarnie, "and I shall remember it. The young chaps made me a picture frame for my room as good as you could buy in a shop, and he's built the Doc. some barbed arrows just like those Kasai ones the old chief brought along form the Congo when he was on the Antwerp run. He's a handy young fellow."

"That doesn't get over the red hair, Purser. You'll lose that cocktail. Bet you another cocktail, if you like, he gets spilt in the surf geting ashore."

Mr. Balgarnie winked pleasantly. "Then we'll consider that last one lost already." He put his head inside the chart-house and called out the captain's Krooboy Steward—"Brass-Pan?"

"Yessar."

"We fit for two cocktails."

"Savvy."

"You lib for my room, you fetch dem gin-bottle, an' give him to bar steward."

"Savvy."

'Well, what are you waiting for? Get along, you bush-man, one-time . . . That's a poor boy I'm afraid you've got, Captain."

"Pipe-clays shoes very neatly," said Captain Image. "Oh, you've brought those papers for me to sign. Wel, come into the chart-house, Purser, and we'll get them through. Hope that fool of a boy will bring the cocktails quick. These early morning chills are dangerous unless you take the proper preventives."

Meanwhile the brazen day had grown, and work proceeded at a forced speed both on the steamer and on the beach. Ashore, the lonely factory bustled with evil-scented negroes, who strained at huge white ended palm oil puncheons. On the M'poso a crew of chattering Krooboys busied themselves aft, and presently under the guidance of a profane third mate a brace of surf-boats jerked down towards the water, the tackles squealing like a parcel of angry cats as they rendered through the blocks. The boats spurned away into the clear sea before the steamer's rusty iron side crashed down onto them: the Krooboys perched themselves ape-like on the gunwales paddle in hand; and in the stern of each straddled a noisy headman, in billy-cock and trousers, straining and swaying at the steering car.

The headman was in charge, and the well-spiced official English of ship-board ceased. The speech in the boats was one of the barbaric tongues of savage Africa. But the work they got through and the skill they showed exceeded by far that which could have been put forth by any crew of white men. Indeed, in his more pious moments, Captain Image, in common with other mariners of his kind, firmly believed that God had invented certain of the West African Coast tribes for the sole purpose of handling the boats of the Liverpool oil tanks on surf-smitten beaches.

Now, Captain Image was not in the least degree a snob, and he did not take even first-class passengers on their face value. As he would explain to intimates, he was not out on the Coast for his health; he very much wished to be able some day to retire on a competency, and grow cabbages outside of Cardiff; and so he dispensed his affability on a nicely regulated scale. If a man could influence cargo in the direction of the M'poso, Captain Image was ready at all times to extend to him the rough red hand of friendship and to supply gin cocktails and German champagne till conversation flowed into the desired commercial channel. He called this casting bread upon the waters, and could always rely on getting the prime cost back in commission. But he was no man to waste either his good liquor or his pearls of speech on a mere fifty-pound-a-year clerk, with a red head, who would very possibly be dead before the M'poso's next call, and who certainly could influence no cargo for the next two years to come. So from the day they left Liverpool to the day when the steamer's forefoot scraped at her cable off Malla-Nulla beach, Captain Image had not condescended to offer that particular second-class passenger so much as a morning nod.

But Captain Image was kindly enough in the West African way, and when he had drunk his morning cocktail and gone through the Purser's papers, he came out of the charte-house again and produced from his pyjama pocket a half-filled box of pills.

"There, my lad," he said to Carter, as he made the presentation, "you take one of those according to the directions on the lid, when required, and you'll have your health kept in a repair that will surprise you. Now, mark me well; you'll be tempted with other brands of pills; old Swiz—I mean Mr. Smith, your boss, is a regular crank on drugs; but as sure as you tip other medicines down into your inside, my pills will get hindered at their proper work, and you'll be knocked over?"

'Thanks,' said Carter. "But I always understood——"

His Weapon.

"Pa," said little Tommy Binks one day, "what's a weapon?"

"A weapon, my son," Binks answered, "is something to fight with."

"Then, pa," said little Tommy, "is ma your weapon?"

CURED OF THIS HORRIBLE DISEASE

Edmonton Girl saved By "Fruit-a-tives"

EDMONTON, ALTA., Nov. 20th 1912.

"I had been a sufferer from babyhood with that terrible complaint, Constipation.

I have been treated by physicians and have taken every medicine that I heard of, but without the slightest benefit. I concluded that there was no cure for this horrible disease.

Finally, I read of "Fruit-a-tives" and decided to try them, and the effect was marvellous.

The first box gave me great relief, and after I used a few boxes, I found that I was entirely well.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine that ever did me any good for Chronic Constipation and I want to say to all who suffer as I did—Try "Fruit-a-tives"—why suffer any longer when there is a perfect cure in this great fruit medicine"

(Miss) E. A. GOODALL.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only remedy in the world made of fruit and the only one that will completely and absolutely cure Constipation.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Lower, Chicago Higher—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Altho wheat prices today touched a new low record for the season, Dec. at 87 3-4c, the market closed strong, 3-8c to 1-2c above Monday night. Scantiness of increase in the world's available supply formed the main reason for the upturn. Corn finished unchanged to 1-4c higher, oats varying from the same as the previous close to 1-8c to 1-4c gain, and provisions either not altered or with advances ranging from a shade to 12 1-2c.

The Liverpool market closed ⅝c to 1⅛c lower than Monday on wheat, and ⅛c to ¼c lower on corn. Antwerp wheat was ⅝c lower, Berlin ½c lower, and Budapest ⅝c lower.

Winnipeg Grain Market.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 6.—Following a steady decline for some days, prices reacted sharply, in spite of lower cables and heavy receipts. The advance here was attributed to an oversold condition on Tuesday, and partly sentiment. The cash demand was good and offerings were limited. Export houses were all active buyers, and there was a heavy demand to fill space. Oats and flax shared in the reaction in prices, and advanced ⅜c to ¾c for oats, and 3c to 3½ for flax.

Receipts continue heavy, Tuesday's inspection showing a total of 1134 cars, and 1000 in sight for inspection.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Nov. 6.—There was an active demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, there being bids in the market for over 500,000 bushels; but owing to the sharp advance in prices in Winnipeg few of the orders could be accepted. The demand for oats was also good, and sales of 100,000 bushels were made for November shipment to Liverpool and Manchester. The price is little better than 22s. A fair business continues to be done in Manitoba barley at 22s 6d for No. 3, and 21s for No. 4, for shipment to Glasgow. The trade in coarse grains is quiet. A fairly good trade was done in spring wheat flour at the recent decline in prices. Demand for millfeed is good. Butter is fairly active and firm. Cheese quiet, with an easy undertone. Eggs active. Powerful British Fleet at the Dardanelles

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The fleet which the European nations are assembling in Turkish waters will comprise fourteen battleships, twenty-two cruisers, fifteen destroyers and auxilaries.

Admiral, Sir Archibald Berkeley Milne, Commander-in-Chief of the British Mediterranean squadron, will be the senior officer of this international fleet and is expected to take command should concerted operations become necessary.

The British Government a month ago ordered a strong squadron for a cruise in the Meditteranean. Hence Admiral Milne will go into Turkish waters with the most powerful battle force which has ever flown the British flag east of Gibraltar.

Mexican Insurgents Abandon Positions

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 7.—What appears to have been the severest defeat in many months was administered to the Zapatistas less than six miles from Cuernavaca yesterday by Generals Blanquet and Angeles.

The losses are not given in the official messages, but General Blanquet, in his report to the President, assures him that the insurgents abandoned their positions and fled after a fight of three hours.

General Augeles had been hard pressed by the Zapatistas led by General Genevevo de Lao, to the number of more than a thousand, for several days. The combined Federal forces numbered 1,500.

Yesterday was the anniversary of the inauguration of Madero as President.

Killed by a Fall From a Bridge

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—The news of a fatality in Northern Ontario unusually distressing because of the circumstances reached Toronto this morning. Mr. Wm. Le Ber, foreman of bridge construction at Ruel a point on the C. N. R. at mileage 93.5 from Sudbury, lost his hold upon the girders and falling a distance of 45 feet, was instantly killed.

Mr. Lee Ber was a resident of Toronto, his father, Mr. W. J. Le Ber, living at 32 1-2 Sheridan avenue. He leaves a widow and a little girl of eight years.

German Red Cross In the Balkans

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—The German Red Cross Society is displaying great activity in furnishing aid to the sick and wounded in the Balkan war. The central committee has already sent its fourth expedition of physicians and nurses, with medical and sanitary suplies.

This expedition goes to the Turkish side in the western part of the theatre of war. A fifth expedition, in course of preparation, will join the Servian forces. Previous expeditions have been sent to Turkey, Greece and Bulgaria.

Montenegrins Have Taken Three Cities

LONDON Nov. 7.—The occupation of the port of San Giovanni di Modua, on the Adriatic Sea, as well as of the cities of Alessio and Jakeva, by the Montenegrin troops is confirmed in a despatch received by the Montegrin Consul-General here to-day. Fighting is also taking place around Bonchan to the south of Scutari.

Explosion Wrecks Renfrew Store

RENFREW Ont. Nov. 7.—A powder explosion this morning in the hardware store of John French blew out the windows and demolished the interior.

An assistant named William Carson was badly injured, and if he recovers he will be disfigured for life.

Dr. Ritze, a druggist, was blown into the street, and was fortunate enough to escape serious injury.

Mrs. Thomas, who was passing the store at the time of the mishap, was rather badly hurt.

The cause of the explosion is not known.

ANOTHER LARGE SEIZURE OF NETS IN THE BAY

The steamer Navarch ,the Government patrol fishery boat, arrived here this a.m. with a further large seizure of thousands of yards of illegal nets, which were seized near Glen Island. These nets are of the small meshed variety, the use of which is strictly contrary to law, as no young pickerel, bass, etc. have a chance to escape when these nets are used. Credit must certainly be given to Capt. Fleming and the crew of the Navarch for their efforts to stop illegal fishing in this district.

Mr. Elliott's Anniversary

Mr. J. G. Elliott, managing director and president of the British Whig Publishing Company, Kingston, has celebrated the 35th anniversary of his career as a journalist. Thirty-five years ago Mr. Elliott entered the employ of the Whig on the reportorial staff, and has been engaged with that paper ever since. By his steady application he worked himself up to his present position. He is one of the oldest newspaper men in the country in point of years of service.

Turkish General Advises Peace

SOFIA, Nov. 7.—General Savoff, the Bulgarian commander-in-chief reports that after the batle of Kirk-Kilisseh a Turkish officer was captured bearing a letter from his commander, Mahmoud Mukhtar, to his father, the Grand Vizier, advising him to resign in favor of Kiamil Pasha, and conclude peace, as the condition of the army was so desperate that it was useless to continue the war.

Skit Too Much For Jersey Lily

PITTSBURG, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Langtry, who opened a week's engagement at a local vaudeville house on Monday in her new suffragette skit, which was first tried in Philadelphia last week, was forced to close after Tuesday night's performance.

It is given out that Mrs. Langtry was made ill by the exertions of rehearsal with her company, and the strain of the opening week in Philadelphia. It is added she will probably take several week's rest.

Conditions For The Armistice

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—Bulgaria has announced the conditions on which it will grant Turkey an armistice, it is understood in official circles here.

The Sofia Government, it is said, demands possession of Adrianople and Saloniki, which means practically the surrender of the Sultan's only remaining footholds in Europe outside of Constantinople, and an assurance that there will be no movement of the Turkish troops while the armistice is in force.

A Long Service As S. S. Supt.

The completion of half a century's connection with the Methodist Sunday school in Madoc,—forty years of which he was superintendent of the school, is the remarkable record made by our respected townsman, Mr. James C. Dale, sr., manager of the bank of J. C. Dale & Co. Appointed in 1871, Mr. Dale continued to faithfully discharge the duties of his office throughout the many changes that have taken place in the village and in the Sunday school until the summer of last year, when he asked to be relieved of the office. He was succeeded by Mr. Archie Kincaid, but was elected honorary superintendent.

Although plans were then made to fittingly mark the completion of this long service, the suitable opportunity did not occur until Sunday morning last, November 3rd. At the close of the school the teachers and scholars all gathered in the main room, when Mr. Dale, who had been teaching the Young Ladies' Bible Class in the absence of the pastor, was requested to ascend the platform in front of the school. An address of appreciation was then read to him by Mr. W. H. McBain, and Mr. B. M. Richmond, on behalf of the school, presented him with a gold-headed cane, suitably engraved. Mr. Dale was taken quite unawares, but expressed his high esteem of the kind remembrance of the school. He also spoke of the history of the organization with which he had been so long connected.

Short addresses were given by Mr. A. Kincaid, superintendent, and Rev. E. A. Saunderson.

An interesting feature of the occasion was the fact that Mr. Richmond, who made the presentation, has been for a long period associated with Mr. Dale in the work of the school.—North Hastings Review.

Arrested For Stealing Brass

Some time ago a handsome railway car which was used by the Kilties Band in their last tour through the United States, was brought to this city and placed on the extreme end of the Grand Junction railway near the dock. Yesterday it was reported that the car was being depleted of some of its furnishings and the matter was reported to the police.

Upon investigation it was ascertained that a large quantity of brass trimmings had been taken off the car and disposed of. Police Officer Thompson, soon after the affair was reported, placed a party who gave his name as George F. Campbell, under arrest. He stated that his home was in Three Rivers, Que. Later in the day Sergt. Harman arrested a Dane named William Pokalla,. Both of these men are charged with theft. About 300 pounds of brass stolen from the car was recovered by the police. Campbell, we are informed, admitted that he was connected with the affair. He is 32 years of age, and the Dane is but 19 years. Both are strangers in the city.

Princess Louise Balks

ROME, Nov. 7.—Special—Princess Louise of Saxony, the former wife of the King of that country, who has been collaborating with her latest husband, Toselli, the pianist, in an operetta, has left here for Naples owing to ill-health. She refuses to continue the collaboration on the operetta, "The Bizarre Princess," owing to the undue publicity and scandal attached to it because of her name. The operetta will, however, probably be produced as Sonsogno, the music publisher, threatens lawsuits if the contracts are not lived up to.

Burglar Saved By Woman's Scream

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Elizabeth Browning, who as postmistress at Byran, Ill., captured a safe blower, last night saved a burglar's life in her home.

The burglar awakened Mrs. Browning. She telephoned the police and then got her revolver, intending to shoot the man. At this point her nerve failed, and she awakened Mrs. Belle Fornes. She gave the revolver to the latter, and the two women trapped the burglar in a rear room, his body silhouetted against the light. He was utterly unaware of his danger.

As Mrs. Fornes was about to shoot Mrs. Browning screamed, and the thief plunged through the window, glass and all, and escaped.

"I just could not see him killed," Mrs. Browning told the police when they arrived.

Excitable Spaniards

MURCIA, Spain, Nov. 7.—Special—Conservatives today disturbed a meeting presided over by the Radical leader, Senor Lerroux. Revolver shots were fired, and the Radical deputy Aliaga was wounded in the head.

The meeting finally broke up in confusion. Senor Lerroux went to his hotel, surrounded by a crowd, some hurrahing for the King and others for the "republic." The civil guards were obliged to charge the crowd repeatedly before they could scatter the domonstrators. Many persons were hurt.

25,000 KURDS MARCHING TO AID IN DEFENCE OF CONSTANTINOPLE

VIENNA, Nov. 7.—Twenty-five thousand Kurds were reported today marching through Asia toward Constantinople to aid in resisting the Bulgarians.

Though they will be a valuable addition to the Turks' shattered army, their presence in the Sultan's capital will add greatly to the Christian population's peril. Since they are almost total barbarians and fanatical followers of the Prophet.

Passengers of Steamer Royal George Safe

(Intelligencer Special.)

QUEBEC, Nov. 8.—All the passengers of the S.S. Royal George, are now safe here. The C.P.R. tug Cruiser arrived at 11 a.m. with 250 passengers and the ferry boat, Pilot at 12.30 with the other 250 remaining, all steerage. Attempts to float the wrecked steamer have been unsuccessful so far. The steamers Lord Strathcona, Lady Grey and the Cruiser, who had tried to pull her off yesterday morning, were unable to throw a rope at her last night at high tide. There was then the beginning of a panic among the passengers who had been waiting the whole day for rescue.

Another attempt to float the ship will be made tonight at high tide, and it is expected to be successful.

Austria's Attitude Towards Servia Causes Anxiety

(Intelligencer Special.)

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 8.—All European bourses were depressed today and diplomatic agencies rather anxious as to the result of Austria's sustained objection to allowing Servia to retain the Adriatic sea ports which she has fought for and won from the Turks. There seems to be an agreement between Austria and Italy that these two nations shall step in and grab these ports and western Turkey between them. On the other hand, the Servian Government today announces its intention of retaining territory won from Turkey by its army even though it has to fight both Italy and Austria to do it. It is believed here that little Servia would not dare to be so cock sure of its ground, were it not backed up by a greater power—and that greater power is, of course, Russia. This makes the outlook again extremely threatening.

Killed Himself Striking Horse

EDMONTON, Nov. 7.—Special—An extraordinary accident was reported to Coroner Dr. Frankum of Stettler, yesterday, when the 12-year-old son of Raphael Engles, a farmer living near Stettler, brought the body of his father home after an interrupted hunting trip, during which the father was killed by his own hand.

Father and son had started out with a horse and buggy. They had gone only a short distance when Engles tried to make his horse travel faster. Failing to coax the animal into a trot the farmer picked up a loaded shot gun and struck the horse sharply over the back with the stock of the weapon, breaking the butt end below the trigger guard. The right barrel of the gun exploded, the charge entering Engles' left breast, killing him instantly.

Boys Tossed in Air As Tank Explodes

DETROIT, Nov. 7.—Special—One boy was instantly killed, another fatally injured and two seriously hurt, when the gasoline tank on which they were sitting exploded this afternoon. The six boys were sitting on a tank in the rear of a grocery store on Jos. Campeau avenue, all smoking cigarettes. One of them dropped a lighted stub of a cigarette on the ground, and the gasoline fumes ignited, setting off the tank before the boys could get away. With a roar heard for blocks, the tank exploded, and the boys were tossed into the air. One of the boys' head was torn from his body. Another is in St. Mary's hospital, and physicians say there is no hope of his recovery. Two others were burned but it is thought they will live.

His Arm Shot Off By Cousin's Gun

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 7.—Special—Henry Stewart of Fallsview, a brother of William Stewart, who was killed at the plant of the Electrical Development company on September 18th last, is in the General Hospital with his right arm off at the elbow. It was amputated this morning, following an accident at the Maid of the Mist landing.

With his cousin, James Stewart, Henry was hunting for ducks this morning when the gun in the hands of James was accidentally discharged. The two men were close together, and the entire charge entered the forearm of Henry, shattering the bone. This is the third serious hunting accident in this vicinity since the first of the month.

Notes From Madoc

Three Havelock hunters lately secured two Moose in New Ontario. One of the animals weighed 1,200 and the other 900 lbs.

A 15-year old boy, named Marsh, was shot in the thigh yesterday near Queensboro. The injury is not serious.

Misses Clara Eastwood and Grace Moran, of Marmora, caught two fine 'lunge on Monday. One weighed 10 1-2 lbs, and the other 9lbs. They landed both fish in a canoe and caught them with a rod, which is a feat that would be a credit to any canoeist.—Herald.

At the annual election of the Osgode Literary and Legal Society in Toronto on Thursday last, Mr. Roy Dale, whose home is in Madoc, was elected treasurer. The society holds the inter-college debating championship. The first debate of the season will be held on the 13th inst., with Wycliffe college, on Home Rule.

The new wing built to the Model School this summer has been completed excepting the lower room and halls, which are now being painted. The spacious upper room was finished, and the Model Class of twenty students took possession of it for the first on Friday morning last. The rooms are very bright and airy and will provide accomodation for about fifty students. The ceilings throughout are metallic, and the floors of hardwood. Single seats and desks are provided the students and a handsome flat-top desk, with a chair to match, is placed in front for the teacher's use. The building is heated by hot air from the furnace in the basement.

The boys who placed the buggy on the roof the Methodist Church Hallowe'en night, are requested to be more moderate in their future operations, as it takes time and patience to lower a vehicle of like dimensions to terra firma.

Slashes His Own Throat And Jumps Into The Sea

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Allen Germer, of Bridgeport, Conn., cut his throat and jumped over board from the American line steamship New York en route to this port. Announcement of the suicide was made when the liner reached here to-day.

Germer was 37 years old and a second cabin passenger. Friends tried to restrain him after he had slashed his throat, but he eluded them and sprang over the rail. Search for him was made in vain.

Called Gun Harmless; She Fired And He is Dead

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 7.—John Campbell was accidentally shot early today at Canonto, 4 miles from Folger. A young woman, Lizzie Scales, was fooling with a gun when it went off, a charge of shot entering Mr. Campbell's head, killing him instantly.

Mr. Campbell had told the girl that the gun was harmless, as he had unloaded it.

Jumped From Operating Table

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—The restraining influence of surgeons and bullet wounds had little effect on William Lynch, a Helena, Mon., switchman at a local hospital last night, after he had cast his gaze on the man who had shot him.

Lynch was on the operating table and appeared to be in a dying condition. Physicians were probing four bullet wounds when two policemen walked into the room with a prisoner. They asked if Lynch was conscious so that he might try to identify their prisoner as the man who shot him.

Just then Lynch opened his eyes and saw a familiar face. "Let me get my hands on that man," he cried, "he is the fellow who shot me. I just want him for a minute, and then I'll die in peace."

Physicians and instruments were sent in all directions, as the patient leaped from the table, but the police succeeded in rescuing their man. The physicians say that Lynch may recover.

DEATHS.

CROSBY—In Belleville on Thursday, Nov. 7, Augustus Hannival Crosby, in his 70th year. The funeral will take place from his late residence, South Front Street, on Saturday, Nov. 9, at 3.30 o'clock p. m. Services at the house at 3 o'clock. Interment at Belleville cemetery.

The only noiseless typewriter yet discovered is a deaf mute.

The choicest cocoa beans from the tropics are used for Lowney's Cocoa. We could buy beans at much lower prices. They would make a very fair cocoa—but not Lowney's.

The beans are thoroughly cleaned.

After cleaning comes the roasting. Cocoa beans from different localities are roasted in separate roasters. The roasting is carefully timed to bring out the full richness of the flavor.

The beans then go through a cracker and fanner to remove the shells. The product of this process is called "Cocoa Nibs."

Next comes the blend. The rich flavor of Lowney's Cocoa is largely attributable to skill and experience in blending cocoa beans from different localities.

The blended cocoa nibs are then ground into a semi-liquid.

Cocoa beans have a natural excess of cocoa butter. The excess butter is removed by a hydraulic process.

The cocoa, now dry, is ground again to a fine powder and sifted through silk to insure the proper fineness. The sifted powder is then packed in tins.

Each package, with the Lowney label, contains a blend of the world's choicest cocoa beans, thoroughly cleaned, skillfully roasted, relieved of excess cocoa butter and ground to a fine powder, which, in boiling, yields its full, rich flavor. It gives a beverage which, as we say, "shows you how cocoa ought to taste."

Our Montreal factory is in keeping with the cocoa it produces—a model for the cocoa business.

Sold at grocers. In tins—10c to 50c sizes.

Deseronto News Items

The 'Post' man was in Picton last week and met a lady whose husband is the owner of an automobile.—Deseronto Post.

Why not tell us the rest of the story?

His friends will be glad to learn that Mr. A. S. Valleau has returned from Toronto, where he underwent a serious operation but successful.

Mr. Patrick Fox has purchased from Mr. McHenry the house on Thomas Street east, formerly occupied by Mrs. Black, and moved in.

The local members of the Sons of England and Orange lodges attended divine service on Sunday morning in the Methodist Church. The Rev. R. Burns, pastor, officiated, preaching a practical sermon.

Miss Stella Vandevoort and Miss Annie Mills, of Big Island, started for Calgary this wek for a prolonged stay.

At the regular meeting of the Epworth League of the Methodist Church on Tuesday evening about twenty new members were taken in.

Mr. Austin Vandusen, Green Point, met with quite a serious mishap on Monday. He had driven over on the ferry, coming to Deseronto to transact business. On returning, and while above the Iron Works, the bit in the horse's mouth broke, giving the animal its freedom. Ordinarily a very quiet animal, it started to run away, throwing Mr. Vandusen out of the waggon. The Rev. Mr. Creeggan and Mr. John Harvey coming along, found Mr. Vandusen in an unconscious condition, and brought him in to Dr. Newton's office. His face was badly cut up, the bridge of his nose being broken. In fact, Dr. Newton told the 'Post' man Mr. Vandusen was seriously shaken up. Despite his shaking up, Mr. Vandusen insisted on going home alone. His many friends will hope the accident will have no serious results.

Miss Cronk is visiting with relatives at Empey Hill.

Mrs. B. A. Weiss, of Trenton, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. N. D. Carter.

A GOOD YEAR'S WORK IN AGRICULTURE

Hon. Martin Burrell, the Minister of Agriculture, is a poor advertiser. He is a modest man, too modest some say for a politician. He works night and day, and talks little.

Since he came into office he has worked many reforms looking towards the advancement of agriculture. He has initiated many schemes for the betterment of the farming industry. He found a department which was in a rut. There was no other department at Ottawa where the whole service was so plainly marking time. The agriculture department has many experts, yet initiative was discouraged and dry-rot seemed to have set in.

The most important question Mr. Burrell undertook on assuming office was to formulate a general policy for the betterment of agricultural conditions in Canada. It was felt however, that nothing in this direction could properly be done until a general survey of the agricultural conditions in Canada had been made. It was therefore decided to give immediate assistance to agriculture by voting the sum of $500,000 to this cause by way of grant to the provincial governments on a population basis. Such grant to be expended for the cause of agriculture according to a plan approved by the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa. The following table shows how much each province receives:—

Ontario	$175,733 32
Quebec	139,482 40
Nova Scotia	34,288 45
New Brunswick	24,509 93
Prince Edward Island	6,529 85
British Columbia	27,344 76
Manitoba	31,730 05
Saskatchewan	34,296 29
Alberta	26,094 95

If the new policy was to be broad in its scope and wide in its usefulness it was necessary that it be based upon accurate information and a full knowledge of the conditions obtaining throughout the Dominion. Mr. Burrell selected Dr. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for years in Ontario, as commissioner to make a thorough investigation and make recommendations and suggestions for the consideration of the government. Mr. James has been devoting all spring and summer to his inquiry, and his report is now nearly ready and will be presented to the House this session.

LABERAL HOUSEHOLD DIVIDED

The Brockville Times, having obtained a peep behind the scenes, makes mention of the lack of oneness in the Liberal family on the naval question, after the following manner:

The Liberal orators, from Sir Wilfrid Laurier downward, and the Liberal organs from the Toronto Star, upward, have for the past few months been telling their hearers and readers some fantastic tales about the "dissenions" alleged to exist in the Borden Cabinet and the dreadful Conservative party. Sir Wilfrid stepped to the footlights and said melodramatically, "It is the beginning of the end."

But the Liberal leaders seem to have a very comprehensive series of dissensions within their own ranks.

In the federal arena there is a yawning chasm between the staunch, sound Liberals and the Nationalist Liberals over the naval problem. In Ontario they are divided upon several questions—temperance and bilingualism, for instance. They cannot get Liberal candidates to contest bye-elections. In the district of Timiskaming there is a furious squabble in the Liberal ranks concerning a packed convention for the selection of a successor to the Hon. Charles Devlin.

These are not, as the Liberal organs may retort, Tory fabrications. Let the Liberal press speak for itself. Here are two recent extracts from Liberal sources:

Montreal, Nov. 5.—J. C. Walsh is leaving the Montreal Herald's chief editorship. The reason is said to be a difference of opinion with the management as to Imperial affairs.

Windsor Record (Lib.)—"Does the party in Ontario stand united on the Laurier policy of a Canadian navy, with ships built in this country and manned by Canadian men, under the control of the Canadian parliament.

"Also, does the Liberal rank and file stand shoulder to shoulder on the question of wider markets?

"Then again, are the Liberals in this province lined up to a man behind Mr. Rowell and abolition of the bar?

"Can the Liberal party afford to rely on the so-called temperance element?"

If the Conservative Government is "tottering" as Sir Wilfrid avers, the Liberal party appears to be having a back attack of gripes or aggravated cholera morbus judging from the symptons.

Mr. Bourassa charges Hon. Louis Coderre with selling his principles for a portfolio. But isn't Bourassa unreasonable? Coderre may have got the better of the bargain.—Hamilton Herald.

Mr. Coderre's record rise to prominence was the result of clean service to his country, and that is where the shoe pinches.

TRADE WITH GERMANY

The acting Canadian Trade Commissioner at Berlin, Germany, recently reported to the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa that there will be an increased demand in Germany this season for Canadian apples and wheat. He writes:—

"Advices received at this office are to the effect that there will be a good market here for Canadian apples. Last season some 120,000 barrels were received at Hamburg, and the conditions warrant the expectation that the demand will be fully equal to that of last year.

"The objection to mixed varieties in small lots has been so frequently commented upon that it seems almost superfluous to again bring it to the attention of shippers. The large importers in Hamburg are anxious to ascertain if they cannot possibly obtain a quantity of the same variety of from 500 to 1,000 barrels, put up by the same packers under the same brand, which would become known and appreciated for reliability.

"It is considered that the crop conditions prevailing throughout Germany may be taken as a fair index for Europe generally, and that there will be an increased demand for Canadian wheat in this country."

There will be applications for thirty-nine bills of divorce heard at the coming session of Parliament. They come from six of the provinces. While for the greater number of its people Canada has no divorce law, it has a divorce practice that gives Parliament a steadily increasing amount of work to do; and it is kind of work that Parliament is not well equipped for doing. Three of the provinces have divorce courts. There are many who will think that in view of the situation described it would be better if all of them were equipped with legal machinery for breaking the marriage tie for cause. Courts with a law are better fitted for such work than Parliament with a precedent.

Love and Grammar

Some time ago a New York business man, who is blessed with an extremely pretty daughter, took his family to England for an indefinite period, during which he was to establish British branches of his mercantile enterprises in that country.

The charms of this young woman wrought much havoc in the rank and file of the men who met her abroad. She was sweet and gracious to all, her heart as well as her wit, belonged to her native land. One day her father found her at her desk, knitting her brows over a letter.

"What's the trouble, my dear?" he asked solicitously.

"Father," she responded dolefully, "I must write another declension, but nothing will induce me to conjugate until I get back to the United States." —Lippincott's.

Man Arrested in St. Lambert Not The Man Wanted

MONTREAL, Nov. 7.—Gustave Hausman, arrested at St. Lambert on a charge of assaulting a young girl of that place, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Lanctot, pleaded not guilty, and was remanded until Tuesday next. The man, who was arrested on suspicion by Chief of Police Gravel of St. Lambert, was found in possession of $7,123, made up of American bills, and this was confiscated when he was taken to the cells yesterday prior to his appearance in court.

In court his counsel made application for an order that one thousand dollars of the seized money be handed to the accused for conducting his legal defence, and while Judge Lanctot did not sign any order he raised no objection to the request as since no charge of theft was laid against Hausman, it was to be presumed that the money found upon him was his own property.

Later in the day the accused and his counsel came before the same judge, and a cash bail of five thousand dollars was fixed, which left the accused with $1,123.

Hausman was photographed and measured at the police headquarters, and his finger prints taken. These will be sent to the principal cities of the United States, together with the number of the bills found on the accused. By these means it is expected his identity will be established before the case against the accused is called again next week.

When Hausman was asked where his home was located, according to Chief McCaskill, he mentioned half a dozen cities, including New York, Boston, Newark and Jersey City. When asked where he had got all the money found upon him. Hausman said he had drawn it out of the bank, but refused to state where the bank was located, claiming that he never bothered about names or locations.

That Hausman was not the assailant of the young woman who was assaulted in St. Lambert, it seems to be admitted.

How Scotch Collie Saved Itself From Drowning

That the intelligence of a dog is almost human was demonstrated here recently. The reservoir which is used only for emergencies was being filled after having been cleaned by the Elwood Water Company. A Scotch collie had gone to the edge of the stone wall to get a drink and becoming frightened at seeing the water fifteen feet below instead of at the top of the wall, toppled over into the pool. A workman obtained a long rope and started to loop it over the struggling animal's head. The dog seized the rope in its teeth and hung on until it was hoisted over the side of the cement wall. Several hundred people who had gathered at the reservoir thinking it was a man being hoisted for the water, cheered when the dog was safe. The dog wagged its tail as if thanking its rescuer.—Elwood Correspondence in Indianapolis News.

Divided Prescription

A physician tells of attending an Irishman and his wife who were both down with severe colds. As their ailment threatened to develop into the grip, he prescribed quinine and whiskey. "Take it every three hours," he said, "two grains of quinine and a swallow of whiskey."

The next day he called again. The man was up and about, but not the wife. "Did you follow my instructions?" asked the doctor. "To the letter, sorr," replied the husband. "How much quinine have you left?" "Sure, Oi t'ink she have taken th' whole av it," said the man. "And didn't you take it, too?" he was asked. "Devil a bit," was the reply. "Begorra, it kept me busy taking the whiskey every toime she took a pill, an' sure she's in bed an' Oi'm up."—Boston Transcript.

Colors That Heal

Perfumes, colors and sounds affect us differently, according to the state of our health. A whole system of therapeutics has been founded on this fact. Since the days of Pere Huc the Chinese have enveloped smallpox patients in clothing of a carmine color. In Tonkin and Australia bandages of the same color are used on children suffering from measles while Spanish parents not only put their little patients in wrappings of this brilliant hue, but make them drink syrup of pomegranates because of its color.

Dr. Laumenier, writing in the Revue, assures the world that there is some sense in this. Red light has a good effect on several skin diseases; blue and violet spell death to bacteria; yellow protects the eye against the injurious elements of the spectrum; while green calms the nerves and encourages sleep.

Unfortunately, these effects are not always to be relied upon. Some kinds of lupus yield to the influence of blue, while other kinds find blue only aggravating and are much more benefited by red. In general one may say that red has exciting properties. Put a spider and a wasp under a colorless bell glass and they will live in peace; give the glass a tinge of scarlet and the two insects will rush at each other and engage in mortal combat.

In savage countries the most bellicose tribes are devoted to ruddy colors; the red in the trousers of French soldiers shows that civilized people share the same predilection. This tradition, however, is worth further examination, for it would certainly seem to be the better policy to bring a blush into the ranks of the enemy. When the virtues of the different colors are more fully ascertained, Dr. Laumenier forsees a reign of reason in which every part of our civilization will share. Hospitals will have wards of various colors to suit divers maladies. Schools and colleges will be painted green, a color favorable to study, while on the stock exchange and in parliament the predominating color will be that great soother of excitement, mauve —London Standard.

SUN LIFE TALK

How much risk are you allowing your wife to carry on your life? She has a high financial interest in your earning power for you are her sworn protector and the provider for the needs of your family. If in the order of Providence you were called away from them to-morrow forever, what provision have you made for their maintenance and comfort? Will you permit your dear ones to bear the burden of this risk? Or will you not, at a small cost, allow an Insurance Company to assume that risk, at the same time saving and investing your premiums to be handed back to you with interest after a limited time, say twenty years? You would not sleep to-night if you remembered that the fire risk on your home and contents had expired. Why neglect this other and greater risk?

The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada is a strong and prosperous Company, carrying more assurances than any other Canadian Company. Its profits to policy holders are large and equitably divided, amounting last year to $466,328. It issues an absolutely unconditional policy. Great care is taken in the selection of risks, but when a policy is once issued there are no vexatious restrictions imposed on the future actions of the assured, but he is freely allowed to travel anywhere or do anything he chooses. In Pliny there may be found an account of the manner in which the bakers of Rome were alleged to mix with their dough a white earth, soft to the touch and sweet to the taste thus putting out a foodstuff that had weight and fine appearance, but little food value. The same writer also touches upon wine adulteration. Pliny says that not even the wealthy Roman noble could be sure that the wine he bought was pure. Indeed, the most famous wines were doctored, and the wines from Gaul, generally held to be of the best, were, as a matter of fact, artificially colored with aloes and other drugs.—Harper's Weekly.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Carlisle plays the Army at West Point next Saturday, and all New York is planning to go up the river to see this battle. While West Point has increased its seating capacity, it is hardly believed enough room will be found for the New Yorkers alone.

Montreal will not be without a Rugby attraction on Saturday, for arrangements have been made for an exhibition game between the Parkdale Club and the McGill fourteen on the McGill campus. This match will fill in and make the third home fixture of the McGill Club for the season, and will take the place of the fixture rendered vacant by the retirement of Ottawa College from the Intercollegiate Union.

Montreal are still hopeful of winning a game before the season closes, although it will likely be a team largely composed of intermediates and juniors which will go to Hamilton Saturday, according to the latest "dope." It is unlikely that Alec Cameron will be on the line, the injuries which compelled him to leave the game last Saturday still being the cause of absence. Dean, Brophy, Green or Pope are likely to make up the half-back line, though it is unlikely that any definite line-up will be announced until shortly before the team goes on the field.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 7.—One thousand sweepstake tickets, for chances in the Metropolitan Stakes, the Caulfield Cup, the Melbourne Cup, the Sandhurst Cup, the Sumner Cup, consigned to an agent at Vancouver, and arriving on the last Australian mail steamer from Tasmania, were seized by the postoffice. The reason for this action, according to the postmaster, is that use of the mails for forwarding lottery and sweepstake tickets, which are considered one and the same, is a contravention of the postal laws, not only of Canada, but also of Australia.

HAMILTON, Nov. 7.—A number of changes will be made on the Alert wing line for next Saturday's scheduled game with Torontos. Smith, a junior, will be played at outside wing, alternately replacing Fitzpatrick, and Johnson Bleakley will be tried out at flying wing. 'Red' Flannery has stated that he intends to quit the game, and as Smith showed up so well against Toronto during the short time he was in the game on Saturday, Manager Marriott is of the opinion that now is the best time to set him to work permanently. Flannery will not be started in Toronto next Saturday, and it is doubtful if he will play again.

KINGSTON, Nov. 6.—Spoken to in regard to the possibility of R. M. C. replacing Ottawa College in the senior series of the Intercollegiate Rugby Union, Captain Blackstock intimated that if the matter were left with the senior class an affirmative decision would quickly be forthcoming. Several senior men will be gone next year, however, and a meeting of the intermediate and junior years will be called shortly to express an opinion, as the matter of the formation of next year's team rests largely with them. Their splendid showing against Varsity in Toronto Saturday has given the Cadets confidence in themselves and the thought of entering senior company is not unpleasant.

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—In some quarters it is believed that Eddie Gerard has played his last game. The New Edinburgh boy was in distress after Saturday's game, and unless he is sound and strong it would be unfair to use him this week. Eddie intends to play professional hockey next winter, and unless he lines up Saturday, the gridiron has seen the last of a brilliant youngster, whom Frank Shaughnessy regards as the finest centre half in Canada. Gerard joined the Ottawas in 1909. His first season out, during which the Ottawas won the Interprovincial championship and this were his best. Eddie started out as left half, but switched last season to centre. He kicks with either foot, and besides being a remarkable punter, has a remarkable burst of speed.

KINGSTON, Nov. 6.—Queen's is going light work this week in preparation for its game with Varsity here next Saturday. Probably the only change in the team will be the substitution of Pounds or Sparks for Reid at quarter-back, the latter having again succumbed to the severe injuries he received in the riot at Ottawa last month.

Queen's feels that the fates decreed against it, despite the fact that it has a really strong team. It lost last Saturday's game to McGill by three mistakes, two of which gave touches to McGill and one lost a touch to Queen's.

In view of the fine game it played against the Montreal team, Coach E. O. Slite is of the opinion that Queen's should be able to take the measure of the Toronto team on Saturday. As Queen's wishes the Intercollegiate championship to go to McGill this year, it will put up a very strong fight against the Toronto University team in order to prevent a play-off, that would be required should Varsity win here.

Argonauts' win in Ottawa brings back memories of other games and championships won by the oarsmen. The Argonauts did not win a Rugby championship from 1901 to 1911, and it is strange to relate that it was by beating Ottawa in Ottawa they gained the honors, says the Toronto Telegram.

In 1901 the Argonauts had a most successful season, and one of their wins was a 13 to 10 victory over the Rough Riders at Rosedale on Nov. 2nd, exactly eleven years from Saturday. The return game was played in Ottawa on Nov. 18, and on the result of the game rested the O.R.F.U. championship, of which league both clubs were then members. At half-time the score was 1 to 0 in favor of Ottawa, but in the first ten minutes of play in the second half the Argonauts managed to score two points, and then Joe Wright gave the finest exhibition of how to retain the ball, holding it for the remaining time to play. The teams:

Argonauts—Back, Ardagh; halves, Hardesty, Darling and Henderson; quarter, Britton; scrimmage, Russell, Wright and Boyd; wings, Langton, Wilson, Hill, Grant, Kent, Parmateer and Chadwick.

Ottawa—Back, Hamilton; halves, Lewers, Boyd and E. Murphy; quarter, P. Murphy; scrimmage, Buckham, Kennedy and Bradley; wings, M. Walters, Telford, Pulford McGee, Cameron, Rayside and Austin.

HOCKEY

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—Billy Nicholson, who is to manage the Tecumseh hockey club in the National Hockey Association this season, has not been wasting any time in the past week. He has been most successful in getting the signatures of a likely lot. The Tecumsehs will not be as weak as many thought they would, and there will be at least one strong team representing the city in the N. H. A. Nicholson has signed Cameron, one of the stars of Pembroke of last season. He has practically settled with Jack Fournier of Ottawa, who was claimed by George Kennedy. La Flamme, who was the sensation of the St. Michael's College team, has signified his willingness to play in all of the home games with the Tecumsehs, while negotiations are being carried on with the Wanderers of Montreal for the purchase of the contract of Frank Taylor, who is on the reserve list. This matter cannot be settled until the annual meeting of the N. H. A. as Ottawa will be given the first chance to buy Taylor, and should they not do so he will be sold to Tecumsehs. Sibby Nichols is another who will likely play under Nicholson's direction.

Smallpox Rages On City's Border

MONTREAL, Nov. 7.—Two distinct outbreaks of smallpox in the immediate vicinity of the city were brought to light by inspectors of the Provincial Board of Health yesterday as a result of the discovery of the cases within the city. In the first instance it was an ex-pupil of the St. Laurent Convent, who was found to be suffering from the disease. In the second the sufferer had come from an orphanage at Beauharnois.

The exact extent of the outbreak in either place has not as yet been ascertained, but the results of hurried investigations carried out by the inspectors immediately after their arrival were such as to warrant them in the belief that there will be many additional cases located.

JOHNSON ARRESTED.

Negro Pugilist Is Charged With Mann Act.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Jack Johnson, champion negro pugilist, was indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday, charged with violation of the Mann Act against the transportation of women from one state to another for immoral purposes. Johnson was indicted on four counts and his bail fixed at $30,000 by U. S. Judge Landis.

Federal officers were instructed to arrest Johnson, who could not be found all day yesterday. The search for him extended to various quarters of the city.

He was arrested late at night, however. Federal officers searched the south side several hours before Johnson was found in an hotel surrounded by four negro guards.

An attempt was at first made by the guards to prevent the officers from entering Johnson's rooms, but they were pushed aside and the Government warrant served on the prize-fighter without serious difficulty.

At the federal building tears came to his eyes as the officers put handcuffs on his wrists.

"You don't have to do this; I am not going to run away," he said. "I'm square; you ought to know that."

He was later released on bail.

The specific case upon which the indictment against Johnson was based was that of Belle Schriber of Pittsburg (white), whom Johnson was charged with bringing to Chicago in August, 1910.

The jury, however, heard the testimony of Lucille Cameron of Minneapolis, whose mother charged Johnson with abduction, and she was held as a witness in $15,000 bail.

Takes Hog Along As Boat's Mascot

SOUTH BEND, Wash., Nov. 7.—The schooner Forester, Capt. O. E. Daewritz, has on board his vessel as a mascot a black and white female hog weighing 100 pounds. The hog answers to the name of Susie and was picked up by the captain at Callao, Peru, about three years ago when she was but a suckling.

Susie has travelled with the ship continuously since that time and knows every member of the crew from the captain to the cabin boy. Her particular friends are, however, the captain and the cook, and she follows either of these about the deck like a dog.

If Capt. Daewritz sits down on deck to smoke, Susie is sure to be found stretched across his feet. As meal time approaches she goes to the galley door and squats on the sill.

When Deputy Collector of Customs Marion D. Egbert visited the Forester, a few days ago, Susie gave him an effusive greeting, waddled in a sidelong course toward him and rubbed her sides against his legs, at the same time giving vent to grunts of content when Mr. Egbert scratched her head and back.

Insomnia Cured By Musical Bed

PARIS, Nov. 7.—The musical bed is the latest. The moment you lie down it begins to play the most fascinating and soothing melodies. You can't help going to sleep. The worst kind of insomnia victims say so. And if you have had bad dreams or stomach ache, either of which might wake you up, there is the music, continuing, and lulling you to sleep again. It's the weight of the body that makes the music, and to stop it you have to rise and get out of bed. In order to wake up in time you set an alarm clock imbedded in the bed like a music roll in the pianolo. At the desired hour, the bed strikes up a marital tune, fife, drum and cornets. You simply can't help waking up.

The bed is a serious affair and recommended to insomnia victims throughout the world.

Man Killed by Train at Brandon

BRANDON, Man., Nov. 7.—The crashing of an eastbound freight train into a caboose and cattle truck in the C. P. R. yards here last evening, resulted in the death of one man, and it is feared that another whose body has not yet been discovered, is still in the debris. The collision was followed by fire which destroyed a cattle car filled with valuable live stock. A body was found so charred and disfigured as to make identification impossible, but it is believed that two men, the owner of the cattle, and a brakeman, were in the caboose. The caboose with the cattle car attached was standing on the tracks when the engine of the freight train crashed into them, telescoping the caboose, and causing the cattle truck to rise on top of the engine, knocking the stack off.

Gale Prevents Releasing of the Royal George.

Five Hundred Steerage Passengers and the Members of the Crew Are Left on Board and Steamers Are Standing By to Render Assistance When Needed — Passengers To Be Landed To-day.

Quebec, Nov. 8.—The Canadian Northern steamer Royal George still rests firmly on the rocks one mile east of Point St. Lawrence, on the north side of the south channel with 500 steerage passengers and the members of the crew on board. The company's officials were fully convinced that the passengers could have been all removed from the steamer yesterday and brought to Quebec had not the elements interfered with their plans. Consequently, the people had to remain wit hthe ship, at least until to-day.

The condition of the steamer is practically the same as when she got all her course and was carried at full speed on the rocks, head on, and though her position is serious, experts have every confidence that she can be hauled off. Her No. 2 hold is full of water, but so far as can be learned, No. 1 hold is intact, likewise No. 3 and 4, stokehole and engineroom.

The steamer is caught on the rocks between her two funnels, and is so firmly seated that unless lightened of her cargo, at least in No. 1 hold, it would not be prudent to attempt to haul her off.

In the meantime the Government steamer Lady Grey, the wrecking steamer Lord Strathcona, the C.P.R. tug Cruiser, and the tug J. C. Gravel are alongside to render assistance, and take part in releasing the steamer from her present position when it is thought practicable to do so.

None of these vessels could make connection with the Royal George yesterday on account of the fury of the northeasterly gale and high sea that prevailed all day. The wind yesterday averaged a velocity of 50 miles an hour, with the indication of its continuing with rain to-day.

The remaining 500 steerage passengers and baggage on board the Royal George will be brought to Quebec today, where the passengers will be cared for by the immigration officials until they can be forwarded with all their personal effects to their respective destinations.

The first-class passengers who were taken off the ship early yesterday are still the company's guests at the Chateau Frontenac awaiting the arrival of their personal effects.

The bow of the steamer lies in a depth of six feet of water at low tide, and the after portion from where she is held is in twelve feet of water. She is so close into the Island of Orleans shore that the residents of the vicinity at low tide can walk out to within twenty feet of the ship and exchange words with the people on board.

Thorough Enquiry Promised.

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—Wreck Commissioner Lindsay of the Department of Marine and Fisheries has left for Quebec for the purpose of conducting a searching enquiry into the grounding of the Royal George. The investigation will be immediate and every attempt will be made to place the blame for the disaster.

The disaster is regarded as a most serious blow to the growing prestige of the St. Lawrence route for the safeguarding of which every effort has been made for the past ten years. The tendency here is to divide the blame between the pilot, the company and the immigration regulations.

Tunnel Work Going On.

Toronto, Nov. 8.—The rumor of a cessation of work on the Canadian Northern tunnel was officially denied yesterday.

"So far from the work being shut down, it has never proceeded at a faster pace than at present," declared a prominent official of the C.N.R. to a press representative.

Working from both ends and the middle, a total bore of 2,380 feet has been completed, and with this rate maintained the working crews will meet in September next, and show a clear way from the entrance at the back of Mount Royal to the station site on Dorchester and Lagauchetiere streets.

A naval court has sentenced seventeen sailors to death, and 106 to imprisonment for from four to eight years at hard labor for instigating mutinies in the Russian fleet at Sebastopol.

Grand River In Flood.

Galt, Nov. 8.—The Grand River is again on the rampage and the oldest inhabitants declare the stream is higher now than ever before known except at spring freshet time. A roaring torrent is rising rapidly and water is backing into cellars and sweeping away boathouses and wharves. If the rain continues it is likely to do more serious damage. Owners of several gasoline launches have removed their boats from the river.

Reports from Paris and Brantford last night indicate considerable anxiety is felt as to the recurrence of floods.

Bourassa at McGill.

Montreal, Nov. 8.—Before a crowd, mainly composed of McGill students, Henri Bourassa expressed his views on the naval policy and defended his attitude of opposition towards any Canadian contribution to the Imperial authorities. The occasion was the reorganization of the McGill Canadian Club," and the speaker pleaded with his hearers for the development of a greater spirit of Canadian unity rather than the following of those who fanned the flames of what he termed "false sentiment" for their own ends.

"Highly Recommended."

"I would certainly recommend that you get a Gurney-Oxford, Mary. Mother had one, and when I furnished my house, I got one. Every maid I ever had has been enthusiastic about the Gurney-Oxford."

"What are its good points?"

"Well, the best is that it cooks and bakes like a dream. I never tasted such golden brown biscuits or such flakey pastry as my Gurney-Oxford turns out, and roasts, fowls and puddings are always a success."

"Is it easy to operate?"

"My dear, it's simplicity itself. The Gurney Economizer, which you cannot get on any other range, regulates the fire simply by putting one small lever up or down. You never heard of anything so simple. And by a system of divided flues the oven is always uniformly heated. You know what that means—biscuits, bread, roasts, not one half overdone and the other half underdone, but properly done all through. Yes, my dear, you take my advice as I took mother's, and get a Gurney-Oxford Range."

ANNUAL BANQUET TO CHEESE BOARD

Annually for six years, Mr. John Elliott, the genial and popular manager of the Standard Bank in this city, has tendered a banquet to the members of the Belleville Cheese Board. This event took place yesterday afternoon at the Anglo-American Hotel and it proved to be a success in every respect. A large number were present and all thoroughly enjoyed themselves. The spread provided by Mr. Harte, the proprietor of the hostelry, was all that could have been desired, and was served in an admirable manner. Mr. F. E. O'Flynn presided over the gathering in his usual affable manner. The addresses given were not only of an eulogistic nature, but some excellent ideas were advanced.

After dinner had been partaken of, the first toast proposed was that of "The King." The company sang the National Anthem, followed by "The Maple Leaf."

In proposing the toast of "Our Guests," Mr. O'Flynn spoke in an eulogistic manner of Mr. Elliott, whose guests they were. The speaker referred to his visit to the old country this summer in company with Mr. Elliott, who, while there, did all he could for Belleville and the Midland district.

Mr. Elliott, in rising to respond, was warmly received. In his opening remarks the speaker referred to the pleasure it gave him to meet his many friends again. There was a sadness as there always is at such annual gatherings as some are absent and never will be with us again. One was was gone whom he missed, and that was the late Mr. J. B. Morton, President of the Moira factory. His death was sincerely regretted. Mr. Elliott then referred to his recent trip to the old country, and the various industrial centres he visited. While there he called upon a number of persons who are interested in the cheese trade. When in Bristol and Liverpool he ascertained that there was more Canadian cheese there this year than last year. The cheese from the Belleville district was a cheese much sought after, as its standard had improved year after year. Cheese from this district is not only sought after, but slightly higher prices are paid for it. It saves from one to two shillings more in price than cheese from other places. We must send cheese to England in a first-class condition in order that its price may be maintained. He impressed upon all to see that this was done. We want cold storage and a new dock for this city and we are going to have it. Through the influence of Mr. E. G. Porter, M.P., and others there is now an appropriation of $50,000 towards erecting such a dock. This will be of great advantage to exporters. During the past year there had been a dropping off in the exporting of cheese to the old country of about four millions of dollars. Butter had, however, been exported in a somewhat larger quantity than the year previous. There is a shortage of cattle in this country, and this should be looked into and more cattle raised. It is a fact that farm help is scarce and for this reason the farmer cannot raise more cattle as he is unable to take care of them. This can be remedied, and he felt confident that it would be. While in England he considered the immigration question, and in referring to Mr. Calcutt, the Ontario Government representative, he said that gentleman would do all he could in this matter. He (the speaker) had also interviewed the Hon. Mr. Duff in regard to this matter and that gentleman had also agreed to assist us in this matter. The speaker would be only too pleased to assist in getting immigrants to come to this city, especially help for the farmers. Blank forms would be secured and could be filled out without any trouble. Belleville and district is being liberally advertised throught the Ontario Government office at London, Eng. At that office booklets are to be seen from Ottawa and other places, but none from Belleville. He would suggest that such a booklet be prepared, showing Belleville and this district. This would prove of benefit to the city and vicinity. This is the kind of advertising we want. At the Ontario Government office in London a cheese from the Belleville district is exhibited and a card is attached showing where the cheese is made. The Belleville cheese board is thus brought to the front. He was proud of the Belleville Cheese Board, which is held up as a model Cheese Board. There is a great future for the Belleville Cheese Board and the farmers of this district. The Standard Bank is here to help the manufacturers and the farmers also While we have no money for speculation, we have capital to help improve the patrons of the bank who may need help to advance their interests. (Cheers).

The address was followed by a song by Mr. E. Illsey, rendered in a most pleasing manner.

"Belleville Cheese Board"—Responded to by Mr. A. MacDonald, President of the board, who stated that this was a day all salesmen of the Belleville Cheese Board should appreciate. The board owes a debt of gratitude to Mr. Elliott for the interest he has taken in the cheese business, and for what he has done for the farming community generally.

Mr. T. C. Treverton, Vice-President of the Board, spoke briefly, referring to the time when the first cheese factory was started in this district some 46 years ago. While the Belleville Cheese Board was one of the best cheese boards, there was room for improvement. A rule that he would like to see established was that all cheese should be sold on the board, and not off the board, as is sometimes the case. The speaker referred briefly to Mr. Elliott, who had done all in his power to assist the farmer since he came to the city of Belleville.

Mr. D. J. Fairfield said that it was a pleasure for him to be present at such a gathering as the guest of his friend, Mr. Elliott. He was proud of the fact that he was Secretary-Treasurer of the Belleville Cheese Board. He was raised upon the farm and knew the duties of the farmer.

Mr. James R. Anderson of Prince Edward Co., referred to the pleasure it gave him to be present. Mr. Elliott, the host, was a gentleman esteemed by all who knew him. It was a pleasure to meet such a man as Mr. Elliott's calibre. He was genial and obliging. He (the speaker) had worked with Mr. Elliott and their associations had been most pleasant. The speaker then branched off into a political speech, referring especially to the benefit the farmers of this district would derive if they had the privilege of selling in the dearest market, and purchasing in the cheapest. He claimed that if this could be done it would mean much more for the farmer.

"Our Transportation and Insurance Companies"—Mr. Schuster said it was not encouraging to the transportation companies to learn that the cheese industry was falling off, as had been stated. The transportation subject was an important one, and not easily covered in a brief address. The speaker referred to the fact that in this city in the near future there would be three transcontinental railways—the G.T.R., the C.P.R. and the C.N.R.. In addition to this we have excellent facilities for shipping by water during the summer months. The natural waterways are great resources of this company.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson said it was not every day that an insurance man had an opportunity to address a gathering such as was before him. Insurance was a necessity, and today all cheese shipped is properly insured from the time it leaves the factory until it arrives at its destination. This was an important matter to all who were engaged in the cheese business. Insurance today was as much a profession as was banking, or any other profession. Outside of the city of Toronto he conducted the largest insurance business in Ontario today.

"Sister Cheese Boards"—Mr. J. B. Walsh of Napanee said that on behalf of the Napanee Cheese Board he appreciated the efforts of Mr. Elliott in advertising the cheese industry of the Bay of Quinte district. There was no cheese board in Canada, to his mind, that was better than the Belleville Cheese Board. What Mr. Elliott had done would no doubt be of benefit to the cheese industry of this section. What the farmers need today is help. They are making slaves of themselves and their families Mr. Elliott's idea of getting help in here is an admirable one and should be encouraged.

Mr. Smith, a cheese buyer, was called upon, and spoke in reference to Cheddar cheese being made here, as it would always command a good price. He was thankful for the privilege he had of being present upon the occasion and of enjoying the hospitality of the host, Mr. Elliott.

Song—"Our Soldier King"—by Mr. E. Illsey.

Mr. M. Sprague, cheese exporter, referred to the fact that it was a pleasure for him to be present on this occasion. It was such meetings as these that had a large influence in improving the cheese of this district. Mr. Elliott upon his arrival here six years ago conceived the idea that the cheese could be improved and he has had much to do with having it improved. As a result of his efforts a better cheese is being produced and better prices prevail. The speaker referred to the fact that a Democratic Government had been placed in power in the United States, and it might have the effect of cheapening the cost of living. The tariff wall may be lowered, and should this come about, it might make a difference as to exporting cheese and other dairy products. Do not, however, change your methods of making cheese, but make it as good as it is possible to make it.

Mr. W. B. Deacon, President of the Board of Trade, stated that he was pleased to be the guest of his friend, Mr. Ellioitt. On behalf of the local men of Belleville and the Board of Trade he extended to the memebrs of the Cheese Board a hearty welcome to the city. He stated that if they had any resolutions to make to the Belleville Board of Trade, they would be gladly received and acted upon. He advised the cheese board to take up the matter of immigration, which was of such importance to them.

Mr. Swift of the Ottawa Valley Journal, spoke on behalf of the press in an appropriate manner.

The proceedings were closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

For Household Accidents

ZAM-BUK IS SO VERY USEFUL.

Read How Beneficial It Proved in This Case.

Mrs. H. Sawyer, of Keene, Ont., writes: "My husband is engaged on a farm, and one day, while chopping wood the top of the axe broke and fell upon his foot, cutting a nasty gash. The wound was so bad that we first thought we would have to get a doctor, but we finally decided to dress the cut with Zam-Buk.

"Well, the Zam-Buk treatment proved a great success. It not only eased the pain, but it prevented any inflammation; and right from first applying Zam-Buk the cut began to heal. It is now completely healed, and my husband says he will never be without a box of Zam-Buk in the house, for we are sure it saved us a great deal of expense."

Over and over again Zam-Buk has been proved to be the worker's best remedy. As soon as applied to a cut, a burn, a scald, or any skin injury, it relieves the pain and it sets up healing. It also prevents blood-poisoning or inflammation. It is a sure cure, too, for eczema, piles, ulcers, old wounds, bad legs, ringworm, scalp sores, festering, running sores, eruptions, cold sores, chapped hands, etc. Its absolute purity also, makes it the ideal balm for babies.

Zam-Buk Soap should be used along with the balm for washing all sore places. This soap will be found excellent for baby's bath, even where the balm is not being used.

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 05c. box, and Zam-Buk Soap at 25c. tablet, or post free, from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

Old Turkish Rules For Diplomats

The Turkish government used at one time to make foreign envoys in Constantinople conform in some degree to Mussulman customs. They were not allowed to appear in public accompanied by their wives, as this practice might have caused heart-burnings among the native woman, who could never hope to be treated on an equality with their husbands. Endeavors were also made at one time to extend Mohammed's prohibition of wine to foreign diplomats. This was found impossible, but until the end of the 18th century all the wine consigned to them had to be conveyed from the harbor in the dead of night so that the faithful should not be contaminated by seeing the accursed liquor.—London Chronicle.

CHAPTER I

A West Coast Welcome

"Mighty beach to-day!" grumbled Captain Image, and handed binoculars across to the purser.

Mr. Balgarnie tossed his cigarette over the lee rail and tucked a sheaf of papers into his mouth so as to have two spare hands. Day had ten minutes before glared up over an oily swell-writhing sea of bottle-green; dew lay in flat greasy gouts on the deck planks and the skylight frames, foretelling in clear prophecy another spell of scalding West African sunshine; and a mile out from the crashing, bellowing surf that smoked along the beach, the S. S. M'poso buttocked sullenly over the swells, with engines rung off, and sweating firemen on the top of the fiddley, slewing ventilators to catch a flavor of the breeze.

"They've seen us, sir, at the factory," said Mr. Balgarnie. "All the boys are out working cargo, and there's old Swizzle-Stick Smith sucking his eternal pipe and hustling them with a chiquot. I can catch the glint of his eyeglass. Wonder how long that man's been out on the Coast? Must be a matter of twenty years now by all accounts since he had his last run home. He's found the right kind of ju-ju to dodge fever-palaver, anyhow. They say he's a lazy old beach-comber as a general thing, but he's up bright and early this morning."

'Wouldn't you rouse out in a hurry if you only saw a Christian steamboat once in three months at the oftenest? I told the second mate to make fast the whistle string to the bridge rail when he judged he was five miles off the old sinner's beach, and I guess Swizzle-Stick Smith jumped slap through his mosquito bar at the first toot. See those pyjamas he's wearing? He bought them at the forecastle shop aboard here just six months ago."

"Blue, with pink stripe, so they are. This is a rare good glass of yours, sir. Yes, I remember Chips telling. Three pairs he got at nine bob a pair. Wouldn't pay a sixpence more. And tried to get a bottle of Eno thrown in as a makeweight. Phew! but this day's going to be a ringtailed scorcher. Look at the mist clearing away from those hills at the back already."

Captain Image stuffed a pipe and lit it. "It's a murdering bad beach to-day,'" he repeated. "Always is when there's a few tons of cargo waiting for me to get commission on."

The purser touched no cargo commission, and so had but small sympathy for cargo gathering. "I see old Swizzle-Stick's making his boys run down the oil casks into the surf. They'll never swim them through. Rather a pity, isn't it, sir, to stay on here and let them try? They're bound to get half of them stove at the very least."

"That's his palaver. I missed calling here last round. There was a swell like a cliff that day; but then there always is a bad beach along this run of the Coast; and so he should have double lot of cargo ready for me. There'll be oil and there'll be rubber, and I shouldn't wonder but what he's a few bags of kernel as well. I bet that factory on the beach there is just bulging with cargo. It ought to tally up to quite fifty tons and I'm not going to have some other captain snapping up old Swizle-Stick Smith's trade if I know it. Balgarnie, my lad, I'd the straight tip given me from O'Neil and Craven's in Liverpool, when I was home. If we don't make it handy to call at their factories along the Coast, the Hamburg boats will. They've shipped a new director or something at O'Neill and Craven's—K. O'Neill he signs himself—and that man intends to make things hum."

"My Whiskers!" said the Purser. "I clean forgot. We've a new clerk for O'Neill and Craven's here at Malla-Nulla. It's that red-haired young chap, Carter, in the second class."

"Last three red-haired passengers I knew all pegged out with three months of being put ashore. Color of the hair seems to counteract the effect of drugs. Purser, I'll bet you just two cocktails Carter's planted before we're here again next trip."

"It's on," said Mr. Balgarnie, "and I shall remember it. The young chaps made me a picture frame for my room as good as you could buy in a shop, and he's built the Doc. some barbed arrows just like those Kasai ones the old chief brought along form the Congo when he was on the Antwerp run. He's a handy young fellow."

"That doesn't get over the red hair, Purser. You'll lose that cocktail. Bet you another cocktail, if you like, he gets spilt in the surf geting ashore."

Mr. Balgarnie winked pleasantly. "Then we'll consider that last one lost already." He put his head inside the chart-house and called out the captain's Krooboy Steward—"Brass-Pan?"

"Yessar."

"We fit for two cocktails."

"Savvy."

"You lib for my room, you fetch dem gin-bottle, an' give him to bar steward."

"Savvy."

'Well, what are you waiting for? Get along, you bush-man, one-time . . . That's a poor boy I'm afraid you've got, Captain."

"Pipe-clays shoes very neatly,' said Captain Image. "Oh, you've brought those papers for me to sign. Wel, come into the chart-house, Purser, and we'll get them through. Hope that fool of a boy will bring the cocktails quick. These early morning chills are dangerous unless you take the proper preventives."

Meanwhile the brazen day had grown, and work proceeded at a forced speed both on the steamer and on the beach. Ashore, the lonely factory bustled with evil-scented negroes, who strained at huge white ended palm oil puncheons. On the M'poso a crew of chattering Krooboys busied themselves aft, and presently under the guidance of a profane third mate a brace of surf-boats jerked down towards the water, the tackles squealing like a parcel of angry cats as they rendered through the blocks. The boats spurned away into the clear sea before the steamer's rusty iron side crashed down onto them: the Krooboys perched themselves ape-like on the gunwales paddle in hand; and in the stern of each straddled a noisy headman, in billy-cock and trousers, straining and swaying at the steering car.

The headman was in charge, and the well-spiced official English of ship-board ceased. The speech in the boats was one of the barbaric tongues of savage Africa. But the work they got through and the skill they showed exceeded by far that which could have been put forth by any crew of white men. Indeed, in his more pious moments, Captain Image, in common with other mariners of his kind, firmly believed that God had invented certain of the West African Coast tribes for the sole purpose of handling the boats of the Liverpool oil tanks on surf-smitten beaches.

Now, Captain Image was not in the least degree a snob, and he did not take even first-class passengers on their face value. As he would explain to intimates, he was not out on the Coast for his health; he very much wished to be able some day to retire on a competency, and grow cabbages outside of Cardiff; and so he dispensed his affability on a nicely regulated scale. It a man could influence cargo in the direction of the M'poso, Captain Image was ready at all times to extend to him the rough red hand of friendship and to supply gin cocktails and German champagne till conversation flowed into the desired commercial channel. He called this casting bread upon the waters, and could always rely on getting the prime cost back in commission. But he was no man to waste either his good liquor or his pearls of speech on a mere fifty-pound-a-year clerk, with a red head, who would very possibly be dead before the M'poso's next call, and who certainly could influence no cargo for the next two years to come. So from the day they left Liverpool to the day when the steamer's forefoot scraped at her cable off Malla-Nulla beach, Captain Image had not condescended to offer that particular second-class passenger so much as a morning nod.

But Captain Image was kindly enough in the West African way, and when he had drunk his morning cocktail and gone through the Purser's papers, he came out of the charte-house again and produced from his pyjama pocket a half-filled box of pills.

"There, my lad," he said to Carter, as he made the presentation, "you take one of those according to the directions on the lid, when required, and you'll have your health kept in a repair that will surprise you. Now, mark me well; you'll be tempted with other brands of pills; old Swiz—I mean Mr. Smith, your boss, is a regular crank on drugs; but as sure as you tip other medicines down into your inside, my pills will get hindered at their proper work, and you'll be knocked over."

'Thanks,' said Carter. "But I always understood——"

"I'm sure you did. Now there's one other thing I want to impress on you, my lad. Your duty is to get on, and the way to do that is to scratch up cargo and send it home by the M'pose. You see my lad, I've got more influence with O'Neil and Craven than other captain on the Coast (though you needn't go and stir up mischief by spreading that about), and if you keep yourself in memory by the way Malla-Nulla ships cargo by me, I'll let them fully understand at the home office that services like yours want a big raise in salary. There, don't bother thanking me, my lad, and just you stow that box of pills where they won't get lost if you're spilt going ashore through that surf. It's a mighty bad beach to-day."

"Ah, morning, Carter," said Mr. Balgarnie as he bustled up. "Got all your things up on deck? It's no concern of mine, of course, but if there are any odds and ends you want, such as socks, or Florida water, or a mosquito bar, I believe Chips and the bos'n keep a sort of surreptitious shop somewhere in the forecastle where you could fill up your stores."

"Much obliged," said the passenger, "but I think I've got all I want or rather all I can afford."

"Remembered to bring donkey-clippers for hair-cuting? No? Well, just as you please. What I really wished to mention to you was this: when your pay comes in, you'll naturally want little comforts sent out from home, and you won't care to worry any of your friends to get them for you. No don't you have any qualms about making use of me. Just say what you want, and I'll get it and bring it out." Mr. Balgarnie winked most pleasantly. "I am purser, here, of course, and have to back up the Company's charges, but I can always make the rates reasonable to oblige a friend. There good-bye, old fellow. The boat's ready to take you off.

WOMAN'S TRIALS.

The burdens a woman has to carry through life are many but they can be lightened if she will turn to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. A soothing and strengthening nervine—subduing nervous excitability, prostration, hysteria, hot-flashes and the many symptoms which may be caused by distressing ills peculiar to women. For those "dragging-down" pains or distress and for the derangements and irregularities the "Favorite Prescription" has had many thousands of testimonials from people living in every part of America. Another important thing to every woman is that this medicine is made from efficient medicinal roots, without the use of alcohol, narcotics, or any injurious agents. Full list of ingredients given on bottle-wrapper and sworn to by Dr. R. V. Pierce—who is President of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N.Y. Every woman is invited to write to this Institute and receive confidential and sound medical advice, entirely without cost from one who makes the diseases of women his specialty.

MRS. MORRELL.

"I can cheerfully recommend your remedies, especially your 'Favorite Prescription,' for all female disorders," writes MRS. M. M. MORRELL, of Bluff City, Tenn., Route 2. "During the past seven years I suffered from pains in the back and ovaries. Tried many remedies but found only transient relief until I was persuaded by a friend to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After giving this remedy a fair trial. I found that it would do just what it is recommended to do. I used in all seven bottles. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Pierce's remedies for all female derangements."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate liver ills.

Insurance on Royal George.

London, Nov. 8.—The Royal George was insured here for $875,000. This represents the value of the hull and machinery, but the total value is not far short of $1,250,000. The liner was originally built for the Egyptian trade between Marseilles and Alexandria, and was then named the Heliopolis.

HAPPY THOUGHT

Give Your Stove the "Frying Test"

PROBABLY you think frying such a simple form of cooking that all stoves should be equal in this respect. That is just where you are mistaken. The "frying test" proves conclusively a stove's real worth to you.

Frying with the "Happy Thought" shows you this. A small fire does more and better work than a big fire does in other stoves—gives you more heat, right at the lid opening. Besides, the moment you lift the lid and put the frying pan in place, you get the very maximum of heat that the fire can produce—just where you want it. When you replace the lid, the heat goes straight to the oven and concentrates there with all its intensity.

No other stove is designed to do this so effectually. That is one reason why the "Happy Thought" has a superior value for you.

Vol. 46 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1912. No. 161

FORMAL OFENING OF OUR CITY'S HANDSOME NEW SCHOOL STRUCTURES

A Public Inspection of Belleville's Two New Schools Largely Participated in by Local People--Provincial Minister of Education Was Present--Contractor Bennett's Excellent Work --The Day's Doings.

MR. G. A. BENNETT,
Contractor and Builder

MR. JAMES ELLIS,
of Ellis & Connery, Architects, Toronto.

That Belleville possesses two of the most up-to-date and best equipped schools in the Province, if not in the entire Dominion, was the general impression of all who visited the formal openings of the new Queen Victoria and Queen Alexandra schools yesterday. As to a description one must make a general inspection to ~~become familiar~~ with the general detail, yet a running sketch of those honored by the presence of Hon. R. A. Pyne, M. D., L. L. D., Minister of Education for the Province of Ontario, and prominent local men, is not out of order.

Queen Victoria School, situated on Pine street, is a handsome structure as viewed from without, containing eleven class rooms, on the second floor, each capable of accomodating forty pupils, equipped with thermostat automatic control, electric light, electric bells, fire alarms and telephones, the latter connected with the principal's apartment, where the central is established. The apartments are ventilated by the Pease System of heating and ventilating, the air being changed every fifteen minutes. The control is set by a key in the possession of the principal and whenever a change is necessitated on account of the weather, it is accomplished without responsibility on the part of the teachers. Each apartment has side rooms for the storing of wearing apparel during the day.

The teachers' and principal's apartments are down stairs, containing ample conveniences for the needs of all, and a large assembly room, that can be divided into sections by means of rolling doors, is a pleasing arrangement of the general plan. The basement is equipped with play rooms, separated for boys and girls with lavratories and all modern conveniences. Also the plant for a motor, which drives large fans, capable of sending 450 cubic feet of air per minute into the various apartments, the air being forced over the boiler, giving heat in the winter and coolness in the summer throughout the building.

Queen Alexandra School, on Ann Street, containing eight room, is equipped in a similar manner, with the exception of the principal's and teachers' private apartments being up stairs.

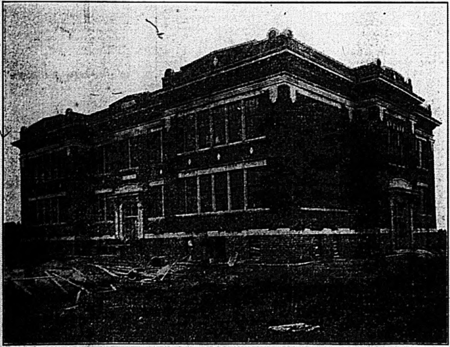
The doors of each class room, opening into a general corridor, contain a glass section, allowing a visitor, in quest of any particular teacher or pupil to get a view of the interior, thus ascertaining whether or not the party sought is present, without disturbing the session. These, it is said, are the only schools in the Province possessing the convenience.

Mr. G. A. Bennett, the local contractor and builder, into whose hands the work of general construction was placed, is to be credited with two of the finest public buildings this thriving city possesses, and according to the opinion of Mr James Ellis, of the firm of Ellis & Connery, architects, of Toronto, under whose plans the buildings were constructed, no better school buildings are to be found in the Dominion. Mr. Bennett is one of those men who believes in doing work well, and that he has fully succeeded in this regard is the expression of those who visited them yesterday.

Mr. Bennett, who is of English descent, came to Belleville from Nova Scotia in 1878, established his present occupation, during which time he has erected several of our city's best business houses, among which is that of the Springer Lock Manufacturing Co., of which he is a director. He has been a member of the Board of Education for fourteen years, thirteen of which he has served as chairman. It has been a long, rugged fight on the part of Mr. Bennett for better school facilities, the change from the long bench to the single seat system in the High School being brought about through his endeavors, and many other improvements that the teachers are now enjoying. He was also instrumental in the enlargment of Grier Street School, which, owing to his marked interest, is frequently referred to as the "Bennett School." In fact he is the only man on the Board who has ever experienced the pleasure of a resolution extending thanks for efficient services, which evidently means much in this municipality. In the true sense of the word, he is a fighter for school progression, and we believe the time is ripe for a general vote of thanks to Mr. Bennett for the production of the two magnificient structures which were yesterday submitted and accepted by our School Board. The confidence manifested in placing everything pertaining to construction in his hands, has not been misplaced.

We might add, and the reference is due, on account of the most satisfactory work, that the heating plant was installed by Boxall & Mathew of Lindsay, the hardware furnished by the Springer Lock Manufacturing Company, and the painting and decorating done by W. A. Cornelius, of Front Street, this city.

From an educational point of view, and nothing is more important, yesterday in this city was a red letter day. In the fall of 1911 the erection of two new public schools was commenced, and recently these places of learning were completed and occupied by hundreds of the rising generation. The Board of Education, realizing that the advent of these schools in our midst was worthy of public recognition, decided that a formal opening of them should take place. It was intended to have held the opening on Friday, the 1st. inst., but owing to circumstances over which the Board had no control, a week later was selected, yesterday being the day, which was very beautiful for such an event. Considerable interest was manifested in the proceedings owing to the fact that the Hon. Dr. Pyne of Toronto, the Provincial Minister of Education, came to the city to participate in the event and formally declare the schools open. The Hon. gentleman was accompanied by his secretary, Mr. C. D. James. The whole proceedings passed off in a delightful and harmonious manner.



QUEEN VICTORIA SCHOOL, PINE STREET.

MORNING PROCEEDINGS.

At 9.30 a.m. the Hon. Dr. Pyne, at the Armouries, inspected the Octavia Street School cadets and the High School cadets, passing them for efficiency of drill which they exhibited. He was then escorted by the cadets to the new school on Ann street, where, in addition to the school children, hundreds of citizens had assembled. Previous to the commencement of the programme proper the Minister, accompanied by members of the Board of Education, visited the various class rooms and were royally saluted by the pupils. After the inspection the children were marched to the spacious assembly room, the Minister and others facing them.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, Chairman of the school, briefly opened the proceedings by referring to the fact that it was a pleasure to have the Hon. Dr. Pyne present upon this occasion. On behalf of all present he extended a hearty welcome to their distinguished guest. He then referred to the building of the school and the care that had meen exercised in having it one of the best schools that possibly could be. While it had been built on scientific principles, there had been a careful expenditure of the citizens' money. The order of the boys and girls was commented on by the speaker.

The children, led by Mrs. A. P. Allen, rendered most acceptably "The Maple Leaf."

Rev. H. S. Osborne, pastor of Bridge Methodist Church, being called upon, offered an appropriate dedicatory prayer, and asked the blessing of the Divine Architect on the school.

Mr. C. M. Reid, Chairman of the Board of Education, was next called upon, and in his opening remarks said the Board, scholars and all were grateful to Hon. Dr. Pyne for coming to the city and taking a prominent part in the formal opening of the schools. While it was anticipated that the erection of the two new schools would furnish abundant room, both schools at present were well filled up. The Board had built not for today but for some years to come. There had been criticism because of the building of the schools, but they were a necessity and the necessity had been met. He had no doubt that the citizens in general agreed with the efforts the Board had made in providing the new schools.

"Rule Britannia" was then sang by

Austria-Servia Controversy Acute

(Intelligencer Special.)

LONDON, Nov. 9.—In defiance to Austria's warnings and demands, Servia is rushing an army today to seize and hold the Adriatic seaport of Darazzo. Austria has also threatened to throw a strong military force across the Servian frontier if Servians disregard Austria's warning. That Servia, doubtless backed up by Russia, has taken up the gauntlet was quoted here as promising immediate precipitation of a crisis. Whether triple alliance allies, England, France and Russia, and triple alliance Germany, Austria and Italy, will be at each others' throats within another week, was regarded by level-headed diplomats here today as depending on hardly more than the flip of a coin. French Ex-Minister of Foreign affairs put it today: "Europe is at the mercy of events."

Various Conflicting Reports Received

(Intelligencer Special)

PARIS, France, Nov. 9.—Wild and contradictory reports reached this city today. One was that Maxim Pasha, with the bulk of his army defending Constantinople, had been surrounded by Bulgarian troops and surrendered. Another report said that the Bulgarians were still besieging Tchataldja forts. There is nothing definite from foreign warships outside Constantinople, so the powers prefer to wait until there is, before delivering any further reports.

Gunmen Expected To Plead Guilty

(Intelligencer Special)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 9.—It is reported here and confidentially believed that the four gunmen charged with the actual murder of Rosenthal, will on Monday plead guilty to second degree murder, and throw themselves on the mercy of the court.

Jack Johnson In Chicago Jail

(Intelligencer Special.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 9.—Champion Jack Johnson awoke in Cook County jail cell this morning and took as much exercise as his narrow quarters permitted, and wondered where he could raise thirty thousand dollars bail demanded by Judge Landie. He will probably spend Sunday in jail, anyway.

Cost of Living.

The official government report shows that the high cost of living is almost equal to the cost of high living.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Now that a government commission has made an exhaustive examination and reported thereon, the public suspicion that the cost of living is high has been confirmed.—Philadelphia Ledger.

It is true living costs more than it used to. The federal bureau of labor has issued a report confirming the rumor. We had hoped the story might at last have turned out to have been unfounded.—Chicago Record-Herald.

There may be advancement in aviation, but at what cost of life!—New York American.

Doing fancy "stunts" in an aeroplane is taking dangerous chances, of course, but even the man who does nothing but plain, everyday, unornamental aviating is not regarded by the life insurance companies as a safe risk.—Chicago Tribune.

Democrats Gain In Washington

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 8.—Democrats in Washington took fresh courage early today when 1,777 precincts out of 1,963 showed Ernest Lister, Democratic candidate for governor, leading by 1,986 votes. Earlier in the night his plurality dwindled to 601 and the Republicans claimed all the remaining precincts for Governor Hay. The election is still in doubt.

State officers below the governorship are divided between Progressives and Republican, no Democrats having been elected.

Burns Two Thousand Pounds of Candies

HAMILTON, Nov. 8.—Food Inspector Shane, visiting the premises of Lumsden Brothers on McNab street, found conditions insanitary, especially in the candy-making department, and directed that 2,000 pounds of candies be burned, and stood by while they were dumped into the furnace.

The inspector gave instructions that the premises be thoroughly cleaned, and had a summons issued to the proprietors, charging them with keeping impure food stuffs on the premises.

Yukon Member, With Others Stalled in Ice

DAWSON, Alaska, Nov. 8.—The str. Vidette, which left here four days ago with 100 passengers for White Horse, ran into heavy ice on Indian River and is now stalled. The river is closed this side of Indian and the steamer cannot return.

The passengers, including ten women, started back over shore ice twenty-eight miles.

Among the passengers is Dr. Alfred Thompson, who was racing to reach Ottawa in time for the opening of Parliament.

Roosevelt's Son-in-law Probably Defeated

CINCINNATI, November 8.—Congressman Nicholas Longworth, Col. Roosevelt's son-in-law, was defeated for re-election by Stanley Bowdle, Democrat, by 85 votes according to the unofficial canvass of the vote in the first Ohio district. Congressman Longworth will not admit his defeat, however, and the result will not be finally known until the board of election has made its official offer.

LITERARY NOTES.

There is nice variety in the November Canadian Magazine. First place is taken by a travel sketch entitled "Windermere to Coniston," by Newton MacTavish. Of an entirely different character is the article entitled, "Canalising the Detroit River," in which James Cocke Mills shows how the United States Government has expended ten million dollars in improving navigation in Canadian waters. There is also an important article by C. J. Boylen entitled "Progressive Ontario," showing what has been accomplished of late to improve the condition of the people of the province. Kenneth Douglas contributes a carefully considered sociological study, and there are short stories, sketches and poems by Margaret Bell, Virna Sheard, Rae Hutton Harris, M. Forsyth Grant, Blanche Ableson, J. D. Logan, Kathleen Blackburn, Frederick C. Curry, Mary Cornell, and Hilda Ridley.

A despatch from Berlin, Ont., reports that the Post Office Department is taking a novel step in the decision to establish a sub-station in the Grand Trunk station at that town for the convenience of manufacturing concerns and residents in the northern section. By this means it will be possible to make delivery much more expeditiously as mail can be sorted from the train without the extra transfer from train to mail cart and from mail cart to post office. The experiment will no doubt be watched with general interest.

Skin Sufferers' Doubt is Removed

Many eczema sufferers have failed so utterly with salves and other discoveries that even the assurance of the physician or druggist cannot induce them to invest another dollar in any remedy.

It is to these discouraged sufferers in particular that we now offer, at only 25 cents, a trial bottle of the accepted standard eczema remedy, a simple wash of oil of wintergreen, thymol and glycerine as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription.

Hundreds of cures have convinced us and we know you can prove instantly with the first application of D. D. D. Prescription that it takes away the itch at once. You have only to spend a quarter to get instant relief. Isn't it worth while?

Queen Victoria Had Dislike For Ancient History

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The Journal of Queen Victoria's life, based upon her diary and edited by Lord Esher, which will be published today, contains a statement that King George would like to abandon grimy-looking Buckingham Palace for Kensington Palace, the home of his grandmother, but from interviews with leading publicists and architects, the Daily Express proves that public sentiment is against the proposal, so that the King will have to be content with a new front of Portland stone to make the homely pile presentable.

The diary is full of naive admissions. It tells of the Queen's admiration for Taglioni, her dislike for Kemble as a ranter, and her objection to ancient history, Latin and Bible lessons, and ends with a description by the Queen of how she courted Prince Albert, who was "so beautiful, with lovely blue eyes, broad shoulders and a fine waist;" tells how, when he accepted, they embraced; and describes her wedding morn, when, she says: "I wore an orange wreath like all brides, and after the ceremony, bade farewell to mamma and drove off with Albert all alone."

The Womens Institute

Of unusual interest was the November meeting of the Women's Institute, at which many new topics of interest were discussed, among them being the question of making "A more beautiful Belleville," introduced in an able paper by Dr. Yeomans, medical health officer. "City planning," he said, "was a modern movement, taking in such phases of city life as 'The grouping of public buildings,' 'Laying out of streets, parks and playgrounds,' 'Transportation,' 'Supply of water, gas and electricity,' 'Construction of Sewers and sanitation,' 'Housing,' 'Music, art and drama for the people.'" He discussed it chiefly under two heads, Sanitary and Social. Great care was necessary with regard to our water supply in Belleville as the city grew and the danger of pollution increased. Garbage should be attended to in a systematic way. Dust was not only a nuisance but a danger to health through the spreading of germs of tuberculosis.

Socially, we should care for our people by supplying small complete homes, so doing away with slums; by providing wholesome amusements, a matter in which the Women's Institute had played such a noble part by the establishing the supervised playgrounds, and by beautifying our city.

A keen discussion followed and it was decided to take up the different phases at later meetings, especially the matter of garbage disposal.

As there was some strong feeling expressed that the High school was not doing all it might in training our girls as home-makers, it was decided to have a "Round Table Discussion" at the next meeting.

The Child Study Class, led by Miss Libby, proved, as usual, extremely interesting to mothers. The president, Mrs. Howard, was appointed delegate to the annual convention in Toronto.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

A wire received at one p. m. from Mr. C. J. Bowell, states that his father is showing marked improvement, though slow.

Dr. Gibson leaves tomorrow for a ten days trips to New York, to attend the Clinical Congress of the Surgeons of North America.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

With last season's hit still in memory, the Commonwealth Male Quartette was received by a full house at the Y. M. C. A. last evening, and while two faces were strange to our people, Messrs. A. P. Hipson, second tenor, and A. H. Logan, bass, being replaced by Messrs. G. L. Boyden and J. Dale Outhuse, respectively, nothing was wanting in the way of harmony and variety of entertainment. A. H. Carpenter, the popular baritone and reader, was in excellent voice, and W. E. Paine, whose rarely clear tenor is ever an inspiration, was fully himself, each being happily greeted by those who heard them on their previous appearance here. The new members of the quartette possess excellent voices in their individual range, and all present were highly pleased with the entertainment given.

Programme.

1—Foresters, Sound the Cheerful Horn.
2—Tenor solo, "I Love You."
3—Beautious Night.
4—Piano solo, "The Brook."

AIDING THE FRUIT INDUSTRY

Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, as a fruit grower on a large scale in the Niagara district and later in British Columbio, has naturally take a keen interest in the fruit industry. For a number of years there has been an agitation for better inspection of fruit for the domestic market. Fruit for the export trade was carefully inspected, but the export trade was left to the tender mercy of the dealer. After careful consideration a thorough reorganization of the inspecterial system at points of shipment has taken place. As far as possible inspection at points of shipment is being carried out and thorough attention is being given to a systematic inspection of all the fruit coming into Canadian markets from the United States. A great many additional inspectors have been appointed and a chief inspector placed in charge of the various provinces. By this means a lot of good educational work will be done and there will be a more thorough and systematic oversight not only of fruit entering Canadian markets, but also of that packed and marketed by the Canadian growers. The result will undoubtedly prove of great value both to growers and consumers alike. Five new chief inspectors were appointed and fifteen temporary inspectors were added to the staff for the fall rush of fruit.

The Minister also has been taking a keen interest in dairying. During the past few months a dairy station has been erected at Finch, Ontario. It is now being operated as a model cheese factory and creamery. It is equipped with all the latest apparatus and with facilities for investigation and experimental work. It is the first establishment of its kind in Canada. It is hoped by the erection of this station to effect some improvement in the character of the cheese factory and creamery buildings in Eastern Ontario.

The contract has just been let for the erection of a similar station at Brome, Quebec, which will relate more particularly to the butter-making industry.

New dairy record centres were organized during the present season at the following points: Listowel, Frankford, Kingston, Mallorytown, and Farmers' Union in Ontario; at Way's Mills and St. Prosper, Quebec, and at Kensington, P.E.I. An expert is in charge at each of these centres. A supervisor of cow testing was appointed last spring for New Brunswick. The organization of these centres has given a strong impetus to the cow testing movement.

Mr. Burrell has given a lot of attention to ways and means of reviving the declining sheep industry. The Ontario and Dominion Sheep Breeders' Associations have been co-operating with him. Experts were sent to British Columbia and the Maritime Provinces, and an exhaustive report was made to the Minister, which is being acted on at the present time. As a result of their recommendations sales of grade ewes and pure bred rams were held this fall.

CANADA DOES NOT NEED A ROOSEVELT

Yesterday's Toronto Telegram, with a view possibly, to forming an aggressive party all its own, springs this on its readers:

"Assume that a leader left the Conservative party or a leader left the Liberal party on the eve of a general election and went back from the polls with eight times as many followers as his old party could muster in the next Parliament!

"Such an assumption supplies the nearest Canadian analogy to the procedure of Theodore Roosevelt, and Canadians must sometimes regret that they have not raised up a Roosevelt to destroy one or both of this country's "two great historic parties" as Roosevelt destroyed the corrupt and degenerate Republican party of the United States."

Canada is not looking for party bolters, but for statesmen. The tangle—the childlike tactics, we might assume—of the United States political leaders, Roosevelt and Taft, and their subsequent defeat, should be a warning to our country to keep to the straight and narrow path, hammering away for the right until the best possible conditions are attained. It is not so much the sledge-hammer blows as the continual striving for the right that brings about the desired results. Roosevelt forcefully wielded the "big stick," but finally struck wide of the mark, so wrenching his political constitution that retirement from prominent action should be his next move. But some men never know when they are beaten, continuing to battle with the air until they become a nuisance to their country. No, we do not need a Roosevelt. If the Telegram will exercise patience it will find our present leader and Premier fully up to the country's requirements.

When Woodrow Wilson said he would go to bed at 9 o'clock on election night, his friends said he was a philosopher, but we knew what he was. And so it proved. What chance had he to go to bed when all the nighbors were in and using his chamber as a place to stack their hats and coats?—Toronto Star.

FORMAL OPENING OF OUR CITY SCHOOLS

the pupils and cheers given for the Empire and the flag.

Hon. Dr. Pyne was then introduced and accorded a right royal welcome by all present. In his opening remarks the Hon. gentleman said it was indeed a great privilege and pleasure for him to be present upon such an occasion; a pleasure to see the great work which had been accomplished in erecting such a fine school. Since coming to the city he had been most cordially received, and had been showered with complimentary remarks. For these kind expressions he was most grateful. In speaking of the school the Minister said the Board of Education and citizens generally were to be congratulated upon having such a fine school; a school that was in every respect a credit. Another feature which had delighted him was the showing made by the cadets. He was delighted to see them and was pleased with the manner of their drill. He was in hearty accord with the cadet corps in connection with schools. Some might think it was militarism, but such was not the case. He had visited many places in the province but no place had given him greater pleasure to visit than Belleville, which he recognized as a great educational centre. He would enjoin upon all citizens to stand loyally by the Board of Education and uphold them in the noble work of providing good schools. In referring to the flag which the children had displayed, the Hon. gentleman said he was a great admirer of the flag, and he had the flag displayed upon all the schools of the province. (Cheers). It was a means of teaching the children to love the Union Jack, and it was even an inspiration to immigrants entering this country to see that the flag was respected. In the United States the children are taught to be loyal to the flag. Should not the children of this country be equally loyal to that grand old flag? In this respect he had been criticized by some, but he had no objection to fair criticism. The speaker then referred to the teaching profession and the necessity of procuring the best teachers possible and paying them a good salary. You cannot advance and improve education without money. It was a fact that many of our good teachers were leaving this part of the country and going to the North West. Why was this? Because there were inducements for them to improve their condition financially. If the salary is forthcoming the best of teachers will be found for our schools. The time was at hand when we want the best trained teachers for our schools. In this school everything was delightful and commendable. In speaking more directly to the children the Minister enjoined upon them the necessity of being punctual at school and obedient to their teacher. If they did this they would be respected by all. The boy or girl that is obedient will be a good boy or girl. Belleville's schools, he said, had a great history, and great men had been scholars here, such men as the late Hon. Chief Justice Wallbridge and Sir Mackenzie Bowell. The latter he knew and respected and his counsel was always respected. His recent accident was as much regretted in Toronto as in Belleville. Daily his condition was enquired about in Toronto by a number of citizens, and all wished for a speedy recovery. Sir Mackenzie was one of the first chairmen of the Board of Education in Belleville and had always taken a deep interest in educational matters. In conclusion the Minister declared Queen Alexandra School formally opened, and hoped all the pupils would be led to be the best of citizens for this beloved country to which they belong. (Prolonged cheers).

Song—"O Canada," by the school.

Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., in his opening remarks said the National Thanksgiving Day has passed, but in this community the thankful and grateful spirit is abroad to-day because of the prosperity that enables the city to erect such splendid buildings for school purposes, and for the presence at their inauguration of the Minister of Education. It might well be made a day for the taking of an inventory, a day of appreciation for what that inventory reveals of our possessions and our position. The view from the site on which this building stands may well be made the starting point. The water and the land are historic; first the home of one of North America's greatest Indian tribes and later the cradle of Upper Canada, now Ontario, which given to Canada and to the Empire a race of men and women, sons and daughters of pioneers who in intelligence, enterprise and morality are unsurpassed among the nations; who have not only made Ontario the best of all provinces and states on the continent of America, but who have made their intelligence, enterprise and morality largely the foundations upon which are being erected the great provinces of Western Canada. A great novel or romance has yet to be written, when it comes it will have for its subject the early days of Hastings, Prince Edward, Frontenac and Lennox.

That sheet of water that we call the Bay of Quinte, charming in itself and beautiful in combination with its surroundings, has access to all the world. It is an arm of Lake Ontario, one of the great unsalted inland seas which Canada shares in common with the United States; the product of the great mills upon its banks pierces the continent to the west as far as Fort William on Lake Superior, a distance of 1300 miles; the product of the surrounding farms and factories start for the world's markets upon its bosom and are finally borne upon the great St. Lawrence river and its estuary, the Gulf of St. Lawrence, 1200 miles before it reaches the Atlantic ocean. The St. Lawrence from Corwall to the sea belongs solely to Canada and upon its banks the old city of Quebec maintains the connecting link betwen Canada's earliest history and the 20th century, while Montreal, although 1000 miles from the ocean, possesses the best equipped harbor on the continent. We possess a great citizenship in the British Empire. We enjoy a goodly heritage in the best part of it and in common with the mother country and the other outlying portions of the Empire Canada will contribute in some substantial form to the common defence. Putting our responsibilities against our privileges, Canada will not fail in the performance of her plain and unmistakable duty. You have been singing "Rule Britannia" and "The Maple Leaf Forever" with great enthusiasm. Britannia has in the past maintained her rule unaided, and has afforded defence to every part of her far flung Empire; the task will not all be hers in the future. Having the augmented navies of the powers to cope with she needs, and will have, the assistance in men and money of her stalwart and grateful children in the Overseas Dominions. England's fate is Canada's fate. We shall all pitch our tents together; we shall post the same sentries; we shall call out the same guard.

George Smith of Hamilton will officiate in the Alert-Capital sudden-death junior O.R.F.U. game today at Oakville.

Should Varsity tie McGill for the Intercollegiate championship, it is likely that Ben Simpson of Hamilton will referee, as he is agreeable to both teams.

Some of the Argonaut supporters have named the team the St. Argonauts, owing to their being so many players of Irish descent.

The largest crowd of the season will be on hand today at Rosedale, Toronto, when Argos and Rough Riders meet for the championship of the Big Four. Both teams have lost only one game, and in both cases that was at home, the Argos' defeat being the opening game of the season with the Tigers. However, that old saying of a bad beginning making a good ending will likely apply to the Scullers today.

Ottawa Citizen—President "Sandy" Cameron is still optimistic. "No Ottawa team has ever played in such hard luck two Saturdays in succession," he said yesterday, "It would be grossly unfair to judge our team on last Saturday's performance. The Argos had their 'off day' against the Tigers, and we had ours against the Oarsmen. This week the boys will probably play their game from the fall of the flag. I look for a h l match, and if the Argonauts beat us we shall have no excuses to make."

The Ontario Agricultural C ege and the Kingston Collegiate footb teams will play a sudden-death gam for the junior Intercollegiate champi hip of Ontario today at Port Hope. re were to have been home-and-home mes but the Kingston lads cannot affor ne railway fares, so a sudden-death me was arranged.

The Canadian intermediat Rugby championship semi-final and fi l be played on Nov. 23 and 30. wa II. are champions of the Quebec U n, and Rough Riders II. of Hamilton champions of the Inter-provincial U n. The college championship lies betw Royal Military College and Varsity , who play home-and-home games lay at Kingston and on the 16th in oronto. The semi-final will be playe between Quebec and College on the 23r n the grounds of the College champ , and the final at Hamilton on the ds of the Inter-provincial champion

Secretary Art Gray of the V y Rugby Club, is in receipt of a l from McGill, stating that in the t of a tie in the senior series, McG would like to suggest Lansdowne Pa Ottawa where there is seating acco lation for a large crowd. Varsity do prefer Ottawa, and would toss with ill to see whether the game was pla t the M.A.A.A. grounds, Montreal, Rosedale, Toronto. In the event of teams not agreeing, the Inter-collegiate Executive will decide the place.

Hamilton Spectator—Alerts insist upon playing as scheduled, but Manager Livingstone of the Torontos replies through Secretary Livingstone of the O.R.F.U. that the Torontos will not play unless the O.R.F.U. Executive so orders, and in connection with this names over the list of O.R.F.U. Executive members, being careful to point out that seven of the nine are Toronto men.

The Carlisle-Varsity Old Boys game has stirred up the international situation The Black Rocks of Buffalo want games in Hamilton and elsewhere, and Assumption College of Sandwich, Ont., which plays the American game, wants games in London and other western Ontario cities. The proposal is always to play half American and half Canadian rules. Syracuse University and Ottawa College have been negotiating for some time for a game at Ottawa.

MONTREAL, Nov. 8.—Molmans, the stroke oar of the great Belgian eight-oared crew, which has made such a name for itself at Henley, is in Montreal.

He is at present employed in a well-known manufacturing establishment, but is considering certain propositions made to him by Toronto and Ottawa rowing organizations. He claims that there is material in Canada which is far superior to any rowing material he has ever met with, and that the only thing necessary is to have their stroke properly developed.

Judging from certain remarks dropped by "Sandy" Cameron, it looks as if Ottawa would beat Toronto to the acquirement of Mr. Molmens' services.

OTTAWA, Nov. 8.—Mr. Hal B. McGiverin, honorary president of the Ottawa Football Club, formerly captain of the Ottawa team, is opposed to the proposed amendment to the Canadian Rugby Union rules involving the reduction of the teams to twelve or eleven men.

"To eliminate the side scrimmagers would tend to make the game closer than ever," said Mr. McGiverin yesterday, in discussing the matter. "Our Canadian game should be made more spectacular. In recent years there has been very little that appealed to the spectators. The clubs should devise ways and means with a view to improving the game from a grandstand point of view, but I do not think the reduction of the number of players would produce the desired results Some years ago long passes to the sides formed one of the strongest features, but of late the game has been confined to kicking, plunging and short passing runs by the halves. Improvements are necessary, and they should be made at once if football is to continue its great popularity."

Mr. McGiverin is one of the Inter-provincial governors, and it is possible that the board will have some good suggestions to make to the clubs at the close of the present season.

Another veteran footballer, who witnessed the Argonaut-Ottawa game, remarked that the alleged "evolution of Rugby" had been productive of no improvements, as far as he could see. In fact, he claimed that the game as played today, devoid of long passes and other spectacular features, was much closer and less interesting than ten or fifteen years ago. He thought that the halfbacks were slower than in the old days, and remarked that the teams in the Inter-provincial, at least, were becoming too methodical.

HOCKEY.

BERLIN, Ont., Nov. 8.—Intermediate and junior teams will be entered in the Ontario Hockey Association this season, and an effort is being made to secure the co-operation of Waterloo to make the teams as strong as possible.

Ex-Mayor C. C. Hahn presided at a largely attended meeting of hockey enthusiasts here last evening, when the following officers were elected: Honorary Presidents, H. E. Wettlaufer, C. H. Mills, M.P.P., and Wm. Rose; President, Dr. F. H. Kalbfleisch; Vice-Presidents, Joseph Seuber and Wm. Witt; Secretaries, Leslie Seiler and R. Krug; Treasurers, W. Burkholder and J. Clark; Managers, C. C. Hahn and H. Wismer; Executive Committee, the Managers and Secretaries.

THE TURF.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 8.—Jinks McCreary, a prominent rider on the race tracks of the country for the last decade, was shot and probably fatally injured in the corridor of a hotel here last night. Capt. James Jacobs of the Latonia Jockey Club detectives, is under arrest, charged with shooting with intent to kill.

In a statement to the police Jacobs admitted the shooting, and claimed he only used his gun after having been assaulted by McCreary. The latter was denied admission to the Latonia track by the management at the beginning of the present season.

OTTAWA, Nov. 8.—The Hull Driving Club has definitely decided on the dates for its big Midwinter trotting and pacing meet on the Ottawa river. It will be held from January 30 to February 5, inclusive, and the track will again be constructed on the Quebec side of the water, about a half-mile below the Interprovincial bridge. The Hull Club has decided to offer $12,500 in purses, and some of the finest harness horses in Canada and the United States will be here for the meet. The club is affiliated with the National Trotting Association, and it is likely that there will be only one meet in the Capital during the coming winter. Entries to the stake events close shortly, and it is likely that there will be an unusually large number of starters.

Hurl Children Into Flames

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Daily Chronicle sends the following:

"At any moment the storm may break and involve us in the red ruin of massacre and outrage. For five hundred years the Turk has lorded it over the 'infidel.' The last hours of that ascendancy, it is feared may be dyed in blood. We had a foretaste of what is to come in the news from Rodosto. Thither came bands of Nizams driven from Lule Burgas by the victorious Bulgarians. This thin veneer of European civilization vanished like mist in the morning sunlight. A scene of horror followed. The town was given up to massacre, outrage and pillage. It was set on fire in seven places. Children were hurled into raging flames.

"In their agony of fear many tried to get to the open sea in boats, anywhere from these human wolves. In some cases the boatmen were massacred."

Frank Gerard Clemow, M. D., physician to the British Embassy at Constantinople, and a noted authority on diseases and epidemics, in an article in The Lancet, states that the mortality of the war in the Balkans will be made enormous, as much by disease as by fighting.

London Suffering From Freshet

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 8.—Not since December, 1883, has there been such a severe fall or winter flood of the Thames as the freshet caused by the recent rains. The river rose six feet during last night, but the water is going down to-day, though the current has been between six and seven miles an hour. Motor boat owners had an anxious time, but practically all the boats were saved. The West London embarkments is in a bad condition. Sixty feet of it caved in last month, and the wall is defective in other places. Immediate action will have to be taken by the City Council to protect West London residents. The heavy rain of yesterday also demonstrated once more the serious results of having no storm sewers. Flooded streets, cellars and yards are so many to-day that regret is general that London ratepayers voted down last January's storm sewer by-law.

SUFFERED AGONY FROM DYSPEPSIA

"Fruit-a-tives" Makes Wonderful Cure

N. C. STIRLING, Esq.

GLENCOE, ONT., Aug. 15th. 1911.

"So much has been said and written about "Fruit-a-tives" that it might seem unnecessary for me to add my experience.

But "Fruit-a-tives" were so beneficial to me when I suffered with distressing Dyspepsia, that I feel called upon to inform you of the remarkable and satisfactory results I have had from using them.

Dyspepsia and Indigestion as everyone knows, can give you more uncomfortable hours and days than most common complaints.

"I am glad to be able to say to you that although in the past I suffered excruciating agony with Dyspepsia, I am now in perfect health.

Bandits Get $40,000 Stop Train And Flee

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 8.—Bandits boarded a southbound express on the Louisville & Nashville railroad of Blount Springs early today, entered the mail car, awed the clerks by a flourish of revolvers, took possession of several mail pouches, then signalled for the engineer to stop the train and escaped in the country a few miles north of Birmingham. One report said the robbers got loot worth $40,000. Posses are on their trail.

French Wireless Chain

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The French Government has decided to establish a series of wireless stations connecting Paris with the various French colonies and with North and South America. The project as laid before the Chamber contemplates the expenditure of $1,000,000, about a third of that sum to be expected in 1913.

The point of connection in North America has not yet been specified, but the South American-Pacific girdle includes stations in Morroco, the Island of St. Louis, Martinique, the Marquesas Islands, Tahiti, Noumea, capital of New Caledonia and thence to Saigon, Indo-China.

Five Persons Are Burned to Death

BROOKNEAT, Va., Nov. 8.—Fire of an unknown origin almost entirely wiped out this little town early today and caused a loss of approximately $100,000, hardly one-fourth insured. Five lives were lost, twenty five buildings including the post-office, a bank, eleven stores, a tobacco warehouse and the Baptist church were burned. Dynamite was used to check the flames as there was practically no fire-fighting facilities to cope with the blaze. The population is about 500 and there are only three small business houses left.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

A WARNING TO BRITAIN

Bonar Law Points Moral of the Balkan War.

Unionist Leader, In Speech at Liverpool, Says Efficiency of Allies Should Be a Lesson to England—He Omits Expected Tariff Reform and Conscription Pronouncements Altogether.

London, Nov. 9.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The hopes of Conservative Unionists that Bonar Law would somewhat amend his tariff program in his speech at Liverpool in the heart of free trade Lancashire have been severely shattered. A pronouncement was also looked for supporting the policy of conscription as recently voiced by "Bobs."

In point of fact, he said nothing particularly new except promising that the next Unionist Government would introduce a redistribution bill giving Ireland its proper proportion of members in the Imperial Parliament. The leader of the Opposition referred at length to the Balkan situation and declared: "The lesson for England of the rapid and unexpected display of military force and efficiency on the part of the Balkan states is, in my opinion, one of the most memorable events in history and until peace is secured the atmosphere is charged with electricity. No man can foretell when or where the thunderbolt might fall.

"I am not by nature an alarmist. I believe that all great powers of Europe desire peace, but this war has brought to the front again questions which affect vitally the national interests and aspirations not of the day, but cherished for centuries of some of the great powers, such a condition of things is dangerous.

"The war carries a lesson and serious lesson for us. On the one side there was courage and military efficiency, and on the other, courage no less great without military efficiency, and you have seen the result. We, as a nation, have courage in plenty, but compared with the great European powers, we have not, and no one can pretend that we have, military efficiency." (Hear, hear.)

"For us, therefore, our navy is not only our first line of defence, it is our only defence. (Hear, hear.) Is it adequate to the time?" (Cries of "No.")

The present First Lord of the Admiralty has shown that he understands the position of this question, he concluded.

Get Hockin's Photograph.

Indianapolis, Nov. 9.—"I enclose a photograph which I took from the gallery." That was the way Edward Smythe, secretary of an Ironworkers' Union at Peoria, Ill., sent to the union's international headquarters at Indianapolis, a photograph of Herbert S. Hockin, member of the executive board, which had been taken from the rogue's gallery in the police department, according to letters produced by the Government at the trial of the accused "dynamite conspirators" yesterday.

John J. McNamara's reply to Smythe as read was: "That was not the way to send that photograph. Hereafter when you find photographs of members of the executive board in the rogue's gallery put them in a separate envelope and mark them 'personal.' President Ryan was present when your letter came, and I told him he had a fine executive board."

Hocken, accused by Ortie E. McManigal, was the director of the "flying squad of dynamiters," and now successor to McNamara, was said by the Government to have been photographed in Detroit, where he formerly lived.

To Keep Farmers at Home.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 9.—An organization, the prime object of which will be to encourage immigration to Minnesota and discourage emigration, especially to Canada, was launched in Minneapolis yesterday when representative business men of St. Paul and Minneapolis formed the nucleus of the Immigration Association of Minnesota. Heretofore the city and state have worked separately for the same purpose that the association will work for.

A statement sent out by Louis Hill of the Great Northern declared that during the last five months 75,000 people have emigrated to Canada from the United States, taking with them $110,000,000 worth of household goods and machinery.

Extending Compulsory Education.

London, Ont., Nov. 9.—The Adolescence Act, making provision for the extension of the age of compulsory education, was adopted by the Board of Education at a special session yesterday afternoon. No opposition has been shown during the time the issue has been under discussion. Henceforth children between the ages of fourteen and sixteen years must attend educational classes of day or night schools.

Valparaiso, Chile, Nov. 9.—A mutiny has broken out among the garrison of Punta Arenas in the Straits of Magellan, the southernmost city of the world. Two Chilean warships have been ordered to sail there to assist in suppressing the outbreak.

ABSORBS INTERNATIONALE.

Home Bank Takes Over Rodolphe Forget's Concern.

Montreal, Nov. 9.—Another bank merger was practically completed yesterday, when the Home Bank of Canada, head office Toronto, absorbed the Internationale Bank of Canada, head office Montreal. According to the arrangements made, the Internationale Bank will be taken over by the Toronto institution. The Home Bank will take over all branches, assets, liabilities, etc., of the Internationale Bank.

The capital of the Internationale Bank will be reduced from ten million dollars to one million three hundred thousand dollars. The French shareholders will not be called upon to pay any further levy, and will receive back 60 per cent. of what they paid in. This merger was largely brought about through the Canada Securities Corporation.

The acquisition by the Home Bank of Canada of the assets and property of the Internationale Bank of Canada is a logical business arrangement, as the Home Bank has no branches outside the English-speaking provinces, and it is known that the management has been anxious to extend its branches eastward as well as in the west. There are therefore no branches of the Internationale Bank opened at any points where there are already branches of the Home Bank, and the process of amalgamation may be accomplished without the Home Bank resigning any established office where it has been carrying on a banking business with the Internationale Bank.

The La Banque Internationale de Canada, organized Oct. 17, 1911, by Sir Rodolphe Forget and other Montreal capitalists, with the money and financial interests of Paris, France, chiefly concerned, opened at Montreal with $10,000,000 of authorized capital. Of this $7,675,000 was taken up in France and $2,325,000 in Canada, and $1,000,000 of this paid up.

The present Home Bank of Canada has been a financial institution in Toronto since 1854. From that time until 1872 it was known as the Toronto Savings Bank, and from 1872 to 1902 it was the Home Savings & Loan Co. Two years ago the name of the institution was changed to that of the Home Bank of Canada.

At the present time the Home Bank has thirty-seven branches, seven of which are in Toronto.

DEBT IS REDUCED

Four Millions Virtually Lopped Off Canada's Liabilities.

Ottawa, Nov. 9.—The total gross debt of the Dominion at the present time is $489,447,695.13, according to returns furnished the Department of Finance up till Oct. 31. On Oct. 31, 1911, the lebt stood at $478,099,290.93. Assets, however, including sinking funds, province accounts, miscellaneous and banking accounts represent up till Oct. 31 a total of $179,961,407.09, as against $159,505,366.73, which shows that during the past year the national debt has been reduced to the extent of $4,022,098.29.

Last year the assets were slightly greater and the decrease of the total debt amounted to $5,344,844.50.

The total revenue up till Oct. 31, 1912, was $96,137,597.50, while the expenditure on account of consolidated fund was $51,275,393.

The revenue for the same period last year amounted to only $76,291,178.

Expenditure on capital account for the year up till Oct. 31, 1912, including public works, railways and canals, railway subsidies, totaled $15,064,978, as against $14,869,839.43 for the corresponding period last year.

The statement, as can be seen from the above figures, shows an unprecedented increase in revenue for the year, also a considerable increase in expenditures.

GRAND ENTRY PLANNED

Allies Expect to March in Triumph Into Capital.

News of Retreat of Turkish Army Is Expected Hourly, Says Sofia Despatch, and the Balkan Forces Are Preparing to Carry the Cross Into St. Sophia Mosque—Terrible Scenes Are Reported.

Sofia, Nov. 9.—News of the retreat of the Turkish army on Constantinople is expected hourly.

The feeling in the Bulgarian headquarters favors the Bulgarian army marching into Constantinople accompanied by the Servian forces operating in Thrace and a Greek force, which will land in the Gulf of Xeros, near the Dardanelles.

The Servian and Greek crown princes probably will be present and the cross will be carried in triumph into the mosque of St. Sophia.

Premier Gutchkoff in a newspaper interview says the allies have agreed in a general way on the settlement of territorial questions, but their policy, the liberation of Macedonia, has not been decided in all its details. Common action between the states, he declares, will not cease with the war, and Europe may count upon seeing a most cordial union between the states. The Premier says he anticipates no unfriendly action from Roumania. He insists that the allies will submit to no coercion from the powers but on the contrary would rather fight to the bitter end.

Questioned with reference to the future status of Constantinople and Salonika, M. Gutchkoff replied that it was impossible to answer until the war had ended. He added that the question of referring territorial and other matters to a European conference must be decided later.

In conclusion, he said that the Balkan states were resolved to follow an equally friendly policy towards both Austria and Russia.

Occupation of Saloniki.

London, Nov. 9.—An uncensored despatch received by The Daily Chronicle from Constantinople says:

"Friday: Salonika has been occupied by the Greek troops. Their approach was attended by awful scenes Before the Greeks entered the town the elements of disorder broke loose and a terrible massacre of the non-Moslem population took place. Shooting and looting were general. When the Greeks took possession they imprisoned all the Turkish officials. The Turks in captivity in Saloniki number 27,000."

Army Now Rabble.

Constantinople, Nov. 9.—(By way of Kustendje, Roumania.)—Stories of the distress which prevails among the Turkish troops, after the panic seized upon various bodies of the men and, what is worse, tales of pillage, rapine and massacre, continue to come in from various points. It is reported that Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, has decided to send to their homes several thousand of his men who have shown the white feather on the field of battle, but logic would suggest that they deserved more serious punishment.

Reports of the excesses of the fleeing Turkish troops in the town of Silivri, a port on the Sea of Marmora, southwest of the Tchatalja line, apparently are authentic. Many of the inhabitants are said to have been massacred, and the town almost completely burned. The population of Silivri was mostly Greek.

Such stories as these do not tend to reassure the minds of the dwellers in Constantinople, where a sufficiently panicky feeling already prevails.

Pitiful scenes continued to be witnessed daily with the arrival of trainloads of wounded from the front. It is a significant fact that most of the men are slightly injured, which would indicate that the badly wounded have small chance of being picked up. Almost without exception the wounded are on the verge of collapse from exhaustion. Many have been without attention for days, and a majority of them without food or water for twenty-four hours.

The hospitals already are overcrowded and symptoms resembling cholera have appeared. Those suspected of having the disease are isolated in a special shed.

If the dreaded scourge should come to Constantinople, where already there is so much distress and suffering among the wounded and the refugees, the consequences are too horrible to contemplate.

It is impossible, even roughly to estimate the number of refugees in the capital. There are fresh arrivals in each day, and every mosque in Stamboul and the suburbs is crowded. Families from various villages and districts are striving as much as possible to keep together. All the refugees seem resigned to their fate and anxious to go to Asia Minor, where they say the Government has promised to give them land.

Their long string of carts with their children and household effects in them, give the appearance of an exodus of the Turkish race from Europe.

Getting Jury For Gunmen.

New York, Nov. 9.—Five of the twelve jurors for the trial of the four "gunmen" accused of the actual killing of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, had been chosen when the opening day's session of the trial was adjourned last evening.

The four prisoners, "Dago Frank," "Whitey" Lewis, "Lefty Louis," and "Gyp the Blood," were summoned before Justice Goff in extraordinary term of the Supreme Court in the middle of the afternoon when another murder case in which the justice had been sitting was concluded. Dressed faultlessly, clean-shaven and holding their heads high, they walked briskly to their places without heeding the spectators who crowded the courtroom and stared at them.

TO WIPE OUT INSANITY

Conference in Toronto Plans a Vigorous Crusade.

Ontario Government Will Be Asked to Prohibit the Marriage of Defectives, to Establish Homes For the Feeble-minded and to Take a Census of the Insane — Many Municipalities Represented.

Toronto, Nov. 9.—Following an exhaustive discussion of the feeble-minded as a human and economic problem in Ontario, the conference of the municipalities of the province, which was opened by Mayor Hocken in the council chamber at the City Hall yesterday morning decided in a series of resolutions passed by the unanimous vote of the delegates to ask the Government for the amendment of the Marriage Act to prevent the marriage of any mental defective, that the Provincial Government be asked to build and establish institutions adequate for the training and care of the feeble-minded until they attain their majority, the individual cases to be supported in such institutions by the municipalities from which they come, that a comprehensive census of the feeble-minded in the province be taken. A strong and representative executive was chosen to press for the realization of these objects and to remain in existence to keep in touch with all problems which may hereafter arise from the question of dealing with this class.

Nearly two hundred delegates were registered from more than a score of municipalities, representing the municipal governing bodies, the school boards and the medical profession and charities executives from end to end of the province.

The original proposal was to build institutions for the feeble-minded during that period while they may profit by special educative courses provided for the municipalities in groups, as is done in Philadelphia. This resolution was amended to provide for the care of these subjects in institutions to be built and operated by the province, but supported on a pro rata of inmates by the various municipalities.

Addresses were delivered in the morning by Dr. Helen MacMurchy and Juvenile Court Commissioner Starr of Toronto, President Scott of the Children's Aid Society at Ottawa, Miss Brooking, superintendent of the Alexandra Industrial School for Girls, and J. P. Downey, superintendent of the Hospital for the Feeble-Minded at Orillia.

A luncheon was given by the mayor and corporation at noon, and the business of the conference resumed at two o'clock. When Dr. C. J. Hodgetts, chief medical adviser to the Conservation Commission of Canada, delivered an address, in which he pointed out the crying need for the prevention of the marriage of those who could be shown to be feeble-minded. It was then moved by Dr. Hodgetts, seconded by Supt. Scott: "That in the opinion of this conference the issuing of marriage licenses should be confined to a municipal officer, for instance, the municipal clerk. That in the opinion of this conference it is desirable that the Marriage Act should be amended in such a manner as will prevent the marriage of a mental defective. That in the opinion of the permanent organization of this conference the permanent executive be instructed to press on the Government the desirability of introducing such legislation."

It was moved by Ald. Perney of Ottawa and seconded by Ald. Dr. Davey of Hamilton: "That the Legislature be memorialized to provide institutions for the care of the feeble-minded in Ontario, and that municipalities of the province be required to pay for the maintenance of their wards up to the age of 21 years if necessary, after which, if unable to take care of themselves, they shall become wards of the Government."

A permanent executive was then appointed with instructions to move for the carrying out of the propaganda outlined in the foregoing resolutions and to urge for the taking of a census of the feeble-minded in the province.

New Railroad Planned.

Ottawa, Nov. 9.—Notice is given in The Canada Gazette that an application will be made to the Parliament of Canada at its next session for an act to incorporate a railway company under the name of "All Red Line Railway Co.," with power to construct, lay out and operate a line of railway from a point at or near the easterly boundary of the Province of Quebec, thence in a westerly direction by the most feasible route through the Province of Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba to the city of Winnipeg, with branch lines from the city of Qubeec, in a northerly direction to a point on the proposed main line; (2) from the city of Montreal in a northerly direction to a point on the proposed main line; (3) from the city of Ottawa in a northerly direction to a point on the proposed main line; (4) from Fort William or Port Arthur to connect with the proposed main line.

Notice of the application is made by the Bicknell-Bain firm of the city of Toronto.

Suffragettes Were Ejected.

London, Nov. 9.—A number of suffragettes last night made a demonstration in order to prevent John Burns, President of the Local Government Board, making a speech at Battersea. The police were called in, however, and ejected a dozen of the women, and the meeting proceeded.

Boy Need Not Salute Flag.

Newark, N.J., Nov. 9.—J. B. Betts, assistant state commissioner of education, upheld yesterday the refusal of Leofric Temple, formerly a pupil at Cedar Grave public school, to swear allegiance to the American flag and ordered that young Temple be received back in the school from which he was recently expelled.

Young Temple said he was acting under his father's instructions in refusing to swear allegiance to the flag. The boy's father, Frederick Temple, is a resident of St. John, N.B., and for some years was manager of an insurance company in Montreal. He was at the same time an officer in the artillery branch of the Canadian militia.

"The salute to the flag and the pledge at the school assemblies are not mandatory by law," the assistant commissioner said, "therefore, the boy breaks no law. Of course, the board of education of Cedar Grove has the right to pass rules for its schools. But such rules must not infringe upon anyone's rights. The boy's citizenship must follow his parents until he is of age to choose for himself.

"It is within the boy's rights to refuse to pledge allegiance to any other flag or Government but his own."

Zavitz Provincial Forester.

Toronto, Nov. 9.—Prof. Zavitz of the reforestation station in Norfolk County and lecturer at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, has been appointed provincial forester by the Government. This appointment in all likelihood means the establishment of a forestry branch in connection with the Department of Lands, Forests and Mines with Prof. Zavitz as its head.

Prof. Zavitz is probably without a peer as an expert in forestation and conservation. He will take over all questions relating to forestry when he undertakes his new position. The greater part of his work will be in the wooded lands of New Ontario. He will not leave his present position until a man is secured to replace him.

One Good Turn Deserves Another.

Toronto, Nov. 8.—"One good turn deserves another." Detective Jarvis did not forget this old proverb in the police court yesterday morning when the magistrate sentenced John Hynes, a painter to seven days in jail for selling a ladder belonging to Wm. Smith. The officer stepped forward and told the magistrate that Hynes had once helped him when he was attacked by four men at the market. The colonel allowed the painter to go on condition he pay back twice the sum he received for the ladder.

FORMAL OPENING OF OUR CITY SCHOOLS

fruit is evidence of more than life, it is the proof of energy and virility. We have had abounding fruit in Belleville. The tree has been cultivated, it has been well pruned and abundantly sprayed. These splendid buildings that will be formally dedicated today by our able and distinguished guest to the cause of education and to the use of the rising generation will induce the tree to bear yet more abundantly, at which we shall all rejoice. Personally I am grateful to the teachers in the High School and Public Schools for the excellence of their training, the evidence of which I have in the fact that four of my children reached matriculation standard. When I heard complaints of severity I quoted Oliver Goldsmith's description of the village school master—

"And if sever in aught
The love he bore to learning was in fault."

To the members of the Board of Education, to whose efforts we owe the existence of these great buildings, which so well mark the city's advance, and to the City Council which acquiesced in the scheme and willingly financed it, we desire, I am sure, to express our appreciation of their enterprise and progress.

Now a word or two to the pupils: nothing is so much in demand in Canada today as qualified men and women; skill and competency are in unprecedented request; secure all the useful knowledge you can and you will have for sale that which will yield you rich reward. I am going to change the metaphor of a tree to the metaphor of a ship. It is unwise to put on a deck load if the hold is empty or only partially filled. In that condition the vessel will not steer well and under stress of weather may capsize. Teachers are stevedores and should be skilful as they are here, in stowing the cargo of knowledge in the pupil. It is better to concentrate in the acquisition of knowledge rather than be diffuse. Our time for acquisition is limited.

"Could a man be secure
That his days would endure
As of old, for a thousand long years,
What things might he know!
What deeds might he do!
And all without hurry or cares."

We have but span-long lives. If I were to choose today what I should desire to impress upon your minds so deeply that it would remain with you throughout life it is this motto:—CHECK IT OVER. Let no work leave your hands until you have checked it over. Add every column of figures twice, once up and once down, read over every letter and every composition you write and even every post card, check every envelope you address, every entry you make, every bit of work you do. In brief, ascertain by such tests, of which those I have indicated are sample, that the work you have done is accurate and reliable. Then whatever your occupation in life may be, you will reach the top and receive due recompense.

At the conclusion of Mr. Johnson's address the children marched out of the school and lined up in front of the building to participate in the flag raising. Six little girls and boys raised the flag. They were, Olive Wickson, Greta Smith, Rosa Van Allen, Helen Deroche, Barbara Gillen, Sadie Marsdon, Fred Deacon, William Connor, Willie Graves, Arnold Kerr and Tom Lindsay. As the flag was raised it was cheered, and the pupils sang the National Anthem, which brought the proceedings to a close.

As the Hon. Dr. Pyne rose to speak in the school he was presented with a beautiful bouquet by little Miss Helen Reid, who was rewarded by a salutation by the Minister.

At noon Hon. Dr. Pyne was entertained at luncheon at Hotel Quinte by the members of the Board of Education who were present, the Principals of the schools, the architect and builder ,and a few prominent citizens.

AFTERNOON PROCEEDINGS

Immediately after luncheon the Hon. Dr. Pyne and members of the Board proceeded to the new school on Pine street, where an interesting programme was given. The attendance of spectators was exceptionally large Previous to speech-making the Minister was conducted through the various class rooms of the school by Mr. J. F. Wills, Chairman of the school. The Hon. gentleman was most cordially received by the scholars. All parts of the building were inspected and Dr. Pyne was much pleased with the building and its equipment. The children then gathered in the assembly room where the programme was carried out. Mr. Wills presided over the gathering. In opening the proceedings the chairman stated that it was a great pleasure to see so many present at the opening of the new school. The building was equipped as well as it possibly could be. The pleasant faces of the children was an indication of comfort and enjoyment in the new school. It was a pleasing feature of this important occasion that we had with us the Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, who had come to formally open the school.

Song—"The Maple Leaf," by the children of the school.

Mr. C. M. Reid, Chairman of the Board of Education, spoke briefly. This was an answer to the critic who said that we did not want new schools. New and better schools were needed and the Board of Education had them built. The schools are the best that could be built. Some architects say the schools are the best in the province. The speaker referred to the old school in West Belleville and to the necessity of having a new school in that section of the city. We expect to have a new school in that section of the city in the near future. In speaking to the children he advised them to be good children and be obedient to their teachers.

Song—"Rule Britannia," by the scholars.

The ceremony of raising the flag was then proceeded with. Six little girls: Theda Mott, Sibyl Smith, Jean Johnson, Alice McIntosh, Olive Smith and Helen Cooper, at the command of the Minister, raised the flag, and as it was unfurled cheers were given and the National Anthem sang.

Rev. Rural Dean Beamish, Rector of St. Thomas Church, offered an appropriate prayer.

Hon. Dr. Pyne was presented with a handsome bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums by little Miss Evelyn McLaurin, and she received the usual salutation.. The scholars and visitors then repaired to the assembly room where speech making was in order for same time.

Hon. Dr. Pyne was called upon and said he was delighted at having a second experience in formally opening a new school in Belleville. As Minister of Education he would say that he did not lie upon a bed of roses. No matter what course you pursue in educational matters you will be confronted by critics. In speaking of Belleville he said he had no doubt that industrial education would prevail in the city. Industrial education, like all educational improvement, needs money. Another stride being made in educational matters was agricultural classes in high and other schools. These classes were proving of great benefit, as they help materially those engagd in agricultural pursuits. He thought the Dominion Government should yearly set aside a sum of money for industrial education. The day had been most pleasant and beautiful in every respect. The Hon. Minister then spoke upon the flag and what it meant. It meant loyalty to home, and loyalty to King and country. He appealed to all children to be loyal to the Union Jack. There was a great educational wave going over this country, and Belleville was on that wave in providing the best of schools for the children. We are endeavoring to keep abreast of the times in educational matters. He believed Belleville would in the future be a great industrial centre and it would be a pleasure for him to take back to Toronto pleasant recollections of his visit here, and it would be a pleasure for him to inform Sir James Whitney and his colleagues that Belleville was going ahead educationally. He thanked all for the kindness extended to him on this, his first visit to the city of Belleville. In conclusion it was a pleasure for him to name the school Queen Victoria School.

Mr. B. Mallory, Chairman of the Building Committee of the Board, spoke of the erection of the schools and the co-operation of all the members of the Board in this undertaking. If you appreciate the building of these schools back up the Board in having an equally good school erected in West Belleville.

Col. Ponton said he was not a stranger to the Queen Victoria School, as he had given an address in the school on the occasion of the Brock Anniversary. It was a pleasure to have the Hon. Minister of Education present on this auspicious occasion. Educational and industrial life was a great asset to any community. He believed industrial education would be of great benefit to this city. He impressed upon the children to be up and play the game.

Mr. J. A. Elliss of Toronto, the architect of the buildings, made a few remarks. He stated that he had endeavored to give to the city as good schools as it was possible to get. He thanked the Board of Education for having stood behind him in the erection of the schools.

Mr. George A. Bennett, contractor, upon being called on, stated that he had carried out in the erection of the schools the plans prepared for them. He had in the erection of the schools done his best to make the schools what they were designed to be—the best that could be built.

Song—"O Canada," by the scholars.

Dr. Coughlin, Principal of the Deaf and Dumb Institution, said he congratulated the children of the city upon the two fine schools formally opened today. They were magnificent schools, rightly reflecting the character of the citizens in providing such schools. The School Board were to be congratulated upon having two such handsome schools erected. He hoped that Belleville would be to the front in educational matters in this province.

Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., stated that he had assured the G.T.R. men who moved from York and Brockville to Belleville that they would be provided with homes and schools. Today was an evidence that what he had stated to the men was true. Two fine schools had been provided for the children of this city. At the Deaf and Dumb Institution fine dormitories were being erected for the use of the boys attending that institution and in the near future dormitories will be erected for the girls. Dr. Pyne had much to do with this work and he (the speaker) had done all he could in the matter ,and would continue to do all he could for education.

The singing of the National Anthem and cheers for the King, Dr. Pyne, the Chairman of the Board and the Chairman of the School, brought the programme to a close.

The scholars whose singing was much admired, were trained by Prof. D. Cameron, who was present and conducted this part of the programme.

It was regretted that owing to pressure of business, Messrs. E. G. Porter, K.C., M.P., and W. B. Northrup, K.C., M.P., were unable to be present in the afternoon at Queen Victoria School. Mr. Porter sent the following communication, which explains itself:—

C. M. Reid,
Chairman Board of Education,
City.

My Dear Mr. Reid:—

I am writing to express my deep regret that pressure of business engagements which I cannot control will prevent my joining with you at luncheon to Dr. Pyne today or taking part in the official opening of Queen Victoria School. It is no lack of interest nor want of appreciation of the good work that has been done by your Board that keeps me away, but solely matters of business that cannot be postponed. I have always felt a deep interest in the increased facilities for the education of our boys and girls which your Board has in the erection of the two schools so generously afforded and while I recognize the fact that it is with our citizens' money that this has been made possible I am not unmindful of the fact that the success of the movement is largely attributable to the unselfish and determined work of yourself and your Board to whom I offer my sincerest congratulations.

As citizens we must all be pleased with the many encouraging evidences of success and progress in our city, but I venture to think none is more noteworthy or pleasing or can be of greater and lasting benefit than the improvement in the facilities for the education of the younger element amongst our citizens. Recognition must be given to the fact that success in business, professional or any other phase of human activity is measured by the amount of intelligent effort employed in its direction.

The old conditions for training the young when a log school house and a birch rod were considered all that was necessary, or if not all that was necessary all that could be afforded, and when rivalry and competition were little known and the wants of the people were few have given way to a period of stress and struggle, rivalry and competition and when the aspiration of the people is to become bigger and better and still bigger and better. With this change of conditions has also come the necessity for more general and higher education to enable the boys of today, who will be the men of tomorrow, and upon whom the burden of duty and the mantle of authority must fall, to successfully meet and cope with the increasing difficulties in life which time is constantly bringing about.

The Board of Education evidently has been consciously alive to these facts and deserve the thanks of our citizens which I am sure will be accorded them in no sparing manner and let me express the hope that our boys and girls will avail themselves of the splendid facilities offered them and by industry and application fit themselves for the necessities of the time and so discharge the duties and responsibilities of citizenship with credit to themselves and honor to their country.

Again expressing my regret and asking you to offer this apology for me, I am.

Yours sincerely,
E. GUSS PORTER.

Belleville, Nov. 8th, 1912.

NOTES.

Major Barragar, Principal of Octavia street school, was in charge of the cadets.

Flowers about the buildings and the school colors worn by the children added much to the enjoyment of the proceedings.

Teachers and scholars vied with each other in making the opening the decided success which it was.

Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon Messrs. J. F. Wills and F. E. O'Flynn as Chairmen of the two schools for the activity and work they displayed in the proceedings.

Newbro's Herpicide is a discovery. "KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER"

By C. J. Cutcliffe Hyne

A surf boat swung dizzily up and down at the guesswarp alongside and the two yellow gladstone bags on its floor seemed ludicrously out of place beside the savage paddlers. Carter was conscious that his heart worked up to an unpleasant activity but he carried a serene face, dropped to his knees in the gangway, and began with unaccustomed feet to clamber down the Jacob's ladder. He noted without disturbance that he was daubing coal dust and orange-colored palm oil onto his hands and white drill clothes in the process; but he had a mind now which entirely disregarded the trivial; all his interest was fixed upon the boat.

"Don't jump too soon.."

"Take care you don't drop that new pith hat."

"Mind, don't let the boat come up and squash you."

"Don't flurry the man so. Put your feet in your pocket if you see a shark."

A stream of advice, much of it satirical, pelted him from above. Looking over his shoulder, he saw the leaping boat and a ring of negro grins. It was the last that stiffened him into action. The surf-boat swooped up sideways, and when it seemed to him that she had reached the zenith of her leap, he let go the Jacobs ladder and sprang for her.

It is a matter of nice judgment, this determination of the psychological moment for a jump and the amateur has it not. As a consequence Carter's foot slid on the wet gunwale; he buttocked painfully onto a thwart; and was saved from spinning overboard by rough and ready black fingers. The new pith helmet received its first crack, the white drill clothes were further soiled and he was left to gather himself out of the water on the bottom of the boat as best he pleased. Already the Krooboy crew were perched ape-like on the gunwales and stabbing strenuously at the water with trident-headed paddles. The headman straddled in the stern with the muscles standing out in him like nuts, as he sculled with the steering oar.

It had passed so quickly that the steamer had only accomplished one-half of a roll. The white faces that he had seen last beside him were now small and far away at the top of an enormously high iron wall, and to their shouts of farewell and fluttering of handkerchiefs he could not bring himself to return more than a curt hand-wave. It seemed to him that he was cut off entirely from white men and white man's territory, and was launched beyond release into West Africa with all its smells and accoutrements.

He settled himself in the mid thwart of the surf-boat with the water on the floor flowing merrily in and out of his pipe-clayed shoes. Whatever a white man may feel, he always assumes coolness and indifference before the black, and Carter picked up the instinct of his race.

He saw also palm-oil puncheons being brought off, and an interest in the work bit him immediately. Here was the commodity which (bar death) would for years to come be his chiefest intimate. Between eclipses of the rollers, he watched every stage of the work—the great white-ended barrels rolled down the glearing beach, naked savages swimming them through the surf with unimaginable skill, a green painted surf-boat at anchor outside the breakers making them fast to a buoyed hawser. He saw another hawserload being heaved out to the steamer's winch, with the great casks popping about like a string of gigantic cherries. Already on the M'poso he had seen other puncheons howked on board by a steam-crane which was driven by a one-eared Krooboy.

He had grasped this much of his new trade when sight seemed to and the boat lay in a watery ravine with high sides towering above him, and no view save of sleek bottle-green water and cobalt sky overhead. The next moment he was expressed upwards on to an eminence and there before him lay landscape and seascape of most pleasant qualities. At these last moments of exaltation, he saw a glaring beach set along the sea's edge, carrying white factory buildings, and backed in by an orderly wall of green.

He saw also palm-oil puncheons being brought off, and an interest grow misty to him, and his body was chilled with an unpleasant perspiration. It is one thing to take one's regular meals on a fine-sized steamboat, whatever weather may befall; it is quite another to do one's voyaging in a leaping, lancing, dancing, wallowing surf-boat. Few men take their first surf-boat ride over a bad roll without being violently seasick, and Carter was no exception to the normal law.

In a hazy sort of way he noted that the paddlers had stopped their song and their monoteonous effort, and he was seized with a tremendous desire to hurry them forward and get himself and his gladstone bags planted on the stable beach. Ahead of them were roaring, spouting breakers, which it seemed impossible for any boat to live through but waiting outside their fringe was even more intolerable.

"Oh, get on! For Heaven's sake, get on!" he wanted to shout, but almost to his astonished pride of race kept him grimly silent. He had never felt before the whole debt that is owing to a white skin.

The headman in the stern-sheet sculled now and again with his oar to keep the boat on to the roll, and between while chattered nervously. The Krooboy paddlers on the gunwales rested on their paddles and scratched themselves. Roller after roller went by, flinging the boat up towards heaven, sucking her back again to the sea grass below, with a rocking motion that was horrible beyond belief. Carter felt the color ebb from his cheeks; he wondered with a grisly humor if his head was paling also.

But at last the headman delivered himself of a shriek, and a galvanic activity seized the paddlers. They stabbed the water with their trident shaped blades, and stabbed and stabbed again. The surf-boat was poised on the crest of a great mound of water, and they were straining every sinew to keep her there. But the water motion travelled more swiftly than the clumsy boat. She slid down the slope, still paddling frantically, and the following wave lifted her rudely by the tail. She reared dizzily almost to the vertical, the headman at the apex of the whole structure keeping his perch with an ape's dexterity.

She just missed being upset that time, and part of the water which she had shipped was flung over the gunwales as she righted. But she floated there half swamped; labor with what frenzy they choose, the iron-muscled Krooboys could not keep her under command; and the next roller sent the whole company flying.

There is one piece of advice constantly dinned into a white man's ear on the West Coast. "If in a surf-boat you see the boat boys jump over board, jump yourself also if you do not wish to have the boat on top of you." Profoundly sound advice it is. But it has the disadvantage of presupposing capability for obedience, and if (as frequently happens) the passenger is dizzy and weak from seasickness, then the leap may be neither prompt nor well-aimed.

As to where Carter's fault occurred, I have no certain information. The headman shrieked an order in his own barbarous tongue; the boat boys took to the water on either side like so many black frogs; the boat spilt, flinging far two yellow gladstone bags and one limp passenger in soiled white ducks; and, look how one would into that boiling hell of broken water, no red head appeared.

On the glaring beach Swizzle-Stick Smith broke off from his overseeing for a moment, and limped down into the smoke of the surf. He had a chiquot in his hand, which is a whip made of the most stinging parts of the hippopotamus, and with it he slashed venomously at every black form that scrambled out of the brine.

He screamed at them in their own tongue. "Get back you black swine, get back, and fetch out my clerk. If you drown my clerk, I will drown you too. My last clerk died a year ago, and they have got me no other out here since. I won't lose this one. Back, you bushmen."

The chiquot had many terrors to the Krooboys, the water few. It was as much out of forgetfulness as anything else that they had not brought their passenger to shore with them. Besides, how were they to know that he could not swim as well as themselves (that is, about as well as a seal can swim)? But they were not above striking a bargain for their services. A black head, served upon a white pother of creamy surf, gave tongue.

"Oh, Smith. You give cash, suppose we fit for catch 'im?"

"You lig for beach with my clerk, and I dash you one whole box of gin. Hurry up now, you thieves, or a shark will chop him, or else he'll drown."

Heads disappeared, and many pairs of black heels kicked upwards. The old man hitched together his shabby pyjamas, and stared industriously at the broken water through his eyeglass. "It's all very well for this K. O'Neil to send out letters that the firm is going to double its business,' he grumbled, "but if they don't send me men that can get ashore in one piece, how this factory at Malla-Nulla is going to back up, I can't see. By Jove, they've got him, the beggars. Red-headed chap, too. Well, I might have saved that dash, I'm thinking. Men with red heads never seem to stand the climate here for long. It will be a nuisance if the beggar pegs out within a month, after I've spent a case of gin on him."

It was a very limp and bedraggled Carter that was brought ashore presently by the Krooboys. He was held up by the heels, more Africano, to let the Atlantic drain from his inside back into proper place, but he did not show any sign of consciousness till he had been lifted up and carried to the shelter of the retail store.

Swizzle-Stick Smith limped beside him, puffing at his briar. "Beggar's got an arm broken," he commented. "Just my luck. And K. O'Neil will expect the work to be done just the same. Oh"—he said when the dripping Krooboys had put down his guest on the counter—"so you've concluded to come to your senses again?"

Carter shuddered and slowly opened his eyes. A brown cockroach, horrible with dust, dropped from the rafter above onto his face.

"I'm afraid you've had rather a rough bout of it, landing, my lad. It's a very bad beach to-day. There don't move. You're all right. You will feel a bit queer yet."

"The boat upset——"

"It did, most thoroughly. But you are now at Malla-Nulla factory in West Africa, and I bid you welcome. I'm Mr. Smith, your commanding officer. You'd like to lie still for a bit, perhaps?"

"Yes.

"Well, buck up, and you'll soon be all right. You needn't fancy you will be a candidate for a top-hat and a gun-case yet."

"For a which?"

The trader pointed with his pipe stem across the store to a wooden box full of flintlock trade guns. "That's a gun case. Man's usually too long to fit it comfortably, especially if he's as well-grown as you are. So we knock out one end, and nail on an old top-hat. Then you can plant him in style."

The patient's mouth twitched with the corner of a smile. A most tidy custom," he said faintly. "But I say, could you do anything for my arm? Sorry to trouble you, but it's most abominably painful."

"Your arm's broken, worse luck. I'll set it for you when I've got off this cargo."

"I'd rather have a doctor. Will you send off to the M'poso for the doctor there, please?"

The old man laughed and polished his eyeglass on a sleeve of his pyjamas. "My lad, you don't understand. You've left the steamer now, and her doctor's not the kind of fool to risk his own bones trying to get here with the beach as bad as it is to-day. I don't suppose he mistakes you for a millionaire. You came out in the second class I suppose?"

"Yes."

"Then there you are. His responsibility ended when you left he steamer, and ship's doctors don't come ashore in this Coast unless they're sure of touching a big fat fee. Now you must lie quiet where you are, and bite on your teeth till I've some time for surgery. Trade comes first in West Africa."

With which naked truth, Swizzle-Stick Smith relit his pipe, and went out again into the brazen sunshine, and presently was hustling on the factory boys at their cargo work with his accustomed eloquence and dexterity.

CHAPTER II

Introduces Miss Laura Slade

If a white man in a West African factory volunteers details of his previous history, all hearers are quite at liberty to believe or disbelieve, as suits their whim; but if on the other hand, no word about previous record is offered, Coast etiquette strictly rules that none shall be asked for.

George Carter found even upon the surface of his superior officer at Malla-Nulla factory much that was mysterious. There were moments when Mr. Smith exhibited an unmistakable gentility; but these were rare; and they usually occurred when the pair of them lunched en tete-a-tete at 11 o'clock, and Smith had worked off his morning qualm, and had not commenced his afternoon refreshment. With a larger audience he was one part cynic and six parts ruffian; he was admitted to be the most skilful compounder of cocktails on all that section of the West African sea-board; and he sampled his own brews in such quantities, and with such impunity as gave the lie to all text-books on topical medicine.

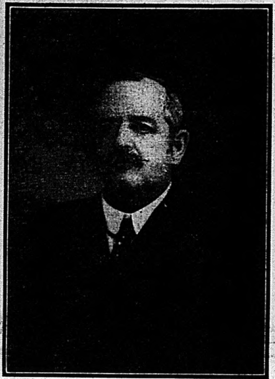
HISTORICAL SKETCH OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE

At the commencement of the Nineteenth Century near the mouth of Meyers Creek now known as the Moira River, a school was organized and taught by a man named Leslie. Shortly after this James Potter taught a school, and after him a school was kept by the Rev. Mr. Wright, a Presbyterian Clergyman, who also preached occasionally. In 1809 just below the present market, back from the river side, stood a little frame school house which was taught by one John Watkins.

About the year 1825 the Rev. John Attwood a man of scholarly attainment who had taught school prior to his call to the ministry was the pastor of the Methodist Church, afterwards known as the Pinnacle Street Church, and now known as the Bridge Street Methodist Church, of the City of Belleville. He was urged by the citizens to open a school, and he acceded to the request for two years. No Methodist Clergyman could stay longer than two years in a place and though no effort was spared to retain Mr. Attwood in Belleville, the Conference was obdurate and would not break the rule. Mr. David Jones followed the Rev. Mr. Attwood as teacher for boys of all ages.



HON. R. A. PYNE, M.D., LL.D.
Minister of Education for the Province of Ontario.

About the year 1829 Miss Haskins, who was the first lady teacher of a private school in Belleville, had a school in a building on the lot where the Bridge Street Methodist Church now stands. Miss Haskins who came out from England, married here, and was the mother of J. J. B. Flint, Esq.

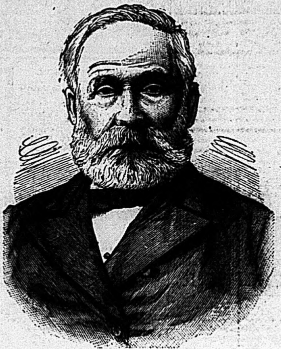
In 1832 Dr. Marshall kept a school in a building on the east side of South John Street for boys.

In 1834 Miss Moorehead had a school for girls and small boys in her house on the east side of Pinnacle Street nearly opposite the Graham Evaporator and back of the Roman Catholic Church.

In 1837 Mrs. Tapson had a private school for girls in Belleville on the west side of the Moira River. Miss Thayer, the mother of Mrs. F. E. O'Flynn, attended this school.

C. M. REID, Esq.
Chairman of the Board of Education.

About this time there was a large immigration into the country from the British Isles of a superior class of people and among them was William K. Blaind from Scotland, grandfather of Mr. Alexander R. Walker, the City Librarian, and father of the brave old veteran recently deceased, Sergt.-Major Blaind, who had been a teacher at home, and when he first came to Canada in 1823 he started farming, and after giving it a fair trial he found that he preferred to live in the town and moved into Belleville. Mr. Blaind with all his ardor and ability for full 20 years gave himself to the cultivation of the Belleville youth, during which time he had amongst his pupils in their boyhood the Honorable Lewis Wallbridge, Barrister, K.C., member of the Legislative Assembly, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly and finally Chief Justice of Manitoba, also Belleville's most distinguished son, Colonel the Honorable Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Privy Councillor, Senator, Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George and ex-Premier of Canada. This school was on the present site of the Armouries. Early in the thirties, Mr. George Benjamin, who established The Intelligencer newspaper and who was for some years member of parliament for North Hastings taught a school for the study of languages. From 1840 to 1845 Mr. Thomas Newton taught a school for boys in the public hall of Belleville's second hotel at the corner of Front Street and Victoria Avenue, and afterwards Mr. W. R. Young also taught this school. He was followed by a Frenchman named Roselle who had as his assistant the late Mrs. Furnival, the mother of Mrs. Henry Pringle. Mrs. Furnival, who was then a young lady school teacher in Vermont, came to the city to visit her uncle Dr. Walton, and while here took the position as assistant teacher to Mr. Roselle, and afterwards married Mr. Furnival and settled here. She was the first lady public school teacher in the city.



HON. SIR MACKENZIE BOWELL, K.C.M.G.
First Chairman of Belleville's Board for Free Schools—1860.

In 1851 the Pinnacle Street School was built and the Board of Common School Trustees secured for this school Mr. Robert Newbery, a graduate from the new Provincial Normal School, a gentleman whose abilities and genial manner made him a popular and useful teacher. He remained in that position until he was appointed Collector of Inland Revenue.

Between the years 1840 and 1856 Miss Tapson had a school for girls in "Murneyville" on the west side of the Moira River. From 1850 to 1855 a Young Ladies' Academy was conducted by the Misses Booth, afterwards Mrs. J. H. Meacham and Mrs. E. Miles. This was situated on "Taylor's Hill" east of the Moira River.

Shortly after the passage of the Common School Act, Belleville put itself in line with its requirements and in 1860-61 had five common schools conducted on the free school system. There was a Board of eight Trustees, two from each Ward. The Trustees for 1860 were Mackenzie Bowell, chairman; G. V. N. Relyea, James Smith, Charles Martin, Robert Newbery, J. H. Meacham, John McInnes, A. R. Dougall. W. K. Kerr was secretary treasurer and John Kerr Collector. The five schools were No. 1 Gilbert St.—John Macoun, Master; No. 2, James T. Bell, Master; Caroline Tapson assistant; No. 3, Pinnacle St.—John B. Steele, Master; Elicia Blaind, assistant; No. 4, Northeast corner Church and Hotel St.—John Burgess, Master; Miss Cathey, assistant; No. 5, Northern part of Coleman Ward, Grier St.—Miss Ann Potts, Teacher. Two teachers of our schools who gained great prominence were John Macoun, F.L.S., F.R.C.S., Dominion Naturalist, and Honorable Colonel Sam Hughes, the present Minister of Militia.

In 1871 the present Board of Education of the city of Belleville was formed by the union of the High School Trustees and the Board of Public School Trustees.

When Belleville was first laid out for the government in 1816 by Surveyor Wilmot, a lot was reserved for a Grammar School, and the first Grammar School was organized by the Rev. John Grier, Anglican Rector, and held in a building which stood on Pinnacle Street on the north side of Campbell Street opposite the place where the Public Library now stands, and on the southwest corner of the lot upon which now stands the Court House. The fire hall was in the lower story, the school in the second story with a dark room back of the school running out against the side hill. The head master was Alexander Burden who was in the habit of locking up refractory pupils in the dark room back of the school and would go down street and spend the time with some boon companions while the boys were having their punishment. The boys had a window loose at the rear and would steal out of the back room for play, leaving one on guard to watch, and when the signal was given that the principal was returning they would all hasten into the room and like good boys were ready to be released. Some time after the opening of the school Mr. Burden had as his assistant Abraham Diamond, afterwards Barrister, Editor of the Hastings Chronicle, now the Belleville Ontario. He was a Police Magistrate and a brother of the present secretary-treasurer of the Board of Education, W. Jeffers Diamond. Mr. Burden was of the old school; he did not believe that women's brains were equal to men's, nor in the co-education of the sexes, and opposed very strongly the practice of allowing girls into the grammar school, and when finally a majority of the trustees decided against him he did not lose many opportunities of showing his contempt for the trustees' decision.

The first grammar school building erected was a story and a half stone one which was built about the year 1850 and still stands in the rear of the present High School, and the school was held here under the government of the High School Board until the formation of the present Board of Education on the 26th of June, 1871.

The first members of the present Board were:—

HIGH SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

Rev. John Grier, M.A., Rector of St. Thomas Church.
Rev. Jas. Farrelly, Parish Priest of St. Michael's Church
D. Pitceathly, wholesale merchant.
A. G. Northrup, County Court Clerk.

Samson Ward—F. McAnnany and William Wensley.
Ketcheson Ward—J. H. Hambly and M. Sawyer.

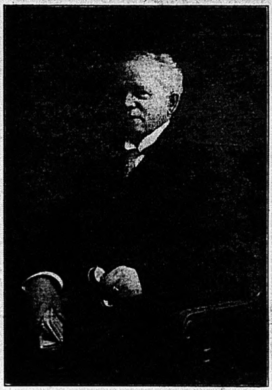
For some years past the Board of Education has been securing larger grounds and preparing to improve the Public School system. A large playground for the children containing two acres was purchased between Queen Street, Bleecker Avenue and Bridge Street, and four acres between Ann and William Streets. Five acres were purchased north of Pine Street and four acres on Turnbull Street. Two large public schools have been built costing with the ground $100,000.00. These schools are modelled after the best in the Dominion and have the latest improvements in connection with the heating, ventilation, seating and light. One school has been built on Pine Street and named "Queen Victoria" School. This is an eleven room school and has at present between 400 and 500 pupils. The second school was named after the popular Queen Mother "Alexandra" and is situated on a beautiful plot of ground between William and Ann Streets and over-looking the beautiful Bay of Quinte. Grounds have been purchased for another school on a magnificent site to the west of the River and preparations are being made for building a third large school. Additional grounds have been procured for erecting in the near future a beautiful Collegiate Institute facing Campbell Street.



F. E. O'FLYNN, B.A.
Chairman of Queen Alexandra School.

The citizens of Belleville view with pride their beautiful schools, and the spirit which has prompted the erection of such splendid primary schools of learning is an evidence that the citizens of Belleville are fully awake to the importance of education and will see to it that their children get every advantage in the growing time of the Dominion.

BUSINESS WOMEN

Qualities She Must Have and Drawbacks She Must Look For

Can women succeed in business? The fact that many women have built up fine businesses solely by their own efforts is non-conclusive. The question still remains. Have women the necessary capabilities and powers to triumph in business alone and unaided by any masculine brain? And if they fail—as women in business often do—why is it?

There is no doubt that a woman can build up a business quite as finely as a man—provided she is the right sort of a woman. In the first place, it is necessary for her to possess what—for want of a better definition—may be called the business instinct. A woman who aims at success must grasp the full meaning of "business" from the outset. She must differentiate sternly between business and sentiment. Business may be made subservient to sentiment, but it is usually fatal to have things round the other way.

The business woman needs to be very strict with herself, and must cultivate concentration. She must be shrewd, far-sighted, quick to grasp and determine anything, and not afraid to take risks when necessary. To obtrude her femininism is to court failure. Business need not kill womanliness—it must not, indeed—but it has no part in the business life. A woman, like a man, falls or rises on her merits, on her own efforts; no leniency is permitted her because she happens to be a woman.

Woman Versus Man

Of course, business women have to compete for the most part with men. Whether this places them at a disadvantage or not, depends chiefly upon each individual woman. But it is most necessary for women to remember that they are working against sternly business men, who look upon business in a purely businesslike way.

It is quite useless for a woman to think that her male rivals will give way to her from chivalrous motives—that they will tell her things which they have learnt by years of hard work and experience. They will not. A woman must pull her business into shape and success by her own capabilities; she must be utterly self-reliant.

There is, too, one great advantage in the fact that she has to compete against men. A thing which men see only from their business viewpoint, the business woman will see from both the business and the woman's standpoint. There is a good deal more in this than appears to be at first sight. Often it means just the difference between failure and success.

The really successful business person—whether man or woman—knows his or her business workings thoroughly in every detail. It is useless for a woman to think to succeed in business simply by putting herself at the head of a body of workers upon whom she is completely reliant. It is most requisite that she shall possess the confidence and respect of her employees, and this is only possible when they see that their employer thoroughly knows what she is about.

When Marriage Intervenes

A woman who carries through to triumph any sort of business must be very well acquainted with the "secrets of her trade"—and able to keep them, too!—and must have no fear of hard work. And, above all, personal feelings of any kind must on no account be allowed to enter into business life. Business must be kept business—quite separate from all that touches the intimate personal life. Granted all this, there is no earthly reason why women should not succeed in business as well as men—possibly better.

There is, though, always the possible contingency of marriage to be considered. A woman who has built up for herself a successful business, who is a power in certain business circles, finds herself rather awkwardly situated when she wants to marry. It depends a good deal upon the man she marries. If he has knowledge and competence, so that she can make over the mangement of the business to him, possibly enter into partnership with him, well and good. If, on the other hand, he has an entirely different business of his own, or, for sundry reasons, cannot have any part in his wife's business, things are altered. A woman so placed must sacrifice either much that marriage means to women or else part of her business. The wise woman will chose the latter.—Tit Bits.

WASHING BY SEE-SAW

Mother of Romping Youngsters Now Lets Them Wash Their Own Clothes

Mrs. Sarah Sewell, an Ohio Woman, invented a device which can not be called impractical, even if at first blush it does not seem destined to produce an undue amount of cleanliness. Observing her small children at play on a seesaw, the while she worked hard revolving the mechanism of a washing machine, she conceived the idea of making the seesaw do the work, giving her time to enjoy life. She patented her idea and it is a complete success, which shows the beauty of possessing at once several children and an inventive brain by which they may be made to wash their own clothes, and at the same time have a good time.

At a meeting of the Edenderry, Ireland, District Council it was said that rabbits had burrowed into the graves in Croghan Graveyard to such an extent that coffins had been stripped.

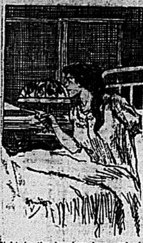
A TORCH PISTOL

Handy Weapon for Householder—Shoots Ray of Light Than Bullet

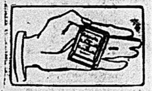
When awakened in the still hours of the night by a prowling burglar it is one thing to have a revolver, but an entirely different matter to be able to aim at the invader. Burglars have a habit of not being where one shoots. With the new "torch pistol," or flashlight revolver, just invented, the awakened person may flash a light in the burglars face, and aim correctly. The flash may so frighten the burglar that a bullet may be unnecessary. The "torch pistol" is also useful hunting in the dark.



ORATOR'S PROMPTER

Anybody Can Make Speeches With the aid of This Little Instrument

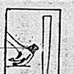
Do you want to make a speech and have your audience think you're so all-fired smart that you can quote figures and facts without looking at any notes? There's more ways than one. Outside of learning your speech "by heart," the best device is the invention of a man in Australia. It consists simply of a small metal case, no larger than the metal match box used.



A roller is at either end of the case and one of the rollers is folded with paper on which appear the notes of the speech. The box is held in the palm of the hand and people standing right beside the orator would never suspect its presence. The paper is unrolled either by pressure of the thumb or by the manipulation of a milled screw on one of the rollers.

PREVENTS PROFANITY

Easy to Pull Nails With Double-barrelled Hammer



A clawhammer that will do more for the anti-swear movement than a host of purity societies has made its appearance. How many times has an attempt to draw a nail failed and at the same time produced unlimited profanity, simply because there was not sufficient leverage to draw the nail entirely out? The new hammer gets around this by having two claws, one above the other. The nail is started with the bottom claw and when it has been pulled as far as the hammer will turn, it is engaged with the top claw and pulled the remainder of the necessary distance.

A LOVELY BABY BOY

This Mother is quite Enthusiastic over a well Known Food.

Mrs. J. W. Pateman, 34 Harriet St., Toronto, in writing about Neave's Food says "When I first knew one of my friends, her baby Jack was eight months old and dying by inches. She had tried three foods because her Jack could not digest milk. At last, I fetched her a tin of Neave's Food. At the end of a month, Jack was rapidly gaining flesh and was bright and happy. He is a lovely boy now and she declares Neave's Food saved his life. And it did.

Then I recommended it to a friend on Victoria Avenue. She had a baby 6 months old that was not thriving a bit. She put the baby on Neave's Food and at the end of three months, the baby was twice the size.

I have never seen two bigger, stronger boys than mine for their ages and we owe it all to Neave's Food. I have the utmost faith in Neave's Food."

Mothers and prospective mothers may obtain a free tin of Neave's Food and a valuable book "Hints About Baby" by writing Edwin Utley, 14 Front Street East, Toronto, who is the Canadian agent. (Mention this paper.) For sale by all druggists. 24R

NOV. 10, 1912.

World's Temperance Sunday. Hosea vii.

Golden Text—Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning that they may follow strong drink, that tarry late into the night till wine inflame them! Isa. v:11.

(1) Verses 1-2—Why cannot a nation nor an individual be morally healed as long as wrong-doing is continued?

(2) If a government is corrupt and the teachers of the nation false to their trust what will be the condition of the people?

(3) Would men in authority act corruptly if they actually realized that God took notice of their every wicked way?

(4) What effect does continued wrong-doing have upon the judgment of the sinner upon his own acts?

(5) Verse 3—How fares the nation when the king, the president, the governor, the judge or others in high authority have been subtly blinded by "graft" or influenced by wine?

(6) Verse 4—When lust and anger burn in a man until his whole life is "leavened" what is the influence of such a life and what will be the man's future?

(7) Verse 5—What is the difference in the effect of "wine" upon the "king" and upon the plebeian?

(8) What is the general effect of drinking wine at banquets and other similar functions?

(9) At what stage in wine drinking does an ordinarily decent man join "his hand with the scorners"?

(10) Verse 6—After an all night carousal how does a man feel in the morning?

(11) When men "lie in wait" to do some devilish thing and drink while they wait what effect does the drink have upon them?

(12) Verse 7—When men are "hot" with wine is it ever a burning desire to do good? Give your reasons (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club).

(13) When we find men "hot" with rebellion against good judges and good government, to which class do they generally belong, total abstainers or drinkers? Why?

(14) In these days how many good God fearing men use wine as a beverage?

(15) Verse 8—When professed Christians consort with the wicked what will be the inevitable result, and why?

(16) What kind of a man is he who compares with "a cake not turned," that is burned on one side and half raw on the other?

(17) Verses 9-10—What proportion of drinkers are so fuddled that they are unconscious of loss and cannot see danger?

(18) When men or women are besotted with pride what hope is there for them?

(19) Verses 11-13—What were the results when God's ancient people relied upon other nations for help when God had promised them all the help they needed?

(20) Verses 14-16—How is it that when men have brought great suffering upon themselves by sin they still insist upon rebelling against God?

VICTORY IS RUMORED

Unconfirmed Despatch Reports Fall of Tchatalja.

London Times Publishes an Unverified Story That the Bulgarians Have Won Momentous Victory — Little News Received From Scene of Operations—Allies Plan to Hold Service in St. Sophia.

London, Nov. 8.—The Times prints the following despatch dated Sofia, Nov. 7, 11.20 p.m.:

"It is reported, but without official confirmation that the Bulgarian troops have occupied the Tchatalja lines."

The past twenty-four hours have brought little other news of importance from the seat of war. The report that Saloniki had been evacuated is premature, and a similar report concerning Monastir is still unconfirmed. There is no authentic news of the alleged defeat of the Turks before Tchatalja.

On the contrary a Constantinople despatch sets forth the Turkish claim that there are no Bulgarians before Tchatalja and that both armies are resting. The Turkish reports regarding the progress of the war, however, have been so consistently misleading as to have little value.

The present lull in news may mean that some important action is proceeding. In the meantime diplomatic efforts to end the war are making no progress and the European press is busy discussing all the aspects of the settlement of difficult questions. Everything tends to show that almost irreconcilable antagonisms will arise over the allocation of Turkish territory. Servia claims as her share a large part of Albania, including the Adriatic ports of Durazzo, Alessio and San Giovanni di Medua.

According to the Servian Premier's statement to The Paris Temps, the allies desire the partition of European Turkey, leaving the fate of Constantinople to the decision of the powers. According to reports current in Berlin the intention of the allies is to divide Albania between Servia and Greece, but an agreement already exists between Austria and Italy, which would be supported by Germany, guaranteeing the integrity and independence of Albania, and the Triple Alliance is determined to prevent Servia at all costs from reaching the Adriatic. It is even asserted that the Triple Alliance has agreed to make Albania independent with the Duke of Abruzzi as king.

Another important meeting occurred at Bucharest yesterday between the Roumanian Premier and the Russian and Austrian Ministers. It is reported that the powers will communicate today to the Balkan states Turkey's request for mediation.

Bulgars Lost 15,000 Men.

Sofia, Nov. 8.—In the five days' fighting along the line between Lule Burgas and Bunarhissar the Bulgarians, it was officially announced yesterday, lost 15,000 men killed or wounded. The Turkish casualties exceeded 40,000.

Allies Will Divide Turkey.

Paris, Nov. 8.—The Balkan allies will ask for the partition of European Turkey, leaving the fate of Constantinople to the decision of the European powers, according to Premier Pachitch of Servia, in an interview yesterday with the correspndent of The Temps in Belgrade. The Servian statesman continued:

"Servia wants the ports of St. Giovanna Di Medua, Alessio and Durazzo on the Adriatic Sea, which the Servian empire possessed in the middle ages, and by which she was territorially related to the rest of Europe."

Servia has not received any proposal from Austria, but assuming that Austria has no territorial designs Servia is quite willing to favor economic and commercial expansion for Austria.

The Premier concluded by saying that the Balkan allies desired Turkey to treat directly with them concerning peace and not through the powers.

May Enter Capital.

London, Nov. 8.—Only five little districts now remain in the possession of Turkey out of the vast territory in Europe which she has ruled for centuries. Even these five districts, comprising Constantinople, Adrianople, Salonki, Monastir and Scutari are seriously menaced.

Commanders of the Bulgarian invaders are said to have fixed Sunday next as the day on which they will enter the Turkish capital with their troops and hold a service of thanksgiving in the mosque of St. Sophia.

Eight Hundred Bulgars Sail.

Montreal, Nov. 8.—Eight hundred Bulgarians left here yesterday on the steamer Victorian for the Balkans.

Four hundred more Bulgarians will, it is expected, leave for the scene of the war in a couple of days by the steamer Grampian.

Turkey Wants Chile's Warships.

Valparaiso, Chili, Nov. 8—The Turkish Government has made a proposal to Chile to purchase the battleship and torpedo boat destroyers now being built in England for this country. The Chilean Government, it is reported, will decline to sell the warships.

Opposed to Peace.

Constantinople, Nov. 8.—Public opinion in Constantinople is strongly opposed to the idea of seeking mediation of peace. Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, has reported to the Government that the army is determined to fight until victorious or absolutely defeated. He regards the reverses sustained as unfortunate, but says that the brave Ottoman army is confident of ultimate success and that the whole corps of officers are unanimously in favor of continuing the war.

SETTLING DIFFERENCES.

Pacific Coast Politicians in Conference With Borden.

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—Sir Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia, accompanied by Attorney-General Bowser, Mr. G. McRae, his private secretary; Neil McIntyre, assistant commissioner of fisheries for B. C.; and F. H. Cunningham, chief Dominion inspector of fisheries, arrived in Ottawa yesterday to hold the annual conference with the federal authorities in regard to general matters which had been the subject of negotiations for some time past.

Premier McBride and Attorney-General Bowser had a two hours' interview with Premier Borden in the morning, at which Hon. Martin Burrell was present. In the afternoon, Sir Richard saw Mr. Borden again, while Mr. Bowser saw Hon. J. D. Hazen, Minister of Marine and Fisheries. Messrs. McIntyre and Cunningham were also busy with the officials of the Department of Marine and Fisheries. Sir Richard and Mr. Bowser were the guests of Premier Borden at the Rideau Club, and in the evening attended a dinner given in their honor by Hon. Martin Burrell at the Chateau Laurier.

It was stated last night that the negotiations had only reached the preliminary stage, but that the various matters under discussion would be gone into more thoroughly to-day. They include the question of the appointment of a royal commission to consider the question of better terms for British Columbia, the old dispute over the refusal of the Provincial Government to recognize the title of the Indians to the reservation lands and several matters pertaining to the administration of the fisheries laws.

Premier McBride is also pressing Mr. Borden for prompt action towards realizing the demands of British Columbians for naval protection for the Pacific coast. Sir Richard, it is understood, is not averse to Premier Borden's proposed emergency contribution this session, but he does not want it to delay the creation of a Canadian fleet unit with dockyards and shipbuilding equipment on the western coast.

Premier McBride expects to be through with his business in Ottawa by Saturday, when he will leave for the south on a holiday trip. Mr. Bowser will go to New Brunswick to visit his mother. On Wednesday next the party will leave again for the coast.

Busy Four Months.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 8.—Four months activity on the part of labor leaders on the Pacific coast preceded the fatal explosion in Los Angeles, Cal., according to letters and telegrams introduced by the Government at the trial of the 45 accused "dynamite plotters" yesterday.

From telegrams and letters read to the jury, the Government set forth this part of its contention as follows:

"Four months before The Los Angeles Times building was blown up, Eugene A. Clancy, a labor leader in San Francisco, who had been instructed to investigate labor conditions in Los Angeles, telegraphed to John J. McNamara, Indianapolis: "The fight is on in Los Angeles. We are going to win. Send Hockin at once."

"McNamara, after referring the request to Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, wired Clancy: 'Better get a man in Los Angeles to do the work. Hockin too busy in the east.' "

It was about this time, according to Ortie E. McManigal's confession, that Herbert S. Hockin was leader of the "dynamite crew."

Alteration In Bill.

London, Nov. 8.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In the Commons last night Postmaster Samuel moved to amend certain provisions of the home rule bill as follows:

To authorize payment, annually from the imperial fund of any sums for payment of which into the Irish exchequer provision is made under the present measure.

Secondly, to authorize such customs duties to be charged on articles brought into Great Britain from Ireland, or vice versa, as may be provided for.

Thirdly, to authorize payment of any salaries, pensions, superannuation allowances, gratuities or compensation for payment to or on behalf of judges or existing Irish officers or constables of the Royal Irish Constabulary and of the Dublin Metropolitan Police Force.

In approaching this problem of Irish finance, one week has been allotted for discussion of the resolution, which was carried by a majority of 121.

Why So Many Women Have Poor Health

Any girl or woman who becomes run down in health from over-work, worry or other causes, cannot regain her health readily on account of the natural drains on her system, which only become aggravated by continued ill-health.

Many there are who put in an existence of misery trying to bear up to do their household duties while in a state of invalidism. It is not natural that women should have such ill-health. NATURE PLANTED A SILVER TOOTH

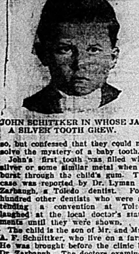
Strange Case of a Boy in Whose Mouth a Curious Molar Grew

Four hundred dentists from three states looked into the mouth of 6-year-old John Schnittker of Toledo, Ohio, prodded with sharp instruments at one of John's teeth, shook their heads and turned away. They questioned John's mother for an hour or so, but confessed that they could not solve the mystery of a baby tooth.



JOHN SCHITTKER IN WHOSE JAW A SILVER TOOTH GREW.

John's first tooth was filled with silver or some similar metal when it burst through the child's gum. The case was reported by Dr. Lyman L. Zarbaugh, a Toledo dentist. Four hundred other dentists who were attending a convention at Toledo laughed at the local doctor's statements until they were shown.

The child is the son of Mr. and Mrs A. F. Schnittker, who live on a farm. He was brought before the clinic by Dr. Zarbaugh. The doctors examined the tooth and then questioned the mother. She told the following story:

"About eight months before the birth of the baby, Dr. Zarbaugh filled with silver a tooth for me. When the baby began cutting his teeth, the first one to break through had a shiny patch on it. When I caught the gleam of the metal, I thought he had a pin in his mouth. I called my husband and we brought the baby to Dr. Zarbaugh. He scratched the metal patch on the tooth with an instrument.

"Then he told us that the patch was some kind of metal, probably silver. He said that the mysterious manifestation was perhaps brought about by pre-natal influence."

MRS. A. F. SCHNITTKER

"It is the strangest case ever heard of," was the composite opinion of the dentists.

Dr. Zarbaugh said: "The body has enough metal in it for such a manifestation and it doesn't seem impossible for nature's laboratory to deposit it all in this tooth.

Dr. Zarbaugh watched the development of the tooth from the time the molar burst through the child's gum. He says that he intends to await developments until the child loses its teeth. Then he intends to secure the molar for further examination.

Long Engagements

Young ladies in Russia are not at all averse to long engagements, and use all sorts of artifices to stave off the wedding day as long as possible; but in no country in the world are courtships so abnormally long as in Bohemia, where engagements commonly last from fifteen to twenty years. In fact, there recently died there, at the age of ninety-nine an old man who had been courting for seventy-five years, and who was married on his death-bed.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT.

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

ARMAGEDDON OF THE SCRIPTURES

Startling Presentation of Coming Events—Pastor Russell's Views.

Brooklyn, N.Y., Nov. 3.—The Brooklyn Academy of Music was crowded to the limit to-day to hear Pastor Russell's discourse on the "Battle of Armageddon." His text was: "He gathered them together unto a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon." (Revelation xvi, 16.) The speaker said:

Armageddon in the Hebrew signifies the "Hill of Megiddo," or Mount of Destruction. It was famous as a battlefield in Old Testament times.

The Lord has seen fit to associate the name Armageddon, with the great controversy between Truth and Error, right and wrong, God and Mammon, with which this age will close, perish, and the New Age of Messiah's glory be ushered in. He has purposely used highly symbolical figures of speech in the last book of the Bible, evidently with a view to hiding certain important truths until the due time for their revealment. But even in the due time, the Bible assures us, "None of the wicked shall understand" (Daniel xii, 9, 10)—none who are out of heart harmony with God—but only the wise of His people—the "wise virgin" class of the Master's parable.

I have long avoided presentation of my understanding of our text and its context. I take it up now by request and because I believe it is due time to be understood. I disclaim any special inspiration. In some particulars my views agree with those of other Bible students, and in other respects they disagree. Each hearer must use his own judgment, do his own Bible study, and reach his own conclusions.

Kindly remember that I am not responsible for the figures of speech used by the Lord. My interpretations do indeed constitute a terrible arraignment of institutions which we have all reverenced and which embrace good people, of good words and good works. God's saintly people in these various institutions, being comparatively few, are ignored when systems as a whole are dealt with in prophecy.

Our context tells us that three impure spirits (teachings) will go forth from the mouths of the Dragon, the Beast and the False Prophet, and these three will be in accord, and symbolically the doctrines are represented by "frogs." These three doctrines are to have a mighty influence throughout the civilized earth. They are to gather the kings and their armies to the great Battle of Armageddon.

The ecclesiastical kings and princes and their retinues of clergy and faithful adherents, will be gathered in solid phalanx—Protestant and Catholic. The kings and captains of industry, and as many as can be influenced by them, will be gathered to the same side. The political kings and princes, with all their henchmen and retainers, will follow in line on the same side. The financial kings and merchant princes, and all whom they can influence by the most gigantic power ever yet exercised in the world, will join the same side, according to this prophecy.

These "doctrines of demons," represented by the "frogs," will lead many noble people in this great army to assume an attitude quite contrary to their preference. For a time the wheels of liberty and progress will be turned backward and medieval restraints will be considered necessary for self-preservation—for the maintenance of the present order of things.

In giving this interpretation, it is necessary for us to indicate what is symbolized by the Dragon, the Beast, and the False Prophet. Bible students of nearly all denominations agree with us that the "Dragon" of Revelation represents the purely Civil Power. Protestant interpreters generally agree that the "Beast like a leopard" (Revelation xiii, 2) represents the Papacy. But fewer still, we fear, will be ready to support our view that Protestantism is the "Image of the Beast" (Revelation xiii, 15) in our context given another name, "the False Prophet." We urge no one to accept our interpretation, nor shall we think hard of any who refuse it. We will neither slander nor otherwise injure them now, nor threaten them with eternal torture. They have the same right to their views that I have, and the same right to make them known to others. And I, for one, will be very glad to consider anything which opponents may set forth as their interpretations of our text.

The symbolisms of Scripture, rightly understood, are always forceful. When the Holy Spirit used a "frog" to symbolically represent certain doctrines or teachings, we may be sure the true application will fit well. A frog has a sage look, a wise look. It swells itself up in an apparent endeavor to impress the beholder. Its great mouth well represents its chief power, used to croak.

Applying these symbols, we learn that an evil spirit, influence, teaching, will come from the Protestant churches federated, from the Church of Rome, and from the Civil authorities, all in full agreement. The spirit of all will be boastful; an air of superior wisdom and knowledge will be proudly assumed—all will croak in harmony. All will tell of dire results that would follow, involving the interests of both the present and the future life, if their counsel be not followed. However conflicting the creeds, the differences will be ignored in the general proposition that nothing ancient must be disturbed, or looked into, or repudiated.

The Divine authority of the Church, and the Divine right of kings, aside from the Church, will not be allowed to conflict. Any persons or teachings in conflict with these boastful and unscriptural claims will be branded as everything vile, at the mouths of these "frogs" speaking from pulpits and platforms and through the religious and secular press. The nobler sentiments of some will be strangled by the philosophy of the same evil spirit which spoke through Caiaphas, the high priest, respecting Jesus. As Caiaphas declared it expedient to commit a crime in violation of justice, human and Divine, to be rid of Jesus and His teachings, so this "frog" spirit will approve of every violation of principle necessary to their self-protection.

The croaking of these "frog" spirits or doctrines will gather the kings and princes, financial, political, religious and industrial into one great army. The spirit of fear, inspired by the croakings of these "frogs," will scourge the passions of otherwise good and reasonable men to fury, desperation. In their blind following of these evil spirits, evil doctrines, they will be ready to sacrifice life and everything on the altar of what they mistakenly suppose is justice, truth and righteousness, under a Divine arrangement.

For a brief time, as we understand the Scriptures, these combined forces of Armageddon will triumph. Free speech, free mails, and other liberties which have come to be the very breath of the masses in our day, will be ruthlessly shut off under the plea of necessity, the glory of God, the commands of the Church, etc. All will seem to be serene, until the great social explosion in our context described as the "great Earthquake." An "earthquake," in symbolic language, signifies social revolution, and the declaration of the context is that none like unto it ever before occurred. (Revelation xvi, 18, 19.) Jesus described it as a time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation. —Matthew xxiv, 21.

The false, frog-like teachings will gather together into one host the great, the rich, the wise, the learned and the kings of the earth, to battle. At this juncture Divine Power will step forward, and our text tells us that He shall gather the marshaled hosts to Armageddon—to the Mountain of Destruction. The very thing which they sought to avert by their union, federation, etc., will be the very thing they will hasten. Other Scriptures tell us that God will be represented by the Great Messiah, and that He will be on the side of the masses. Thus we read in Daniel xii, 1: "At that time shall Michael (the Godlike One—Messiah) stand up"—assume authority. He will take possession of His Kingdom in a manner little looked for by many of those who erroneously have been claiming that they were His Kingdom, and authorized by Him to reign in His name and in His stead.

Jesus declared, "His servants ye are unto whom ye render service." Some may be rendering service to Satan and to error, who claim to be rendering service to God and to righteousness; and some of these may be serving ignorantly, as did Saul of Tarsus, who "verily thought that he did God a service" in persecuting the Church. The same principle holds true reversely. As an earthly king does not hold himself responsible for the moral character of each soldier who fights in his battles, so the Lord does not vouch for the moral character of all who will enlist and fight on His side of any question. "His servants they are to whom they render service," whatever the motive or object prompting them.

The same principles will apply in the coming Battle of Armageddon. God's side of that battle will be the people's side, and the very nondescript host, the people, will be pitted at the beginning of the battle. Anarchists, Socialists, and hot-headed radicals of every school of reason and unreason, will be in the forefront of that battle. The majority of the poor and the middle class prefer peace at almost any price. A comparatively small number, God's consecrated people, will at heart be longing for Messiah's Kingdom. These will bide the Lord's time and wait patiently for it; they will be of good courage, knowing the outcome outlined in the "more sure word of prophecy," to which they have done well to take heed, "as unto a light shining in a dark place until the Day dawn."—II. Peter i, 19.

The masses will be restless of their restraints, but will be conscious of their own weakness as compared to the kings and princes, financial, religious and political, which will then hold sway. Besides, the masses have no sympathy with anarchy. They realize truly that the worst form of government is better than none. The masses will seek relief through the ballot and peaceful re-adjustment of earth's affairs for the elimination of evil, for the placing of monopolies and utilities and the supplies of nature in the hands of the people for the public good. The crisis will be reached when the hitherto upholders of law shall become violators of the law and resisters of the will of the majority as expressed by the ballot. Fear for the future will lead the well-meaning masses to desperation; and anarchy will result when Socialism fails.

Horrible would be this outlook for the future did we not have the infallible Word of God assuring us of a glorious outcome! Divine Wisdom has withheld until our day the great knowledge and skill which is at the same time breeding millionaires and discontents. Had God lifted the veil a thousand years sooner, the world would have lined up for its Armageddon a thousand years sooner. But that would have been too soon for the Divine purpose, because Messiah's Kingdom is to be the great Thousand-Year-Sabbath of the world's history. God in kindness veiled our eyes until the time when the gathering to Armageddon would immediately precede Messiah's taking to Himself His great power, and beginning His reign.—Revelation xi, 17, 18.

St. Paul wrote prophetically of our time, that it would be one of serious trial and testing to many professing to be Christians. The reason for this he states—they received not the Truth in the love of it. (II. Thessalonians ii, 10, 11.) They preferred their own erroneous theories, the Apostle explains, and therefore God will give them over to a "strong delusion," and let them believe the lie which they preferred, and let them suffer for missing the Truth which they did not love. Thus they will be in the condemned host, "fighting against God," because of their lack of love for the Truth.

It is sad to say that we all as Christians have been laboring under a thorough delusion respecting God's Plan. We have claimed that Christ set up His Church in Kingdom power, and that the Church has been reigning on the earth as His representative. On the strength of this delusion, Jews and heretics have been persecuted to death as opponents to Christ's Kingdom. All the while we thoughtlessly repeated the Lord's prayer: "Thy Kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth, as in Heaven." We knew that the Redeemer said that He would come again to make us His Bride and joint-heirs; but we ignored the Scriptures. We were drunk, as the Scriptures symbolically say, "all nations were drunk" with the false doctrine. It is the false doctrine that will constitute the "frog" spirit which soon will begin to croak and to prepare for Armageddon.

The Bible presentation is that the world is a section of the universe in rebellion against Divine authority, under the captaincy of Satan and his associated fallen angels. By Divine grace Jesus has already "tasted death for every man," and the merit of that sacrifice must, eventually, grant Adam and his posterity a full, fair opportunity for the attainment of everlasting life. All who thus seek the Divine program and are walking in the light may know something at least respecting the "times and seasons." These brethren "are not in darkness, that that day (and that battle of Armageddon) should overtake" them "as a thief"—unawares.

For forty years the Armageddon forces have been mustering for both sides of the conflict. Strikes, lockouts and riots, great and small, have been merely incidental skirmishes as the belligerent parties crossed each other's paths. Court and Army scandals in Europe, Insurance, Trust and Court scandals in America, have shaken public confidence. Dynamite plots, charged by turns on employes and on employers, have further shaken confidence and tended to make each distrustful of each other. Bitter and angry feelings on both sides are more and more manifest. The lines of battle are daily becoming more distinctly marked. Nevertheless Armageddon cannot yet be fought. Other matters intervene, according to prophecy.

Gentile times have still two years to run. The "Image of the Beast" of our context must yet receive life—power. The Image must be transformed from a mere mechanism to a living force. Protestant Federation realizes that its organization will still be futile unless it receive vitalization—unless its clergy directly or indirectly shall be recognized as possessed of apostolic ordination and authority to teach. This the prophecy indicates will come from the two horned beast, which, we believe, symbolically represents the Church of England. High-handed activities of Protestantism and Catholicism, operating in conjunction for the suppression of human liberties, await this vivifying of the Image. This may come soon, but Armageddon cannot precede it, but must follow—perhaps a year after it, according to our view of the Prophecy.

Still another thing intervenes: Although the Jews are gradually flowing into Palestine, gradually obtaining control of the land of Canaan, and although reports say that already nineteen millionaires are there, nevertheless prophecy requires an evidently larger number of wealthy Hebrews to be there before the Armageddon crisis be reached. Indeed we understand that "Jacob's trouble" in the Holy Land will come at the very close of Armageddon. Then Messiah's Kingdom will begin to be manifested. Thenceforth Israel in the land of promise will gradually rise from the ashes of the past to the grandeur of prophecy. Through its Divinely appointed princes Messiah's Kingdom, all-powerful but invisible, will begin to roll away the curse and to lift up mankind.

ADHERES TO POSITION

Hon. Mr. Crothers Explains Refusal of a Board.

Minister of Labor Says a Conciliation Commission, as Demanded by the C.P.R. Freight Clerks and Handlers, Would Have Cost a Lot Without Doing Any Good—Sherbrooke Men Leave the Union.

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—Whatever the outcome of the strike of the Brotherhood of Railway Employes along the C.P.R. systems, Hon. Mr. Crethers, Minister of Labor, will not recede from the position which he now holds. While Mr. Crothers gave no official statement he made it plain in an interview yesterday afternoon that no conciliation board will be granted. The Minister of Labor made the point that a board had been refused because the act did not apply to the peculiar conditions attached to the claims involved in the dispute.

He maintains that to have appointed a conciliation board would be to defeat the very ends which the men and the Department are seeking to attain.

"I have been negotiating with the C.P.R.," he said, "for some months in an effort to secure better terms and conditions for the men. The company met me in a sympathetic way, and has already given material increases to some of the men. The appointment of a conciliation board could only have resulted in the company refusing to grant the increases and terms that they were already considering favorably, and the men would as a consequence be deprived of their increases at least until a board could report on the whole question."

An investigation, he said, would require sitting by the board in every province in the Dominion, with enquiries into the cost of living in various towns and cities along the system, as well as a number of other matters, which would necessarily have to be probed if an intelligent and fair award was to be given. This would result in a tremendous cost to the country, simply to obtain a result which the Deparment was already in a fair way to obtain and in a very short period of time.

Going by Express.

Galt, Nov. 8.—To fill the places of a dozen men on strike at the C.P.R. freight depot, members of the staff of the Toronto department are now engaged. Station Agent Campbell told a reporter yesterday that while somewhat inconvenienced, the situation was not at all a tie-up. A look into the Dominion Express Co.'s quarters at the railway station, however, shows piles of merchandise, much of it heavy stuff, going out by express that ordinarily would have been sent freight.

Sherbrooke Men Quit Union.

Montreal, Nov. 8.—C.P.R. officials yesterday received the following letter, signed by the men who went on strike at Sherbrooke:

"In view of the fact of our positions being returned to us, as per conference this afternoon, also on account of the way in which we have been led astray by the leaders of the so-called organizations and the misrepresentations that have been made to us by them, we have decided that we will withdraw from it and agree not to again become members of this particular organization."

The men have been reinstated and work is going along in proper order at that point.

A large flock of geese flew over the town of Wingham, Ont., the other evening, on their way south, and, as it is somewhat early for the migration to warmer climes, the oldest inhabitants are predicting a severe and long winter. Before people with low coal bins shiver, however, at the news, they should remember that a goose is a goose and as liable to act foolishly as the most talkative oldest inhabitant looking for a sign.

Cause and Cure of Headache

The cause of headache as you know, is the stoppage of the circulation resulting in pressure on the delicate nerves of the head. In time nature will start the blood going again, but meanwhile we suffer and are unfit for duty.

Assisted by two ZUTOO Tablets, which by the way are as harmless as the soda they contain, nature will remove the pressure and stop the headache in twenty minutes. Why continue to suffer? Why be unfit?

It is really remarkable how many people now use ZUTOO to cure their headaches. Do you? If not, why not?

WORLD'S HAPPIEST GIRL.

Who Declares She Would Rather Plow Than Go to the Opera.

"The happiest girl in all the world!" That is the distinction claimed by Miss Jack May, a slender bit of femininity, who owns and operates a farm in the wilds of Canada. Not many years ago Miss May, who is the daughter of Admiral May, of the British navy, was a frilly, frothy society belle, to whom the theatre, balls and card parties represented all that was worth living for. When the Boer war broke out and, along with scores of other aristocratic young English women, she went to the front as nurse, her eyes were opened to the smallness of the butterfly existence she had been leading. Upon her return home she at once entered the Swanley Agricultural College at Kent, and at the conclusion of her course amazed her former fashionable friends by becoming manager of a dairy farm. After a time she became working manager of another farm in Kent, where she took active charge of all the work, grain growing, vegetable gardening, and live stock. She went direct from that farm to the Canadian west, to a ranch of 320 acres near the Canadian Pacific Railway, and now all English society is interested in watching her career. Not a man is employed on Miss May's entire farm. Her only companion and helper is a Canadian girl of 18.

"Go back to society again? Not for worlds," declares this former London favorite. "I would rather plow than go to the opera. I would rather plant corn than attend a pink tea and I much prefer currying my horses to arraying myself in an evening gown. What's a butterfly society life in damp and foggy England compared to real life in bright sunshine and bracing cold?" Miss May's success had made her views on agriculture much sought after, especially among the English immigrants.

Although this little English woman has sacrificed conventional feminine garb and has given up social life completely, she has lost none of the charm that made her a leader in British society circles. Her everyday costume consists of stout leather boots and leather puttees, riding breeches of heavy blue serge, a man's shirt, and a short khaki coat. When she desires to really "dress up" for special occasions, she wears a soft collar and tie, and a peasant smock of navy blue denim, which comes to her knees and is loosely belted around her waist. She is delightfully picturesque and her happy carefree laugh is a sure cure for the blues.

"I love the freedom of the life and the bigness of things here on the western prairies," she said, recently. "In England one is bound by conventions, as one's fields are girt with hedges. Here I can do as I choose. I would not go back to stay under any consideration."

The Lutheran Church.

The Lutheran Church is fifth among the Protestant bodies of Canada. There are about 500,000 baptized Lutherans in Canada; about 100,000 are communicants of the church, and 100,000 are confirmed but not in Lutheran churches, some of them worshipping with other communions. More than half of the entire half million are young people.

The gospel is preached in at least twelve different languages in the Lutheran churches in Canada, but the young people are learning the English language, and ministers are being secured who can preach in English as well as in some other tongue.

There is a theological seminary at Waterloo, Ont., which began about a year ago, and one is being organized in Saskatchewan. A Lutheran home is planned for Montreal to care for the immigrants, there being three Lutheran churches in that city—one German, one Danish, and one English. There are about 5,000 Scandinavians in Montreal, and 1,000 Finns in Toronto, according to a local paper and all are Lutheran.

Magistrate For the Rockies.

To a former journalist, in the person of Mr. W. A. Jowett, has been entrusted the maintenance of law and order and the administration of justice in the vast new territory west of the Rocky Mountains now being opened up by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. Mr. Jowett has been appointed stipendiary magistrate for the country at the eastern end of present construction. More than 3,000 laborers are at work along the company's grade from the summit westerly, and new settlers and prospectors are pouring in in large numbers, while the development of mining claims promises to still further increase the population in this territory. Mr. Jowett, who was for many years editor of The Nelson Miner, will establish his headquarters at Teto Jaune Cache, but his commission is a roving one, and he will hold court at various points along the line as necessity may dictate.

Mustard Must Go.

By the successful experiments of the Ontario Government, there is a probability that the deadly mustard weed which causes so much anxiety among farmers, will be a thing of the past within a few years. Prof. Todd, provincial farm director, has found a way to kill the mustard seed. Last spring he had a 100-acre farm near Brockville, comprising fields of oats and barley, which were literally yellow with the mustard weed, sprayed with a solution of bluestone or sulphide of copper. This farm has produced very poor crops in the past, but this fall there was an excellent yield and no traces of mustard were found. The same method of killing the mustard will be tried on the same farm next spring in an effort to find out whether this solution should be used on all farms in the province.

The Silver Trail to a Happy Hunting Ground.

WHEN the summer sun begins to lose its strength, when the days draw in and the air is touched with a sharp tang that hints at coming frosts, then it is that the call of the chase goes out, with its imperative summons to all devotees of this oldest sport, whether they follow the plow or live their lives within the four walls of a city office. In threes and fours they gather as the fever works through their blood to talk of trails that they have followed, to argue the respective merits of guns and amunition, and to pick the spot for this year's camp.

Only look in at your club at that time and you will see a coterie of veterans listening eagerly to their favorite story teller while the come and go of words familiar to the hunter's ear, such as "big buck," "boulee," "Beaver Meadow," "swale," or "oak ridge," will convince you that the annual fever is on.

It is not long after that you will find these same men in the woods in attire which has been chosen with greater regard for comfort and good service than for appearance, with a black wind-burnt tan showing through a week old growth of beard, but happy in the all too brief escape from routine existance to a hunting ground of adventure that supplies with a store of vitality and experience to last until the season swings round once more.

A good morning's bag of ruffed grouse—Muskoka Lakes District.

Some people think it real, downright, genuine hard work; and yet men who never do a stroke of hard labor and who are not accustomed to rise from their Ostermoors earlier than nine in the morning—and even then in an atmosphere of warmth and comfort, will get up on a raw, frosty morning and breakfast long before daylight; break the ice on the water to perform their ablutions; paddle down the lake in the chilly dawn beneath stars that still shine brightly; or plunge into the woods, wet with hoar frost and often snow that has fallen during the night, to stand for hours on some "run way" in any weather; carry canoes and boats over portages, coming back to camp at night, cold, wet, tired and hungry—and call it sport. Yes, and enjoy every moment of it too. They go into the woods with delicate white hands and soft bodies, and come out again in a fortnight brown, hale, and hearty, able to eat like a horse and work like a Trojan.

It is probable that no country today offers such widely varied opportunity for the pursuit of game both big and small, as does this old Dominion; turn where you will there is good sport for the asking. Still, even excellence has its varying degrees and those who have tried them all turn at last to the silver trail of the Grand Trunk tracks which lead to a happy hunting ground in the Highlands of Ontario, the last wilderness of the East.

The deer hunting season throughout the season resulted most satisfactorily to those who went into it during the open season of 1911 (November 1st, to 15th.) It is estimated that over 10,000 deer and 200 moose are killed annually in the fortnight's time. It is in fact, little short of marvellous how the stock of deer keeps pace with the number killed and yet each year they seem to become more numerous. So happy a condition is accounted for by the shortness of the open season and by the rigorous manner in which the Provincial Government of Ontario enforces its laws and to a great extent checks the wanton slaughter that might easily ensue were hunters to kill at their pleasure; thus saving for Canadian sportsmen at large one of their best heritages.

Yet these restrictions notwithstanding the Canadian Express Company alone carried in 1911 during the season 2,779 deer, shipments whose total weight amounted to 245,476 pounds. All of these carcasses were shipped from points located on one of our great railway system, the largest number being taken out of the Magnetawan River region, the "Lake of Bays" district, and points on the Northern and Ottawa Divisions. No account is taken in the above figures of those killed by settlers, Indians and halfbreds or by those hunters who do not have to express their bags to their homes, while many more that are wounded escape to die or else are killed and eaten in the woods by the 7,000 hunters and their dogs.

The big game found in the Timagami region are moose, caribou, and red deer, although these last are not found in great numbers. The moose are plentiful but wary and no small skill is necessary to get one. (During the month of June and the early part of July hundreds of these "Monarchs of the Forest" are seen by the canoist as they are forced to the water by flies, which infest the woods until about the middle of July. After the 15th, however, flies and mosquitoes disappear and the moose go back into the woods and fatten up. They are therefore not seen so frequently during the month of August, except in the early morning or twilight dusk when they come to drink at the water's edge. During September, which is known as the running season, moose are seen in large numbers throughout the district. The open season is from October 16th, to November 15th, inclusive.

Camp of the Shoe-Pack Club. Muskoka Lakes District.

A novel means of transport — Highlands of Ontario.

The caribou, as has been said, is also an inhabitant of this territory. Signs of them are seen everywhere, but, as they are an even more timid and wary animal than the moose, it is correspondingly difficult to see and capture them. When found they are usually in bands or droves of varying size. The country lying south and east of Smooth Water Lake and northwest of the Wakenika Lake and river seems to be the best suited to these cautious animals, as it is rough and hilly. The Indian guides who reside in the district, know every nook and corner of it, are the best judges as to where the haunts of game are and can be thoroughly depended on.

To reach the hunting grounds on the Magnetawan River, the objective point is Burk's Falls, 171 miles from Toronto, and thence by steamer. Probably one of the best localities for deer in this region is reached from Mitchell's Landing, a place located a few hundred yards east of Lake Cecebe. Here the hunter commands the old run ways, as the deer cross the river within sight of the landing. On the opposite side of the river there is another run way, which also affords good sport. Canoes are needed at this point but can be obtained at Burk's Falls. Parties can find good camping ground along the river or can secure accommodation at Mitchell's Landing. Different run ways can be visited each day and satisfactory results are certain to all who make this region their rendezvous.

Five miles east of Scotia Junction, amid the hills of the Upper Magnetawan River, is an unequalled hunting ground. Situated as it is on the edge of Algonquin National Park, the overflow of game from that spacious preserve keeps it constantly stocked with deer, hundreds of which are shipped out every fall. Moose, too, have walked right into the village of Kearney in this district, and every winter groups of otter can be seen at almost any time playing on the iced bay opposite the hotels.

Result of a week's hunt in the Maganetawan District Highlands of Ontario.

Throughout this district the chances for the hunter are above the average, run ways being noticeable all along the shore. There are good camping grounds in plenty and supplies are readily obtained. Especially fine sport may be enjoyed a few miles from Ahmic Harbor and good reports are received each season from the Upper Magnetawan. The country is very wild.

Within the bounds of Algonquin National Park itself, hunting is not allowed, but great are the opportunities for the observation of wild animals and for those who desire to shoot with a camera the life of the woods. Deer are found in large numbers, and since they are less in dread of being hunted or killed, are seen more frequently than in other spots. On every lake and river the red deer is a daily sight, feeding among the lily pads or coming down to the water's edge to drink. Moose, though not as plentiful as the deer, inhabit these forests and are increasing in numbers year by year.

Hunting in the Lake of Bays district is very good. Sport can be had within a few miles of Baysville, where dogs and guides, as well as comfortable hotel accommodation can be obtained. The surroundings abound with good locations for still hunting and the partridge are plentiful. The hunting grounds are easily reached from Baysville for though the woods are very dense, well cleared trails lead to the points of vantage. A small stream runs through the forest three miles east of the village and several deer trails lead to the water, making good runs for deer and partridge. Dorset is another favored base from which to start, and the hunting with dogs is said to be very good at Hollow Lake. This last locality is not as accessible as Baysville, but to those who do not mind "roughing it" a bit, and camping out, good results during the season are assured.

Powassan, 207 miles north of Toronto, is another admirable locality for the hunter and very good sport can be enjoyed east of the village. The country is here diversified with rivers and small lakes. Game is plentiful although dogs are necessary and there are good run ways for deer as well as splendid partridge shooting. Deer are reported to be very plentiful in the vicinity of Rosseau, at the head of the lake of the same name, one of the Muskoka Lakes; as also west of Sundridge, at Eagle Lake, 182 miles north of Toronto.

The most numerous of the fur bearing animals are bear, martin, mink, otter, fox, beaver and muskrat, which abound throughout the entire Highland country. The otter and beaver, however, are protected and cannot be killed until November, 1915.

The game birds found in the Timagami district are the ruffled grouse, commonly called willowed partridge, and the pine grouse, besides geese, duck, and other water fowl. In the northern part of the territory, towards the head of Lady Evelyn Lake, Lady Evelyn River, Sucker Gut, and the east branch of the National River, are found ducks in generous numbers. The varieties embrace the following species, all of which are well represented:—Mallard, wood duck, merganser, bluebill, shell drake, and widgeon. Partridge are to be found in abundance almost anywhere in the forest. Among the Kawartha lakes capital sport may be had with duck, partridge and geese. The open season for shooting ducks is from September 15th to December 15th, inclusive; and for partridge from October 15th to November 15th, inclusive.

And so the silver trail has led the reader to a hunting ground that is happy indeed, because it is practically inexhaustible. There are immense tracts of rocks but well-wooded territory in this northern country which can never be brought under cultivation, and which, so long as the forests are not denuded, will continue to be the haunt and home of the red deer, the moose, the caribou and all wild life native to the province.

What can be imagined more near to the old Indian concept of paradise; a place where a man and his dog might hunt forever, and where the game would always abound.

Vol. 46 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1912. No. 162

Must Work for Widows of Men They Killed

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 9.—Convicted of manslaughter by killing men by careless driving of automobiles, two young chauffeurs were given novel sentences today by Justice Clement. The accused were Hughes and Pollard, youths of twenty, and they agreed when the judge allowed them freedom on bonds to devote themselves during the next few years to working for the support of the widows and children of the men whom they killed. The two lads had already spent some time in jail and were penitent.

Turkish Army Is Demoralized

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A despatch received here, and credited to the correspondent of the Vienna Reichspost, describes the Turkish army as utterly demoralized.

The correspondent says that whole detachments slink along unarmed, tattered and hungry, and glad to be taken prisoners, so they may hope for a meal. The whole country at the scene of the fighting is strewn with abandoned guns, war material and military debris.

The correspondent adds that the negotiations for the surrender of Adrianople have met with no result, but that since the Bulgarians have seized a dominating position on the northwest, the capitulation of the city is close at hand.

Printer's Error Saved Life of Best Friend

"Printers' errors are usually annoying, but a printer's error saved the life of my best friend." The speaker was Cosmo Hamilton, the English writer, when in New York. He continued:

"Horace Hamfat is an actor. Rich today, he was poor and a failure up to the age of 40. His life up to that age passed in the provinces on two or three quid a week. A quid, by the way, is $5. Well, one Saturday in Manchester, Horace Hamfat's show went up, the manager fled, and for three days lived on bread and dripping. Then a letter came to him from a London admirer, enclosing £10.

"The admirer forwarded, also, an item from a theatrical page that Horace himself had written—Horace Hamfat is starring in Manchester." But the typesetter had made this item read truly enough:

"'Horace Hamfat is starving in Manchester.'"

Second Elopement

NORTH BAY, Nov. 9.—Fred Hagerty, the young Ottawa chauffeur, is again in the toils as a result of his infatuation for a young North Bay girl, the same one he eloped with to Ottawa some weeks ago when he was arrested and tried on a charge of doping the girl to take her away from her parents' home. The result of the trial was virtually a verdict of "not proven," and Hagerty was severely censured by the judge. Since his discharge from custody, he has remained in town, and kept in close touch with the girl. The second elopement took place Wednesday evening when the couple disappeared and were found yesterday by provincial constable Fred Lefebvre, in a farm house several miles from the town. Haggerty was arraigned, charged with enticing a girl under twenty-one without her parents' consent, for immoral purposes. He was given a hearing in the police court, and committed for trial before a court. He is a married man with a wife and two children living in Ottawa. The girl will be sent to an institution by her parents.

Wounds 13 on a Liner

CADIZ, Nov. 8.—A passenger aboard the trans-Atlantic liner Catalina went insane Tuesday and ran amuck. He plunged a knife into several fellow-passengers and sailors who were near him, and before he could be overpowered thirteen wounded persons were stretched out on the deck.

Three of the sailors are in a critican condition.

Plan "All-Red" Railway

OTTAWA, Nov. 9.—The "All-Red Line Railway Company" is applying for incorporation by Act of Parliament. It proposes a railway "from a point at or near the easterly boundary of the Province of Quebec, thence in a westerly direction by the most feasible route through the provinces of Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba, to the city of Winnipeg." There are to be branch lines to Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa and Fort William or Port Arthur.

DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS TO BE CHEAPENED IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The report of the Divorce Commission, which has been long delayed owing to a sharp difference of opinion among the commissioners, will be published early next week. Its main provisions have for some time been an open secret.

Magisterial right to issue separation orders, which now produce semi-divorce between thousands of families, will be condemned. It will be recommended to make wide changes in practice and procedure, tending to cheapen and decentralize divorce proceedings. The commission will recommend giving the courts the right to limit the publicity of trials.

While it is unlikely that the demand of the extreme party that a wife shall be entitled to a divorce for the same causes as a husband will be granted, it will be recommended that several additional grounds be recognized as reasons of divorce. There will be a minority report. The report is likely to give grounds to wide-reaching and bitter controversy here.

Recommends Greater Extension In Canada

(Intelligencer Special)

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Never in the history of the Federation of Labor in Canada and the United States has the outlook for future organized labor been more roseate according to President Samuel Gompers at the opening of the convention here today. Higher wages and fewer hours have resulted, immeasurable in benefitting the working man of North America, said Gompers. Among other recommendations Gompers urged particularly a greater extension of the Federation in Canada.

To Suspend G. T. P. Building Operations

(Intelligencer Special.)

MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company has suspended the building of its Southern New England line, an extension of the Central Vermont, because of the U. S. election result, which they say may result in such reductions of rates and increases of expenses of operations that capital will become exhausted.

Bad Railway Fatality

(Intelligencer Special.)

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 11.—Thirteen persons were killed and forty-eight injured when a passenger train was wrecked by a freight train in a collision. The freight train plowed through several passenger cars laden with Sunday pleasure seekers, returning home just after midnight. Several bodies are unidentified. There were scenes of indescribable horror and confusion after the crash.

Smallpox in Convents

MONTREAL, Nov. 9.—Inspectors who have been detailed to investigate cases of smallpox, which have been hidden by convents in the province, report that they have had the utmost difficulty in locating patients. They have found that after the children are sent home from the convents they have been hidden in cellars and cupboards by their parents so that they should not be discovered by the officers.

A special meeting of the provincial board of health will be held in a few days to deal with the situation, which is causing the gravest alarm in the province.

All is at Peace Again

New York, Sov. 9.—A despatch from Newark, N. J., says:

At the hearing today in the case of Leofric Temple, who was barred from school because he refused to salute the United States flag, the boy's father said that both he and his son are British subjects; that he himself is still on the reserve force of his Majesty's artillery, and subject to the call to arms at any time. "But," he said, "I pay taxes in Cedar Grove toward the support of the school. Is not my boy, therefore, entitled to attend the school?"

"But he refused to do as the board of education prescribes: to salute the flag at our assembly exercises," replied A. Seeley Hutchinson, the principal of the school.

"He does not refuse to salute the flag—which is merely a sign of respect—he has always been glad to do that, but he cannot honestly repeat, pointing at the American flag, 'I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the Republic for which it stands.' That is pledging allegiance to the United States, and we are British subjects."

To add to the dilemma there is the further fact that even if Mr. Temple should abide by the decision of the school board and let his son stay out of school, a truant officer would step in to compel him to send Leofric to school.

After hearing the evidence, Assistant Commissioner of Education Betts decided that the boy could not be kept out of school and that he must be reinstated.

Old Men Forfeit Their Pensions By Going on Strike

MONTREAL, Nov. 9.—A regrettable feature of the C. P. R. strike, now well on the way to settlement, is the fact that many of those participating were old men who would have qualified in a year or two for a pension. Now they will be forced to go without, and may even find it difficult to find work with the company again. All employes entering the service of the C. P. R. before the age of forty years are retired at sixty-five years on a pension equivalent to fifty per cent. of their average earnings for the past ten years. For instance, if an employee had been receiving $2,000 a year he would get $1,000 a year upon retirement. The minimum pension amounts to $20 a month, and even the charwoman would receive that much when retired.

"Conditions nearly normal," was the report issued from the superintendent's office this morning regarding the strike on the eastern division of the C. P. R.

Of the twenty-five men out at Smith's Falls three checkers returned to work yesterday, and fifteen men have been brought from another part of the company's service. At Ottawa, where eighty-five men are on strike, well on to half a hundred cars were moved yesterday and this morning fifteen cars had been moved up to 9 o'clock.

Young Turks Blamed for Defeat By Hero of Kars

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 9.—Ghazi Ahmet Mukhtar Pasha, the veteran victor of Kars in the Russo-Turkish war of 1877 and a former Grand Vizier, in a published interview, explained the defeat of the Turkish army in the following way:

"The Young Turks have ruined our army. Formerly part of the officers came from the ranks and the remainder from the military schools. The Young Turks did not like that system. They began by pensioning or finding other situations for the men who had risen from the ranks and replacing them by youngsters from the military academy. During three years about 1,500 joined in this way, but all of them were too young and inexperienced.

"Our battalions of infantry, which are 800 strong, had only seven officers each at the outbreak of the war, whereas in the past they had always sixteen or seventeen. What could you expect our brave soldiers to do without officers and without food, for we have no commissariat department? They could only do one thing. They fled."

Mrs. Astor Her Son's Guardian

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Madeline Talmage Force Astor was appointed general guardian of her son, John Jacob Astor, until he is 14 years of age, by Surrogate Fowler yesterday. The order permits her to spend $20,000 a year for his support for the next three years, and she is required to give a bond of $20,000.

The income for the Astor baby is received from the $3,000,000 bequest in Col. Astor's will for any child of his not named in the will.

Dog Saves Master From Death in Fire

EDMONTON, Nov. 9.—The Empire Theatre, owned by W. B. Sherman of Calgary, was badly gutted by a fire which broke out in the basement. The manager of the theatre, Bert Russell, who occupied a suite of rooms in an upper floor of the building, had a narrow escape. He was awakened by the barking of his dog, and managed to take his way through the smoke to a window, break the glass and give the alarm. He was rescued by means of a ladder in an exhausted condition. The dog, a valuable one, perished in the flames.

Stratford Man Killed

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 10.—Special—Thomas E. Caulfield, formerly a member of Locomotive Firemen Lodge, No. 38, at Stratford, Ont., and now a member of the Locomotive Engineers, was killed yesterday Caulfield was a fireman running out of Stratford in 1883. It is believed he has sisters living in Toronto. He came originally from Mornington township, Ontario.

Turkish Diplomat Says Situation Is Hopeless

VIENNA, Nov. 9.—The new Turkish Ambassador, Hilmi Pasha, who has arrived here, will go to Budapest on Friday to present to Count von Berchtold, the Austrian Foreign Minister, who is in that place, a request that Austria use her influence with the powers, in favor of a rapid conclusion of the war.

The Neue Freie Presse prints an interview with Hilmi Pasha, in which the Turkish diplomat says the situation at present in Turkey is hopeless. Everyone seems to have lost his head.

Up to the last moment, Hilmi Pasha says his government did not believe there would be war, and nobody knew what to do in the new situation. The number of troops ready for effective service was small, owing to the Rediff, who has been called out, having been sent home shortly before the outbreak of the war.

Some battalions had only 170 to 200 men. These, after the war had commenced, could not be reinforced because, as Hilmi said, "we were obliged to face four fronts, which at the present moment press us. We will no longer shed blood uselessly, but will make peace."

Soldiers Stubbornly Decline to Fight

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Adrianople is reported to be in a state of rebellion. There is word from the beleaguered city that the Turkish soldiers are flatly refusing to fight any longer, and have to be driven to the defences at the point of the sword. The city is apparently to be starved into surrender.

The Bulgarian commanders realize that its fall is but a matter of days, and that they cannot afford to lose any more men in an assault. They, therefore, are contenting themselves with sweeping down on Turkish wagon trains and isolating Adrianople from the rest of the world.

Revolutionist Dead

TEGUSIGALPA, Honduras, Sov. 9.—General Jose Maria Valladares, the noted revolutionist, who in years past has caused much trouble to the government of Honduras and Nicaragua, has fomented his last uprising. He was killed yesterday by government troops in a skirmish near Ojojona, his native town, which lies 25 miles south-west of Tegucigalpa.

The last uprising of Valladares was shortlived. He started it yesterday near Ojojona, and immediately came in contact with the government troops in a short, sharp skirmish, in which he was shot. His death ended the outbreak.

Train Hung Over Ravine

MOOSE JAW, Nov. 9.—Passengers arriving in the 'Soo' flyer tell of the miraculous escape of the entire train load. At Snake River a rock slide was encountered while rounding a curve. The locomotive, baggage and express cars and one passenger coach were damaged, three coaches derailed and hung over the brink of a ravine, at the bottom of which is the river. Both the engineer and fireman jumped, and beyond a few bruises escaped injuries.

The wreck made the train twelve hours late here, a new engine, tender and baggage car having to be secured.

Dog Lead to Lost Child

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 9.—Campbellton sends words of the finding of a little girl, daughter of Ernest Burnable, in the woods after three days' exposure in severe weather.

Search parties had failed to find the girl until John Cyr was led to the spot by his dog. The animal aroused him from bed and by strange actions showed him that something was wrong. He arose and followed the dog, which led him to a spot where the girl was found kneeling by a tree. She will likely recover.

Navigation Dangers of Trent Canal

HASTINGS, Ont., Nov. 9.—There has been considerable complaint among steamboat men, regarding the approaches to the locks in this district, which, it is claimed, are difficult, if not dangerous, because the proper channel is not designated, and there is danger in navigating with a string of barges when a strong wind is blowing.

The men have addressed a petition concerning the difficulties of the Trent Canal waterway, to the Department of Railways and Canals at Ottawa. It is signed by: W. H. White, steamer Manita; W. C. Harris, Monarch; W. F. Robinson, Empress; C. W. Calcutt, Beaver; J. J. Young, Majestic; Trent Valley Navigation Co., Limited, per F. C. Boyd, president; F. Barnett, Rainbow.

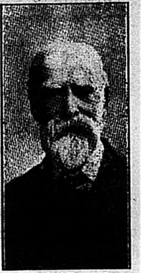
WILL BRYCE RESIGN?

It Is Stated That He Intends to Return to England.

Washington, Nov. 11.—James Bryce, the British ambassador to the U. S., has tendered his resignation and will return to England. There has been no official announcement of the resignation, and the embassy will make no statement, but it was learned last night on high authority that Mr. Bryce informed President Taft of his action at the White House Saturday.

Hon. James Bryce went to Washington five years ago as British ambassador and, save for his connection more or less intimate, with the reciprocity pact, his diplomatic service has earned nothing but highest encomiums. The Unionist press and speakers of Britain assailed the ambassador with considerable vigor for the part he was alleged to have played in seeking to draw Canada away from the Mother Country, but such criticisms seemed to fall lightly from his shoulders, he answering them with the statement that he merely discharged his formal duties. He returned only a few months ago from a trip to Australia, and expressed at that time no intention whatever of soon leaving Washington.



HON. JAMES BRYCE.

It became known last night that Mr. Bryce's main, and perhaps his sole, reason for his intention to leave the service of the British Government and retire to private life, was that he felt that advancing years entitled him to give up the burden of a public career. He is 74 years old, but to all appearances is still hale and hearty. He has been in Washington as British Ambassador since 1907.

Duck Hunter Killed.

Lindsay, Nov. 11.—Thomas Hunter, a larrigan maker in the R. M. Beal Leather Co. factory, was fatally injured yesterday while duck shooting. Hunter left Lindsay accompanied by a boy named Cleveland in a rowboat yesterday morning. A double-barrelled shotgun was placed in the bottom of the boat with both hammers cocked to be in readiness in case a flock of ducks were seen. While rowing the craft Hunter's foot slipped and struck one of the hammers, discharging the shot into his thigh. The accident occurred at Green's Point, a few miles north of the town.

Cleveland wound a piece of rope around Hunters thigh in an effort to stay the flow of blood. Then the boy rowed the boat toward the town. After going half a mile a passing motor boat was hailed, but Hunter died before reaching the wharf from loss of blood, the discharge evidently having cut several blood vessels. He was just two years out from Scotland, was 35 years old, and leaves a wife and five children.

Found Dying In Bedroom.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—Wm. J. Adams, aged 63, 238 Hallam street, was found in an unconscious condition in his bedroom yesterday at noon by his wife, and died shortly after. Dr. W. J. Duffries was called. The jet in the room was turned on, and the fumes of the escaping gas were very strong. Mr. Adams had been in ill-health for some time.

Coroner Dr. John J. Thompson will open an inquest at the morgue this afternoon.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Mrs. John McCracken, aged 56, died suddenly while preparing dinner at her home in Port Colborne.

Fifty thousand dollars' damage was done in Blind River Saturday by a fire which destroyed the postoffice, a hotel and five stores.

Fire caused by a boarder smoking while in bed damaged the home of Mrs. Mary O'Brien, Hamilton, yesterday, to the extent of $75.

Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Doxsee of Campbellford, aged four and two years, respectively, were drowned in the Trent river near their home.

Mike Andrews, 27 West Burlington street, Hamilton, fell off a Grand Trunk engine in the yards near the round house early yesterday morning, and was severely injured.

Ex-Ald. Alex. Dunn, a well-known resident of Hamilton, died last evening at the City Hospital, after a lingering illness. He was 72 years old and was born at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

New York Subway Traffic.

Albany, N.Y., Nov. 11.—The official reports of travel on the New York subways during the year ending June 30, show that 303,000,000 passengers were carried, representing a daily average of 890,000 persons over a railroad designed to carry only 400,000 a day.

Fears Expressed That Liner Will Sink if Taken Off Rocks.

It Is Expected That Royal George Will Be Left In Her Present Position Until the Next High Tides, Which Come In Two Weeks—Rumors Are to the Effect That Beaching Was Made Necessary by Earlier Accident

Quebec, Nov. 11.—The Canadian Northern Railway liner Royal George is still in the same position on the rocks, one mile east of Point St. Lawrence, and is likely to remain there until the next high tides, which do not take place until Nov. 26.

No effort was made to pull the vessel from her position on Saturday or Sunday, which goes to prove the seriousness of her position, and the fear that should she be hauled off she would go to the bottom on account of the condition of her bottom. The condition of the steamer is considered so serious that yesterday a rumor was current that the company had come to the conclusion to abandon her to the underwriters.

On making enquiries in this regard the Canadian Press was informed that such a proposition had been made by a party from the west, representing the company, but it was not likely that the advice would be entertained for the reason that no owner or owners of ships in difficulty could abandon their property to the underwriters until they can prove that they have done everything possible to save the property concerned.

Shipping experts interested in the release of the Royal George do not deny that the task of hauling the ship off the rock is a serious problem, but do not give up their hope for ultimately succeeding.

Rumors say that the Royal George, while running off her course, and too near the shore in the vicinity of Madam Island, grounded and injured her bottom to such an extent that it was later found necessary to beach the liner below St. Lawrence and this was responsible for her present position. Enquires were made to learn the truth of this rumor, which brought forth an emphatic denial. Besides, if such were the case there would be no reason to deny the facts, as they would be bound to come out in evidence at the forthcoming marine investigation to learn all particulars and fix the responsibility for the accident.

At the present time the chief point about the grounding of the Royal George off the Isle of Orleans, which is interesting the minds of the maritime community here, after, of course, the subject as to whether she will become a total wreck or not, is how the liner managed to get out of the channel. Nothing official on the subject has been forthcoming from the pilot, and there is little likelihood of his saying anything until he makes his statement before the wreck commissioners.

It has been said that he was misled by the light of a schooner. A passenger named William McKenna, interviewed here, said that the Royal George was following a vessel, and it is presumed that the liner went too close to the shore in trying to go round her.

Head-On Collision

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—Nine men are known to have been killed, and fifteen others injured in a head-on collision between a Louisville and Nashville freight train, and a work train at Emerson, near here, last evening. A. B. Baker and N. Blankenship, foreman and assistant foreman of the work gang, respectively, were among the dead. The others were negroes.

The wreck is said to have been due to a misunderstanding of signals. It will be 36 hours before the tracks are cleared of the wreckage, and it is said the bodies of other negroes may be buried in the debris.

Canned Sermons For Lepers

"Graphophones can be used in pest houses and leper colonies to supply the great lack of ministers and priests wanted for that work," said Dr. Muza bon Yussel, of Alexandria, Egypt, a delegate to the International Congress of Demography. He has devoted his life to studying leprosy.

"The graphophone has a very sweet tone, and impresses us greatly with its songs and music. I do not see why the great preachers of all creeds can not put sermons into them, so the poor outcasts of the world may have the benefit of their luminous minds. We do not have enough men of heroic mold, and as a consequence pest houses and leper colonies are without the necessary preachers.

"In Egypt we do not feel this scarcity of preachers so much as you do in the West. There our Mohammedan priests preach to the lepers in the outskirts of our cities. Leprosy is so common over there we do not have a fear of it."—Washington Post.

She Pays a Freak Bet

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Nov. 9.—To pay an election bet made with Lester H. Wyeth, Miss Catherine A. Henry, teacher of the eighth grade in the Over River School, went to school yesterday in low, white pumps and white silk stockings and will continue to do so every day this winter.

Miss Henry, a pretty blonde of twenty two and who hails from New Canaan, said she wished nothing said about the matter. "But I am no squealer and I intend to stick to my agreement," she added.

The wager was made at a reception early in the summer. Had Miss Henry won, Mr. Wyteh would have had to wear a straw hat all winter.

Receiver Follows Suicide

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Following the suicide of William E. Butler, Treasurer of the three companies, receivers were appointed today for the department stores controlled by William S. Butler & Co., the Gilchrist Company, and Everybody's Store Company. It is estimated that the liabilities of the three concerns amount to $1,500,000.

All the shares in the Butler and Everybody's Companies are owned by the Butler companies, a voluntary holding association. The majority of the stock at the Gilchrist Company is held by the holding concern.

On petition of a firm dealing in fixtures, which has a claim of $25,000 against William S. Butler & Co., Judge Colt in the United States District Court appointed C. F. Weed and Milroy H. Gibson receivers. By request of Frederick H. Nash, representing Everybody's and the Gilchrist Company, the receivership was extended to those concerns. Mr. Nash said that after the death of Mr. Butler the accounts were found to be so mixed that it was impossible to straighten out the affairs of the three stores without resorting to the court. He said that Gilchrist & Co. and Everybody's store are solvent and that possibly Butler & Co. may be also.

It was announced that the liabilities of Butler & Co. amount to $700,000. The combined liabilities of the Gilchrist Company and Everybody's Store are estimated at $800,000. The merchandise of Gilchrist & Co. is valued at $500,000, that of Butler & Co. at $250,000, and the goods in Everybody's store at $125,000.

Receivers Weed and Gibson qualified in bonds of $155,000 each and were authorized to continue the business of all three concerns.

Fall Sitting of Not-Jury Court

The fall sitting of non-jury High Court opened here this afternoon before the Honorable Justice Kelly.

Before any business was transacted Mr. F. E. O'Flynn as President of the Belleville Bar Association extended to His Lordship the hearty congratulations of the Association upon his elevation to the bench. All were confident that His Lordship would fill the position with credit to the bench and himself.

Justice Kelly replied briefly, thanking Mr. O'Flynn for the kind reference to him. The Bar Association of Hastings County was composed of a fine body of gentlemen. His Lordship said that nothing could be more beneficial to the administration of justice than to have the bench and bar co-operating together. The complimentary remarks he considered were intended to apply more to the position than to the person occupying it. Through the President he thanked all the members of the Association for their hearty expressions of goodwill.

A number of cases entered upon the docket have been disposed of.

Bridge Street's 97th Anniversary

Inspirational services marked the day yesterday at Bridge street Methodist church in connection with the 97th anniversary of that church. The preacher was Rev. Geo. Jackson, B.A. of Victoria University, Toronto, and the high anticipations aroused in connection with the visit of this distinguished theologian were fully realized. Mr. Jackson's sermons were models of simplicity, delivered with quiet and impressive force, but were marked by a depth of spiritual truth and vision which made their messages vivid and abiding. They will linger long in the minds and hearts of the large congregations present at both services.

In the morning Mr. Jackson's subject was "Salvation by Faith," his discourse being based on John vii:1-11. The preacher said that, though Biblical scolarship was unanimous in the conclusion that these verses did not form a part originally of the fourth gospel, it was a matter for deep gratitude that the incident had been preserved. It serves to illustrate so perfectly the spirit of the Christ, His love and sympathy and readiness to forgive. It was not by her own faith that the sinning woman was won but by the Saviour's faith in her. The story bears no evidence of repentance on the part of the woman, but does show abundantly the readiness of Jesus to "go to meet' that repentance and to forgive not because she had repented, but in order that she might repent. "While we were yet sinners Christ died for the ungodly." The father ran to meet the prodigal when he was yet afar off. It is just like Jesus. His heart is ever reaching out in forgiving love, and there are many today who will never believe in divine forgiveness until they find its proof in human forgiveness. "Is there no one," asked the preacher, "whom you can help to forgiveness in this way?" Shall the man who has fallen in the struggle not have a second chance? Shall the sinning woman not be made to feel the power of human love and forgiveness and be helped to another chance?

Speaking in the evening from I. Cor. vii:1—"Knowledge puffeth up, but love buildeth up," Mr. Jackson, in a most appealing discourse emphasized the sumpremacy of character. What really matters is not what we know, but what we are. The familiar theme, in Mr. Jackson's hands, stood clear and convincing and impelling. There is a greatness of art, of science, of literature, and there never was a time when men were less likely to give less than their true values to these, but infinitely above all of these is goodness, not intellect, but character, is the greatest thing in the world. It may be given to few of us to add aught to the world's sum of knowledge, but each single individual, in whatever station be he placed, may add his little quota to the sum of the world's goodness. The supreme greatness of goodness is the conviction that should rest upon the minds of the young who are going out to meet the many different standards of the world.

Gladstone once said: "Be careful not to let your religion spoil your morality." We find here a very much needed warning. It is easy to be persuaded that the religious form may atone for the moral lapse, but it never can. Even the Jews were not free from this idea and came under severe condemnation. Nothing avails except heart righteousness, a realization of the power and presence of Christ in the life. "You will believe this now," concluded the preacher, "in the quiet of this evening hour; you will know it when you are dying. God grant that you may realize it tomorrow in the daily task of life."

At both services the pastor of the church, Rev. H. S. Osborne, assisted. The musical service was of a special character and of excellent quality. The choir, under Prof. Cameron's leadership, was assisted in the morning by Mr. Burke who contributed a solo. At the conclusnon of the evening sermon there was a half-hour's musical service in which Miss Price and Miss Stork contributed solos, also Messrs. Cameron and Staples. Prof. Cameron and Miss Stork sang a duet and the male quartette of the church concluded the programme with a rendition of the "Recessional."

OUR NATIONAL FINANCES

There is satisfaction even from figures which show receipts of $136,000,000 and expenditures of $138,000,000. The public accounts of Canada are seldom analyzed, because Canadian prosperity has made the individual account, from laborer's to capitalist's, of importance. Gradually the receipts and expenditures of the Dominion have increased. About ten years ago, 1899, the ordinary income of the country just exceeded $51,000,000. For the past fiscal year it had risen to $136,000,000. But bookkeeping, as exemplified by Liberals and Conservatives alike at Ottawa, charges certain items to capital account. This ensures a surplus for presentation by the ruling powers every year. A Canadian budget speech without a surplus would remove the most familiar figure from Government finance. The ordinary income is labelled consolidated fund, and the ordinary expenditures have the same tag. Last year the former amounted to $136,000,000 and the latter to $98,000,000. To that sum must be added the following capital account expenditures:—

Government railways and Quebec bridge	$24,262,252
Canal works	2,560,938
Public works—special	4,116,385
Railway subsidies	859,400
Bounties to industries	538,530
Grand Trunk Pacific implementing payments	4,994,416
Advance to Montreal Harbor Commission	3,050,000

These figures, together with those of the consolidated fund, show an excess of expenditure over the income of $2,435,144, but, as previourly noted, we can extract satisfaction even from that result. There were various transfers and an appropriation of $1,156,456 for the sinking fund, the final result being a decrease in the net debt of $122,591. A decrease in almost any debt is a desirable thing.

Income is derived from sources of different values. Railroad operation brings in a large revenue, but not enough to make the government transportation systems swell with the pride of self-sustenance. The postal service is another revenue producer. Taxation, in the shape of customs and excise duties, is the largest item. Last year, the collections amounted to $105,847,000, the amount of federal taxes having more than doubled in the past nine years. The revenue from other sources was approximately $30,000,000.

The expenditure on the Montreal harbor is a doubly good investment. That port is being made one of the finest on this continent, and the commissioners paid to the government during the year $415,834 as interest at 3 and 3 1-2 per cent. on bonds held at Ottawa. The interest charge last year was $12,000,000, and with $147,456 management cost, was the heaviest expenditure. Provincial subsidies totalled $10,000,000. While Mr. Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and their colleagues are discussing on whose head rests the national surplus laurels, development and prosperity march forward hand in hand.

THE PRESIDENTIAL RUMPUS

How comparatively trivial personalities will result in a national breach is told by Mr. Walter Wellman, a prominent Washington newspaper man in a story of the events leading up to a breach between Roosevelt and Taft—a breach which has temporarily wrecked the Republican party.

Roosevelt of course is of a somewhat choleric disposition, but it would seem that he had good cause for resentment.

In the first place Taft had the bad taste to go to Washington some weeks before his inauguration and to set up a White House of his own in a hotel. Naturally in this way, as President-elect, he received more attention than Roosevelt, who was about to vacate the post. The out-goers, in such circumstances, never do prove as popular as the incomers.

On the top of this, Mrs. Taft made the break that when her family entered the White House the "social regime would be completely reorganized, and put on a basis of dignity and good taste." The Roosevelts naturally resented that.

The next thing was that Taft, in his Cabinet, dropped several of Roosevelt's friends and then on the day when Roosevelt sailed from New York on his African trip, a messenger from the White House handed him a small present from Taft, and a letter, in which the words were used: "Next to my brother Charles I think I owe more to you than to any other living man."

Said brother Charles had put up some cash, while Roosevelt had put up Taft's entire career, so that the Colonel became furious.

The whole story is one which goes to show that men in high places have their petty differences just the same as ordinary folk.

POLITICAL INFLUENCE ON THE MARKETS

The result of the American elections had been largely anticipated by the New York market, which had long since made up its mind that Wilson would be elected. Consequently, there was no element of surprise when the actual result of the voting became known. In spite of this, however, the traders appeared to regard the verification of their anticipations as a favorable omen and stocks on the New York market took an immediate and substantial upward turn the day after the election. This advance, not unnaturally, had its influence on the Canadian markets, and many stocks showed an advance in price. In the case of C.P.R., Montreal Power and a few others the advance was a marked one.

It will be a good 4 months before the new administration is inaugurated in Washington, and in the meantime the market will have plenty of time to consider the political upheaval in all its bearings. There is at present, however, a strong tendency to believe that the incoming President and the new Congress will do nothing precipitate, nor rash, leading to an immediate over turning of business conditions in the States. The President-elect's brief statement following the announcement of his victory is quoted in support of this view. It is accepted on the other hand, that the Democrats will lose no time in setting in motion the machinery for a complete revision of the American tariff, and it is not unnatural to suppose that manufacturing and commercial interests which depend in whole or in part upon a favorable tariff will be inclined to go rather slow in their commitments for the coming year or two until they have had a chance to estimate to what degree the coming tariff changes will affect their respective interests.

SOME FOREIGN MISSION FACTS

Pithy Discourse on an Interesting Subject—From the Bible Viewpoint.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 10.—Pastor Russell, as usual, had large audiences. We report one of his discourses, on the live subject of Foreign Missions, which is stirring Christendom. His text was, "This Gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the End come." (Matthew xxiv. 14.) He said:

A year ago the International Bible Students' Association, perplexed by the conflicting reports, resolved to send a Committee of Seven to investigate and give a candid report on missionary prospects in foreign lands—especially in South India, where it is making a special effort. I was one of that Committee, which otherwise was composed of four successful business men,—one doctor, and General Hall, of the U.S.A. The Committee performed its duties conscientiously, and made its Report to one of the largest Christian gatherings ever held in New York City—in the Hippodrome, March 31st. Its Report, published in pamphlet form, reached a very wide circulation amongst Christian people. I am authorized to offer the remainder free, one copy each, to all interested in Foreign Mission work. A postcard addressed to "I.B.S.A., Brooklyn, N.Y., requesting a copy of the Missionary Report, will receive prompt attention as long as the supply holds out.

The Committee, in preparing this Report, felt sure that it would be discouraging to some loyal Christian people; and they therefore laid bare the facts in as kindly and Christian a manner as possible. Every one of them being deeply interested in the heathen, every one of them a sincere Christian, what else could they do.

Now, as the Committee feared, the truthfulness of their Report, which so many Christian people gratefully acknowledge, has irritated a few persons. Those evidently fear that we have shattered their idol and discredited their fairy tales respecting the immediate conversion of the world by human instrumentality and more millions of money. We sympathize with these enthusiasts, who seem to deceive themselves as well as others and who shut their eyes to facts, while hoping against hope to maintain exploded theories.

One of these, Mr. W. T. Ellis, alias the Religious Rambler," attacks our report after the style of Don Quixote. Falsely he declares that we journeyed on the same vessel from San Francisco to Shanghai, giving the impression that we had not visited Japan at all. Then he declares that we merely raced through the country, did not visit all the mission stations, nor talk with all the missionaries; and he wants to know how we could know anything on the subject of our Report. Our Report tells the facts. The Committee of Seven scattered, and spent six days in Japan, or a total of 42 days of investigation. Our 23 days spent in India, similarly recorded, would be the equivalent of nearly six months' investigation by one person.

Our I.B.S.A. Committee were not commissioned to investigate missions, nor merely to ask missionaries to corroborate reports promulgated by missionary societies. We visited and interrogated the people, saw their conditions, attended meetings, etc. As for myself, this critic charges in one breath that I did not preach the sermons which appeared in the newspapers of the world; and in the next breath he declares that I spent all my time in preaching and therefore had not time for investigation. A discerning public read between the lines of such criticism what the Bible symbolically describes as "gnashing of teeth."

If millions of money were being spent to give instructions in French, if the teachers gave glowing reports of their success, and if a committee of business men were sent to investigate the success, would they ask the teachers and professors for a confirmation of the reports they had already made, or would they go amongst the pupils, and seek to ascertain to what extent they had a knowledge of French? There can be but one answer to this question. The principle applied to Foreign Missions, shows that our Committee took the only proper course for ascertaining the facts. They did obtain them, and I believe that every missionary and every other person who has been in foreign lands, within the last five years, will on reading our Report, concede that it is very truthful, at the same time extremely kindly and sympathetic.

Surely our Committee's method and Report will commend themselves to unprejudiced intelligent minds. Probably Brother Ellis' difficulty is fear that the hollowness of missionary claims is coming to the light.

Sympathy for the heathen and doctrinal errors respecting the everlasting future led Christianity astray in its missionary work. In full harmony with other nonsense received from the Dark Ages, we believed God intent upon hurling all the heathen to everlasting torture, unless they should hear about the Saviour in the present life and should accept Him and become saints. Frenzied by this misconception of the Divine Character and Plan, godly people hastened to give their lives and their money for the rescue of the heathen from the fate which they erroneously supposed an all-wise, all-just, all-loving and all-powerful God had foreordained for the Non-Elect.

Now our (former) darkness is departing. As we began to see the utter hopelessness of our claim that we could ever convert the world, we also see that we had misunderstood our Heavenly Father's Plan in respect to the heathen. We began to see that only the first part of the Divine Program has yet been put into operation, viz., the gathering of the Elect from all nations to constitute the Bride of Christ, to be Joint-heirs with Him in the Abrahamic promise, "All the families of the earth shall be blessed in thy Seed." Now we see that the saintly few from every nation and from every denomination of Christendom will constitute the True Church, the True Bride of Christ, the Queen of Glory, the Seed of Abraham.—Galatians iii. 29.

Our hallucinations respecting eternal torment, which the Bible, rightly translated and properly understood, does not teach—as every scholar in the world will agree—has been the foundation of all our errors. Alas, that so many ministers and learned men should have cast away their Bible without ascertaining that it is in direct conflict with all our creeds! Missionary labor has appealed to the most devout of God's people, the most sympathetic. Even though they have misunderstood, we may be sure that God has granted a heart blessing to all lovers and supporters of missions. This is no reason, however, why we should continue to be blind to the true situation. We must no longer delude ourselves with the thought that it is possible to convert the people even in our home lands, until God's time, under Messiah's Kingdom; for "Unto Him every knee shall bow."—Rom. xiv. 11; Phil. ii. 10.

Think not that the Bible has no message for heathen lands! Think not that I am opposed to the heathen or to good works done for them! I am opposed merely to our misrepresentation of God and the Bible amongst the heathen, even as in the past we misrepresented both at home. I am deeply interested in the work which the Bible declares should be done amongst the heathen—a work, however, which the missionaries have not been doing. "The Gospel of the Kingdom" was to be preached to all nations before the end of this Age would come,—not for their conversion, but for a witness to them—for the purpose of gathering out God's Elect to be Messiah's Joint-heirs in His work of universal blessing.

The Gospel of the Kingdom means the good news respecting the Kingdom. The I.B.S.A. has missionary workers in India, China and Japan, informing such of the peoples there as have the intelligence to comprehend the Message. Many of them are rejoicing in the good news that Messiah's Kingdom is about to be established; and that their friends, instead of being in either purgatory or eternal torture, are merely asleep in death, awaiting the blessing which Jesus promised, saying, "All that are in the graves shall hear the voice of the Son of Man and come forth" to a resurrection of judgment, trial, testing, to prove who will accept the gift of eternal life and who will reject it and suffer the penalty—Second Death. —Romans vi. 23; II. Thess. i. 9.

To a certain extent, wherever the Bible has gone, this Gospel of the Kingdom has gone. If the missionaries had only read the Bible to the people and had not attempted to teach the creeds of the Dark Ages, many more in heathen lands to-day would know about Messiah's Kingdom and appreciate the import of the prayer, "Thy Kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth, even as it is done in Heaven." But the missionaries apparently for the last few years have been telling those who would hear them at all, very little of anything religious. Their activities are chiefly with the children; and as our Report shows, the children get scarcely any religious information, and many of the denominational schools are being turned into civil or state schools, with the understanding that there shall be no religion taught with the money appropriated by the governments to the teachers for secular instruction.

The admitted failure of missions as respects religion and as shown by the fact that there are twice as many heathen to-day as there were a century ago means the fall of the Post-millennial theory—that the thousand years of Christ's reign will precede His Second Coming; that the Second Coming of Christ cannot take place until after the world has been converted and has had a joyous reign of righteousness for a thousand years. Following this erroneous theory, all effort has been concentrated upon converting the world, and thus bringing in the Millennium.

Our Catholic brethren claim that this thousand-year reign of Christ ended in 1799; that we are now in the "little season" mentioned in Revelation xx. 3; and that the success of Protestantism during the last 112 years is the loosing of Satan. This is the explanation given in the footnotes of some editions of the Catholic Bible. It must be discouraging to our Catholic brethren to see how many blessings have come to the world under what they claim is Satan's regime. Surely some of them will contrast this with the superstition, bigotry, and the persecuting spirit which seemed to dominate both Protestants and Catholics during what they claim was the Millennium.

As for Protestants in general, the kindest statement of their position is that they are confused. They do not like to agree with Papacy that the Millennium is past; and yet they agree with Papacy in claiming that the great kingdoms of Europe are parts of Christ's Kingdom, notwithstanding the fact that they are impoverishing themselves to prepare for blowing each other off the face of the earth.

Premillennialists hold that Christ's Second Advent precedes the establishment of His Kingdom; and that the Church during the Gospel Age is in preparation for the Kingdom honor, glory and service. Such believers in the teachings of the Bible alone are preaching that the coming of Messiah's Kingdom is the hope of the world, and that the call of the present is for the Elect, to share in the Kingdom. Hark to the Master's words, "Fear not, Little Flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the Kingdom."

To these it is not astounding that the heathen are not all converted, either at home or abroad; for they realize that God's Word does not so teach. They find the Scriptures to tell that at the Second Coming of Christ "the nations will be angry," and God's wrath will come upon them. "There shall be a time of trouble such as there never was since there was a nation." They find that during that time Messiah's Kingdom will be established, and that incidental to its establishment the First Resurrection will take place. They note Jesus' words, "Blessed and holy are all they that have part in the First Resurrection; * * * they shall be priests unto God and unto Christ and shall reign with Him a thousand years." "upon the earth."—Revelation xx. 6; v. 10.

But Premillennialists very generally make two mistakes: (1) They think of His Kingdom as one in which Christ and the saints will hold earthly court. They fail to discern that the resurrection change raises both Christ and the Church fully out of the human nature into the Divine nature; and that God's Kingdom, spiritual and all powerful, will bless mankind through earthly agencies already prepared. These will be the saints who died previous to Pentecost, and whose resurrection will be to human perfection—to which all of the Non-Elect world will be granted opportunity of attaining.

(2) Premillennialists fail generally to discuss that the Bible teaches that blessings will be granted the Non-Elect who have died during the past six thousand years, without having full opportunity of attaining to life everlasting. They have overlooked the Scriptural statement that all the dead of Adam's race sleep until the resurrection; that the Morning of the Great Day of Messiah's Kingdom will be the resurrection morning, not only for the church, but for the sleeping billions of humanity. Our unscriptural conceptions of the dead, as alive in Paradise or in Purgatory or in a Hell of torture, came originally from the heathen; but we have used our greater enlightenment to intensify the joys of the heathen Paradise, and the sufferings of the heathen in the intermediate state. Hence it is that the most intelligent people in the world, by neglecting God's Message, the Bible, to-day believe things respecting God and His purposes more monstrous than any of the doctrines of demons which afflict the heathen world and drive them from God in fear.

We note that the Lord did not say that the Gospel would convert the world, but merely that it would be a witness to them. The word here translated "witness" is in the Greek marturion, from the root martus, the equivalent of our English word martyr. Thus seen, this text agrees with all of the Master's testimonies to His followers that in becoming His disciples they would be sacrificing earthly friendships, honor, etc.; and that they would bring upon themselves sufferings. To be His disciples, therefore, they must be martyrs, witnesses for the Truth and the light, in the midst of darkness, bigotry and superstition. The additional light and Truth which the followers of Jesus would possess and testify to would make of them martyrs; and only such would be accounted worthy to share with Him in the coming Kingdom. "Marvel not * * *if the world hate, ye know that it hated Me before it hated you. If ye were of the world, the world would love its own"; but now "ye are not of the world"; for "I have chosen you" out of the world, "and ordained you." "Whosoever will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution." "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with Me in My throne."

Our text contains the Gospel in a nutshell. It tells of a coming Kingdom. It tells of a proclamation of that Kingdom during this Age, in advance. It tells that such a proclamation will be marturia—a witnessing through suffering. It implies that the sufferings of the witnesses will demonstrate their loyalty to God and their worthiness to be Joint-heirs with Christ in that Kingdom for which they pray, "Thy Kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth, even as it is done in Heaven."

HUNTING THE FOX IN OLD ENGLAND

The Sport, Expensive and Exclusive, Has Flourished for a Little Less Than Two Centuries

Authorities differ with regard to the date in which fox-hunting first became an amusement in England, but we must take it that it was not at all generally followed unil about the middle of the eighteenth century; though the Charlton, and afterwards the Goodwood, were in existence in the reign of Charles II., and the Bridgewater hounds very soon afterwards, besides others. We read, indeed, that King James, in the year 1603, was accustomed to hunt as a pastime in the course of the long journeys which were undertaken at that period. A writer tells us that "live hares in baskets being carried to the heath made excellent sport for His Majesty, Sir John Harlington's hounds, with good mouths, following the game, the King taking great leisure and pleasure in the game."

One of the earliest packs of foxhounds in the western part of England, was established by Thomas Fownes of Stapleton, in Dorsetshire, about the year 1730, and it appears that these hounds were subsequently sold to Mr. Bowes of Streatlam, in Yorkshire. The Dukes of Beaufort and Rutland, the Earls of Yarborough and Fitzwilliam, were amongst the earliest owners of celebrated packs, whose reputations have been jealously maintained ever since they were first established.

It has been stated that there are 354 packs of hounds in England and Ireland, but Mr. Sargent, who has been at great trouble in compiling an accurate list, allows for "hunts not returned," and estimates the whole total at 360.

Melton Mowbray may be considered the metropolis of the foxhunting world, for Leicestershire, rich in glorious grazing grounds, has for a century been looked upon as the premier country.

Rights of Hunting

Although there is no statute book laws which govern the rights of country, there is in England an unwritten law on fox hunting which is perfectly well understood and respected. Thus, every master knows that he may not dig a fox which has found a sanctuary in an earth or drain in a neighboring country; he may use a terrier, or employ almost any other means which ingenuity can suggest, but the soil must not be broken. It is greatly to the credit of all concerned that foxhunting disputes in regard to rights, limitation of country, or otherwise, so seldom arise; when they do they are referred to the Master of Foxhounds Committee.

Expensive Sport

It is difficult to lay down any rule, or, indeed, even to provide an estimate of the expenses which will probably be incurred in foxhunting. Deleme Radcliffe, writing in the year 1838, put his expenses for hunting three days a week, or seven days a fortnight, in Herts (exclusive of his own personal expenses) at $9,425 per annum; and he lays it down that a provincial country, such as Hertfordshire, may be well hunted for the sum of $10,000 per annum. To hunt four days a week it will be necessary to keep fifty couple of hounds, and for two days twenty-five couples will be found a sufficient number.

DISAPPOINTING CRICKET

The Season Spoiled in England by Bad Weather and Weak Teams

This year's cricket season in the Old Country was one of the most disappointing within the memory of followers of the game, although at the outset the prospect was one of exceptional interest. The institution of the three-sided test contests, and the meteoric rise of Warwickshire to the championship last season, led enthusiasts to hope for exciting times; but the dismal weatner spoiled everything. In addition to this most important feature, the sporting interest in the Test matches was sadly discounted by the disappointing composition of the Australian and South African teams. The unfortunate squabble in the Australian cricket world robbed the team of several of the Commonwealth's most prominent cricketers, while the South African team was weakened by circumstances over which the management had no control. The result was that the latter team's matches failed to arouse any interest, as it was soon apparent that their eleven was below the strength of several of first-class English counties, while the Australians, though certainly a better combination, were not up to the form expected.

The Speed of Whippets

A remarkable feat was that of the whippet Blue Prince in running 200 yards in 12 1-5 seconds at London, but a Canadian-bred racer has duplicated and even bettered the performance of Blue Prince. Steady Girl some years ago ran in a trial 200 yards in 12 seconds on the grass. Many skeptics who were present said that no Canadian-bred whippet could run the distance in record time. To convince them a second trial was made and Steady Girl's time was 12 1-5 seconds.

Hugh McIntosh, the Australian boxing promoter has strengthened his hold on Australian amusements by the enormous expenditure of $750,000 in a theatrical enterprise. He has purchased the whole theatrical business and the estate of the late Harry Rickards. The deal is the largest ever made in Australia, and includes vaudeville theatres in every state of the Commonwealth.

STRONG MAN OF RED SOX

Carrigan Does Much of the Headwork for the Boston Americans

Bill Carrigan, the former Toronto player, is getting a big share of the glory that is coming to the Red Sox. Boston fans place him even with Tris Speaker and ahead of Joe Wood as one of the reasons why the Boston outfit occupies its commanding position in the American League race. Five reasons are given for the eminence of "the man behind the bat."

He has trained and is boss of the Red Sox pitching corps.

He is the brains, the director of the Red Sox defensive play.

He is second to none on the team in offensive strategy.

He is Jake Stahl's right-hand man and a brilliant catcher.

He is to the "inside baseball" of the Red Sox what evers is to the Cubs.

Last year with almost the same team the Red Sox finished fifth. The management was largely at fault, though a certain weakness in the pitching staff was also to blame. when the team changed hands the players petitioned that Carrigan be made manager. Bill himself was largely to blame for the failure of this plan.

When Stahl was made manager, he gave Carrigan charge of the twirlers. The official records show how well he has handled them. Bedient is his most conspicuous success, but in the making of Joe Wood into a great pitcher Carrigan had no small part.

J. Garland left the signaling of the defensive play entirely to Carrigan, who, with Heinie Wagner's help, hands out all the signs. In a pinch, when runs are needed, Bill goes on to the coaching lines and shares with the manager the responsible duties of heading the base runners in the way they should go.

And as a backstop Carrigan has proved himself. He is slow and appears clumsy, but he blocks the runners off the plate like a stone wall. He has the faculty for hanging onto the ball, even when the sliding player knocks him off his pins, and he puts the ball on the runner with the best of them.

As a hitter, while he does not boast a .300 average, he is really valuable. His hits carry more than an average mount of steam behind them.

ARCTIC FOOTBALL

Indians and Eskimos Play a Strenuous, Happy-go-lucky Game

A game of football between Eskimos and Indians, at Fort Macpherson on Peel River close to the Arctic Ocean, is described in "Rod and Gun."

The Eskimos have seen the Arctic whalers who sometimes visit Hersche Island play the game and although the fine points of it are disregarded they play as hard and as interestedly as do our own football players.

The Eskimos in turn have taught the game to their inland neighbors, the Loucheux tribe of Indians. Now it is the custom for them to have one match each year.

There is no such thing as a referee; in fact he would be useless. There are usually about twenty-five men on each side. They rush and shove, pull and kick, and trip each other up. It is all in the game, nothing is barred. Body checking, catching another player by the body and pulling or shoving him out of the road is persisted in, while from the mass come the shouts of the Eskimos and the howls of the Indians. Part of the players emerge from the game with practically all their clothes torn off.

The football is made of moose hide sewn by native women and stuffed with moose hair. The game is more one of strength and endurance than one of skill and science. The Eskimos very seldom discard their heavy furlined coats and as they play the perspiration will be running down off their faces in streams. The game lasts until one team is fagged out which may be in one hour or in three hours' time.

The applause and encouragement which each native shouts out to his tribesmen shows that the same feeling exists at this far Northern game as exists at the great matches which are played in the various Canadian provinces.

The Eskimo is the better hunter and trapper and in the early days the better fighter and he usually has the better of his red brother in the game of football.

A busy tongue is responsible for much idle talk.

Sometimes a burglar leaves little to be desired.

The prospects are that there will be both intermediate and junior hockey teams in this city this winter. This evening at the rink those interested in junior hockey will meet to elect officers, etc.

FOOTBALL

ROSEDALE, Nov. 9.—After a gruelling battle Saturday afternoon the Argonauts defeated Ottawa Inter-provincials, 23 to 11.

HAMILTON, Nov. 11.—The last Rugby game for this season was played here Saturday afternoon, before a large crowd. Montreal had firmly expected to put it over the Hamilton "Jungle Kings," but somehow or another, Hamilton decided otherwise, and clinched it with an evidence of 23 to 11.

MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—McGill defeated Parkdale in an exhibition game here Saturday afternoon. The game was decidedly a close one, the score being 16 to 13.

In an interesting game the Varsity seniors defeated the Queen's Saturday. Score 9—3.

R. M. C. applied the whitewash to Varsity II. by 46 to 1. Rather onesided. It is possible that Varsity II. is following in "Father's footsteps." The score reminds one of what happened to the "Old Boys" when Carlisle got at them Thanksgiving Day.

MODEST INVENTOR OF THE SPIT-BALL

Stricklett Gives the Credit to Frank Corridon Fom Whom He Got the Idea

The spit-ball is the chief stock-in-trade of many a baseball pitcher nowadays, although it is barely ten years since it was discovered by Elmer Stricklett who late this season joised the pitching staff of the Toronto Ball Club.

Stricklett modestly disclaims any credit for the discovery, but hands the honor over to another pitcher, Frank Corridon, who will be remembered as a member of the Providence team some years ago. It was Stricklett, however, who first used the "spit-ball" curve with any good effect, and pitched it for two years without any one knowing anything about it.

How It Was Discovered

It was in the spring of 1902 that Stricklett was with the Newark Club, in the Eastern League, when Providence happened along to play the Sailors according to schedule.

"The pitchers were warming up before a game," said Stricklett in telling of his discovery, "when I noticed Frank Corridon, one of the Providence pitchers, moistening the ball and getting a peculiar break on it. I tried it with success, and shortly afterwards went to the Pacific Coast League, then an outlaw organization, and used it to good advantage, though nobody knew the secret of my success except the catchers who were aware that I used a lot of slippery elm and wet the ball thoroughly. The idea of the spit-ball is to prevent the ball from revolving on its way to the plate, where it breaks either up or down, usually down.

Taught It to Jack Chesbro

"In the spring of 1904 I went South on the training trip with the Chicago White Sox, and was left in New Orleans for a week to help the local club out in a series with the New York Americans. Jack Chesbro was with the Highlanders, and in practice I taught him the spit-ball, which he developed wonderfully that year and became the pitching sensation of the big leagues. Chesbro was the first man to pitch the spit-ball in major league company, as I only pitched one game for the White Sox, and was then turned over to Kansas City, going the following year to the Bookiyn club.

"Strange, but Frank Corridon, who had the idea first, didn't learn to pitch the spit-ball until 1906—four years after he had discovered it."

Stricklett pitches his spitter differently from most other pitchers, as he uses the second and third fingers to hold the ball. Usually the ball is held with the first and second fingers.

All young widows are not merry, but some of them will be if the men say "yes" before leap year ends.

ST. SOPHIA THE GOAL

For four and a half centuries the great shrine of the Greek Church—St. Sophia of Constantinople—has been profaned by the Moslem. In all that time the Greek and the Slav have prayed and prepared for the day when the city of Constantine and the shrine of Eastern Christendom would once more be restored to their rightful owners. A Bulgarian, discussing the feeling of veneration inspired by the Church of St. Sophia, said: "There were many Christians in many cities before her day, but Constantinople, by reason of Constantine's attitude toward Christianity, may well be called the first Christian city of the world. Here were originated and promulgated her first great creeds. And is it not tragic that to-day she should be the greatest Moslem city of Europe and almost of the world? That the greatest church erected in all the Eastern world to the honor of Christ still called St. Sophia, should be the pride of Mohammed's followers among all their splendid mosques?"

THE OPPOSING ARMIES

Strength of Allied Balkan States Compared With the Turk

From the best obtainable figures which credit Turkey with an army of 500,000 men; Bulgaria with 235,000; Servia with 175,000; Greece with 179,000 and Montenegro with 40,000, it will be seen that the troops at the command of the Coalition States outnumber those of Turkey. And the difference is intensified when matters are looked closer into. While Turkey has 500,000 available, it is doubtful if she could employ more than 200,000 owing to the impossibility of feeding and transporting them. It is possible too, that of these 200,000 at least 50,000 would be raw troops.

At the same time the Turkish army of to-day is a far better fighting machine than it was two or three years ago. Whatever faults have been committed since Abdul Hamid was deposed, that of negecting the defences of the country has not been perpetuated, with the result that all branches of the service are in a state of efficiency to which they had for years been strangers.

But the Sick Man's foes combined make a formidable army. First comes Bulgaria, with a first line of at least 235,000 highly-trained men. In addition, there are large drafts available from the reserve, and an equally large army of militia.

Their equipment is quite as good as that of the Turks, and in several respects better. They have engineers telegraph and signal service, transport and medical corps, and Red Cross ambulances. Bulgaria's sole inferiority to Turkey is in cavalry, the respective figures being:—Bulgaria 6,000; Turkey, 20,000.

Servia has an excellent military constitution on paper. Like all modern armies, the Servian is divided into three categories:—(1) The line, with its reserve liable to be called to the colors on mobilisation; (2) the reserve troops; (3) the territorial or militia.

The Servians are armed with the Mauser rifle and have a quick-firing field gun. The material weakness of the Servian army is due to the poverty of the country and the consequently inadequate equipment and margin of stores necessary for a campaign of a serious nature.

The Greek troops are armed with the Mannlicher-Schönauer rifle, and 300 Schneider-Canet guns.

Montenegro has armed her men with the Russian "3 line" rifle of the 1895 pattern. She has a few old field guns.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

EVERYTHING ALTERED

European Politics Changed by War, Says Asquith.

British Premier In Momentous Speech at Guild Hall Banquet Says the Map of Eastern Europe Has Been Recast and Old Policies May Go By the Board—Victors Must Have Spoils Is Europe's Opinion.

London, Nov. 11.—(Via Reuters' Ottawa Agency).—The Guild Hall banquet held Saturday evening, was as usual a brilliant function. Those present included Cabinet Ministers, peers, members of the House of Commons, distinguished officers of the army and navy, dignitaries of the church and representatives of the city corporation. The Rt. Hon. Herbert Asquith, the Prime Minister, made an important pronouncement upon foreign affairs in responding to the toast of His Majesty's Ministers.

"We are living in anxious times and are spectators of great and moving events," he said. "The Balkan armies are in effective possession of Macedonia and Thrace. Saloniki, the gateway through which Christianity first entered Europe, is occupied by the Greeks, and we may any moment hear of the fall of Constantinople itself.

"It is a satisfaction to be able to assure you that, so far as this country is concerned, its relations with other powers, without a single exception, were never more friendly and cordial. The great powers are working together with a closeness of touch and a frankness and freedom of communication and discussion which are remarkable, and which may seem almost unintelligible to those who believe that since for certain purposes, the powers have been and are ranged in different groups, there must therefore in a time of European crisis, be arrayed in opposite camps.

"Nothing is further from the fact. The powers have been blamed in some quarters because they did not succeed in averting the war. They sought, and sought honestly and earnestly, by diplomatic pressure and without resort to force to secure conditions of order and good government in the European provinces of the Ottoman Empire.

"But forces were at work beyond the control of any diplomatic manipulation. The Balkan states having matured their plans, perfected their equipment and co-ordinated their reciprocal action, decided that force was the only effectual remedy, and that they and they alone were prepared to use it. They took the matter in their own hands.

"Things can never be again as they were; and it is the business of statesmen everywhere to recognize and accept the accomplished fact. When Pitt, mortally stricken by the news of Austerlitz, came home to die, he told those about him to roll up the map of Europe which hung on the wall. But even the campaign of Austerlitz did not produce changes so suddenly and so startling and overwhelmingly complete, as those which during the past month have been wrought by the Balkan confederacy. The map of eastern Europe has been recast, and in the process it may be that ideas, preconceptions and policies which were born in what is now a bygone era, will have to be modified, reconstructed or even go altogether by the board. Upon one thing I believe the general opinion of Europe to be unanimous, namely that the victors are not to be robbed of the fruits which cost them so dear.

"So far as I know there is no disposition anywhere to belittle the magnitude of the struggle or to dispute the decisiveness of the result. We in this country have no direct interest in the exact form which consequent political and territorial redistributions may ultimately take.

"It is at the moment the first and greatest of European interests to circumscribe its scope. For that object the great powers have labored as with one will. So far they have labored successfully, and it is our hope and belief that they will continue to labor to the end."

To Be Radial Hub.

London, Nov. 11.—Chief Engineer Gaby of the Hydro-Electric Commission has prepared a map showing the expected route of the combined radial railway and Hydro-electric transmission line, north and west of London. The scheme purposes to use one right-of-way for electric railways for the carrying of Niagara power transmission lines. The map shows a radial from London to Windsor, another from London to Sarnia, and a third to St. Mary's and Stratford, and on to Goderich.

These transmission-radial lines to Windsor and Sarnia leave London by way of the Port Stanley Railway right-of-way. The purpose of this in part, is that the Port Stanley Railway gives right-of-way into the heart of the business centre of London for traction lines.

Bourassa Not Running.

Montreal, Nov. 11.—Henri Bourassa, who was mentioned as a probable candidate against Hon. Louis Coderre in Hochelaga, announces that he will not be a candidate, taking occasion at the same time to make some very strong charges against both parties. He did not accept a nomination, he says, because of the complicity of the two party leaders to ensure the election of Mr. Coderre, although he allowed the opinion to prevail for several days in order to verify his suspicions as to the real complicity of both parties in this grave question of contribution to the Imperial navy.

Hon. Sam Hughes For New York.

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—Hon. Sam Hughes will address the Canadian Club in New York on Thursday evening next.

Premier Borden is also scheduled to address the Canadian Club in New York some time during November.

NAVY IS GROWING.

Churchill Discusses Defence at Guild Hall Banquet.

London, Nov. 11.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Winston Churchill, who responded for the naval forces at the Guild Hall banquet, said: "The year has witnessed important naval developments. The fleet has been reorganized upon a complete symmetrical plan. An entire new squadron of very powerful ships have been placed in full commission; we have recruited the largest number of sailors and stokers of any year in modern times, and nearly three times as many men have been recruited in each month upon the average of the present year. Before the end of the session I shall submit to Parliament proposals for improving the pay of officers and men of the royal navy. This, it may be hoped, will further stimulate our already buoyant recruiting." (Cheers.)

"We had not proposed last year to create a sixth battle squadron until 1915, but by various administrative arrangements it will be possible to bring that squadron into existence, fully manned, on mobilization with active service ratings. This will increase the margin of security to which I have on several occasions referred in the Commons." (Cheers.)

"No harm has been done during the year by plain speaking on naval questions. On the contrary, the effect has been extremely good. The Germans are a nation with robust minds and a high sense of honor and fair play. They look at affairs in a practical, military spirit. They like to have facts put fairly and squarely before them.

"But, after all, what has made this year memorable in the history of the navy has been the spontaneous, simultaneous movement of the great dominions of the crown towards effective participation in imperial naval defence." (Applause.)

Sheriff Cooper in proposing this toast referred to the hopes he cherished of union between the English-speaking peoples for the purpose of mutual defence. He outlined the course of colonial participation in defence and concluded: "And in a few days when the Canadian Parliament meets, we may except an announcement of a naval policy worthy of the power and loyalty of that great dominion, and of immense consequence to the needs of the Empire as a whole."

DELEGATES SEE BORDEN.

Labor Men Present Resolutions to the Prime Minister.

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—Premier Borden received a deputation representing the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the Letter Carriers' Association on Saturday, when important resolutions asking for the betterment of certain conditions affecting workingmen and trade unions were presented to him.

Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labor, was present, and both the Premier and the Minister of Labor took the greatest interest in all that transpired.

President Watters introduced the deputation in a short speech, in which he informed the Prime Minister that they were the representation of one hundred thousand workingmen. He especially drew attention to the condition of the steel workers in Nova Scotia and asked that a royal commission might be appointed to look into the conditions. He said that not only were the hours of labor much too long and the wages too low, but that officers and organizers of unions were subject to monstrous treatment at the hands of the private police in the employ of the steel interests.

James Simpson of Toronto brought before the Premier a resolution calling for a federal bill granting cheap, simple anf effective facilities for the formation of co-operative societies.

Mr. Borden, while promising his careful consideration, said he could not at present make a definite statement.

It also fell to the lot of F. Bancroft to request the repeal of the Lemieux Act. The delegate said that while the congress still believed in the principles of investigation and conciliation, in view of delays in the working of the act and certain decisions in regard to it, they asked for its early repeal.

Delegate Hoop, for the letter carriers, presented the case of postmen for higher wages and shorter hours.

The fire was put out without an alarm being sent in.

BULGARS PRESSING ON

Relentless Attack Is Kept Up Against Turkish Position.

No Authentic Information Is Available Because of Bulgarian Secrecy, But It Is Known That Several Positions Have Been Taken — Monastir Reported to Have Been Taken—Turkey Hopes For Split.

London, Nov. 11.—The Bulgarian attack on the Tchatalja lines goes on unrelentingly. According to a correspondent at the front further Turkish positions have been captured, but their location has not been indicated, in accordance with the variable Bulgarian plan never to reveal information to the enemy. There is another unconfirmed report that Monastir had been captured. This and the capture of Dibra, an important town in Albania, by the Servians after heavy fighting, constitute all the military news of importance since Saturday.

Some idea of the bloody nature of this war may be formed from the fact that it is now estimated that 150,000 men have been put out of action on both sides since the opening of hostilities. The Turkish Government clearly has little hope of holding the Tchatalja lines. The despatch of 100 Ulemas to the front with the avowed intention to stir up religious fanaticism in the army is interpreted as the counsel of despair.

There is no confirmation of the report that the Turkish Government has opened direct negotiations with the allies. Turkey's immediate object appears to be to gain time, hoping for something from the rivalries of the European powers. She is also making urgent diplomatic efforts to prevent the Bulgarian troops from entering Constantinople. In this connection there is an idea prevalent in Sofia that some important diplomatic action is on foot to this end.

With regard to the difficulty between Servia and Austria, the Vienna Reichspost, in denying that any common action by the Triple Alliance in Belgrade is intended, says that Austria has no egotistical plans regarding Albania, but is only anxious to preserve Albanian national and political freedom and, in this object, has the support of Germany and Italy. But, the paper adds, the mere assurance by Servia that she would not fortify her harbor on the Adriatic would give little security and her passage through Albania cannot be conceded.

According to an inspired statement, the view of the Balkan allies is that an autonomous Albania, instead of contributing to the peace of the Balkans, would be a source of perpetual trouble and disorder among the Albanian people themselves, who have never been independent, have no national feelings and have various religious faiths and nationalities with no common language, not even a common alphabet, and do not form a homogeneous unit. These orders, it is understood, would inevitably spread to the surrounding states and instead of a permanent settlement, Europe would be left with a troublesome Albanian question on her hands.

Servian Army Advancng.

Belgrade, Nov. 11.—Dibra, 45 miles southwest of Prisrend, in Albania, was taken by the Servians Saturday after severe fighting, according to private advices. The remnants of the Turkish Macedonia army had assembled there. The same reports say that Monastir has surrendered. Maj. Popovich, in command of the Servian cavalry, has captured Dajran.

The third Servian army is well on its way towards the Adriatic, but progress is slow on account of the bad roads. It is expected that Durazzo will be taken in a day or two. Durazzo is one of the ports which Servia has announced her intention of seizing and holding.

Hopeful of Settlement.

Paris, Nov. 11.—"Dangerous, but not hopeless," is the way the political plight in which Europe finds herself is summed up in official circles in Paris. The diplomatic controversy between Austria and Servia over the question of Servia's access to the Adriatic has the centre of the stage, overshadowing all else, even the war itself.

Efforts at mediation have been postponed because of this, as the complication retards the attempts to bring the powers into accord. A hopeful feature in the situation lies in the knowledge that powerful influence is at work on both sides to induce the disputants to find a compromise for the vexatious question.

Should this fail, Europe would find herself threatened by a deadlock between the Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente—Austria, Germany and Italy as opposed to Great Britain, France and Russia—full of possible complications.

Discussing the complexities of the situation a prominent diplomat said: "I think we should not be too pessimistic. It is almost certain that we shall pass through difficult and dangerous chapters before the gloom is dissipated, but I think that we can reasonably expect that Austria and Servia will eventually settle their differences in an amicable way."

Louis Cyr Dead.

Montreal, Nov. 11.—Grieved over the illness of her son-in-law, Mrs Odile Destoches fell dead at the bedside of the sick man, Louis Cyr, the famous strong man.

Mrs. Desroches came to Montreal five days ago from her home in Joliette in aid in nursing the dying man. In spite of her advanced age of 72, she had performed her duties with activity.

The woman, however, evidently taxed all her strength, and Saturday morning, immediately after entering Mr. Cyr's bedroom, she collapsed.

Cyr himself only survived her by a day. The athlete succumbed to chronic nephritis from which he had been suffering for the past twelve years. He was 49 years of age.

The Puma and Its Names.

The large American cat known as the puma is very rich in names, which fact leads to no little confusion in the minds of young students of natural history. The early Puritan settlers in New England named the animal the painter, meaning, of course, panther, because in shape and size it strongly resembles this fierce carnivore of the old world. It also received the name catamount, which was shortened down from cat of the mountain. The reddish color of the fur of some of the specimens suggested the name red tiger, while in certain places it was given the more majestic name of mountain lion. In South America one of the native names was cuguacuara, but we have very sensibly knocked off four of the six syllables and shortened it to cougar. The puma has such a wide range, being found from Canada to Patagonia, that naturally enough it receives a different name in the various countries and localities which it inhabits. Six names for one animal! No wonder readers of books of travel get confused.

The Scorpion of Ceylon.

A more disagreeable object than a scorpion of Ceylon it would be difficult to imagine. Although, as a rule, it does not measure more than seven inches in length, there is a species found in the woods that are longer than a foot. They crawl out of some dried wood and, taking up their position on a convenient rock or stone, look, as they hold their great jointed sting curved over their backs and their claws held aloft, the very picture of aggressive warfare. Here they stretch themselves in the broiling sun and await their prey. These are the small, beautiful honeybirds that dart from flower to flower and take the place of the humming birds of the east. As one approaches the scorpion seems to shrink into the stone until it becomes almost imperceptible. Suddenly the great insect will raise its claws and dart at its beautiful victim, which in a moment is destroyed.

Reason For It.

At a debating society some time ago the Irish question was discussed. An English doctor was sustaining the argument that the Irish were naturally a race with right sentiments, but poorly developed. At Liverpool, he said, he had 300 Irish patients on his books and of these only thirty paid him for attendance.

"Sorr," said an Irishman, who rose with flushed cheek to defend his countrymen—"sorr, there is never an effect without a cause. There is never a phenomenon that does not admit of an explanation. How can we explain the astounding phenomenon to which the doctor has called our attention? He finds an explanation in the natural depravity of the Irish nature. I, sorr, have another explanation to give, and it is this—the thirty patients recovered!"—Pearson's Weekly.

A Thirst For Knowledge.

What Dora knows of botany,
Of Greek or trigonometry
Or any "ology" that goes
To fill the font whence wisdom flows
Would scarcely make a library.

In fact, a little dunce is she,
And yet she suits me to a "t."
For, after all, no other knows
What Dora knows.

She knows who loves her ardently;
She knows what her reply will be
When he gets courage to propose.
Shall he receive the thorn or rose?
I'd give a lot to know, ah, me,
What Dora knows.

Woman and Her Age

It seems an outrage that a young woman should be fined for understating her age, but this crime has actually been committed in Switzerland. It is true that she changed the figures on a marriage certificate but this only shows that she had the courage of her convictions. Now, it seems that in Switzerland even women are forbidden to tamper with official documents, and so the lady was prosecuted in due form and fined 21 shillings by a judge who ought to have been recalled upon the spot. The lady's defence was a good one. The certificate stated that her age was twenty-nine, wheras she felt only twenty-six, and, as we all know, a woman is no older than she feels, the certificate was clearly a false and a lying one, and so she changed the figures in defence of public morals. Nothing could be clearer, more convincing or more logical, but the judge—a mere man—refused to look at it in that way.—Dundee Advertiser.

ANOTHER WORD ON PAVEMENTS

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—I see by the papers that the Board of Trade is interesting itself in the matter of street pavements, which, I think, is quite proper, and in consideration of this I feel that the information I am about to give in this letter in addition to what I have already presented in two previous communications (which you were kind enough to publish in The Intelligencer of Oct. 31 and Nov. 4), may possibly be of some use to the Board, and therefore I crave space in your valuable journal for the insertion of this letter.

In the first place it may be truthfully stated that when considering the cost of different pavements the one which costs the least to construct is not necessarily the cheapest in the end. The average cost per year for the life of the pavement including the interest on the investment and cost of maintenance is the actual cost of the pavement. There is also to be considered the facility with which openings can be made and repaired when necessary to get at pipes and sewers under the pavement. Operations of this nature would be very much more costly with some pavements than with others. In fact in the case of some pavements the repairs could not be made properly without procuring the necessary machinery and assistance from some other city at probably a very considerable distance away. Another factor to be considered, which has presented itself recently, is the automobile traffic, for some pavements are more easily affected by the auto than others. Again, some pavements are better adapted for heavy grades than others and the noise and slipperiness of some should also be considered.

The chief engineer of the Maryland Roads Commission says: "There is no best way nor one best material for roads. The decesion as to method or material to be used must depend in each case on conditions of traffic, availability of different materials, desires of locality, etc."

In my previous letters there was considerable information given regarding sheet asphalt and asphalt blocks, showing, I think, that it would not be advisable considering our present financial condition, as well as for other reasons to pave Front street with either.

I will now quote from some letters giving information in reference to vitrified brick. The Assistant Engineer of St. Thomas writes: "Our principal business street is vitrified brick laid on an eight inch gravel base. It was laid in 1898 and has to the present time (Nov. 30, 1910) given most excellent satisfaction. We have a number of our streets paved in the same manner and the cost of such a pavement is usually about $2.00 per square yard. We have one street of vitrified brick laid on a concrete foundation, the cost of which was about $2.75 per square yard. As compared with asphalt block, whereas the life of a vitrified brick pavement is usually estimated at twenty five years, the life of an asphalt pavement under similar conditions is usually estimated at fifteen years."

The following is an extract from a communication received from the City Engineer of St. Catharines, dated April 10, 1912:

The practice of the former City Engineers here has been to use brick on the main or business streets where there is heavy traffic. I also am in favor of brick for traffic, if you get the right kind to start with, there is less maintenance than with any other type of pavement, except, of course, the granite or other igneous rock types.

We have adopted the sheet asphalt type on concrete base for surban streets where the triffic is mostly light carriages, etc."

This gentleman also enclosed me a copy of a letter which he had previously sent to the engineer of another municipality, in which he says: "My inclination at present is to vote for good hard vitrified brick, with expansion joints for the busy streets. This eliminates the possibilitiy of heat troubles in the summer, is clean and has longer life and less maintenance than asphalt block.

The following was clipped from the Peoria Star, and as it contains some valuable information, I feel it should be given a place here:

"The pavements laid by Will O. Clark when he was commissioner of public works 20 years ago are in as serviceable a condition as when they were first laid down. Clark went over the work and threw out every soft brick. The result of it is that his pavements endure. Some of the work done by John McAllister is likewise of superior construction and will last until the crack of doom. In spite of these facts which are patent to every observer, our citizens persist in putting down asphalt that crumbles in three years and are now experimenting with different kinds of abominations of tar—a foul, ill-smelling substance that is carried by the feet of the pedestrians into stores and private houses, ruining everything that it touches. While we persist in making these foolish experiments instead of making good, hard brick is something no fellow can find out. The trouble seems to be that the average man has no sense."

Now, Mr. Editor, it appears to the writer that as far as this city is concerned the matter of maintenance is of paramount impertance as our revenue will not provide for a very heavy expenditure in this respect, and vitrified brick seems to require less for repairs than any of the pavements that have been tested. This pavement is also easy to open up and replace. But we are told "it is very noisy." Well, this has been neutralized to a considerable extent by the use of rubber tires on automobiles and carriages, and as to heavy wagons, they do not usually go faster than the horses can walk and consequently would not create a very great noise.

I will now close by suggesting that all those interested take a look at the vitrified brick crossing which crosses Bridge street at the post office corner. Mr. Geo. Frost, our street foreman, informed me that this crossing has been down eighteen years, and it will be admitted by all who choose to examine it that it speaks for itself in a most satisfactory manner.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space occupied by this letter, I am,

Yours respectfully,
A. ROBINSON.

CHURCHES JOINING FIGHT AGAINST WHITE PLAGUE

December 1st Will be Observed as Tuberculosis Sunday Throughout the Province of Ontario

A movement fraught with tremendous possibilities for good has been launched in the form of a request that the churches of Ontario should set aside each year a Sabbbath to be observed as "Tuberculosis Sunday." The Interdenominational Ministerial Association of Toronto gave a ready assent when the proposal was laid before them, and they have fixed upon Sunday, December 1st, as the day upon which they will seek to awake the interest and sympathy of their congregations in the noble work being done to succour needy consumptives, stay the ravages of disease, educate the public in preventive measures and finally stamp out the scourge of tuberclosis. A general appeal issued to the clergy of all denominations in Ontario is meeting with a cordial response, and in hundreds of pulpits the sermons of Dec. 1st. will be devoted to this vitally important subject. The active co-operation of the churches of the province should result in a mighty impetus being given to the war upon tuberculosis in Ontario.

During the past ten days the bulk of the money to loan in the New York marget has been drawn from out-of-town sources, New York institutions being all loaned up. This condition would seem to preclude, for some time to come, lower rates than now obtain. In foreign money centres, there is likewise an insistent demand for money, and it would seem that the nervousness generated by the war in the near East, must disappear, before the tendency to hoard actual cash abates. A wide demand for credits will follow a resumption of investment buying by Europe. This of itself is enough to maintain present rates. The world's banking equilibrium, particularly in Germany, Russia and Austria has been badly upset. The return to normal in European banking conditions will be gradual, even though nothing unforeseen occurs.

THE STOCK MARKET

Careful students of market conditions agree that higher prices are to be expected for stocks, even though high rates for money continues. This assumption is based as much upon the technical position of the market as upon basic conditions. When both of these factors are on the side of higher prices, it seems as though no other outcome is to be expected. Fundamental conditions are particularly sound. Commercial business is satisfactory. Manufacturers are busy. While banking resources are not sufficient to meet the demand, nevertheless, loans at the present time are not over-extended.

The avidity with which stocks were absorbed when Europe was pouring a volume of securities in our market some three weeks ago, seems to be conclusive evidence that American bankers considered the stocks being offered as bargains. This being true, little selling is to be expected until these securities show large profits. The election now being out of the way and apparently settled satisfactorily, a resumption of the upward movement in prices for stocks would seem to be in order, particularly since a most prosperous period appears to be upon us. There are many issues which should net a fair profit if purchased at present prices. Standard Railroad shares are more attractive from an investment viewpoint than the Industrial shares.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

Steel Stocks.—The more important steel companies are reported to be doing an enormous business. Tariff agitation will no doubt sooner or later affect these issues. It would seem advisable to sell Steel shares and reinvest in some Railroad stock. Either Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe or Baltimore & Ohio Railroad should prove satisfactory.

Wabash Railroad.—Earnings under the management of the receivers have not been satisfactory. After this company is out of the receiver's hands and the assessments have been paid, I believe the common stock of this company will be a very profitable stock to buy. At the present time I believe both the common and the preferred stocks should be sold. Either no doubt can be replaced after the assessments have been paid, at price about equal to the assessment.

Copper shares. The month of October will probably see an increase in the world's copper surplus of from 13,600,000 to 15,000,000 pounds. In the meantime, prices for copper metal hold fairly well, but show no sign of advancing. The Copper companies are earning enormous profits at the present price for the metal. I believe such shares as Utah Copper, Chino Copper and Nevada Consolidated Copper will sell higher.

Attractive Investments.—I believe any of the following shares will show a fair profit before the first of the year: Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, Southern Railway Preferred, or New York Central.

Save your money and the chances are you will never regret it.

Battery Notes

The N. C. O. and men of our local artillrey unit, the 34th Field Battery, will be pleased to know that efforts to prove a class of instruction in the armouries have been successful. Sergt. Major Instructor Brown of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery is expected to arrive in town today and commence instruction in the armouries to-night at 8 o'clock. Classes will be carried on for five nights a week for four weeks and it is expected that all the N. C. Os. will qualify for their respective ranks. A goodly number of recruits have been balloted into 34th Field Battery since its recent camp and these young men are expected to avail themselves of this rare opportunity to master the 18 pr. gun. Other able bodied young men of good character desirious of enlisting in this branch of the service should make application at once as the establishment of a Field Battery is limited.

State Prisoners Had Another Plot

JACKSON, Nov. 8.—That an extensive plot which had for its object the dynamiting of Jackson State Prison, the killing of a number of guards and a general escape of the convicts has been in the process of forming in Jackson Prison for several weeks past, was the information that came out this afternoon following an enquiry into the removal of seven convicts from Jackson Prison last night.

That the plans of the convicts did not materialize was due to the work of operatives from the Burns Detective Agency, who have been quietly working in Jackson prison the last week. Had the plans of the convicts not been far-reaching conspiracy would have been carried to a successful termination.

"KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER"

By C. J. Cutcliffe Hyne

His head was bald, and the gray hair on his face and above his ears was either as short as clippers could make it, or else bristled with a two weeks' growth. Day and night he wore more or less shrunken pyjamas, from the neck buttonhole of which a single eyeglass dangled at the end of a piece of new black silk ribbon. Carter guessed his age as somewhere between fifty and fifty-five, and wondered why on earth Messrs. O'Neill and Craven kept such a disruptable old person as the head of what might have been a very prosperous factory.

Indeed, theories on this very point were already lodged in the older man's brain. "It's this new partner, K. O'Neill, that I don't like the sound of," he explained to Carter one day. "By the way, who is he?"

"Don't know. As I told you I was staying with my father at the vicarage, and I was engaged by wire the day before the M'poso sailed, and only caught her by the skin of my teeth. There was nobody there to see me off, and on the boat all they could tell me was that 'K.' came into the business when the late head died."

"Old Godfrey, that was"—Swizzle-Stick Smith sighed—"poor old Godfrey O'Neill! He was one of the best fellows going in the old days, not a bit like the usual cut of palm oil ruffian as we used to call the traders then. And, my God! to think of my coming down to the grade of one of them myself."

Again the subject cropped up when one of their rare mails came in. "Here's expense!" grumbled Swizzle-Stick Smith. "Letters landed at our Monk River factory, and sent on to Mulla-Nulla by special runner. K. O'Neill's orders, the Monk River agent says. In the old days you could always bet on the beach being too bad for the steamer to call twice out of three times, and you were not pestered with a mail more than once in six months. That's mainly why I've stuck by O'Neill and Craven all these years. Now this new man wants our output of kernels to be doubled by this time next year, and hopes I'll take steps to work up the rubber connection. If I can't see my way to do all this, will I kindly give my reasons in writing, and if necessary forward same by runner to a steamer's calling point, so that reply may be in Liverpool within six weeks at least. What do you think of that?"

"Oh, I should say it was reasonable enough from the Liverpool point of view."

"Bah! There is not much of the Coast about you." He tore the lettres into shreds, and folded these carefully into pipe-lights. "Dear old Godfrey trusted me up to the hilt, and this new fellow's got to do the same, or I shall resign my commission. If he understood anything about running the office, he might knew I should do all the work that was good for me."

"I'm sure you do," said Carter civilly. "I'm afraid I'm the slacker. You let me have such an easy time of it whilst my arm was getting well, that I've slid off into lazy ways. I must buck up, and if you will load the work onto me, Mr. Smith, you'll find I can do a lot more."

Swizzle-Stick Smith dried the perspiration from his eye socket, fixed his glass into a firmer hold, and stared. "Well," he said at last, "you are a d—d fool.". And there the talk ended.

It was that same day that Carter had his first introduction to Royalty. He was in the retail store—"feteesh," they call it on the Coast—weighing out baskets of palm kernels, measuring calabashes of orange-colored palm oil, judging as best he could the amount of adulterants the simple negro had added to increase the bulk, and apportioning the value in cotton cloth, powder, flintlock guns at twelve and sixpence apiece, and green cubical boxes of Holland gin. Trade proceeded slowly. The interior of the feetesh was a stew of heat and odors and the white man's elaborate calculations were none of the most glib. To knock some idea of the fairness of these into the blackman's skull was a work that required not only eloquence, but also athletic power. The simple savage who did only one day's shopping per annum was willing always to let the delights of it linger out as long as possible, and all white man's hustling could not drive the business along at more than a snail's pace.

By Coast custom, work for Europeans starts in those cool hours that know the daybreak, and switches off between eleven and twelve for breakfast; and thereafter siesta is the rule till the sun once more begins to throw a shadow. But on this particular day, when Swizzle-Stick Smith had knocked out his pipe and turned in under his mosquito bar, Carter sluiced a parrafin can full of water over his red head by way of a final refreshment, and went down once more from the living rooms of the factory to the heat and ordors of the feteesh below.

The sweating customers saw him come and roused up out of the purple shadows, and presently the game of haggle was once more in full swing.

Carter had a natural gift for tongues, and was picking up the difficult Coast Languages to the best of his ability, but his vocabulary was of necessity small, and a Krooboy stood by to translate intricate passages into idiom more likely to penetrate the harder skulls. The Krooboy wore trousers and singlet in token of his advanced civilization, and bore with pride the name of White-Man's Trouble.

There was a glut of customers that baking afternoon. High scented trade stuffs poured into the factory in pleasing abundance, and bundles of Europeon produce were balanced upon woolly craniums for transportation through bush paths to that wild unknown Africa beyond the hinterland. The new law of K. O'Neill allowed no lingering in the feteesh. Once a customer had been delivered of his goods, and had accepted payment, White-Man's-Trouble decanted him into the scalding sunshine outside, and bade him hasten upon his ways. K. O'Neill had stated plainly, in a typewritten letter, the leakage by theft was unpleasing to the directorate in Liverpool, and must be stopped. K. O'Neill understood that the thefts took place after a customer had spent all his cash on legitimate purchase, as then all his savage intelligence was turned to pilfering. Carter, as the man on the spot, recognized the truth of all this, and carried out the instructions to the foot of the letter.

Mr. Smith warned him he would have trouble over it. "Ever since the first factory came down to blight this Coast," Smith explained, "the boys have been allowed to hang around and steal what wasn't nailed down. They look upon it in the light of legitimate discount and it's grown up into custom. Now in West Africa you may burn a forest, or blot out a nation, or start a new volcano, and nobody will say very much to you, but if you interfere with a recognized custom, you come in contact with the biggest kind of trouble."

"Still," Carter pointed out, "these orders are definite."

"And you are the kind of fool that goes on the principle of 'obeying orders if you break owners.' Well, go ahead and carry out instructions. I won't interfere with you. I'd rather like to see this cocksure K. O'Neill get a smack in the eye to cure his meddling. And for yourself, keep your weather eye lifting, or some indignant nigger will ram a foot of iron into you. It is the Okky-men I'd take especial care of if I were you. They've got their tails up a good deal more than is healthy just now. I'm told, too, that their head witch doctor wants his war drum redecorated." Mr. Smith grinned—"I don't want to be personal, of course."

"Oh, don't mind men. So far I rather fail to understand what I've

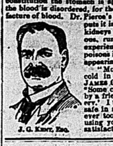
Nature's Way Is The Best.

Buried deep in our American forest we find bloodroot, queen's root, mandrake and stone root, golden seal, Oregon grape root and cherrybark. Of these Dr. R. V. Pierce made a pure glyceric extract which has been favorably known for over forty years. He called it "Golden Medical Discovery."

This "Discovery" purifies the blood and tones up the stomach and the entire system in Nature' own way. It's just the tissue builder and tonic you require when recovering from a hard cold, grip, or pneumonia. No matter how strong the constitution the stomach is apt to be "out of kilter" at times; in consequence the blood is disordered, for the stomach is the laboratory for the constant manufacture of blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach—puts it in shape to make pure, rich blood—helps the liver and kidneys to expel the poisons from the body. The weak, nervous, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people experience at this time of the year is usually the effect of poisons in the blood; it is often indicated by pimples or boils appearing on the skin, the face becomes thin—you feel "blue."



J. G. Kent, Esq.

"More than a week ago I was suffering with an awful cold in my head, throat, breast, and body," writes Mr. James G. Kent, of 710 L. Street, S. E., Washington, D.C. "Some called it La Grippe, some pneumonia. I was advised by a friend to try a bottle of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I tried a bottle and it did me so much good that I feel safe in saying it is the greatest and best medicine that I ever took. My health is much better than it was before using your medicine. It does all you claim for it and is satisfactory."

FRAIL, SICKLY CHILD

Restored to Health by Vinol—A Letter to Mothers.

Anxious mothers often wonder why their children are so pale, thin and nervous and have so little appetite. For the benefit of such mothers in this vicinity we publish the following letter:

J. Edmund Miller, New Haven, Conn., says: "My little daughter ever since her birth had been frail and sickly, and was a constant source of worriment. Several months ago we commenced to give her Vinol. I immediately noticed an improvement in her health and appearance, and from the good it has done her I can truly say it will do all you claim."

This child's recovery was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements extracted from cods' livers—combined with the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron which are contained in Vinol.

Vinol will build up and strengthen delicate children, old people, and the weak, run-down and debilitated. We return the money in every case where it fails. Red Cross Drug Store. J. S. McKeown, Belleville, Ont.

Taft Man is Hunting for a Tree To Hang Himself

WEBSTER, Mass., Nov. 11.—William Winter, not the veteran dramatic critic, but the hearty proprietor of the German-American House in Dudley, is going to pay his election bet to "Sam' Wilson, the local blacksmith, by hanging himself, just as soon as he can find a suitable tree.

Winter is a Taftite. Wilson is a Bull Mooser. Wilson agreed to shoe Winter's horses free for six months it th Bull Moose vote failed to beat Taft poll. Winter said that if "Teddy" outran Taft he would hang himself.

After the returns were in Wilson said he hated to see Winter hang himself, but a bet was a bet. He bought a nice, new rope and, followed by a band and a procession of enthusiastic friends, Wilson marched to Winter's Hotel, presented him the rope in a neat speech and invited him to go ahead and hang himself.

Fred W. Taft of Elm street offered Winter the use of an apple tree at his camp in Chartlton. Taft said he felt interested having the same name as the President, and he wouldn't mind having Winter hang around the camp—from the apple tree.

Winter responded with much feeling. He said he would go right out and hang himself but for two reasons.

First—It was raining and he did not want to get the new rope wet.

Second—He couldn't hang from an apple tree. Only one tree will do. He will hang himself and pay the bet as soon as he finds a huckleberry tree.

Mother Sold Her Blood For Children

BALTIMORE, Nov. 11.—Deserted by her husband, with no support for herself and seven-year-old boy twins, and ill in the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Mrs. Ethel Brown gave up a quantity of her blood in order to obtain money for their support.

This sacrifice of the mother became known o-day when Detective Quirk returned from Vineland, N. J. with Charles Leroy Brown, the husband and father, who has been indicted by the Grand Jury here for deserting his wife and failing to provide for the support of herself and little ones.

Until about three months ago the mother worked to provide for herself and children. At that time she was removed from her home to the Johns Hopkins Hospital, and in a few days was the mother of another bouncing baby boy. During her illness her small savings had slowly dwindled until she had but a few pennies left.

Learning that a patient in another institution was in a serious condition and that the only hope of the surgeons was in transfusing some healthy blood into the body of the paient, Mrs. Brown offered to sell some of her blood. The surgeons accepted her offer. Mrs. Brown stood the operation very well and in a few weeks was able to leave the institution. She received $25.

Colonel To Speak To Ottawa Club

OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, ex-President of the United States, who was defeated this week in an attempt to get a third term as the chief citizen of that country, is evidently not a fallen idol in the estimation of members of the Ottawa Canadian Club. He will be invited to address the club here at an early date. Col. Roosevelt was asked once before to come to Ottawa, but stress of business prevented him then.

Two Die in Cobalt Mine

NEW LISKEARD, Ont., Nov. 11—David Roberts, thirty-three, and Charles Lundburg, forty-eight, were drowned at the Casey (Cobalt) mine at five o'clock Sunday afternoon, when they were overcome by gas in a winze at the 200-foot level and fell into four feet of water at the bottom of the workings.

Their bodies were discovered some time afterwards. Roberts was a mine captain and had worked at the mine five years. Lundburg was a married man and lives nea the mine, which is seven miles from New Liskeard. The bodies have been brought here and an inquest will be held.

BOARD OF TRADE RECEIVES DEPUTATION

A meeting of the Board of Trade and citizens was held in the Council Chamber last night for the purpose of receiving a report from the deputation which went to Detroit to inspect pavements, and to discuss the proposition. As Mr. W. B. Deacon stated, the deputation went at the expense of the Canada Cement Company, to Detroit, Mich., where concrete pavements have been in vogue for some time. While nothing definite was done at the meeting the general trend of the discussion was in favor of having a concrete pavement on Front street in this city.

Mr. J. Eliott, President of the Board, occupied the chair, and in the absence of Col. Ponton, Secretary, Mr. A. M. Chapman acted as secretary and read the minutes of the last meeting, which were adopted.

Among those present were: Messrs. J. Elliott, H. F. Ketcheson, C. M. Reid, W. B. Deacon, J. M. Farley, J. Caldwell, Ald. Alford, Ald. Panter, Col. S. S. Lazier, A. M. Chapman, P. J. Wims, J. Cummins, G. Wallbridge, W. B. Riggs, J. C. Moynes, L. C. Allen, J. G. Lindsay, P. McL. Forin, L. R. Terwilligar, L. C. Yeomans, J. F. Wills, K.C., T. Blackburn, D. V. Sinclair, Ald. Wallace, A. McGie, Ald. White, F. S. Deacon, Ald. Anderson, Col. Ponton, C. Harte, F. Wallbridge, A. R. Wallbridge and J. H. P. Young.

Mr. Elliott said the meeting was called not because the Board desired to interfere with the City Council in regard to the matter of paving Front street, but that it might be discussed and the best kind of pavement secured.

Mr. W. B. Deacon stated that a representative of the Canada Cement Company was in the city last week and, learning that it was proposed to pave Front street, suggested that a deputation go to Detroit to see the concrete roads built in Detroit and about the city. The deputaion was sent at the expense of the Canada Cement Company. The visitors went over 26 miles of concrete pavement by automobile, and they were beautiful pavements, too. The concrete pavement is cheaper than other materials used, and possessed durability. Those using these pavements were all of one accord in saying that it was the right kind of pavement. It was very smooth to travel over. We have in this city many concrete walks, and we know that many of them have been down for years and are today in good condition, as are also the crossings. The concrete roads are no noisier than the asphalt pavements.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson said that he concurred in what Mr. Deacon had said. We have a beautiful city, but visitors say that Front street is the worst street in Canada for a main thoroughfare. We have not heard much about this concrete pavement. Concrete crossings in this city which were put down years ago are today in a first class condition. The concrete pavement is dustless, and for travelling upon with an automobile is faultless. The deputation were shown a piece of concrete pavement which had been down for 14 years, and some for less than a year, and all were in the best of condition. In Windsor they were informed that the citizens will not have any other kind of pavement but concrete. The cost in Wayne County, outside of Detroit, of building the concrete road is from $1.00 to $1.75 per square yard, which included the cutting down of hills to make the road level.

Mr. J. G. Lindsay, City Engineer, said that when the matter was brought up in Council, three recognized pavements were considered, namely, asphalt block, vitrified brick and sheet asphalt. In Canada concrete pavements were not so general as in the United States. He was not impressed unfavorably with the concrete pavement, which was no doubt the cheapest pavement. An expensive pavement may be cheap, and a cheap pavement may be expensive. There was considerable traffic on the pavements which the deputation saw in Detroit. It was not a noisy pavement, and it was clean.

Ald. Alford—What is the thickness of the concrete pavement?

City Engineer—About 6 inches. Extreme care has to be taken in the mixing of the material.

Ald. Panter—What would be the cost of laying such a pavement?

City Engineer—From $1.60 to $1.65 per square yard.

Ald. Panter—That is cheaper than granolithic walks are being laid here.

City Engineer—It would be possible to build it cheaper upon a roadway, which is much wider than a walk.

Mr. L. C. Allen said that concrete work was a permanent work. A concrete base had to be made for any pavement to make them permanent. In the concrete pavement it was absolutely solid concrete. In making a concrete pavement in this city the material is right here. It would mean the using of local material and local labor. Asphalt, as all know, comes from a foreign country. The maintenance of a concrete pavement would be exceptionally low. Some might say that this was an experiment—putting down a concrete pavement—but it has been put down quite extensively used in different parts of the United States. In Windsor, Chatham, Peterborough, Toronto and some other places in Canada, concrete pavements had been put down. In some places concrete pavements have been laid down as low as $1.15 per square yard.

Blew Up A Power House; Should Have Been Bridge

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 11.—Going deeper into his adventures as a paid dynamiter, Ortie E. McManigal told are the dynamite conspiracy trial today of wrecked bridges, viaducts and buildings he left behind in causing explosions in various cities.

'After I blew up the power house of a car shop in Mount Vernon, Illinois, Herbert S. Hockin came to me at Chicago and said I had gotten the wrong job," testified McManigal. "He said I should have blown up a railway bridge and the union's executive board would not allow me pay for the job.'

British Minister To Morocco Dead

TANGIER, Nov. 11.—Sir Reginald Lister, British Minister to Morocco since 1908, died yesterday. He was born in 1865, and served in many of the British Embassies and Legations.

Sir Reginald was the third son of the third Baron Ribblesdale. He entered the diplomatic service in 1886, and was attache or secretary of legation successively at Berlin, Paris, Athens, Constantinople, and Copenhagen. In 1904 he was made Councillor of the Embassy at Rome, and in 1905 he was sent to fill a similar office at Paris. His services as Minister to Morocco were so appreciated that a year ago he received the honor of knighthood.

Bulgaria Demands More Than Turkey Will Concede

LONDON, Nov. 11.—What answer Bulgaria has made to Turkey's request for peace terms could not be learned today here. Inasmuch as fighting was still in progress along the Tchataldja lines, it was inferred that the Bulgarians must have demanded more than the Turks would grant, probably unconditional surrender.

Czar Ferdinand still insists on entering Constantinople, according to reliable information from Sofia, and this is believed to be certain, the Turks considered an impossible condition.

Nazim Pasha, it is said, is not making any serious resistance to the Bulgarian attacks on the Tchataldja fortifications, considering the situation hopeless from the Turkish standpoint.

Wilson's Vote Under Bryan's

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—In a total estimated vote of 14,065,666, Gov. Wilson received 6,298,997, Col. Roosevelt 4,307,305, and President Taft 3,359,364. Thus Wilson's plurality over Roosevelt is 2,091,692, and Roosevelt's plurality over Taft 947,911.

In 1896 McKinley's total vote was 7,104,779, in 1900 7,207,923, in 1904 Roosevelt's popular vote was 7,623,486, and Taft's in 1908 was 7,678,908.

In 1896 Bryan's total vote was 6,502,925, and in 1900 it was 6,358,133. In 1904 Parker received 5,077,911, and in 1908 Bryan received 6,409,104.

On the face of these figures, therefore, Gov. Wilson's popular vote is behind that of Bryan. The popular vote for Parker in 1904 has never been accepted as the real strength of the Democracy, for the reason that he was not wholly supported by the Bryan Democrats.

Adrianople News Says Bombardment Proceeds

ADRIANOPLE, Nov. 11.—The bombardment of this city by the Bulgarians began again yesterday and continued today, from the south and west.

In the afternoon it stopped, and Shukri-Pasha, the military commandant, had placards posted all over the city, announcing the victory of the garrison, which had repulsed the Bulgarian attacking force around Maras, and had driven the besiegers a considerable distance into the surrounding country.

This is the first despatch sent by any correspondent with the besieged Turkish garrison of Adrianople.

SCARED BY TRAIN.

Horse Bolts and Mother and Babe Are Killed Near Hamilton.

Hamilton, Nov. 12.—Two deaths were caused by a runaway horse at the Valley Inn, just west of the city, about 3.45 yesterday afternoon. Mrs. S. J. Mitchell, wife of a Flamboro Centre farmer, and her six-year-old daughter, Irene, were the victims. They were driving homeward in a single buggy and when descending the steep roadway running under the G.T.R. tracks, the horse they were driving took fright at a passing train and dashed madly down the hill. Mrs. Mitchell and here daughter were hurled from the buggy to the roadside, and the little girl was instantly killed. The mother died on the way to the City Hospital in the police patrol, which had hurriedly responded to the emergency call.

The horse continued down the hill and ran into the stable at the Valley Inn and the force of the collision knocked a big hole in the side of the building, but the horse and buggy escaped injury.

The bodies of the mother and daughter were taken to the city morgue. Coroner McNichol was notified of the double fatality, but decided that no inquest was necessary.

A pathetic feature of the unfortunate affair is that the little girl wanted to go to school yesterday morning, but her mother thought the drive to the city would do her good. The horse driven by Mrs. Mitchell was 20 years old and had never run away before.

Mrs. Mitchell was 47 years of age, and had lived in the vicinity of Flamboro Centre all her life. Besides her husband she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ralph of Carlisle, and by two daughters, and a three months old baby boy.

No Opponent For Coderre.

Montreal, Nov. 12.—Another change took place in the political situation yesterday in regard to Hochelaga, when Arthur Ecrement announced that he had changed his mind about running against Hon. Mr. Coderre. Mr. Ecrement explained that in wishing to fight the new Minister's re-election, he had desired to bring the navy question to a direct issue. He has since learned, however, that Mr. Coderre would not make any statements on the navy question until official announcement has been made in the House of Commons, and for this reason Mr. Ecrement has decided to withdraw. He also gave it as his opinion that no other Liberal would enter the lists.

Mr. Coderre stated yesterday that he had made no arrangements as yet for holding any meetings, and in any case would hold none until after nomination day, and then, of course, only if opposed.

Rev. T. R. Shearer Killed.

Camlachie, Ont., Nov. 12.—Rev. T. R. Mr. Shearer came from Melbourne. He was born in Ottawa about fifty years ago. His wife, four daughters and a son survive.

Lemieux Act Constitutional.

Montreal, Nov. 12.—That the Lemieux Act, providing for the nomination of a board of conciliation to enquire into disputes between employer and employe, is constitutional, and that consequently a board named to look into certain differences between the Montreal Street Railway and some of its employes was regularly and legally appointed, is the tenor of a ruling handed down by Justice Lafontaine, in a case which has been occupying the attention of the local superior court off and on for the past two years.

Cocoa is the Children's friend, Tea and Coffee are their enemies.

A child, up to seven years of age, should be brought up on milk. And it should never have a drop of tea or coffee until it is thirteen years of age. In fact, the authorities say it is better they should not drink any tea or coffee until they reach maturity.

But from the age of seven on, they may drink cocoa with great benefit.

But be sure to get the right cocoa.

24,000 More Wanted

TORONTO, Nov. 11.—At the close of a banquet on Saturday evening, attended by 400 men, the Laymen's Missionary movement adopted a resolution calling for an increase in missionary contributions to bring them to at least $500,000 for the coming year. The meeting also reendorsed the Canadian national missionary policy and its methods, including a men's missionary committee in every church, a systematic educational campaign by clergy and laymen, a thorough canvass of members and adherents for weekly offerings, and adoption of mission study classes and the recommendation of an every-member canvass in the month of January. The banquet marked the fifth anniversary of the launching of the movement in Canada. There were 100 men gathered together at the first banquet, which was held in St. James' parish house.

Needs Many Missionaries.

"There are one billion non-Christian people in the world, of whom four hundred millions are being served at the present time by 1,000 missionaries, each covering a field of 25,000 people. To make possible the evangelization of the world in the present generation we need 24,000 more missionaries and sufficient money to transport them," said J. Campbell White of New York, addressing the students of the University of Toronto at Convocation hall last evening.

"Canada has nearly 400 missionaries serving ten millions out of forty million inhabitants of the districts they cover. Twelve hundred more missionaries are needed from Canada to man this field properly. It means only one out of every 620 Protestant church members."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

DEATH ROLL

ANNIE C. GRANT

Annie Christina Grant, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Grant residing in Thurlow Township near Albert College, died this morning. The little one had been ill since its birth.

HIRAM ECKERT.

This morning Mr. Hiram Eckert, who resided with relatives on Pinnacle street, died after being ill for some time. About 5 years ago Mr. Eckert was the victim of a paralytic stroke, since which time he had been in feeble health. Deceased, who was 77 years of age, was born in Prince Edward County, where he lived the greater portion of his life. For the past 11 years he had lived in this city. He was a member of the Methodist church. A widow, but no family survives.

MRS. WM. ALLISON.

At an early hour this morning death came suddenly to Mrs. William Allison, who resided in the 5th concession of Tyendinaga. Yesterday the deceased was about as usual, and in the evening was sewing until shortly after 9 o'clock, when she retired. About 1 o'clock this morning Mr. Allison was awakened by the heavy breathing of his wife. He arose, and after securing a light, returned to the bed, only to ascertain that death had overtaken his partner in life. Heart trouble was the cause of death. Deceased, who was 61 years of age, was a daughter of the late Mr. Samuel Robinson, of Tyendinaga, where she was born. She was a lady who was esteemed by all who knew her. For many years Mrs. Allison had been a member of the Methodist church. No family survive. Messrs. W. B. and J. Robinson of this city, are brothers of the deceased.

Battery Notes

A very enthusiastic meeting of the officers of the N. C. O's of our local artillery corps was held last evening in the lecture room of the armouries. About thirty five were present and seemed to take great interest in the class of instruction. Sergt. Major Instructor Brown, permanent Instructor for the R. C. H. A., Kingston, has taken over the class and feels confident that with these men he can make a record in turning out qualified artillery men.

Government Patrol Fishing Steamer In Winter Quarters

The Ontario Government's Patrol Fishing Steamer, "Nevarch" is being laid up in the Government boat house, opposite the Ferry House, for her long winter's rest after a very busy and successful season, in protecting the game fish in these waters. The Disciples of Issasc Walton will be pleased to know that Capt. Fleming, her popular and efficient master, has been notified by the Government to remain here until navigation closses and patrol the bay daily with a smaller craft from Trenton to Deseronto and see to it that no nets are allowed to be used illegally. This is a very popular movement in the right direction, and Capt. Fleming is determined to stop poaching in these waters, and if any persons so caught, will be heavily fined and their goods confiscated. The anglers of this section of the country ought to petition the Government to have Capt. Fleming located here permanently so that he would be more in the position to know what was going on, in order to do his duty, and also to please thousands of our citizens who love to go once in a while and catch a mess of game fish, for if a good reliable fishing officer was placed here, in a short time such a thing would be a possibility.

A Word to Local Peanut Consumers

Usually we decline to publish articles to which are not attached the name of the writer, but following is of such importance that we give it space for the good of the community and the writer in particular, who, evidently is slightly warm about the collar. He says: "For God's sake do what you can to stop the vulgar crunching and munching of peanuts in public by peanut hogs." Wonder if it was at the theater, or in church? In either event, some one in authority should take the "hogs" in hand.

President of France For Private Life

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The French Presidential election in January is at last beginning to arouse some little interest in Paris. With the forthcoming change in the Executive, since it is now certain that M. Fallieres will not offer himself for re-election.

Premier Poincare has, up to the present, refused even to consider the idea of running for the Presidency, but his friends are urging him so persistently to do so that it is thought possible that he may enter the lists at the eleventh hour, in which case he would, it is thought, almost certainly be sent to the Elysee by the General Assembly.

Paul Deschanel, who is a very popular politician, has also not yet put himself forward, but it is understood that he will do so in good time.

Antonin Dubost, the president of the Senate, is certain of a number of votes.

WISER COUNCIL PREVAILING

The prospect of serious opposition to a Canadian contribution toward the naval defence of the Empire is growing daily more remote. There are evidences that wiser and more patriotic counsel within the Liberal party is prevailing and will prevail. Not the least of these evidences is found in the refusal of the Liberal leaders to authorize a contest in the riding of Hochelaga in the bye-election made necessary by the entry of Hon. Louis Coderre into the Dominion Government. The Opposition leader has sent a letter to the Liberal executive in the riding advising that the re-election of Hon. Louis Coderre be not contested by a Liberal candidate. The general knowledge that some form of immediate aid from Canada is likely to be proposed to parliament, has been common property since the resignation of Hon. F. D. Monk. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has shared that general knowledge, and in the light of it he wrote the Liberal executive of Hochelaga as follows:

"Before his departure for London and since his return to Canada, the Prime Minister has declared that, after consultation with the admiralty, he would make known his naval policy to the people of Canada. We do not know as yet in what this policy consists, and notwithstanding the resignation of one of his colleagues we do not know more than imperfectly the real causes of this disagreement. The session will open in a few days and the Government will then have to acquaint us with the negotiations that have been had with the imperial authorities, the programme agreed upon, and the divergence of opinion between the Minister who has resigned and his colleagues. I recognize the desire of the Liberals of Hochelaga to oppose the candidature of the new Minister and to show once more their allegiance to the Liberal cause. Our naval policy is known. It has not changed since March 29th, 1900, but would it be opportune to take up the fight before knowing what is the new policy of the Government? I have said many times since the last conference at London that I would await the explanations of the Government before discussing the naval policy.

"It is on the floor of the House, when we are in possession of all the documents, we can pronounce ourselves. To make the fight in the county of Hochelaga on the eve of the session and without other information than is furnished by the vague rumors appearing in the press for the last weeks would be, to my mind, to prejudice the question.

"It is before parliament that the naval policy may be announced and in my opinion it is that that it must be judged on its merits and combated if there is need. Yours very truly,

"(Sgd.) Wilfrid Laurier."

IT LOOKS LIKE CONCRETE

That concrete will be the material used on Front street was the feeling of those who attended the meeting called by the Board of Trade last evening to consider the report of the deputation to Detroit to inspect the pavements of that progressive city. As will be seen by an account of the proceedings on another page of this issue, concrete was the central attraction, in that it made good roadbed, was handsome to look upon, easily cleaned, no more, if as noisy as some other pavements, easily and cheaply repaired, and more important than all, the least costly to instal. Taking these points into consideration, with other commendable features readily to be acquired, i.e., that concrete could be locally obtained, and laid by local workmen, the impression prevailed that it was the material we should adopt. To be sure, it was not recognized as an asphalt block, sheet sphalt or vitrified brick session; concrete was the prima facie article to be adopted—and concrete won out. The gentlemen who visited Detroit, and we believe they entertained the best interests of our city roads, went deeply into the purpose for which they were commissioned, and reported along the line of actual facts. There were no criticisms of other methods of paving, but as far as could be ascertained, concrete appeared to be the most available, most durable, and better adapted to the common traffic of our city. The questions of upheaval by frost, cracking, etc, were met with the assertion that the proper mixing of ingredients and expert laying would give a permancy most satisfactory. Other methods may be good, it was granted, but concrete, so far as investigation proved, was the better for general purposes. The members of the deputation as a whole, were of one accord—City Engineer Lindsay alone, showing caution in his remarks as to adopting concrete, in view of the fact that the pavements he saw were but recently laid; but inasmuch as the property owners were shouldering the entire burden, he recognized their rights as to the form of pavement to be put down.

The Intelligencer is not pledged to a particular mode or material, so long as what is adopted proves an honest result of the most thorough research, and as to the cost, it is ready to pay its full quota at the psychological moment, which cannot come too soon.

People will encourage your fads as long as you are willing to squander your money on them.

GROWTH OF LOCAL OPTION

The stand of Premier Whitney on the liquor question in Ontario appears to be justified by the interest which is being taken in the coming local option contests set for January. Already, under the Local Option Act, 240 municipalities in Ontario have established practical prohibition; that is to say, they do not allow licenses for the sale of liquor. There remain 260 municipalities which issue licenses. In 78 of these a vote is to take place in January on the license question, while in 15 of the "dry" 240 municipalities, a vote will be taken on the proposition to repeal the act and so re-authorize the issue of licenses.

Under the Local Option Act, a three-fifths majority of those who go to the polls is required for a decision either way—namely, three-fifths to either bring a municipality under the prohibitory operation of the act, or, conversely, if the act is in force, a three-fifths majority to repeal it.

Nearly all the coming contests will be with the aim of bringing the act into effect. The fact that Ontario temperance forces are making liberal use of the opportunity afforded by the act to make temperance headway is illustrated by the number of campaigns under way; and the fact that the sentiment of the people is largely with the temperance aim is shown by the small number of attempts to repeal the act.

The Rowell policy of abolish-the-bar would stop the retail sale of liquor by the glass, leaving untouched the sale of liquor from shops. The Local Option statute enables the people anywhere to abolish both the bar and the shops. With so powerful an act available, the proclamation of the "abolish-the-bar" platform of Mr. Rowell, and the demand of the Toronto Globe that this should be considered the only issue in Ontario politics, were obviously the specious devices of partisan expediency—an attempt to misuse a good cause to gain a political advantage which could not be gained by fair fight on general political issues—and were an actual injury to the cause of temperance. However, that is too strong a cause to suffer much from temporary issues. Ontario is steadily "going dry" as the Local Option statistics show, and beyond a doubt the coming elections will see a considerable number of municipalities added to the list of those in which no sale of liquor is permitted.—Ottawa Evening Journal.

We have not only the evidence of the wholesale destruction of wooden walks and the outrage to the Collegiate Institute on Hallowe'en, to show that we have a bad lot of boys in Peterborough, but there is reason to believe that there is a gang of youths who hang around the barrooms of certain hotels till some man gets drunk enough to rob safely, and then follow him out and rob him.—Peterborough Examiner.

Scientific Lighting of Home and City

Just how much artificial lighting is reduced to a science at the least possible cost was remarkably explained and demonstrated Thursday evening in the Ottawa Board of Trade to an audience which filled the large assembly room, by Mr. C. A. Howe of Toronto, general manager of The Holophane Company, and unquestionably one of the most thorough and skilled scientific illuminating engineers on the American continent.

Mr. Howe is out to do missionary work to instruct the public in the lighting of stores, factories, homes, streets and any place where artificial light is used. "Let there be light" is his motto and he can explain thoroughly how the most light can be obtained by the use of scientifically made reflectors for globes. The results which up-to-date reflectors, for direct and indirect lighting afford, if such reflectors are made on a mathematical basis, are simply incredible. He demonstrated this last night in a score of ways.

"Light is now measured by illuminating engineers as accurately as heat is measured with a thermometer," he said. Forthwith he proved to his audience the truth of his statement. The rules for estimating how to get the best value from all sizes of lights have been set up after a great deal of study and experiment. The decorating style of a home, store, workshop, etc., must all be taken into consideration, he explained, when arrangements are being made for lighting. Too often the light or lamp hangs too low and consequently the glare strikes one's vision and the effect is temporarily blinding.

Much Light Wasted.

Mr. Howe said that fully two-thirds of the systems of lighting now used could be made more effective without any extra cost at all. In Toronto, he said, the street lights are too low and many of the lamps hang in the foliage of trees, which is a bad feature, yet that city is one of the best lighted on the American continent.

Ottawa, he said, should be congratulated on the excellent system of street lighting in effect here. He advocated the placing of colored lights on the corners where streets intersect. The old dangling arc lamp on the corner, which is still in use in some places, and which is ever a target for mischievous boys, with a desire to see how straight they can throw, or a magnet for all the moths and flies from a nearby block, was condemned as not only useless, but responsible for accidents, because it usually hangs too low and is invariably in the line of the vision of the eye.

The ideal lighting is, about 85 per cent. indirect and the balance, 15 per cent., said Mr. Howe. He then demonstrated by the very latest reflectors and globes, stores, store windows, factories, offices, hospitals, etc., could be lighted to the best advantage, even at a saving, where an unscientific system is in use.

Mr. Howe's address was much enjoyed and appreciated. It was an education in a subject too little understood by the public. He offered to give free advice on scientific lighting to anyone who cared to call on him this morning in the Board of Trade rooms. At the close of his address he was warmly thanked.

GUINEA PIG HELPED IN DISCOVERY OF THE GERM THAT CAUSES DANDRUFF

When Drs. Lasser and Bishop made a pomade by mixing scales of dandruff and vaseline, which they afterwards rubbed on a guinea pig, they were contributing to science more than they knew. The application of the salve caused the pig to lose its hair and become bald.

This was merely one of the preliminary steps which made possible the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide. After establishing beyond question the existence of the dandruff germ, a remedy was needed to kill this parasite.

There was nothing which would do this until Newbro's Herpicide was placed upon the market. Being the first recognized remedy for dandruff, it has long been called the "original remedy." Herpicide kills the germ, prevents falling hair and stops itching of the scalp. Don't take a substitute; you can always get the genuine article.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Applications may be obtained at good barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

Anarchists Poison Enemies

GENEVA, Nov. 11.—An alleged Anarchist plot to poison property owners in Milan in revenge for anti-Anarchist activities has been unearthed by the police of Milan as the result of a number of mysterious deaths there. The victims all succumbed to a powerful poison which, it was subsequently discovered, was contained in letters sent by post from Switzerland purporting to enclose a harmless specific for the cure of a common malady.

Investigation showed that the letters were mailed from Lugano, and an Italian chemist known to be the associate of anarchists was arrested at that city. Six other Italians have been arrested in Switzerland, including Luigi Pattye., formerly editor of the Anarchist paper Agitatore, who was taken into custody in Geneva this morning.

Two of Bainesi's friends, who came from Milan to warn him that a warrant for his arrest had been issued, are being sought by Italian detectives who are cooperating with the Swiss police.

Hoodlum Kills Policeman

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Charles Jones, a policeman, was shot and killed here today in attempting to break up a gathering of west side hoodlums, among whom the police say were a number of former associates of the murderers of Fred Guelzow, a truck gardener, beaten and stabbed to death by young highwaymen a year ago.

The boys ran away when the policeman ordered them to disperse, but one of them shot Jones twice in the right side, and he died on the way to the hospital. Eight arrests have been made, and the police are searching for the other members of the gang.

Little Child a Victim

NORTH BAY, Nov. 10.—Special—Yesterday morning, Arthur, the three-year-old son of Jos. Leclair, was shot through the head with a bullet from a revolver, and died today. His mother had occasion to leave the children alone in the house, and had barely left the house when the children went into the room of an uncle, who lived with the family, and, finding the keys of his trunk, opened it and found a revolver. There were three children in the room at the time, the oldest being a boy of twelve. The children all reached for the revolver, and the older boy, realizing the danger of the weapon, tried to take it away from the younger children, when his finger closed on the self-cocking trigger and the explosion followed.

THE LIGHT-HOUSE KEEPER'S STORY.

FROM the lighthouse at Lobster Cove Head, Bonne Bay, Newfoundland, Mrs. W. Young sends her experience of Zam-Buk.

She says: "I suffered with eczema for seven years and to my great delight Zam-Buk has cured me. The disease started on my breast, and spread until it extended over my back. The itching and burning—especially when the affected parts were warm—was terrible; and yet when the eruption was scratched or rubbed, it turned to bad sores and caused great pain. I went to a doctor and tried various prescriptions, but seemed to get no benefit, so tried another doctor. Again I got no relief, so tried a third doctor, and then a fourth.

"Seven years is a long time to suffer, and I had got used to the thought that I never would be cured, when I saw a report in the Family Herald, telling how beneficial Zam-Buk was in cases of skin disease.

"I bought some Zam-Buk, and from the use of the very first box I saw it was going to do me good. I persevered with it, and the improvement it worked in my condition was really wonderful.

"It eased the irritation, stopped the pain, and the sores began to dry up and disappear. In short, I found Zam-Buk all that was claimed for it and within a very short time it worked a complete cure in my case.

"Since that time I have recommended it for several other cases, and in each it has proved its wonderful merit.

A Shop that occupies more than one floor should have an Otis-Fensom Freight Elevator. The investment is small. A good freight elevator can be had for as little as $70. THE PALMA TROPHY

First Known as Centennial, Took New Name From Donor of Prize

The Palma Trophy which was won this year by the United States team by a score of 1720 to 1712—both marks breaking the previous world's record—has had an interesting career. The competition was inaugurated in the United States in 1876, for the military rifle championship of the world, and was called the "Centennial." Upon that occasion it was competed for by teams from Scotland, Ireland, Australia, Canada and the United States, the match taking place at Creedmore Long Island. The trophy was won by the United States team by 22 points over the Irish team which finished second.

In 1877 a team from Great Britain competed for the trophy at Creedmore, but was defeated by the United States by a majority of 82 points.

In 1878 the competition was first called the "Palma," in honor of Senator Palma of the United States, who had donated $1,000 to the competition as prize money. No further contest for the trophy occurred until 1901, when, upon an invitation from the United States, a Canadian team entered for the contest which, upon that ocassion was held at Seagirt, New Jersey. The Canadians won by 32 points, and thus the trophy came to Canada.

In 1902 Canada defended the trophy at the Rockcliffe ranges, when teams representing Great Britain, the United States and Canada competed, the trophy being won by Great Britain with 12 points over the United States, and 87 over Canada.

In 1903 Great Britain ended the trophy at Bisley, the competing teams being from the Mother Country, the United States, Canada, Australia, Natal, Norway and France. The United States teeam won by 15 points over the British team, but as a result of a protest against the rifle barrels used by the Americans, which were not those of the military arms of that country at the time, the trophy was returned to England by the United States, and as a result of this no further match was held until the year 1907.

In the latter year the trophy was again shot for at the Rockcliffe ranges by teams representing Great Britain, the United States, Canada and Australia. It was won by the United States, Canada being second, Great Britain third and Australia fourth.

BLACK BASS FISHING

This Hardy Fish Not Particular as to Bait; Will be Taken Second Time

The black bass can be captured on a variety of baits, those in most ordinary use being the common trolling spoon with a three hook gang at the rear end, the single hook or, possibly two small hooks with an angle-worm, minnow or frog attached thereto, and the fly, which is, of course, a single hook. In a great many cases, but more especially when the single hook is being used, the fish will be hooked in the tough membrane of the lip or mouth, and in such instances the hook can be removed without in any way injuring the fish if care is taken first to wet the hand before handling it, the rubbing of a dry hand being liable to cause fungus to appear on the fish if it is subsequently returned to the water. The bass, indeed, is such a hardy fish generally that unless it is hooked in the gills or swallows the bait so that the hook or hooks cannot be removed without injuring the gills it will suffer no evil effects either from its struggles or from the slight handling that is necessary to release it, and, in fact, has been known beyond dispute to take the bait again within a short period of its return to the water.

Several Western Athletes Reinstated by the M. A. A. A.

The Manitoba Amateur Athletic Association at a recent meeting reinstated several men who sought to have a clean sheet in the amateur ranks, among them W. J. Finlay and Frank Grace, who were professionalized a couple of years ago for playing an exhibition lacrosse game against a Montreal team. J. Cornachan, trainer for the Britannia football club two years ago, was given a card. J. Kidd, a pro. runner in the old country, was refused. W. H. Ross, a playground director, who resigned as soon as he heard that he would be professionalized, was reinstated to good standing. James Gordon, a hockey player who was professionalised some years ago was refused reinstatement.

REAL AMATEURISM

Montreal to Have a Soccer Club Existing for Pleasure Only

If present plans materialize there will be organized next season in Montreal a bona fide amateur soccer club which will not be connected with any league or any competition.

The idea has come to the originators of the scheme that such a club would be of value to many of the old timers of the game and for many of the later day players who are not enamored of present style league foot ball with its many frequent disputes and consequent controversies. The new club will be entirely supported by the members who will not be limited in number. Each member in addition to paying his annual subscription will be expected to provide all his equipment. Friendly games will be played with other teams, the players defraying their own travelling expenses.

TO UPLIFT BOXING

In an article on the value of boxing as an aid to well-being, Harold Claughton, an English writer, makes a plea for the formation in Great Britain of a controlling body composed of reputable men with whom the authorities could co-operate, as a necessary means of uplifting the sport to its proper plane and of eliminating some of the objectionable features of the professional prize ring.

"The big purse, the raucous correspondence, all the limelight and grease paint effects that are just now slowly but surely beginning to pervade the whole atmosphere of the ring," said Mr. Claughton, "could be brought under control. Boxing is only dangerous and brutal when divorced from authority. The beneficial tendencies inherent in boxing are such that, unless very good cause is shown to counteract, the British nation cannot lightly afford to erase the sport completely from its scheme of life upon a moment's outcry. Let it be known that the law is against boxing, and boxing will die as surely as did the prize ring. The disadvantages of the sport are extraneous and curable."

GEERS ALWAYS FAIR

The Grand Old Man of Harness Racing Popular With Everybody

Race drivers may come and go, but none of them will ever have the same stand in the eyes of the harness horse enthusiasts as "Pop" Geers, who is rightly called the grand old man of the trotting turf. Reinsmen like Doble, Splan, Murphy, Goldsmith, Hickok, Bain, McHenry, etc., of the old school, were popular in their day, and Tommy Murphy and Walter Cox, the leaders among the younger generation, are really great race drivers; but Edward I. Geers is undoubtedly the dady of them all in the public's estimation.

No matter where the track is located, whenever Geers wins a heat he is given an ovation by the grand stand occupants, and he is equally popular with all the horsemen, owners, and drivers alike. His noted stretch drives are greatly responsible for his popularity with the public, and his fairness of mind commands the respect of the others. Geers never adopts unfair methods. He always drives his own horse, and never tries to drive two or three in the same race, and when he cannot win himself he never interferes with another driver's chances by "carrying out," "cutting off," and other such tactics.

GREAT SWIMMING FEAT

Russian Made Thirty Miles in a Day and a Night

A school teacher named Romenco swam thirty miles in the Caspian Sea in 24 hours and ten minutes, and at the end showed no undue fatigue, despite the strong wind and boisterous sea with which he had to contend. He claims to have beaten the record of T. W. Burgess, the champion English swimmer, who accomplished the journey between Dover and Calais last year, and has challenged the Britisher to a swimming contest from St. Petersburg to Stockholm, with rests allowed on islands on the way or aboard ships at anchor. Romenco proposes that there shall be eliminating trials from St. Petesbug to Cronstadt, a distance of 25 miles. This must be a non-stop contest.

HOCKEY

LISTOWEL, Nov. 11.—The Listowel Hockey Club at its annual meeting decided to enter a team in the Northern Hockey League for the London Free Press Cup, and also a team in the junior series of the O. H. A. The following officers were elected: Honorary president, F. W. Hay; vice-president, A. Roos; president, B. L. H. Bamford; first vice-president, John Watson; second vice-president, Dr. Moore; third vice-president, H. Buchanan; manager, L. H. Bernie; secretary, G. Riddow; treasurer, P. W. Raims; managing committee, president, manager and Messrs. George Bloxam, W. Zinkham and J. Batte.

MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—The annual meeting of the National Hockey Association was held here Saturday afternoon. Probably the most important change asked for was the return to the seven-man team. Four of the six clubs voted in favor of retaining the six-man team, viz., Canadiens, Wanderers, Quebec and Torontos. Those to vote for the return to the seven-man team were Tecumsehs and Ottawa

President Quinn was empowered to draft a number of proposed changes to the playing rules of the game. The proposition to form a professional hockey commission was discussed, and it was the unanimous opinion of the delegates that it would benefit hockey.

T. Emmett Quinn, who has successfully filled the position of president for the past two winters, was re-elected with the following directors: Senator Choquette, Quebec; H. R. Bisaillon, Canadiens, and W. J. Bellingham, Tecumsehs.

The schedule was adopted, which shows the season is to start in Montreal and Toronto on Saturday, December 28, while the Wanderers and Canadiens were given permission to play an exhibition game at the Arena, Toronto, on Saturday, December 21.

FOOTBALL

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Carlisle defeated Army Saturday at football by a score of 27 to 6. The Indians outplayed the Cadets at every stage of the game, and only once, early in the first period, did the Army get within striking distance of the visitors' goal line. This time they scored. The Cadets were baffled by the open field play of the Redskins. Great gains were made by Thorpe and Arcassa.

It is not improbable that Carlisle adopted some of the running and passing backfield methods with which they became familiar in their game with University of Toronto alumni team in Canada two weeks ago.

OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—According to officers of the Ottawa Football Club, who returned today from Toronto, the question of off-side interference will be one of the chief topics for discussion at the annual meeting of the Interprovincial Amateur Union. They claim that Referee Simpson and Umpire Riddell were unable to check all the Argonaut interference in Saturday's game, and that they suffered seriously as the result. President Cameron said that the Ottawas were undoubtedly beaten by a better team, which profited greatly through the blunders of the Ottawa backs, but thought they would have made things more interesting for the Oarsmen had they been given greater protection by Riddell. Eddie Phillips says he has played his last game, and Eddie Gerard will turn professional to play hockey. Jim Vaughan has two broken ribs and Jack Ryan had water on the knee all last week. He, too, says he is out of it. The Ottawa club is $2,000 ahead on the season.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON

Remarkable Collins Family Which has Followed the Sea for Generations

Captain Fred. Collins of Brighton, England, who died recently at the age of 80, had been a feature of the famous watering place for sixty years.

During his career he took to sea over one million passengers in his yacht Skylark and never experienced an accident. There was not a charitable institution in Brighton which had not at one time or another been benefited by sea trips organised by Captain Collins, and for over forty years he took a conspicuous part in assisting the funds of the Sussex County Hopital.

A a life saver he accomplished many remarkable feats. One of his grandsons, a youth of twenty-two, has voyaged round the world no fewer than six times. The captin's great grandfather was a boatman, as was his grandfather and father; his son assisted him in the management of the Skylark for 42 years and his grandsons all are sailors or boatmen.

THE TURF.

LATONIA, Ky., Nov. 11.—The racing season in Kentucky, one of the most successful ever known, closed Saturday. The feature event was the running of the Latonia Cup, a two and a half mile race, which was won by Captain H. H. Emmons' three-year-old Rudolfo, with other three-year-olds in the places, while all the horses outside the money were older. The winner won his first race at Hamilton this summer, when he beat Cast Steel.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 11.—Joe Patchen II., the season's greatest stallion, hung up a new coast record at Exposition Park here Saturday in a trial against time. Patchen paced a mile in 2.00 3-4. The former coast record was 2.01, made by Minor Heir in 1910. Patchen was driven by Havis James.

GENERAL SPORTS.

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—Joe Fogler of New York spurted into the home stretch at the finish of the six-day bicycle race at the Boston Arena Saturday night, and won the contest. With his teammate, Jimmy Moran of Chelsea he had set a new world's mark for sixty hours' riding a total distance of 1,390.1 miles.

Eight of the thirteen teams originally entered finished in the following order: Fogler and Moran, Root and Hehir, J. Bedell and Pye, Clarke and Hill, Ryan and Thomas, Wells and Mitten, Drobach and Lawrence, Cameron and Magin

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Batting honors of the American league again go to Tyrus Cobb of the Detroit club for the sixth successive year.

Official averages for the 1912 season, issued tonight by President Johnson, show Cobb leader with .410. Joe Jackson was Cobb's closest rival. The Cleveland outfielder finished with an average of .395, while Tris Speaker of Boston is third with .383. Thirty players batted into the select .300 class.

Frank Baker of the Philadelphia club was the premier home-run hitter of the year, having ten to his credit.

Although noted for his speed on the bases, Cobb was outrivalled by Clyde Milan of Washington in stolen bases. Milan stole 88, while Cobb finished with 61. Eddie Collins, of Philadelphia also finished ahead of Cobb, having 63 stolen bases to his credit.

GRAND TRUK SYSTEM NEWS ITEMS

The versatility of railroad men is not always as generally recognized as it might be, but cases in point that afford conclusive proof are never hard to find. For instance, Mr. J. B. Hunt, the uptown agent of the Grand Trunk Railway at Owen Sound, has been appointed acting consul for that place by the United States government, pending the selection of a successor to the late incumbent of that office, who resigned a short time ago. Mr. Hunt has been stationed at Owen Sound for sixteen years in addition to his passenger, telegraph and express business is said to take an active interest in municipal matters, while his private residence is one of the beauty spots of the town.

Word comes from Toronto that the beaver in Algonquin National Park are multiplying so rapidly that they are causing considerable damage to property Not only do their game in the park cause the overflow of streams and the flooding of land, but they overrun the limits of the park and cause damage to farm lands in the district through their obstructions in the streams. it is therefore probable that, following the practice of previous years, the Department of Lands, Forests and Mines in Ontario will order the trapping of a large number of these animals during the coming winter. When in Algonquin Park they come under the above department but once they go outside the Game and Fisheries Department can order their destruction.

Motor Bandits In Paris Again

PARIS, Nov. 9.—As the employes were counting up the cash in the post office at Bezons, a suburb of Paris, four armed and masked men last night burst into the room and fired a volley of shots from their revolvers, killing the husband of the postmistress. Then they quickly gathered up all the money and stamps and disappeared.

Employes in the post office could give the police no further clue than that the bandits appeared to be youthful and were dressed in the garments of automobilists. They left behind a cap to which was pinned a small American flag, and on which was stamped the name of a well-known Paris night cafe.

The post office is situated in a secluded center of Bezons, and the surrounding houses are large villas that have been closed for the winter. Everything there was in favor of the bandits making their escape unobserved.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

MAY PRESAGE DEFEAT

Porte Says Soldiers Are Offering a Fierce Resistance.

Announcement May Be Only Preliminary to an Acknowledgment of Disaster—This May Be the Last Great Battle of the Campaign—Austria Falls Into Line With the Allies—Winter Will Stop Fighting.

London, Nov. 12.—Judging by all precedents in the present war, the news from Constantinople last night is the herald of another Turkish defeat at the Tchatalja lines, where a battle has been proceeding for the past two or three days. The Turkish admission that so many wounded are arriving in the capital as to show that the Turks are offering fierce resistance has a great significance, in view of previous admissions of a similar nature, and may be regarded as preparing the public mind for another disappointment. It may be quite possible that this will prove the last great battle of the campaign.

There are indications that Bulgaria may, after all, forego a triumphal entry into Constantinople. According to some reports Bulgaria will be content with finding suitable winter quarters for her army while the peace negotiations are going on and subsequent settlements are being arranged.

The question of mediation has made another step forward in the announcement from Paris last night that the Austrian Government has agreed to join with the other powers in transmitting Turkey's request for mediation to the allies and in enquiring on what terms the allies are disposed to accept mediation.

The revelation of the danger to European peace lying in the antagonistic interests of Austria and Servia appears to have quickened the sense of the powers and probably of the Balkan states also to the imperative need of working in amicable co-operation to secure a settlement of the Balkan problems acceptable to all the parties concerned.

Another factor making for the speedy cessation of the war is the approach of severe winter conditions, which would give to the campaign an exceedingly arduous character.

There is still talk in Vienna of sending an ultimatum to Servia, and other warlike reports, but it is believed that Germany is exercising an ameliorating influence in the direction of persuading both Austria and Servia to consent to a postponement of the settlement until the whole matter can be dealt with by the European conference.

Meanwhile, diplomacy is active in all the European capitals. It is understood that after his important mission at Budapest is concluded, Dr. Daneff, president of the Bulgarian Chamber of Deputies, will go to the other European courts to explain the views of the allies. The Servian premier, M. Pachitch, after an important Cabinet meeting, left Belgrade last night for Uskup to consult with King Peter on the situation.

The reported mobilization of the Austro-Hungarian forces is denied at Budapest. Roumanian, however, is taking certain military measures with a view to being prepared for eventualities. The War Minister has issued an order to all the army corps to the effect that half the contingent which was to have been dismissed Nov. 14, is to be retained with the colors until further orders.

No late news of importance has been received from Adrianople, Scutari or other points where the armies of the allies have the Turkish troops in close quarters.

Stream of Wounded.

Constantinople, Nov. 12.—The Bulgarians began an attack on the Turkish advanced positions along the Tchatalja line Sunday afternoon. The fighting continued throughout the day.

Judging from the number of wounded arriving in Constantinople, the Turkish troops are offering fierce resistance.

Austria Calls Men Home.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 12.—According to reports coming in from foremen and different lumber and construction companies along the line of the Algoma Central, their forces are being depleted and their operations hampered by the calling out of Austrian reserves.

One jobber, whose men were nearly all Austrians, finds himself pretty nearly without workmen with which to go on, and as there are lots of men of this nationality in camps, most of the foremen found themselves in pretty much the same position.

This is the first intimation the Soo had that the Austrian Government was preparing for war to the extent of calling in military reserves from all over the world.

Besides this Bulgarians and Servians continue to leave in large numbers.

"Minto" Back From Hudson Bay.

Halifax, Nov. 12.—The Government steamer Minto arrived in Halifax yesterday after a four-months' trip to Hudson Bay for the purpose of continuing the survey of the approaches to Port Nelson.

The Minto carried on her work at Port Nelson until Sept. 28, when a shortage of coal threatening, she was forced to return to Barwell.

Conditions through Hudson's Straits, the captain says, could not have been better.

Coal Shortage Threatened.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—"If the people are patient I see no reason why the public cannot be fully supplied with coal without any suffering," said George P. Baer, president of the Reading Co., in discussing the reported shortage of anthracite coal yesterday. He said the difficulty in the way of increasing the output of coal was primarily due to mine strikes.

BEATEN ON SNAP VOTE

Asquith Ministry Will Not Resign Because of Defeat.

Sir Frederick Banbury's Surprise Division of the British Commons, In Which the Government Was Caught Unawares and Defeated on Home Rule Bill, Will Not Cause a Change In Cabinet, Says Liberals.

London, Nov. 12.—While the House of Commons was debating the financial provisions of the home rule bill in committee yesterday afternoon, an unexpected vote on an amendment was offered by Sir Frederick Banbury, a Unionist member for the City of London, resulted in an opposition victory by a majority of 22.

The Conservatives were jubilant and loudly demanded that the Liberal Government resign, which, according to precedents, it should do, if the vote, which was 228 to 206, was a genuine test of the strength of the Government on the measure.

The temporary defeat of the Government caused a great political sensation, but did not result in its retirement. The Cabinet held a meeting last night and decided to present a resolution in the House to-day which will be particularly a demand for a vote of confidence, and after some Parliamentary red tape, will endeavor to have Sir Frederick Banbury's amendment re-submitted and expunged.

The younger Conservatives prepared the trap for the home rulers and succeeded in getting a vote when many members were in the country, and a number of those in town were absent from the House, not expecting that important business would be taken up.

The Government's average majority on previous details of the bill have been in the neighborhood of 100. But there has been much dissatisfaction among members of all the parties at the provision compelling the other sections of the United Kingdom to contribute to the support of Ireland without a voice in the expenditure of the money.

The Cabinet Council held after the Government's defeat lasted two hours, at the end of which its decision not to resign was announced. An official statement, which was issued, declares that the adoption of the amendment was clearly due to a snap division on a motion which was not even put on the order paper, and which was destructive of the resolution passed Nov. 7 by a majority of 121.

"The Government, therefore," the statement concludes, "does not consider that its defeat necessitates any change in its program, which, in respect to home rule, has been supported seldom short of 100.

There has been considerable opposition by members of the Ministerial side of the House of Commons to the financial provisions of the home rule bill. Some 70 Liberal members have given voice to their objection to the Irish Parliament being given control of the customs, as they argue such control would enable the Irish Parliament to introduce protection.

The followers of William O'Brien only yesterday morning announced their intention of withdrawing from the House during the proceedings of the committee on the financial clauses of the bill.

Herbert Samuel, the Postmaster-General, in opposing Sir Frederick Banbury's amendment to the home rule bill, said it would mean that the total sum payable to Ireland would be limited to $12,500,000 a year. The revenue from Irish taxation would be $47,000,000, estimated on the present basis from Irish revenue, and the amendment would mean that the sum handed back to Ireland would be $12,500,000 for services which cost $30,000,000 a year.

Snap divisions during the meetings of committees of the House of Commons are not unusual, although this is the first experience of the kind of the present Government. Arthur J. Balfour, when he was Premier, suffered in this way several times during his last Parliament.

The present standing of the parties in the British Commons is:

Unionist	280
Liberal	265
Labor	41
Nationalist	84
	670

Liberal May Forfeit Seat.

London, Nov. 12.—The question whether Sir Stuart Montagu Samuel, Radical member for one of the East End divisions of London, shall continue to hold his seat in Parliament is to come before a select committee of the House of Commons.

Sir Stuart Samuel is believed by the members of the Opposition to have forfeited his right to sit as a member of Parliament owing to his firm of bankers having become purchasers of silver for the Indian Government. Under an old act of Parliament a member may not be even indirectly interested in such a transaction.

Guelph Rates Cut.

Guelph, Nov. 12.—At yesterday's session of the light and heat commission, news was given out that will please the users of electric light in this city. Under the new ruling of the Hydro-Electric Commission, the power is divided into four departments, domestic lighting, commercial lighting, street lighting, and power. Each department has to stand on its own feet and the rates secured for electric domestic lighting cannot be used to make up for a deficit on the street lightning.

The change in the methods has resulted in there being a surplus of domestic and commercial lightning, of from three to five thousand dollars, and this will be returned to the consumers in the way of reduced charges, though the rate of the reduction has not yet been definitely settled.

No Fight This Year.

Owen Sound, Nov. 12.—It is now a foregone conclusion that there will not be a vote at the January municipal elections for the repeal of the local option bylaw. At the council meeting last night no move was made by the anti-members of the council to introduce a repeal bylaw. It is understood that the anti-forces will not try to have the bylaw repealed until 1914.

This for a time at least clears up the situation created by the ruling of the courts that the repeal bylaw last January had been improperly submitted. This legal decision left it optional with the antics, whether or not they would bring on a fight this year

A Mysterious Affair.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Under circumstances so peculiar and mysterious that the city detectives are puzzled as to which of several motives to accept for the crime, a Macedonian, known as Pule, or Tale Bosheff, was shot down at 25 Erin street about 3.20 yesterday afternoon. The man who fired the shot and his companion made good their escape before the neighborhood was aware of what had happened. Bosheff is now in St. Michael's Hospital with a bullet in his breast, just below the heart. It is not expected that he will live.

Two weeks ago Bosheff was released from the General Hospital. Since his recent illness he has not worked, and yesterday, as usual, was sitting in the living room. About 3.20 Bosheff heard the back door open.

Looking up he saw two intruders coming into the room. The larger of the two men spoke to him in what he thought was English, but as he cannot speak the language he did not answer. The other man then addressed him. When he still remained silent the man with the gun raised his weapon and fired. The Macedonian fell back into the chair, from which he had just arisen, with a bullet in his breast.

The assailants calmly shut the door and disappeared by the side entrance. Boszeff declared that the two men who shot him were strangers. One he claimed to be about 14 or 15 and the other about 19 years of age. He was positive that they were Englishmen.

Will Amend Railway Act.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—A complete revision of the Railway Act is planned for this coming session. Thomas Price, K.C., of St. Thomas, has been making a thorough investigation of the act with a view to changes. One amendment proposed is to do away with the evil of railway "blanketing." There will likely be a provision requiring railway companies to survey and locate their routes before submitting them to the Minister for approval. Another provision will provide for the superannuation of members of the Railway Commission.

CHAIRMAN APPOINTED

D. M. McIntyre Is Head of Ontario Railway Board.

Sir James Whitney Names Kingston Lawyer as Successor to Hon. James Leitch — Will Assume Position In Near Future—New Chairman Has Held Many Offices and Is Widely Known—Ran for Legislature in 1905

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Donald Malcolm McIntyre, K.C., of Kingston, has been appointed chairman of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board to succeed the Hon. James Leitch, who was recently appointed to the high court bench. The announcement of this appointment was made by Sir James Whitney yesterday. Mr. McIntyre will assume the chairmanship in the near future.

Mr. McIntyre was born in Kingston and has lived there all his life. He is not well known in Toronto, or in this part of the province. For a number of years he has been in partnership with his brother in the legal business. It is understood that he is a municipal expert.

Many years ago Mr. McIntyre was city solicitor for Kingston. He was afterwards an alderman, and in 1892-93 he was mayor. He was vice-president of the Ontario Municipal Association in 1905-06; chairman of the board of governors of the Kingston General Hospital in 1904-05; president of the Oddfellows' Relief Association in 1906-07, and at the present time is a trustee of Queen's University, which honorary position he has held for a number of years. He was also educated at Queen's University. Mr. McIntyre is now a member of the Ontario Prison Parole Board, and president of the Golf and Country Club of Kingston.

The new chairman has been a strong Conservative in Kingston for a number of years. In 1905 he contested the constituency against the late Mr. Pense, the Liberal member, and was defeated by twenty votes. Mr. McIntyre is a Presbyterian.

MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—Cables on Manitoba spring wheat were weaker and bids were 1½d to 3d lower, but on the decline in prices in Winnipeg sales of several loads were made. The foreign demand for oats was fair and as prices bid were in line some business was worked. The local market for oats was weaker and prices declined 1c. At this reduction the demand was good. A fair trade is being worked in flax seed over the cable to all ports. A round lot of 40,000 bushels of old crop No. 3 mixed corn was sold at 57c, f.o.b., Chicago. Flour is fairly active and steady. Demand for millfeed is good. Butter firm and in demand. Cheese quiet. Exports for week were 46,023 boxes, against 45,750 last year. Eggs active. Provisions steady, under a fair demand.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ended Nov. 9, were 2000 cattle, 4000 sheep and lambs, 2800 hogs and 550 calves. The offerings on the market this morning were 1200 cattle, 1900 sheep and lambs, 1200 hogs and 300 calves.

A weaker feeling developed in the market for cattle this morning and prices declined 25c to 50c per cwt., as compared with a week ago. At the above reduction [illegible] was fairly good for best stock and sales of [illegible] loads of choice steers averaged from $5.75 to $6, while good steers and heifers weighing from 900 to 1000 lbs. each, brought $5.25 to $5.50, and mixed loads of cows, steers and heifers, $4.75 to $5 per cwt. The top price paid for picked lots of choice steers was $6.25. The supply of canning stock was fairly large, for which the demand was good and an active trade was done in this line at $2 to $2.75 for cows and at $3 to $3.15 for bulls.

There was no change in the condition of the market for small meats, prices being firm under a good demand and as the supply was fairly large an active trade was done. Ontario lambs sold at $6.25 to $6.50 and Quebec at $5.75 to $6 per cwt. The demand for calves was good and sales of milk-fed stock were made at 5c to 7c and grass fed at 2½c to 3c per lb.

An easy feeling prevailed in the market for hogs, but as the supply was smaller than usual prices showed little change as compared with a week ago, sales of selected lots being made at $8.50 to $8.65 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $5.75 to $6.25; medium, $5.25 to $5.50; common, $3.50 to $4; canners, $2 to $3.15; choice cows, $4.75 to $5; medium, $4.25 to $4.50; bulls, $3.75 to $4; milkers, choice, each, $80 to $90; common and medium, each, $70 to $80; springers, $55 to $65.

Sheep—Ewes, $3.75 to $4; bucks and culls, $3.25 to $3.50; lambs, $5.75 to $6.50.

Hogs—F.o.b., $8.50 to $8.65.

Calves—$3 to $10.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

Veals—Receipts, 1200 head; active and 5c lower, at $4 to $10.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 27,500 head; active and 15c to 25c lower; heavy, $8.10 to $8.15; mixed, $8 to $8.15; yorkers, $7.60 to $8.10; pigs, $7.25 to $7.50; roughs, $7 to $7.10; stags, $5 to $6.50; dairies, $7.50 to $8.

BOARD OF TRADE RECEIVES DEPUTATION

Mr. Brumner, an engineer of the Canada Cement Copany, spoke briefly of the cost of permanent pavements. He claimed that while other pavements were good, they were in no way superior to concrete, which was much more durable than any of the others. The speaker in referring to climatic conditions, read some extracts which showed that concrete pavements had been put down where in winter the temperature is at times from 30 to 35 degrees below zero, and it had no effect upon the pavement. How long a concrete pavement would last he could not say, as there is no record of a concrete pavement having been build more than 19 years ago. Several cities in Canada have concrete pavements, and the prospects are that many more will be laid in the future. From figures which he had obtained at Peterborough from the engineer, the speaker showed that concrete pavements were laid in that city for 95c. per square yard. No matter what kind of pavement is constructed, a concrete base must be provided. He then showed the following diagram in reference to certain pavements:

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.
SIOUX FALLS, N. D.

	Noise	Durability.	Upkeep	Cleanliness	Sanitation	Adaptability to rubber tires.	Cost per square yard
Granite Blocks	10	10	1	1	1	1	$2.50
Brick	8	8	3	2	4	3	2.25
Concrete	5	8	3	10	10	10	1.35
Asphalt	4	4	10	8	8	8	1.75
Sarco	2	4	8	8	6	8	1.90
Creosote Block	2	6	5	6	5	6	2.65

It will be seen by the foregoing table that concrete is less noisy than brick, but is one point noisier than asphalt; in durability and upkeep is equal to brick and far superior to asphalt; in the other three columns it will be noticed that it is superior to either brick or asphalt—at the same time, the cost is very much lower.

Col. Lazier said that as a property owner on Front street, he was indebted to the members of the deputation for going to Detroit and for the information which they had given in reference to pavements. Apparently this concrete pavement was the kind of pavement we should have on Front street. It seemed that the City Council had made up its mind that the ratepayers on Front street should pay the whole cost of the pavement, and that being the case, the ratepayers should have some say as to what material is to be used. At the next meeting of the Council the ratepayers would be present to discuss this matter with the members of the City Council.

Mr. J. F. Wills, K.C., stated that we were indebted to the gentlemen who went as a deputation for the information they had gathered. Cement pavements were not a new thing, but had been in vogue for years and had stood the test. An asphalt pavement was not clean and it would require some expense to keep such a pavement free from dirt. We must be careful about the expenditure of money. As a property owner on Front street he was prepared to pay his share of the cost. He, however, desired it to be understood that where pavement is laid the owners of property should pay the whole cost the same as in the case of Front street.

This concrete pavement pavement appears to be the best pavement we can put down. If proper material is used there can be no defects. The rough finish prevents slipperiness, giving the horses sure footing. The asphalt pavement is nice to drive upon when kept thoroughly clean. In our case there is but one pavement to put down here, and that is—concrete.

The meeting then adjourned.

Two Froze To Death in Boat

PORTNEUF, Que., Nov. 11.—Two men are dead as the result of the sinking of the schooner Ste. Celestine in the St. Lawrence last night after striking a rock. The dead are Joseph Trepannier captain of the schooner, and his son, Thomas.

They were frozen to death in a small boat. Emile Ouellette, the third member of the ship's company, reached shore alive, though badly nipped by the frost.

The Ste. Celestine was bound from Marscun, Gaspe County, to Quebec with a cargo of laths.

Poisoned At Work Engineer May Die

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 11.—William Ogilvie of Ottawa, former Commissioner in the Yukon, is lying seriously ill today in a hospital here.

On Saturday his condition was very bad, and his wife and son were summoned to his bedside. It was thought Sunday would see his death, but he was still alive this morning.

Mr. Ogilvie was brought here suffering from septic poisoning from Point du Bois, where he had been gathering water power statistics for the Federal government.

Turks May Blow Up St. Sophia Cathedral

LONDON, Nov. 11.—A news agency despatch from Vienna states that it has been learned from a high diplomatic source that Russia has intimated to Bulgaria that the Czar's government will not object to the entry of the Bulgarian army into Constantinople if Czar Ferdinand's troops merely intend to remain there temporarily.

It is stated, however, that the entry of the Bulgarians into Constantinople is uncertain. It is reported in diplomatic circles that the Turks will blow up the Cathedral of Saint Sophia before the Bulgarians effect an entry into the city.

Fell Down Stairs

WELLAND, Nov. 11.—Nick Pononar, a Hungarian, aged 25 years, fell down a stairway in a foreign boarding house on Ontario road, shortly before six o'clock on Sunday morning and sustained a fracture of the base of the skull. He died while being taken to the hospital in the ambulance.

The story told by other occupants of the house is that Pononar got up about 5.45 o'clock for the purpose of going for a drink of water. Returning along the hallway, which was unlighted, he first opened the door of another room. Seeing his mistake he felt his way along the wall until he reached the staircase, and there he pitched headlong down the flight to the bottom. The noise of his fall aroused others, who found Pononar lying at the foot of the stairs. Blood was issuing from his ears and nose.

Armored British Cruiser Struck

LONDON, Nov. 11.—A despatch from Malta to the Post says a rumor is prevalent that the British third-class cruiser Barham has met with an accident. One report has it that she struck a Turkish mine.

A Malta despatch to the Telegraph, however, says that the reports being circulated regarding a mishap to a battleship are without foundation.

Twenty British warships are now in Turkish waters. Ships are calling at Malta in unprecedented numbers. The markets have been cleared to supply them, and prices are rising rapidly.

The selfmade man is unable to see where he could have made any improvement on his work.

TWO POINTERS ON HOW TO CURE A COLD

When you begin to sniff and feel a burning sensation in the nasal passages, or when a tickling irritation in your throat starts you coughing, the first important thing is to act at once. It's the neglected cold that becomes troublesome and dangerous.

The second important thing to do is to take Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne, and keep it up till the cold disappears entirely.

Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne is absolutely free from harmful drugs, and can safely be given even to moderately young children. It is pleasant tasting and quick acting, promptly relieving the irritation of the throat and nostrils, loosening the mucus, promoting expectoration, and checking the cold.

Your druggist has Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne in 25c. and 50c bottles, or can quickly get it for you. Compounded by the National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited. 315

HAPPY THOUGHT

PERFECT BISCUIT BAKING NEED NOT BE DIFFICULT

It all depends on the heat your oven gives.

Ranges with slow ovens are a'l right for some kinds of biscuits. But an oven that is chronically slow simply ruins others, and it is useless for many purposes.

Other stoves bake beautifully on one side and not on the other. So you can never depend on them.

"Happy Thought" Ranges are perfect bakers.

If you want a slow oven, a slow fire will produce the desired result. If you want a very hot, quick oven, just build up the fire and keep it going strong for a little while.

This feature saves you money in two ways:

It saves fuel by making it unnecessary to use too much, and by giving you the full heat value of every ounce of fuel.

It saves the food material by ensuring just the right result no matter what part of the oven you use.

More than a Quarter Million Canadian women use the "Happy Thought" every day.

got to do with the Okky City war drum."

"You see you carry round with you something that would make the very best kind of heap-too good ju-ju."

"Still I don't understand."

Swizzle-Stick Smith got up and stretched, and limped across to the door. "It's that red head of yours, my lad," he said over his shoulder as he went out. "Every witch doctor in West Africa that sees it will just itch to have it amongst his ornaments. I'd dye it sky-blue if I were you, just for safety sake.

This of course might be Mr. Smith's delicate irony, or again it might be literally true. Carter had already been long enough in West Africa to know that a very and unusual thing can happen there; but that made no change in his determination. K. O'Neill was perfectly right about the matter; this pilfering ought to be stopped; and he felt convinced that White-Man's-Trouble would help to see that justice was done. That particular Krooboy was thievish himself, certainly, but he had a short way with any fellow African who dared to be light-fingered.

So during that hot morning, and all that sweltering afternoon, merchant after merchant was shown out into the sunshine, and those who chattered and would not go willingly were assisted by the strong right arm of White-Man's-Trouble.

Just upon the time when siestas generally ended, that is, about four o'clock, there came a burly Okky trader who swaggered up to the factory with five carriers in his train laden down with bags of rubber.

Carter examined the evil smelling stuff, and cut open two or three of the larger lumps. The gentle savage had put in quite thirty per cent. of sticks, and sand, and alien gum by way of makeweight, and was as petulant as a child at having this simple fraud discovered. He still further disliked the price that was offered; and when it came to making his purchases, and he found that the particular spot-white-on-blue cotton cloth on which he had built up his fancy was out of stock, the remaining rags of his temper were frayed completely. For on unbroken ten minutes he cursed Carter, and Malla-Nulla factory, and an unknown Manchester skipper in fluent Okky, here and there embroidered with a few words of that slave-trader's Arabic, which is specially designed as a comfort for the impatient, and when he had accepted a roll of blue cloth spotted in another pattern, and was invited to leave the feetesh, he held himself to be one of the worse used Africans on the Dark Continent.

Carter, who was tired and hot, signed to his henchman. "Here, fire that ruffian out," he said.

But White-Man's-Trouble affected to hear a summons from outside. 'Dat you Smith? Yessar I come onetime', said he, and bolted out through the doorway.

'Here you," said Carter to the big Okky-man, "you follow that Krooboy out of here. If I have to tell you a second time, there'll be trouble. Come, now git."

Carter's command of the native might be faulty, but the grammar of his gestures was correct enough. What go out of the feteesh before he chose? The Okky-man had no idea of doing such a thing. He lifted his walking spear threateningly, and snarled.

Simultaneously Carter put his right hand on the greasy counter and vaulted. He caught the upraised spear with his other hand before his feet had touched ground, and broke the blade close off by the socket; and a short instant later, when he had found a footing, he carried his weight forward in the same leap and drove his right against the negro's left carotid, just beneath the ear. The man went down as if he had been pole-axed.

Carter went outside and beckoned to the Okky-man's carriers. "Here, you, come and carry your master out doors"—the men hesitated—"or I'll start in to handle you next." They did as they were bidden. And thereupon Carter with his blood now well warmed up, was left free to attend to another matter elsewhere.

A noise of voices in disagreement, and the intermittent sounds of scuffling had made themselves heard from the south side of the factory buildings and now there were added to these a woman's voice calling in English for some one to help her, and then a sharp, shrill scream of unmistakable distress.

Now, Carter was no knight-errant. He had set up the unknown K. O'Neill as his model, and had told himself daily that he intended to meddle with nothing in West Africa philanthropic or otherwise, which would not directly tend to the advancement of George Carter; but at the first moment when they were put to the test, all these academic resolutions broke to pieces. He picked up his feet and ran at speed through the sunshine, and as he went a mist seemed to rise up before his eyes which tinged everything red.

He felt somehow as he had never felt before; strangely exhilarated and strangely savage; and when he arrived on the scene of the disturbance, he was littl inclined to weigh the consequences of interference. There was a woman, white-faced and terror-stricken—he could not tell for the life of him whether she was handsome or hideous. Negroes were handling her. On the ground lay a pole hammock, in which presumably she had arrived. In front of her was a fat negro, over whose head a slave held a gaudy gold and red umbrella, and grouped around this fat one were eight or ten negro soldiers, with swords slung over their shoulders, and long flintlock trade guns in their hands.

The whole scene was, as I say, dashed upto Carter's eyes in a red mist, and this thinned and thickened spasmodically so that sometimes he could see clearly what he was doing, and at other times he acted like a man bewitched. But presently the red cleared away altogether, and he found himself clutching the fat negro by a twist of the shoulder cloth, and threatening to spilt his skull with a sword recently carried by one of the man's escort. The girl sat limp and white on a green case before them, clearly on the edge of a faint, and round them all stood negro carriers and Hausa soldiery, frozen to inaction by the fat man's danger.

All human noises had ceased. Only the hot insect hum and the cool diapason of the Atlantic surf droned through the silence. From the dull upraised sword blade outrageous sunrays winked and flickered.

Upon this impass came Swizzle-Stick Smith from the bush side of white factory buildings, polishing his eyeglass, and limping along at his usual pace, and no faster. He removed his pipe, and wagged it at them.

"Upon my soul a most interesting picture! Just like a kid's fairy tale book. Gallant young knight rescuing distressed damosel from the clutches of wicked ogre, who incidentally happens to be the King of Okky as anyone but a born fool could have guessed from his state umbrella and one of the firm's best customers. Kindly observe that I'm the good fairy who always comes in on the last page to put things safe Carter, I prithee sheath thy virgin sword, and then for God's sake run away and drown yourself."

He had reached the group by this time, and took upon his own the damp black hand of offended majesty, and shook it heartily. He broke out in a stream of fluent Okky, and gradually the potentate's wrath melted. The King still gesticulated violently, and apparently demanded Carter's red head upon a charger as a prelude to truce, but Swizle-Stick Smith was an old Coaster and knew his man.

"Champagne," Mr. Smith kept on suggesting, "blubbly champagne with plenty of Angostura bitters in it to make it bite. I call attention to your Majesty's historic thirst. Come up into the factory, old Tintacks, and we'll break up a case in honor of the day."

Finally the King, who being a West African king was necessarily a shrewd man, decided that though vengeance would keep till another day, Mr. Smith's champagne might not; and he let himself be led back to the factory, and up the stair. He graciously accepted the most solid-looking of the long chairs in the verandah, sat in it carefully, kicked off his slippers, and tucked his feet beneath him. He waved away Mr. Smith's further speech. 'Oh, Smith,' he said, 'I fit for champagne-palaver, one-time,' and loosened the tuck of his ample waist-cloth to give space for the expected cargo. "No damn use more talk-palaver now."

Outside in the sunlight the Hausa soldiers had taken the cue from their master, and dissolved away unobtrusively; the carriers were dismissed to the Krooboys' quarters under the charge of White-Man's-Trouble, who, now that the disturbance was over bustled up with many protestations of sorrow for his unavoidable absence, and Carter was left for further attendance on his distressed damsel.

For the first time he found himself able to regard her critically; and he was somehow rather disturbed to find before him a girl who was undeniably beautiful. When he had rushed blindly in to the rescue, he had taken it for granted that the person he saw vaguely through that red mist was an English or an American missionary woman in distress, and (to himself) excused his mad lust for battle by picturing himself as the champion of the Christian martyr beset by pagans.

The white missionary women of that strip of the Coast occasionally quartered themselves at Malla-Nulla factory on their journeyings, in spite of the very niggardly civility of Mr. Smith, and Carter had been much impressed in the way beneficent Nature had safeguarded them by homely features and unattractive mien from the attack by the other sex. He could have taken off his hat to one of these and said:

"Most happy to have been of service to you, madam. Won't you come into the factory and have a cup of tea?"

But this slim beauty in the trilled white muslins sent speech further away from him the more that he looked at her. For the first time since landing in Afgrica six months before he was ashamed of mildew-stained pyjamas for afternoon wear, and disgusted with the yellow smears of palm oil which bedaubed them. He was hatefully aware too that he had let his razor rust in the moist Coast climate, and White-Man's Trouble's fortnightly efforts with the clippers had merely left his chin and head covered with an obsence bristle.

Kept The Greeks And Turks Apart To Avoid Battle

MONTREAL, Nov. 12.—Five hundred Greeks, practically the entire Greek colony in Montreal, assembled in the Auditorium Hall Sunday to celebrate the capture of Salonika. An impromptu doxology was given and the Greek anthem and patriotic songs sung.

The Rev. Ayathodorus Papayeorgopulos, priest of the Montreal Greek Orthodox Church and Mr. N. D. Nicholson, president of the local Pan-Hellenic Union, addressed the assembly.

Subscriptions and materials are steadily being received for the Red Cross Fund in aid of the wounded in Greece. It is clearly recognized that the needs of the wounded will be very great, even after the war is ended, as added to the wounded and sick Balkans there will be thousands of captured Turks in the same plight.

In addition to Greeks who left Montreal yesterday was a party of Turks, and to avoid the same trouble that occurred on board a ship in New York, when Greek and Turk met a fortnight ago, officials were kept busy seeing that the different nationalities sailed on different ships.

Carried 12 Quarts Of Nitro-Glycerine

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 12.—From that part of his career when he had discarded dynamite and was resorting to the use of nitro-glycerine, which he carried about on passenger trains by the dozen quarts, Ortie E. McManigal related at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial yesterday how he had caused explosions at Cleveland, Ohio; Jersey City, N.J.; Pittsburg, Pa.; Omaha, Neb.; and Superior, Wis.

Carrying twelve quarts of nitroglycerine in the company of Herbert E. Hockin from a hiding place in an old cooper shop of Rochester, Pa., McManigal testified that he delivered the explosive to Smith and Anderson in Cleveland to be used by them in blowing up a building at Akron, Ohio, July 4, 1910. The witness said he was to have done the job, but Smith insisted it had been promised to some one else.

"They didn't know how to use the alarm clock arrangement we had for setting off the bombs," said McManigal, "so I was sent to Chicago to forward one hundred feet of fuse by special delivery. It arrived in time and the Akron job was blown up on July 4.

Finds Her Gem in Fowl

This appealing little tale may seem as if it came out of Winstead, Conn., but it is really an offering from truth loving Brooklyn. The beginning of it was in May last, when Mrs. Chas. Martin of 6910 Third Avenue, Brooklyn, discovered that a large diamond set in ring which she was wearing had dropped from its setting. The stone could not be found.

Last Sunday Mr. Martin selected a fat chicken from his back yard flock and killed it for dinner. Mrs. Martin was eating of the fowl when her teeth struck something hard, she says. Investigating she amazed her husband by holding up to his view the long-missing diamond. The Martins suppose that Mrs. Martin lost the stone while feeding the chickens, but not theory is advanced to explain why the gem was found in the checken's flesh instead of in its gizzard.

Ten Warships Arrive

LONDON, Nov. 12.—In the House of Commons at noon yesterday, F. D Acland, the Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, announced that ten warships have arrived at Constantinople, including four belonging to the British navy. The other British vessels en route to Turkish waters are within the zone of communication.

The Under-Secretary also stated that the situation at Constantinople remains unchanged.

The sanitary situation of the Turkish troops at the front is deplorable. One hundred cases of cholera, of which fifty have resulted fatally, are reported among the soldiers.

The vanguard of the Servian amy haso reached the coast of the Adriatic Sea. It met no armed resistance during its march through Albania, but its progress was slow on account of the deep snow.

FISH DYNAMITERS PAY FIFTY DOLLARS FOR BREACH OF LAW

Information was recently given to Mr. James Hurst of this city, Dominion Inspector of Fisheries, that two parties on the St. Lawrence River near Gananoque were in the habit of dypamiting the water for purpose of procuring fish. Yesterday the inspector visited the scene of operation, charged the offenders with their breach of the law, and brought them to this city. Both pleaded guilty and were fined $50 and costs each.

War Said To Be Affecting The Lumber Camps

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 12.—According to reports coming in from the foremen of different lumber and construction camps along the line of the Algoma Central, their forces are being depleted and their operations hampered by the calling out of Austrian reserves. One jobber, whose men were nearly all Austrians, finds himself pretty nearly without workmen with which to go on, and as there are a lot of men of this nationality in the camps, most of the foremen find themselves in pretty much the same position.

This is the first intimation that the Sault had that the Austrian government was preparing for war to the extent of calling in military reserves from all ever the world. Besides this, Bulgarians and Servians continue to leave in large numbers.

Surprise In The Lawrence Strike Murder Trial

SALEM, Mass., Nov. 12.—Two surprises, one for the defence and one for the Commonwealth, came in the Ettor-Giovennitti-Caruso murder trial yesterday, when Thomas Harold Kanada, former employe of the Lawrence textile mills, brought from Cleveland, Ohio, by the prosecution, testified that he saw the defendant, Caruso, stab Policeman Oscar Benoit, in the back, during the riot in which Anna Lopizzo was killed, and also that he saw Policeman Marshall of Lawrence at that time with a revolver in his hand.

Caruso testified as his wife had done that he was having supper at home when the shooting took place. He denied ever having seen Detective Lacourt, who swore Caruso had admitted stabbing Benoit.

Killed Her Children And Then Herself

VIRDEN, Man., Nov. 12.—Sunday night at their home near Scarth Station, ten miles west of here, the wife of Arthur Clark, aged thirty-five, killed her two children, aged five years and one years, respectively, and then committed suicide. According to the husband all four were sleeping in the same room, and he was awakened by the noise one child made while the mother was in the act of cutting his throat. When Clark got up to restrain his wife she ran to the other end of the room and cut her own throat with a razor. It was then about 1 o'clock, and Clark rushed to a neighboring farmer, John Shoemaker, and told his story. Shoemaker accompanied him back to the house, where mother and children were found dead.

Mrs. Clark had all arrangements made for her and the children to leave for England to-day, while Clark was to have a sale and follow them within a month.

Works 20 Years Without a Cent

NEWTON, Mass., Nov. 12.—"I'll get $1,500 for my services as head of the Board of Health of this city or I'll not take one copper," declared Francis G. Curtis, Superintendent of the Newton Board of Health today in refusing for the twentieth consecutive year the salary of $1,000 which the city offers for the position.

Dr. Curtis has always set $1,500 as the proper remuneration for his services in this capacity, and rather than accept the $1,000 offered has given his services free for the past twenty years. During all this time his work has been above criticism.

Schrank Admits His Intention To Kill Roosevelt

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 12.—John Schrank, who tried to kill Col. Roosevelt here on the night of October 14, pleaded guilty before Judge August C. Backus in the Municipal Court today. His hearing was adjourned until this afternoon to allow time for an insanity commission to be appointed to examine Schrank's mental condition.

Schrank was brought into the court room heavily manacled and between two deputy sheriffs. Police and deputies were scattered in the room, and the crowd, which jammed the chamber, was forced to keep at a distance. The would-be slayer, who is small, appeared helpless as he meekly shuffled in between his guards.

"Did you intend to kill Theodore Roosevelt?" asked the prosecutor.

"I did not intend to kill 'Citizen Roosevelt'," replied Schrank. "I merely intended to warn the third termer candidate Roosevelt."

"Did you intend to kill and murder Mr. Roosevelt, the leader of the Progressive party?" again repeated the district attorney.

"I intended to kill Theodore Roosevelt, the third termer," said the prisoner. "I did not want to kill the Progressive party. I shot Roosevelt as a warning to other third termers."

Report Says Felix Diaz Has Escaped Jail

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 12.—Gen. Felix Diaz, leader of the latest revolution in Mexico, has escaped from prison, acording to a letter received here by R. G. Kirwan, of this city, from R. H. Dickerson at Oaxaca, Mex. Dickerson is from Boston, and is interested in mining in Mexico.

The letter was dated Oaxaca, November 3, and that part of it bearing on Diaz's reported escape follows:

"This afternoon a special edition came out here, saying General Felix Diaz had escaped from prison by bribing sentries, and had gone by boat down the coast.

"The whole town is wild and Emilio goes round with a broad grin on his face. Emilio says he is going with several other Mexicans here."

Kirwan says the Emilio referred to is Felix Diaz's nephew.

Ethel Smith Has Relapse

GARRY, Ind., Nov. 12.—Ethel Smith, the Garry girl for whom William Rugh, the crippled newsboy, gave his life, so that new skin might be grafted on her body to heal the serious burns that threatened to kill her, is in a serious condition tonight.

She had made rapid strides toward recovery, but pneumonia set in yesterday, and she was taken to the Garry General Hospital. The girl's mother believes the shock of the newsboy's death is the cause of her daughter's relapse. Miss Smith was not told of her benefactor's fate until several days after his death. From that time she lost strength. Before 'Billy' Rugh died Miss Smith had announced her intention of marrying him should both recover from the operation.

NO NEWS FROM FRONT

Silence Regarding Battle May Mean Check For Allies.

Turkish Defence at Tchat-lja May Be Better Than Was Expected—Rumor Is Current That the Porte Has Asked Bulgaria For an Armistice—Powers Are More Hopeful of Settling Difficulties.

London, Nov. 13.—There is no news either from Sofia or Constantinople as to how the great battle at Tchatalja is going. The silence may imply that the Turks are making a better defence than had been expected. On the other hand, it is rumored that Turkey is asking Bulgaria to arrange an armistice.

In the other fields of the war operations the progress of the allies is slow. The Servians and Greeks have not yet reached Monastir, where, it is reported, Ali Riza Pasha, the ex-Turkish Minister of War, has 50,000 troops prepared to offer a vigorous resistance.

The Montenegrins have suffered a setback in their prolonged efforts to capture Scutari, largely owing to the defection of the Malissori tribes, who demand guarantees of Albanian independence. The Greek advance in the direction of Janina also appears to be retarded. It is probable that the weather conditions have much to do with the slow progress.

In the diplomatic field no fresh development is reported. Important conferences continue at Budapest, where the ex-Premier of Roumania, P. P. Carp, arrived yesterday with a letter from King Charles to Emperor Francis Joseph.

In most of the European capitals a more hopeful feeling is displayed that peace will not be disturbed by the Austro-Servian difficulties.

If the wishes of the Albanians weigh in the permanent settlement of the Balkan question Albania will be made an independent principality, as the Triple Alliance proposes, rather than subject to any of the Balkan states.

From Antivari The Morning Post correspondent telegraphs: "This war has lasted only a short month, but in this brief period a profound change in the sentiments of the Albanians has taken place. Almost all the Albanian tribes inhabiting the mountains around Scutari declared themselves allies of the Montenegrins against the common enemy, the Turk. But this was an alliance of expediency, not sentiment. If the Albanians fought side by side with the Montenegrins it did not mean that they desired to become the subjects of the courageous little kingdom which was the first to cast the gauntlet in the face of the Ottoman empire, but that they saw in this temporary alliance a means finally to free themselves of the yoke they detested.

Doctors Ready For Jobs.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, announced yesterday that the seven district officers of health who have been taking a special course in Toronto University since last August have passed their examinations successfully and that they will leave for their different districts in a few days. "I expect mighty results from these officers of health," said Mr. Hanna.

Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, says that for some time the work of the officers of health will be mainly educational in its nature. All the officers are medical graduates, who have been practicing for some time. The salary paid to them is $2,500 a year each and traveling expenses.

Home Rule To-morrow.

London, Nov. 13.—A motion to rescind the decision of the House of Commons committee on the Home Rule bill, which brought about the defeat of the Cabinet yesterday on an amendment to a financial clause introduced by Sir Frederick Banbury, a Unionist, is to be brought up for debate by Premier Asquith in the full House to-day.

The House of Commons was crowded yesterday and the leaders of the various parties were given noisy receptions. The Liberals, the Labor members and the Nationalists rose in a body to welcome the Premier when he gave notice of his motion. The House then proceded with other business.

The newspapers applaud the action of the Government, considering that the national interests were endangered, and suggest that the state undertake this work.

Russian Soldier Pardoned.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 13.—"As an expression of my thanks for the grace of God, to which is due the recovery of the heir to the throne, I pardon Private Dachurin his grave offence." This is the language of an imperial decree granting pardon to a soldier, who on Oct. 23, was sentenced to penal servitude for life for leaving the ranks at a review in order to hand a petition to the Russian Emperor.

High Bridge For St. Kitts.

St. Catharines, Nov. 13.—F. A. Lancaster, M.P., yesterday notified Mayor Merritt that the Minister of Railways and Canals will recommend to the Government a contribution of $50,000 towards the proposed high level bridge across the old canal to a point near the main line depot of the Grand Trunk Railway and Ridley College, provided the ratepayers pass a bylaw for the construction of the bridge.

A bylaw will be submitted to the property owners in January.

Turtle No Hero Of Year 1776

RED BANK, N. J., Nov. 11.—Having heard stories about the great age to which land turtles live, Howard Rogers was only mildly surprised on Election Day when he picked up a turtle and saw carved on its back, "H. C.—J. H., 1776." He was sure he had found a Revolutionary relic.

He took the turtle home and exhibited it proudly until Harry Clay examined the turtle and reeled off a yarn that spoiled the Revolutionary theory.

Clay said that fifteen years ago he and John Henrehen, now of Newark, were boys together and that they found that turtle. They, too, had heard stories of ancient tortoises and determined to have a little fun. They carved the initials and date and set the turtle free, expecting that it would be found again within a short time and that they would have a little fun. The turtle did not let itself be found and the two boys forgot their attempted hoax. Clay only remembered the incident when he saw his old tortoise friend today.

Packed Theatre As Bait for Buyer

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A charge that George, James, and William Warrock, owners of a moving-picture theatre at 1,693 Washington Avenue, the Bronx, filled the place with free patrons when they were displaying it to her for sale on Aug. 13 is the basis of a $25,000 suit against them by Etta Anderson. Miss Anderson paid $23,000 for the theatre. Since she bought it, she said, she has lost $1,000 and when she offered to sell it back to the Warrocks for $15,000 they refused to listen to her.

On the night she looked at the theatre, she said, the house was packed. When she took charge, she said, she found that the normal attendance was much below that represented. When she investigated, she said, she learned that the crowd she had seen had been mustered in advance and sent in on passes. The Warrocks deny the charges.

GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM NEWS ITEMS

In a recent interview Mr. Morley Donaldson, Vice-President and General Manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway has given an interesting account of the progress of that road. He states that 6,000 men will be employed by the G.T.P. during the coming winter. On the western end alone 4,000 men are now at work and before many weeks have passed this number will have increased to 5,000; while, working eastward from Hazelton there are at present 1,700 workmen on the main line. Practically all the necessary force for the season's operations in the mountains is now engaged and although additional men could be set to work there will be no delay even if the present number fails to be augmented. Mr. Donaldson states that no exact forecast can be made as to the possibility of the line being completed to the Pacific coast in 1913. Every effort is being made to expedite construction, but until June of next year it would be impossible to say what the prospects of completing the line would be. The Grand Trunk Pacific has never been in better shape to handle its share of the western crop than has been the case this year. "About 35 per cent. of the crop has already been removed to the lake ports," said Mr. Donaldson, "and although the harvest has been much heavier and much later than in 1911, the proportion handled by our company is already greater than before. At Westport the big 2,500,000 elevator built by the G.T.P. will be ready for use in the very near future and this will serve to alleviate congestion very considerably. Twenty-five new locomotives have been commissioned for the western traffic and there has also been a big increase in the number of grain cars. Not so much as a whisper of complaint has been received and apparently the grain is being taken out as fast as it can be brought in by the farmers.

The contract has been let in Boston for dredging the berths of the big new pier which is to be used both by the Hamburg-American line and the new coast steamers of the Grand Trunk Railway which is to be privileged to run its freight trains down to the sheds that will soon arise upon the gigantic dock.

Laborer Killed on Railway Crossing

MONTREAL, Nov. 12.—In attempting to cross the railway tracks at the Wellington street subway yesterday afternoon, Antonio Ftouryiniak employed by the Grand Trunk Railway as a laborer, was struck down and instantly killed. The young man, who had just received his pay check for two weeks' work, was returning to his home at 12 Centre street. The body was taken to the morgue

Turks Drove Montenegrins Back

VIENNA, Nov. 12.—The situation in the neighborhood of the Turkish fortress of Scutari has undergone a change to the disadvantage of the Montenegrin attacking army, according to a correspondent of the Reichspost at San Giovanni di Medua.

The Montenegrins have been driven by the Turks from the plain to the south of Scutari and are now in the vicinity of the Boyana river, while last week the Montenegrins had advanced as far as Alasso. The Montenegrin army is no longer so strongly supported by the Malissori tribes and its junction expected to take place before another ten days have passed.
